McCarthy Blames Humphrey for Losing Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., said Saturday a delay by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in softening his Vietnam position cost him the presidency in Tuesday's close contest.

McCarthy said in an interview he had no remorse for delaying his own endorsement of Humphrey, who defeated him for the Democratic nomination, until a few days before the election.

The Minnesota senator declined to speculate on whether Humphrey's narrow loss to Republican Richard M. Nixon might have been averted if McCarthy had not limited his endorsement to an announcement that he would vote for Humphrey and had campaigned actively for him.

Father, Two Sons Held in Plot to Murder Nixon

NEW YORK (AP) — A Yemeni father and two of his sons were arrested Saturday night in connection with an alleged conspiracy to murder President-elect Richard M. Nixon, police said.

Elliott Golden, acting district attorney, said that the three men were charged with murder conspiracy but he refused to disclose details of the alleged plot or any motive.

City police and Secret Service agents seized the father, Ahmed Rageh Namer, 46, and one son, Abdo Ahmed Namer, 20, about 6:30 p.m. in their tenement apartment in Brooklyn's East New York section.

Authorities said the other son, Hussin, also 20, jumped out a window of the apartment when police arrived. He was finally brought into the Miller Avenue police station in handcuffs at 10:30 p.m.

Police also were questioning two of Namer's nephews at the station house. Golden did not say that charges would be filed against them.

In the apartment, police said they found an M1 Army rifle and a carbine, 24 .30-caliber shells for the weapons, two switchblade knives and an oriental-style carving knife.

An aide to Nixon said the president-elect "has been informed" of the arrests at his va-

Approval for Christmas Moon Trip Is Expected

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) —Apollo 8's three astronauts are expected to get approval next week for a 250,000-mile Christmas season trip around the moon.

The final word will come possibly Tuesday from Dr. Thomas O. Paine, acting administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Paine said the decision would be made "after a thorough assessment of the total risks involved and the total gains to be realized in this next step toward a manned lunar landing."

Other space officials have said all studies up to date indicate there is no barrier to attempting a moon orbit journey. Preparations at Cape Kennedy have been directed at a lunar orbit mission.

If the green light is given for the moon, Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr., and Air Force Maj. William A. Anders will blast off at 7:51 a.m. EST Dec. 21.

The Saturn 5 is to boost the astronauts on a so-called "free return" path which would enable the space travelers to come back to earth if their engine failed during the quarter-million-mile coast to the moon.

On this course, they would loop around the moon and come home without orbiting.

If all went well, the astronauts would near the moon 69 hours after launching and would fire the engine to inject Apollo 8 into an orbit ranging between 69 and 195 miles above the moon's surface. Four hours later they would change the orbit so that both high and low points would be 69 miles.

The spaceship would orbit the moon 10 times in 20 hours, with its course calculated to take it over the five sites being considered for the first manned lunar landing.

The astronauts would take several hundred pictures of the sites to give future moon explorers a closeup look at the areas they will explore, hopefully next year.

Some time Christmas morning, 89 hours after launching, the spacemen would trigger their engine to start the long voyage home, climaxed by a fiery re-entry throught the earth's atmosphere and splashdown in the Pacific Ocean.

A strong earthquake centered in Southern Illinois shook more than a third of the United States Saturday, rolling across at least 20 states.

The shock was felt by millions of persons, and it swayed numberless buildings, but there were no immediate reports of serious damage or of any casualties.

The tremor rolled out from Illinois to Kansas and Oklahoma on the west, West Virginia and the Carolinas on the east, south to Alabama, Mississippi and Arkansas, and north to Wisconsin and Michigan.

The quake was reported in Minnesota, Arkansas, Illinois, Ohio, Tennessee, Missouri, Kansas, Georgia, Kentucky, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Indiana, Nebraska, Iowa, Alabama, Mississippi, Wisconsin and Michigan.

The National Earthquake Information Center in Washington, D.C., said the epicenter of the quake—the point on the earth's surface directly above the shock—was 120 miles east of St. Louis, Mo., at 38.5 degrees north, 88 degrees west. That is in Illinois near the Indiana state line.

Tentative first reports had indicated the epicenter was at New Madrid, Mo., the heart of disastrous tremors in 1811-1812.

Carl von Hake, acting chief of the center, said the quake had a magnitude of 5.5 on the 10-point Richter scale, which is just under the usual damage level of 6.

'Solid' Saigon Government Faces Dilemma

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. policy has succeeded beyond expectations in creating a solid Saigon government but ironically that regime has gained its first true popular support by defying Washington.

Thus if the present heavy pressure from Washington on Saigon forces President Nguyen Van Thieu to knuckle under on the deadlocked Paris peace talks, there is grave risk that Thieu's popular support would dwindle dangerously.

On the other hand, for Washington to bow to Thieu's demands that Saigon lead the allied peace delegation to Paris might mean the North Vietnamese would scuttle the peace talks.

Veterans Day Is Announced Legal Holiday

Monday is Veterans Day, a legal holiday, with all federal, county, state and city offices, as well as banks, closed.

Post office installations will be closed with no delivery or window service.

The lobby of the North End Station, Knob Hill Station, West End Station and Security Branch will be open from 9 until 11 a.m. for the convenience of box holders. The lobby of the main post office will be open all day. The self-service units at Southgate Shopping Center and Colorado College can be used 24 hours a day.

Both City Hall and the Department of Public Utilities will be closed although the telephone switchboard at utilities will remain open to handle service calls.

Most stores are expected to remain open.

The stock exchanges will also be closed on Monday, a legal holiday.

However, they will be open on Wednesday, Nov. 13. They will close on Wednesday, Nov. 20 and again on Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 28, but will be open on Nov. 27.

Breakthrough Seen in Hanoi Peace Talks

PARIS (AP) — Hanoi's rejection of a new peace talks formula proposed by South Vietnam posed more problems for the United States, but one neutral Western diplomat Saturday predicted a breakthrough in "a matter of days."

The peace talks tangle centers around how President Nguyen Van Thieu's Saigon government and its guerrilla enemy, the Viet Cong, will be represented.

Thieu insists he will not join talks where the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm, has an independent status.

He proposed Friday that there be just two sides to the talks, an allied side, led by Saigon, and a Communist delegation headed by Hanoi with the Viet Cong playing a subsidiary role.

In Saigon, U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker met with Thieu today for the first time since Oct. 31 when President Johnson announced the bombing halt, the U.S. Embassy announced.

Informed sources said the meeting was a continuation of Washington's efforts to get Thieu to join the talks with the NLF.

Earlier, in Paris, as members of the U.S. delegation consulted with Washington and the American Embassy in South Vietnam, Xuan Thuy, Hanoi's chief negotiator, rejected Thieu's plan.

"We agreed with the United States that there would be four delegations," he told reporters at a diplomatic reception at the Cambodian Embassy.

In Seoul, South Korean Foreign Minister Choi Kyu-hah said his country is acting as mediator to iron out differences between the United States and Saigon.

He said his government's efforts were under way through diplomatic channels but did not elaborate.

The dispute resulted in a postponement of this week's regular meeting Wednesday.

Thuy said, "If the United States and Saigon want to be one delegation, that's their problem. But in that case there will be three independent delegations. Three delegations is all right. Four delegations is all right. But two delegations is not," he said.

New Fighting Expected on Cambodia Border

SAIGON (AP) — The prospects for renewed large-scale fighting along the Cambodian border increased Saturday with the shift to that front of one of the most battle-seasoned U.S. divisions.

The U.S. Command disclosed the 18,000-man 1st Air Cavalry Division, a highly mobile outfit able to strike swiftly, had been sent down from the far north to positions 50 to 70 miles northwest of Saigon.

There it is expected to help exert relentless pressure on enemy troops, estimated at from 15,000 to 20,000, reported massed along invasion routes to Saigon.

The command said units of the division went into action several days ago and so far have killed 109 North Vietnamese troops in a series of skirmishes. U.S. losses were six killed and 40 wounded.

The division, however, is not yet fully operational. When it is ready to swing fully into action, it will have 300 helicopters to lift troops and artillery into positions in the jungles and rubber plantations that make up this front in Tay Ninh, Binh Long and Phuoc Long provinces.

Until its move south, the 1st Air Cavalry had been manning positions south of the demilitarized zone dividing the Vietnams along with U.S. Marines and other Army units.

A command spokesman said Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, decided the enemy threat along the zone had lessened and had ordered the 1st Air Cavalry southward to help meet the growing menace northwest of Saigon.

Military sources said Abrams wants to drive the North Vietnamese from the three provinces, then smash the Viet Cong guerrilla forces. U.S. intelligence reports indicated there are 15,000 to 20,000 enemy troops either in Cambodia or in the three provinces.

New Anti-Soviet Rallies Planned by Czech Youths

PRAGUE (AP) — Despite the threat of reprisals, Prague students said Saturday they plan another anti-Soviet demonstration Nov. 17 which could lead to "a general student strike."

Student leaders at Prague University issued an appeal for mass participation, and called a meeting of student strike committees next Tuesday to map strategy.

The announcement came as Czechoslovakia's Communist party leadership said it would use "all legal means to insure that peace and order are preserved" and discussed possible new press curbs to satisfy the Kremlin.

Officials have been concerned that recent anti-Soviet demonstrations in Prague and Bratislava would bring Russian tanks rolling back into the streets.

Prague Radio and television broadcast an Interior Ministry statement Friday which acknowledged for the first time that such demonstrations occurred. It said 167 persons were arrested in Prague, Bratislava, Brno and Ceske Budejovice.

The ministry noted that Soviet flags were burned and anti-Soviet slogans were chanted. It said the demonstrations Thursday were actions of "irresponsible groups" and "fairly serious provocations."

The government announced a one-month suspension of Reporter, the weekly magazine of the Czechoslovak Journalists Union, on grounds its contents were "inconsistent with Czechoslovak laws." The magazine has supported the reforms of party chief Alexander Dubcek and printed criticisms of the Soviet Union and the old guard Communists in Czechoslovakia.

The party presidium also warned other domestic newspapers and broadcast media about "their great responsibiliity for the course of normalization" and emphasized they should "actively support this course by their activities."

About 70,000 Soviet troops will remain in Czechoslovakia until the country "normalizes" under an agreement ratified by Prague and the Kremlin Oct. 18, Czechoslovak officials have been told.

The government announced that 86 per cent of the Warsaw Pact forces to leave under terms of the Oct. 18 Moscow Pact have already withdrawn from Czechoslovakia.

Western experts in Czechoslovakia have estimated the invasion force at 400,000 to 550,000.

PARIS (AP) — Hanoi's rejection of a new peace talks formula proposed by South Vietnam posed more problems for the United States, but one neutral Western diplomat Saturday predicted a breakthrough in "a matter of days."

The peace talks tangle centers around how President Nguyen Van Thieu's Saigon government and its guerrilla enemy, the Viet Cong, will be represented.

Thieu insists he will not join talks where the National Liberation Front, the Viet Cong's political arm, has an independent status.

He proposed Friday that there be just two sides to the talks, an allied side, led by Saigon, and a Communist delegation headed by Hanoi with the Viet Cong playing a subsidiary role.

In Saigon, U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker met with Thieu today for the first time since Oct. 31 when President Johnson announced the bombing halt, the U.S. Embassy announced.

Informed sources said the meeting was a continuation of Washington's efforts to get Thieu to join the talks with the NLF.

Earlier, in Paris, as members of the U.S. delegation consulted with Washington and the American Embassy in South Vietnam, Xuan Thuy, Hanoi's chief negotiator, rejected Thieu's plan.

"We agreed with the United States that there would be four delegations," he told reporters at a diplomatic reception at the Cambodian Embassy.

In Seoul, South Korean Foreign Minister Choi Kyu-hah said his country is acting as mediator to iron out differences between the United States and Saigon.

He said his government's efforts were under way through diplomatic channels but did not elaborate.

The dispute resulted in a postponement of this week's regular meeting Wednesday.

Thuy said, "If the United States and Saigon want to be one delegation, that's their problem. But in that case there will be three independent delegations. Three delegations is all right. Four delegations is all right. But two delegations is not," he said.

New Fighting Expected on Cambodia Border

SAIGON (AP) — The prospects for renewed large-scale fighting along the Cambodian border increased Saturday with the shift to that front of one of the most battle-seasoned U.S. divisions.

The U.S. Command disclosed the 18,000-man 1st Air Cavalry Division, a highly mobile outfit able to strike swiftly, had been sent down from the far north to positions 50 to 70 miles northwest of Saigon.

There it is expected to help exert relentless pressure on enemy troops, estimated at from 15,000 to 20,000, reported massed along invasion routes to Saigon.

The command said units of the division went into action several days ago and so far have killed 109 North Vietnamese troops in a series of skirmishes. U.S. losses were six killed and 40 wounded.

The division, however, is not yet fully operational. When it is ready to swing fully into action, it will have 300 helicopters to lift troops and artillery into positions in the jungles and rubber plantations that make up this front in Tay Ninh, Binh Long and Phuoc Long provinces.

Until its move south, the 1st Air Cavalry had been manning positions south of the demilitarized zone dividing the Vietnams along with U.S. Marines and other Army units.

A command spokesman said Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, decided the enemy threat along the zone had lessened and had ordered the 1st Air Cavalry southward to help meet the growing menace northwest of Saigon.

Military sources said Abrams wants to drive the North Vietnamese from the three provinces, then smash the Viet Cong guerrilla forces. U.S. intelligence reports indicated there are 15,000 to 20,000 enemy troops either in Cambodia or in the three provinces.

PRAGUE (AP) — Despite the threat of reprisals, Prague students said Saturday they plan another anti-Soviet demonstration Nov. 17 which could lead to "a general student strike."

Student leaders at Prague University issued an appeal for mass participation, and called a meeting of student strike committees next Tuesday to map strategy.

The announcement came as Czechoslovakia's Communist party leadership said it would use "all legal means to insure that peace and order are preserved" and discussed possible new press curbs to satisfy the Kremlin.

Officials have been concerned that recent anti-Soviet demonstrations in Prague and Bratislava would bring Russian tanks rolling back into the streets.

Prague Radio and television broadcast an Interior Ministry statement Friday which acknowledged for the first time that such demonstrations occurred. It said 167 persons were arrested in Prague, Bratislava, Brno and Ceske Budejovice.

The ministry noted that Soviet flags were burned and anti-Soviet slogans were chanted. It said the demonstrations Thursday were actions of "irresponsible groups" and "fairly serious provocations."

The government announced a one-month suspension of Reporter, the weekly magazine of the Czechoslovak Journalists Union, on grounds its contents were "inconsistent with Czechoslovak laws." The magazine has supported the reforms of party chief Alexander Dubcek and printed criticisms of the Soviet Union and the old guard Communists in Czechoslovakia.

The party presidium also warned other domestic newspapers and broadcast media about "their great responsibiliity for the course of normalization" and emphasized they should "actively support this course by their activities."

About 70,000 Soviet troops will remain in Czechoslovakia until the country "normalizes" under an agreement ratified by Prague and the Kremlin Oct. 18, Czechoslovak officials have been told.

The government announced that 86 per cent of the Warsaw Pact forces to leave under terms of the Oct. 18 Moscow Pact have already withdrawn from Czechoslovakia.

Western experts in Czechoslovakia have estimated the invasion force at 400,000 to 550,000.

CU Conducting Programs Of Self-Help for Indians

The University of Colorado is conducting two programs designed to help Indians by teaching them to help themselves.

The programs are operated by the CU Institute of Behavioral Sciences' Center for Action Research and are part of a VISTA associate program at Browning, Mont., for the Blackfoot Indian Reservation and a new careers program at Pine Ridge, S. D., for the Oglala Sioux Tribal Council.

CU Prof. Howard Higman is director of the action research center, and Dr. Robert Hunter is associate director. Hunter said both programs are designed to provide Indians with the education needed to assume control of their own destinies.

The Montana program is supported by a $52,865 grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity, and the South Dakota program is supported by a $42,508 grant from the Oglala Sioux Tribal Council.

The VISTA program at Browning is similar to a successful one conducted in Colorado by the Colorado Migrant Council. Under the project, 20 unemployed Blackfoot Indians with seventh to ninth grade educations have received three weeks of adult education training, and they now are working at eight communities on the reservation. Hunter said nine of the associates are tutors for about 40 fourth-grade pupils who need special education assistance, and the remainder are teaching adult basic education to 120 adults.

The Oglala Sioux project is part of the U. S. Department of Labor's work and training bureau program designed to help hard-core unemployed become employable and to place them in career jobs which offer opportunities for promotion. Hunter said the South Dakota project is the only rural project in the Labor Department program.

Twenty-five Indians in the program are taking adult education courses. At the end of the training period early next year, they will take civil service examinations for jobs on the reservation. The positions are with the Bureau of Indian Affairs, the Public Health Service, and the tribal council.

Others who have received certificates are John Grier, squad captain; Joyce Grier, Dorothy Munson, Dean Johnson, Thomas Fultz and Gene Shannon. Members of the squad have been working in pairs Friday nights, Saturdays and Sundays. The rescue squad was started 17 years ago by Mr. and Mrs. Grier.

Public Hearing Set to Consider Health Care

The State Board of Health will conduct a public hearing Nov. 20 to consider new standards governing the operation of long-term care facilities in Colorado. The hearing will be held in the Colorado Department of Health Building, 4210 East 11th Ave. in Denver, beginning a 9:30 a.m.

The standards under consideration relate to three types of health facility-nursing care facility, residential health care facility and home care facility. They replace standards about 10 years old.

The new standards are much broader and somewhat more stringent than existing standards, and they spell out more definitive responsibilities for the administrator and governing board. They also are compatible with Medicare and Medicaid requirements and with standards adopted by the Joint Commission on Accreditation.

Drafting of the new standards took a year and a half, 25 formal meetings and 2,200 man hours. A total of 125 consultants worked on the satndards.

The proposed standards define the three types of vacility in this manner:

—A nursing care facility is a health institution planned, organized, operated and maintained to provide facilities and health services with related social care to in-patients who require regular medical care and 24-hour nursing services for illness, injury or disability. Each patient shall be under the care of a physician licensed to practice in the state. Nursing services shall be organized and maintained to provide 24-hour nursing services under the direction of a registered professional nurse employed full-time.

—Residential health care facility means a health institution planned, organized, operated and maintained to provide facilities, health services and related social care to individuals who, because of a physical or mental condition, or both, require medical supervision and periodic nursing services in an institutional environment. Each resident shall have the benefit of continuing health care under the supervision of a physician licensed to practice medicine in the state. The resident health services shall include those of a licensed nurse employed full-time.

—Home care facility means a health establishment operated and maintained to provide residential accommodations and personal, social and related health services to individuals who are not related to the licensee and who, because of impaired capacity for self care, require supervision in a protective environment.

PRESERVING THE SKIN

If we only knew why oldsters have skin that is paper-thin, shriveled, cracked, lifeless, psotted, yellowish, and often hairless, it might be possible to reverse or retard the process. On the other hand, we know enough about ways to keep the skin beautiful and minimize degeneration.

There is no evidence that various moisturizers decrease or prevent wrinkles or freckles. But cosmetics containing oils and lanolin may prevent the routine water loss and, in this way, decrease dryness. Hydrophilic ointments are capable of doing this.

Dermatologists are convinced that most visible signs of skin damage attributed to growing older are the result of overexposure to sun. The individual should avoid, if possible, exposure that leads to a definite redness. An average complexion can safely take moderately intense sunlight for up to two hours. On the other hand, the damage brought on by small daily doses of sunlight is cumulative and may do more harm than a week-end sunbath. There also is a relationship between bright light and frown lines, another aging sign. Dark glasses are helpful along this line.

Sunscreen products also protect. They prevent damage by absorbing certain waves of ultraviolet light before these rays strike the skin. They are a must for women in sunny climates. Various types are available, such as RVP, A-Fil, Neo-A-Fil and Sundare; some are more efficient than others. They can be applied under or incorporated into cosmetics.

Plastic surgery may help those with noticeable wrinkles, wattles, flaps, veins, brown spots, pouches, and defiant hairs on the face and neck. Gravity can create many unattractive distortions, inasmuch as all soft tissue tends to move downward. But cosmetic surgery is not for all, and most surgeons want a sensible reason to justify the procedure.

COLD HANDS

A reader writes: Does Raynaud's disease have anything to do with the blood?

REPLY

Indirectly. Raynaud's is a circulatory disorder in which the arterioles go into spasm whenever the victim gets excited or is exposed to cold. These disturb the blood flow. The hands and feet become white and numb, followed by a period of redness, warmth, and tingling. The exact cause is not known. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on Raynaud's disease.

FRUITS AND TUMMYACHE

B.T. writes: I love fresh fruits and used to be able to eat them without trouble. But recently, I develop a tummyache whenever I eat them. What can be done about this?

Try cooked fruits for six weeks; then, gradually add bananas, fruit juices, and peeled apples. I presume our pain stems from spasm of the bowel, aggravated by roughage in fresh fruit. You should have a checkup because a lesion, not the fruit, may be causing the distress.

Scriptwriting Contest Open to Area Entries

The 22nd Annual Voice of Democracy, a national scriptwriting program, is again available to the youth of this area. The program is sponsored locally by District 5 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its Ladies Auxiliary, with the cooperation of the national and state associations of broadcasters.

It is designed to give high school students the opportunity to voice their opinions on patriotic themes and to convey them via the broadcasting media.

All tenth, eleventh and twelfth grade students in public, parochial and private schools are eligible to compete in this program which has been placed on the Approved list of National Contests for 1968-69 by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

This year's theme is "Freedom's Challenge," and all students wishing to enter this program should contact their high school principal or their teachers for details.

After intra-school competition, a winner is selected from each school. These winners then compete for district, state and national honors. Prizes are awarded on each level. Each state winner is then provided with a five-day all expense paid trip to Washington, D.C., plus the opportunity to compete for national scholarships amounting to $13,500.

Owen Reece, Jr., vice commander of V.F.W. Post 101, and Mrs. Eugene W. Wood, senior vice president of V.F.W. Auxiliary 4051, are chairmen for the Voice of Democracy Program for District 5, V.F.W. and Auxiliary.

The district includes Posts and Auxiliaries 101 and 4051 in Colorado Springs; 5221 in Calhan; 6461 in Fountain; 6051 in Woodland Park and 5812 in Matheson. All of the schools in these areas have been contacted and advised of the fact that each sutdent writes his or her own script. These scripts are then tape recorded during the District Judging and tape recording which will take place at the KRDO Radio Station, on Nov. 30, at 10 a.m.

The first, second and third place winners on the district contest will receive Savings Bonds, Certificates and pins at an awards ceremony to be held at the V.F.W. Post 4051 at a later date. The first place winner will also be the guest of the Department of Colorado, V.F.W. at a banquet preceding the competition in Denver.

Beta Xi Tea Slated Today In Widefield

Mrs. George Ramsey, president of the Beta Xi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, will entertain members with a preferential tea at her home at 3 p. m. today at 288 Dexter in Widefield.

The members will honor a new pledge, Mrs. Ron Willard.

The chapter will also have a meeting on Nov. 11 at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Grace Bouchard, 1409 N. Custer. Mrs. Charlotte Burkett is in charge of the program, "The History of Dress." Several of the members will participate in a fashion show, illustrating how styles in dress have changed throughout the years.

Music Festival at Falcon School Tuesday

Several area schools will take part in the annual music festival at Falcon School sponsored by the Black Forest League at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Dr. Lawrence Busch, head of the music department at Fort Collins School, will direct the mass chorus. Participating schools are Monument School, Colorado School for the Deaf and the Blind, Simla School and Falcon School.

Other activities during the evening will be a fashion show sponsored by Bee-Lines and a band concert from the Deaf and Bline School band. The public is invited to attend.

The individual should avoid, if possible, exposure that leads to a definite redness. An average complexion can safely take moderately intense sunlight for up to two hours. On the other hand, the damage brought on by small daily doses of sunlight is cumulative and may do more harm than a week-end sunbath. There also is a relationship between bright light and frown lines, another aging sign. Dark glasses are helpful along this line.

Sunscreen products also protect. They prevent damage by absorbing certain waves of ultraviolet light before these rays strike the skin. They are a must for women in sunny climates. Various types are available, such as RVP, A-Fil, Neo-A-Fil and Sundare; some are more efficient than others. They can be applied under or incorporated into cosmetics.

Plastic surgery may help those with noticeable wrinkles, wattles, flaps, veins, brown spots, pouches, and defiant hairs on the face and neck. Gravity can create many unattractive distortions, inasmuch as all soft tissue tends to move downward. But cosmetic surgery is not for all, and most surgeons want a sensible reason to justify the procedure.

COLD HANDS

A reader writes: Does Raynaud's disease have anything to do with the blood?

REPLY

Indirectly. Raynaud's is a circulatory disorder in which the arterioles go into spasm whenever the victim gets excited or is exposed to cold. These disturb the blood flow. The hands and feet become white and numb, followed by a period of redness, warmth, and tingling. The exact cause is not known. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for our leaflet on Raynaud's disease.

FRUITS AND TUMMYACHE

B.T. writes: I love fresh fruits and used to be able to eat them without trouble. But recently, I develop a tummyache whenever I eat them. What can be done about this?

Try cooked fruits for six weeks; then, gradually add bananas, fruit juices, and peeled apples. I presume our pain stems from spasm of the bowel, aggravated by roughage in fresh fruit. You should have a checkup because a lesion, not the fruit, may be causing the distress.

Scriptwriting Contest Open to Area Entries

The 22nd Annual Voice of Democracy, a national scriptwriting program, is again available to the youth of this area. The program is sponsored locally by District 5 of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its Ladies Auxiliary, with the cooperation of the national and state associations of broadcasters.

It is designed to give high school students the opportunity to voice their opinions on patriotic themes and to convey them via the broadcasting media.

All tenth, eleventh and twelfth grade students in public, parochial and private schools are eligible to compete in this program which has been placed on the Approved list of National Contests for 1968-69 by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

This year's theme is "Freedom's Challenge," and all students wishing to enter this program should contact their high school principal or their teachers for details.

After intra-school competition, a winner is selected from each school. These winners then compete for district, state and national honors. Prizes are awarded on each level. Each state winner is then provided with a five-day all expense paid trip to Washington, D.C., plus the opportunity to compete for national scholarships amounting to $13,500.

Owen Reece, Jr., vice commander of V.F.W. Post 101, and Mrs. Eugene W. Wood, senior vice president of V.F.W. Auxiliary 4051, are chairmen for the Voice of Democracy Program for District 5, V.F.W. and Auxiliary.

The district includes Posts and Auxiliaries 101 and 4051 in Colorado Springs; 5221 in Calhan; 6461 in Fountain; 6051 in Woodland Park and 5812 in Matheson. All of the schools in these areas have been contacted and advised of the fact that each sutdent writes his or her own script. These scripts are then tape recorded during the District Judging and tape recording which will take place at the KRDO Radio Station, on Nov. 30, at 10 a.m.

The first, second and third place winners on the district contest will receive Savings Bonds, Certificates and pins at an awards ceremony to be held at the V.F.W. Post 4051 at a later date. The first place winner will also be the guest of the Department of Colorado, V.F.W. at a banquet preceding the competition in Denver.

Beta Xi Tea Slated Today In Widefield

Mrs. George Ramsey, president of the Beta Xi Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi, will entertain members with a preferential tea at her home at 3 p. m. today at 288 Dexter in Widefield.

The members will honor a new pledge, Mrs. Ron Willard.

The chapter will also have a meeting on Nov. 11 at 8 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Grace Bouchard, 1409 N. Custer. Mrs. Charlotte Burkett is in charge of the program, "The History of Dress." Several of the members will participate in a fashion show, illustrating how styles in dress have changed throughout the years.

Music Festival at Falcon School Tuesday

Several area schools will take part in the annual music festival at Falcon School sponsored by the Black Forest League at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday.

Dr. Lawrence Busch, head of the music department at Fort Collins School, will direct the mass chorus. Participating schools are Monument School, Colorado School for the Deaf and the Blind, Simla School and Falcon School.

Other activities during the evening will be a fashion show sponsored by Bee-Lines and a band concert from the Deaf and Bline School band. The public is invited to attend.

Torch Club Held Ladies' Night Dinner

Torch Club of the Pikes Peak region recently had its semi-annual Ladies' night dinner at the El Paso Club. Richard M. Pearl, professor of geology at Colorado College, spoke about diamonds.

Torch Club is a branch of Torch Clubs International whose main office is in Knoxville, Tenn. The various clubs throughout the world are composed of professional men interested in developments and advancements in their professions. Papers by members are read and discussed in monthly meetings.

The local club was promoted and founded by Frank H. Riddle, 14 Upland Road, retired vice president of the Champion Spark Plug Co. in Detroit, in 1960.

Past presidents of the club include Stanley Hoddy, Austin W. Hoyt, W. Tod Campbell, Gordon Sweet, Bernard L. Trott, Richard M. Pearl, Don Davis and Ernest O. Tullis. Presiding this year is Horace C. Lorck.

The next meeting will be 6:30 p. m. Thursday at the El Paso Club. Richard H. Blythe Jr. will present at paper on "Offensive-Defensive Balance." He received his B. S. and M. S. degrees from Yale and is presently director of operations analysis at NORAD.

Jack J. Carey Receives Medals

Awards come in wholesale lots for Chief Warrant Officer Jack J. Carey of the Army Air Defense Command's 44th Aviation Detachment. CWO Carey recently received the 7th through 35th Oak Leaf Cluster to his Air Medal from Brig. Gen. Thomas H. Barfield, DCS-Operations. The awards were presented in recognition of CWO Carey's "meritorious achievement while participating in sustained aerial flight in support of combat ground forces in Vietnam from April 1967 to April 1968."

He also holds the Bronze Star for service in the combat zone. His recent assignment in Vietnam was his second tour there. The warrant officer also holds the Distinguished Flying Cross for work in recovering the bodies of victims of the crash of two civilian airliners over the Grand Canyon in 1956.

A 17th-century caddie in Scotland was hanged for stealing a golf ball, says the National Geographic.

Date-Line

By Ele and Walt Dulaney

Dear Ele and Walt: My hair is very long, almost to my waist. My mother tells me that I've got to get it cut. I am not very pretty. I have a long nose and fat lips and I look awful in short hair. There are pictures of me to prove it. However, everyday I get compliments on how beautiful my hair is long.

I am 14 and I keep my hair very clean and out of my eyes. When it is long, there are so many styles you can mix. But no matter how nice I ask, my mother keeps saying I've got to get it cut. Please save me from looking queer. — Lynette.

Dear Lynette: I can't save you from the scissors, but why not ask mom if, when you hair is trimmed and shaped (stress those terms rather than "cut"), she'll have the haidresser teach you at least three different ways to vary your hair style so it flatters your face. Variety should dictate more hair being left on your head.

Sudden thought: If your hair is always clean and out of your eyes, then mom's hostility can only spring from the amount of time you spend on grooming your locks. Think back how often she's wanted you for housework, homework or an errand and heard, "I can't, mom, I'm doing my hair."

If you could better schedule your hair grooming time, she may ease up on the hairdresser. —Ele.

Dear Walt: Last weekend an older friend of mine asked me to double date. His cousin, a girl my age, was visiting his family. To help out my friend, I agreed to date his cousin. My steady girl was out of town at the time, so I didn't feel any harm would be done.

After our date, my friend drove us to a wooded area and parked. My date was a kind of wild girl, and I went along with her so I wouldn't seem chicken. Now I've found out that my friend's date knows my steady and I'm afraid she'll tell on me.

My problem? Should I wait and see if my friend's girl tells, then explain to my steady, or should I explain things to my girl now, before she is told by anyone else? — Sweating.

Dear Sweating: If your girl hears from someone else, you'll face not one, but two charges: Being unfaithful and hiding things from her. I favor disclosure. Tell it straight: "Jan, I knew Mark was on the spot entertaining his relative, so I agreed to help him out. Then, because he wanted to park with Linda, I was on the spot. His cousin was nothing compared to you, but I didn't know how to handle the situation, so I faked it out. I hope you undrstand how it was. I'm telling you because we've always been honest up to now and I'm not going to change that trust for anything."

How will she take it: Let's hope she's wise and secure enough to be reasonable. — Walt.

Dear Ele and Walt: This is something I can't discuss with my parents. They'd just say, "Don't let other people's problems get you down." I can't think like that. When I like someone, I care what happens to them. Please tell me how to help a girl whose stepfather is acting much too friendly every time her mother is away?

What especially bothers me is that he's convinced her mother that they should remove all locks on the inside house doors so that no one could get locked in if a fire should occur. The girl is stubborn, she won't talk with her mother "because it would break her heart." — Concerned Fridn.

Dear Friend: Everything is just stop-gap as long as the girl won't talk to her mom. But you might suggest that she plan on staying with a girlfriend on nights when her mom is gone, or that she buy a hook and eye lock for her own door and move a chest of drawers to barricade the room. If she does get cornered by her stepfather again, she should plan on saying, "I don't like that and if you come near me again, I'll tell mom about this."

But these are all unsure protections. The only real solution lies with mom, and she should be told the score. Ask your friend: "What would break your mom's heart more, to find out that her husband is getting fresh with you, or to discover that you're several months pregnant by him?" That could be the key to get her to speak up. You're right to be concerned. — Ele and Walt.

Dear Ele and Walt: I'm the girl who always wins the "most popular" awards in school elections. I'm in three clubs and hold two major offices in student government. I go with the best looking boy in school and he's not only handsome, but he's also thoughtful and sincere.

Three weeks ago, however, he started working as an usher at a theater. He works nearly 30 hours a week and what with homework and his offices, there's hardly any time to be together. He needs the money for college, so I understand that.

But I'm alone a lot and now it's evident to me that although I know a lot of people, I don't have any real friends. No one calls me or invites me places and when I call them, they're always rushing off. I don't blame them. I realize the real problem must be some weakness in myself, but I'm so lonesome. Can you help me help myself? — Nita.

Dear Nita: Since you are considered popular, since you hold many responsible positions, and since most people know you have a boyfriend, most people assume your life is chuck full, and don't think of asking for some of your time.

Even the girls you've called and spoke to can't guess exactly how lonesome you feel. They probably think you're being nice to them and making time for them through some sort of "service project" impulse. If you really want their company, don't make any vague "let's get together" invitations. Check your schedule and make a definite date to get together at some specific place. Many people feel shy around a campus V.I.P. and if you're to make contact, you'll have to have the courage to really stick out that hand of friendship more than half way. — Ele and Walt.

UNICEF Cards Available From 'Little Folks'

UNICEF greeting cards and calendars are available in Colorado Springs at the Little Folks Schools.

UNICEF cards, which are sold for the benefit of the Nobel Peace Prize-winning United Nations Children's Fund, help provide milk, medicine and equipment for sick and hungry children all over the world.

The designs, which are donated by leading artists from all over the world, reflect the holiday season in their themes.

In announcing the sale, Florence Van Skike, who is assisted in the UNICEF card sale by Mrs. Detmar Roberts, said that UNICEF cards help provide needy children with the chance "for a better and longer life."

The proceeds from one box of cards priced at $1.50 will protect 50 children against tuberculosis. "These cards, sold mostly by volunteers, can spell the difference between life and death for countless boys and girls in Latin America, Asia, Africa, and the Middle East," Mrs. Van Skike said. Proceeds from the world sale last year netted UNICEF more than $3,000,000, nearly 10 per cent of its total income.

The cards come 10 to a box priced at $1.50. They have the "Season's Greetings" message in the five official languages of the United Nations. There are also UNICEF Birthday cards and Note cards at the same price, and a beautiful Engagement Calendar which sells for $2.50.

The public is invited to visit a display of the 1968 UNICEF cards which can be seen daily from 9 a.m. to 4:30 at Little Folks School, 1320 E. Van Buren St., or by appointment by calling 632-6546 or Mrs. Van Skike or Mrs. Roberts.

'Solid' Saigon Government Faces Dilemma

Hanoi long has contended that the Saigon regime is a U.S. puppet and only the Communist-dominated National Liberation Front can speak for the South Vietnamese people.

Through the series of regimes that have come and gone since the overthrow and assassination of President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963, U.S. Embassy officials here have privately voiced the wish that the government of the moment were actually a puppet. Defiance of Washington has been almost routine.

Such defiance reached a high point under Thieu, a former general known for his craftiness and skill in surviving Vietnam's rough and tumble power politics. Some of those who once said Thieu was at his best as the power behind the throne, instead of the power itself, have begun to have second thoughts.

Diplomats who have followed the month-long dispute between Thieu and Washington over President Johnson's order halting attacks on North Vietnam as part of a full-fledged peace talks initiative gave Thieu high marks as a tough bargainer and canny statesman.

Some sessions with members of the U.S. Embassy pushing the Johnson peace plan grew heated. But Thieu in public has put across the image here of a man who refuses to compromise with what he considers his nation's vital interests but at the same time refuses to engage in open bickering with Washington.

paign, instead of waiting until the last week to do it, he would have won," McCarthy said.

McCarthy said he regarded as significant two Humphrey statements late in the campaign, he said these were Humphrey's expressed willingness to have the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, represented at the Paris talks and his declaration that the Saigon government should not have a veto on important American decisions.

"I think those statements helped pull him into a challenging position with Nixon," McCarthy said. "If he had changed earlier it would have been more helpful."

The Minnesota senator, first to challenge President Johnson's Vietnam course in the primaries, said he thinks the pre-election halt in attacks on North Vietnam helped dovish Senators seeking re-election more than Humphrey.

McCarthy campaigned for several of the dove candidates.

Despite the losses by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., Paul O'Dwyer in New York and Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who may seek a recount, McCarthy predicted the Senate will be a stronger force in the forging of foreign policy decisions under Nixon than it was under Johnson.

Breakthrough In Peace Talks Is Predicted

bined allied delegation with Saigon at its head. He seemed to be sticking to the four-party formula, emphasizing Hanoi's view that the Viet Cong is a local uprising in the South, independent of North Vietnam.

Thuy said he was insisting on a square table at the next conference to stress the physical separation of the delegations. He said a rectangular table, with the allies on one long side and the Communists on the other, was not acceptable.

Thuy also was asked at the reception how Saigon's intransigence in the face of U.S. pressure to end Thieu's boycott could be reconciled with Hanoi's charge that the Saigon government is a "puppet" of the U.S. government.

Earthquake Is Felt in 20 State Area

Because the quake hit a wide and populated area, Von Hake characterized it as strong.

The 1964 earthquake that devastated much of Alaska registered about 8.5 on the Richter scale.

Large buildings in St. Louis swayed noticeably for about 10 seconds after the quake struck. A seismograph report from Xavier University in Cincinnati said the shock was recorded at 12:03.30 p.m. EST.

There were widespread reports of swaying buildings, trembling walls and desks moving. There were scattered reports of minor damage, cracked windows, broken plaster and falling objects.

"I was trying to hold onto the kitchen wall," said a woman in Princeton, Mo. "I thought a truck had hit the house."

Enemy bases or suspected bases on this side of the Cambodian border have been pounded by U.S. B52 Stratofortresses the past few days, touching off explosions that indicated hits on munitions dumps.

After a rain of 1,500 tons of bombs on the area for the 24 hours ending Friday afternoon, B52s returned to the attack Friday night and Saturday, dropping 750 additional tons.

Nixon to Give Agnew Office In White House

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon assigned his vice president to a White House office Saturday and promised him broad responsibilities, arranged a meeting with President Johnson Monday and said he may later send emissaries abroad.

Nixon hinted he may want his own men overseas during the transitional period of the new Republican administration which will take office Jan. 20, but he said he would take no such action without President Johnson's approval.

For Spiro T. Agnew, his vice president-elect, Nixon had word of new but unspecified duties at home and abroad. He said Agnew will have an office close by his own, and added that there will be no independent vice presidential staff in the executive branch.

The plans he announced for Agnew were described in terms of cooperation but they seemed to imply supervision as well.

Nixon conferred with Agnew early in the day, then met Henry Cabot Lodge, his vice presidential running mate in 1960, now U.S. ambassador to West Germany. "The ambassador has agreed to undertake in the new administration some special assignments," Nixon said.

He said they had discussed in detail the current Vietnam peace talks and the situation in the war zone. "He is one of my top consultants in this field," Nixon said of Lodge, who formerly was U.S. ambassador to Saigon.

Nixon again ruled out overseas travel before the inauguration, unless it is at President Johnson's request. "Whatever the President might request in terms of the Vietnam situation, I would undertake," he said. "I don't anticipate that."

Talking briefly with newsmen at his Biscayne Bay retreat, Nixon said he might send representatives overseas prior to the inauguration.

"There is a possibility of some representation," he said, without indicating where or in what connection.

There has been speculation Nixon might want observers on hand at the Paris peace talks on Vietnam.

Nixon said he has replied through diplomatic channels to the invitation of South Vietnamese President Bguyen Van Thieu. The Saigon leader asked Nixon to visit South Vietnam. The president-elect already has announced he would make no such journey unless it was at Johnson's request.

Father, Two Sons Held in Plot to Murder Nixon

cation retreat in Key Biscayne, Fla. "It's in the hands of the police, and he (Nixon) has no concern over it," the aide said.

"We've talked about this before," the aide said. "We talked about it right after the Kennedy assassination. Mr. Nixon has a tremendous amount of faith in the Secret Service and in the police.

"Any idea of a major plot is overexaggerated. You can't be concerned about it every time something like this happens."

Police headquarters had said Namer and his son, Abdo, had already been charged. That was later learned to be incorrect, however.

According to police records, the elder Namer came here 13 years ago from Yemen, a small Arab country in the Mideast, but never took out American citizenship. His son arrived two years ago, police said. They had lived in Rada, a village of 3,500 population in the south of Yemen.

During his presidential campaign, Nixon several times endorsed vigorous American support for Israel in its disputes with Arab countries. He once said that it was important that America help Israel maintain its military superiority in the Middle East.

The conspiracy to murder charge against the Namers is a state charge, not a federal one. They also were charged with criminal solicitation in the first degree and possession of weapons. The solicitation charge involves recruiting others to act in concert in an illegal act, police said.

However, details of the alleged plot were not disclosed.

Astronaut Says U.S. Will Be First on Moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Apollo 7 astronaut Walter Cunningham predicted Saturday the United States will beat the Soviet Union to the moon.

Cunningham, a member of the three-man team which made an 11-day earth-orbit flight last month in preparation for the U.S. moon-landing attempt, made the comment after receiving Navy astronaut wings.

Nervous Gunman Robs Station of $40 Saturday

A shabby gunman who apparently was so nervous he accidentally fired the weapon he was carrying held up C. Ed's Texaco at 943 N. Murray Blvd. shortly before 8 p. m. Saturday.

Police believed he was the same individual who was unsuccessful in an apparent holdup attempt at Ben's Sporting Goods in the Bon Shopping Center, at 5:58 p.m.

Steve Colby, 2008 Trent St., who was on duty at the station at the time, described the bandit as about six feet tall, red haired with a mustache and wearing a shabby, grey coat and white, billed cap.

It was identical to the description given in the sporting goods attempt except for some discrepancy in age.

During the Texaco holdup, one shot was fired by the robber. However, Colby told police he believed the man accidentally discharged the weapon in his nervousness. Officers said the bullet, probably from a .32 calibre weapon, struck a fuse box at the station.

Colby said the man ran from the station and headed north on foot.

A 1959 tan automobile was observed leaving the Bon Center parking area with what was believed the bandit in that attempt at the wheel. A pickup was put out for the vehicle as well as the individual.

Officers Harry Killa and Timothy Alvine arrested a man fitting the description of the gunman at the corner of Colorado and Pikes Peak Avenues shortly after 9 p.m. He was taken to police headquarters for questioning.

The bandit at the Bon Center store approached Kenneth Harold Benjamin as he was turning to close the sporting goods store for the night. Benjamin said the man pulled a weapon, which he thought was a .45 calibre automatic, and told him he wanted money.

Benjamin said the money had been placed in a safe with a time lock and he could do nothing about it. He offered the gunman merchandise but said the man turned and left.

WASTED EFFORT

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Houston firefighters recently put out a blaze which they fought for an hour and a half. Only after the fire was extinguished did they find that the building recently had been bought by the city to be demolished. It was to be razed to make room for a new fire station.

Morse Says He Will 'Probably Ask Recount'

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Sen. Wayne L. Morse, trailing in his race for re-election to a fifth term, said Saturday he probably will ask for a recount.

Latest figures put Morse behind Robert Packwood 36-year-old Republican challenger.

Democrat Morse told a news conference at his home in this Willamette Valley city he will await the official canvass—expected about Dec. 5—then probably ask a recount if he still trails.

He called the news conference after Packwood claimed the victory Friday. Morse said he had not made any previous statement because the outcome was in doubt, but he could not let Packwood's statement stand unchallenged.

Asked what he would do if the recount confirmed his defeat, Morse smiled and waved his arm toward his farmland on the edge of Eugene.

"Take a look out the window.... I don't suffer from Potomac Fever.... I expect the city soon will take in my place, and I may come back and run for mayor," he smiled.

Morse said he felt his stand on the Vietnam War was a prime factor in the fact Packwood got so many votes in a state where Democrats hold a 5-4 margin in registration.

"There is conflict about the American people still.... We are never going to unite this country until you stop that war," he said.

Downed Pilots To Be Rescued In N. Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States intends to use any means necessary—including suppressive fire—to rescue its reconnaissance pilots who may go down in North Vietnam during the bombing halt.

Suppressive fire would harass and destroy enemy anti-aircraft batteries, machineguns and ground troops attempting to interfere with efforts to rescue downed reconnaissance pilots.

This could involve air-to-ground cannon fire, rockets and possibly even bombs.

U.S. government sources believe this would not constitute a violation of the U.S. commitment not to bomb North Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese tacitly have accepted the idea that the United States will continue to focus its camera eyes on their country, and American authorities recognize that the enemy may try to knock down these reconnaissance planes.

U.S. reconnaissance aircraft have flown over North Vietnam since the bombing halt began more than a week ago. They will continue such operations so that American commanders will know that movements are under way north of the Demilitarized Zone.

Although no reconnaissance plane has been downed in the North since the bombing halt began, U.S. government sources obviously expect this may well happen and they are concerned about American and world public reaction if suppressive fire is brought into lay in connection with pilot rescue.

Malaysia Says Mao Trying to Start Revolution

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The government accused Mao Tse-tung Saturday of inspiring attempts to launch "armed revolution" in Malaysia and announced the arrest of 116 members of the outlawed Communist party.

The charge against Red China's party chairman was made in a White Paper that said "not less than 90 Communist terrorist camps" had been found in the jungles near Thailand in the past two years.

The disclosure of the arrests, including 11 women, was made by a government spokesman at a news conference, who said more arrests are expected.

The White Paper said the Communist party of Malaya—CPM—"considers the present time opportune for preparations to be initiated for the eventual launching of an armed revolution."

Warden Lenard Meacham has given his approval to the golf program with one restriction — balls knocked over the prison walls are out of bounds and players will not be permitted to search for them.

Sen. Long Says He'd Like to Quit His Post

By ROY MCGHEE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mike Mansfield and Everett M. Dirksen are certain to remain the party leaders in the new Senate convening Jan. 3, but Russell B. Long of Louisiana may relinquish his post as assistant Democratic leader.

Long, the mercurial Democratic whip, has told political intimates he would like to quit the leadership post if he can do so gracefully and if his successor is a like-minded conservative. He cited a desire to devote more time to his chairmanship of the Senate Finance Committee.

But Long wants to make certain his departure cannot be interpreted as a stategic withdrawal made out of fear he could not be re-elected as whip when Democrats caucus just before the 91st Congress convenes.

Long's unpredictable behavior as No. 2 Senate Democrat has embarrassed, if not angered, some of his colleagues, raising doubts in some quarters that he actually would be retained in the post.

Last year, for example, Long stubbornly argued on the Senate floor with Mansfield, the Democratic leader, over Long's plan for federal financing of presidential election campaigns.

And Long made Senate liberals furious when he caught them off guard with a quick parliamentary shuffle and thwarted their effort, led by the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., to toss out a proposed freeze on welfare assistance to families with dependent children.

Long would look favorably on Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., a close political associate, as his successor as whip. If Long were to step down and Byrd were promoted, Byrd's present third-ranking position as secretary of the Senate Democratic Conference would be up for grabs.

Likely contenders would include Sens. Fred Harris of Oklahoma and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, both active in Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's presidential campaign.

But there is a possibility Byrd might not make it as Long's successor. Byrd made enemies when he supported Long in the welfare incident. Also, Democrats may want to make a place in their leadership ranks for Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, their defeated candidate for vice president, and the whip post would be the best they could offer.

Mansfield and Dirksen, the GOP leader, face no visible opposition to re-election and none was considered likely to develop. In the Republican ranks, a fight was believed brewing over a successor to GOP whip Thomas H. Kuchel of California, who was defeated in the primaries. Sens. Hugh Scott, the liberal Pennsylvanian, and Roman Hruska, the Nebraska conservative, are the chief contenders.

Girl Heiresses Don't Want to Live With Mom

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Two teen-age heiresses to a cement fortune say they would rather live with their horseback riding teacher than their socialite mother, who they said ran a nonstop "party" at home.

A judge said the girls will stay in custody of a juvenile probation officer until he finds out why.

Mary Ann Brophy, 14, and her sister Nancy, 13, great-granddaughters of the founder of Southwest-Portland Cement Co., were turned over to a juvenile officer by Superior Court Judge Edward R. Brand at a hearing this week.

Their mother, Mrs. Gloria Powell de Young Baker, 42, said Friday they were runaways from home.

The girls were placed two months ago in the temporary custody of Mrs. Tonnea Landie, operator of a horse stable in San Fernando, Calif., pending a court hearing Thursday. In an affadavit submitted in September, the girls said life with their mother was a nonstop "party." They also accused her of "excessive drinking and profanity."

"The part about the excessive drinking is correct," Mrs. Baker said in an interview Friday. "The part about the profanity isn't. Those children have never been in need of food, care or transportation at any time in their lives."

'Solid' Saigon Government Faces Dilemma

Hanoi long has contended that the Saigon regime is a U.S. puppet and only the Communist-dominated National Liberation Front can speak for the South Vietnamese people.

Through the series of regimes that have come and gone since the overthrow and assassination of President Ngo Dinh Diem in 1963, U.S. Embassy officials here have privately voiced the wish that the government of the moment were actually a puppet. Defiance of Washington has been almost routine.

Such defiance reached a high point under Thieu, a former general known for his craftiness and skill in surviving Vietnam's rough and tumble power politics. Some of those who once said Thieu was at his best as the power behind the throne, instead of the power itself, have begun to have second thoughts.

Diplomats who have followed the month-long dispute between Thieu and Washington over President Johnson's order halting attacks on North Vietnam as part of a full-fledged peace talks initiative gave Thieu high marks as a tough bargainer and canny statesman.

Some sessions with members of the U.S. Embassy pushing the Johnson peace plan grew heated. But Thieu in public has put across the image here of a man who refuses to compromise with what he considers his nation's vital interests but at the same time refuses to engage in open bickering with Washington.

paign, instead of waiting until the last week to do it, he would have won," McCarthy said.

McCarthy said he regarded as significant two Humphrey statements late in the campaign, he said these were Humphrey's expressed willingness to have the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong, represented at the Paris talks and his declaration that the Saigon government should not have a veto on important American decisions.

"I think those statements helped pull him into a challenging position with Nixon," McCarthy said. "If he had changed earlier it would have been more helpful."

The Minnesota senator, first to challenge President Johnson's Vietnam course in the primaries, said he thinks the pre-election halt in attacks on North Vietnam helped dovish Senators seeking re-election more than Humphrey.

McCarthy campaigned for several of the dove candidates.

Despite the losses by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., Paul O'Dwyer in New York and Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., who may seek a recount, McCarthy predicted the Senate will be a stronger force in the forging of foreign policy decisions under Nixon than it was under Johnson.

bined allied delegation with Saigon at its head. He seemed to be sticking to the four-party formula, emphasizing Hanoi's view that the Viet Cong is a local uprising in the South, independent of North Vietnam.

Thuy said he was insisting on a square table at the next conference to stress the physical separation of the delegations. He said a rectangular table, with the allies on one long side and the Communists on the other, was not acceptable.

Thuy also was asked at the reception how Saigon's intransigence in the face of U.S. pressure to end Thieu's boycott could be reconciled with Hanoi's charge that the Saigon government is a "puppet" of the U.S. government.

Earthquake Is Felt in 20 State Area

Because the quake hit a wide and populated area, Von Hake characterized it as strong.

The 1964 earthquake that devastated much of Alaska registered about 8.5 on the Richter scale.

Large buildings in St. Louis swayed noticeably for about 10 seconds after the quake struck. A seismograph report from Xavier University in Cincinnati said the shock was recorded at 12:03.30 p.m. EST.

There were widespread reports of swaying buildings, trembling walls and desks moving. There were scattered reports of minor damage, cracked windows, broken plaster and falling objects.

"I was trying to hold onto the kitchen wall," said a woman in Princeton, Mo. "I thought a truck had hit the house."

New Fighting Expected on Cambodia Border

Nixon to Give Agnew Office In White House

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon assigned his vice president to a White House office Saturday and promised him broad responsibilities, arranged a meeting with President Johnson Monday and said he may later send emissaries abroad.

Nixon hinted he may want his own men overseas during the transitional period of the new Republican administration which will take office Jan. 20, but he said he would take no such action without President Johnson's approval.

For Spiro T. Agnew, his vice president-elect, Nixon had word of new but unspecified duties at home and abroad. He said Agnew will have an office close by his own, and added that there will be no independent vice presidential staff in the executive branch.

The plans he announced for Agnew were described in terms of cooperation but they seemed to imply supervision as well.

Nixon conferred with Agnew early in the day, then met Henry Cabot Lodge, his vice presidential running mate in 1960, now U.S. ambassador to West Germany. "The ambassador has agreed to undertake in the new administration some special assignments," Nixon said.

He said they had discussed in detail the current Vietnam peace talks and the situation in the war zone. "He is one of my top consultants in this field," Nixon said of Lodge, who formerly was U.S. ambassador to Saigon.

Nixon again ruled out overseas travel before the inauguration, unless it is at President Johnson's request. "Whatever the President might request in terms of the Vietnam situation, I would undertake," he said. "I don't anticipate that."

Talking briefly with newsmen at his Biscayne Bay retreat, Nixon said he might send representatives overseas prior to the inauguration.

"There is a possibility of some representation," he said, without indicating where or in what connection.

There has been speculation Nixon might want observers on hand at the Paris peace talks on Vietnam.

Nixon said he has replied through diplomatic channels to the invitation of South Vietnamese President Bguyen Van Thieu. The Saigon leader asked Nixon to visit South Vietnam. The president- elect already has announced he would make no such journey unless it was at Johnson's request.

Father, Two Sons Held in Plot to Murder Nixon

cation retreat in Key Biscayne, Fla. "It's in the hands of the police, and he (Nixon) has no concern over it," the aide said.

"We've talked about this before," the aide said. "We talked about it right after the Kennedy assassination. Mr. Nixon has a tremendous amount of faith in the Secret Service and in the police.

"Any idea of a major plot is overexaggerated. You can't be concerned about it every time something like this happens."

Police headquarters had said Namer and his son, Abdo, had already been charged. That was later learned to be incorrect, however.

According to police records, the elder Namer came here 13 years ago from Yemen, a small Arab country in the Mideast, but never took out American citizenship. His son arrived two years ago, police said. They had lived in Rada, a village of 3,500 population in the south of Yemen.

During his presidential campaign, Nixon several times endorsed vigorous American support for Israel in its disputes with Arab countries. He once said that it was important that America help Israel maintain its military superiority in the Middle East.

The conspiracy to murder charge against the Namers is a state charge, not a federal one. They also were charged with criminal solicitation in the first degree and possession of weapons. The solicitation charge involves recruiting others to act in concert in an illegal act, police said.

However, details of the alleged plot were not disclosed.

Astronaut Says U.S. Will Be First on Moon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Apollo 7 astronaut Walter Cunningham predicted Saturday the United States will beat the Soviet Union to the moon.

Cunningham, a member of the three-man team which made an 11-day earth-orbit flight last month in preparation for the U.S. moon-landing attempt, made the comment after receiving Navy astronaut wings.

Nervous Gunman Robs Station of $40 Saturday

A shabby gunman who apparently was so nervous he accidentally fired the weapon he was carrying held up C. Ed's Texaco at 943 N. Murray Blvd. shortly before 8 p. m. Saturday.

Police believed he was the same individual who was unsuccessful in an apparent holdup attempt at Ben's Sporting Goods in the Bon Shopping Center, at 5:58 p.m.

Steve Colby, 2008 Trent St., who was on duty at the station at the time, described the bandit as about six feet tall, red haired with a mustache and wearing a shabby, grey coat and white, billed cap.

It was identical to the description given in the sporting goods attempt except for some discrepancy in age.

During the Texaco holdup, one shot was fired by the robber. However, Colby told police he believed the man accidentally discharged the weapon in his nervousness. Officers said the bullet, probably from a .32 calibre weapon, struck a fuse box at the station.

Colby said the man ran from the station and headed north on foot.

A 1959 tan automobile was observed leaving the Bon Center parking area with what was believed the bandit in that attempt at the wheel. A pickup was put out for the vehicle as well as the individual.

Officers Harry Killa and Timothy Alvine arrested a man fitting the description of the gunman at the corner of Colorado and Pikes Peak Avenues shortly after 9 p.m. He was taken to police headquarters for questioning.

The bandit at the Bon Center store approached Kenneth Harold Benjamin as he was turning to close the sporting goods store for the night. Benjamin said the man pulled a weapon, which he thought was a .45 calibre automatic, and told him he wanted money.

Benjamin said the money had been placed in a safe with a time lock and he could do nothing about it. He offered the gunman merchandise but said the man turned and left.

Morse Says He Will 'Probably Ask Recount'

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Sen. Wayne L. Morse, trailing in his race for re-election to a fifth term, said Saturday he probably will ask for a recount.

Latest figures put Morse behind Robert Packwood 36-year-old Republican challenger.

Democrat Morse told a news conference at his home in this Willamette Valley city he will await the official canvass—expected about Dec. 5—then probably ask a recount if he still trails.

He called the news conference after Packwood claimed the victory Friday. Morse said he had not made any previous statement because the outcome was in doubt, but he could not let Packwood's statement stand unchallenged.

Asked what he would do if the recount confirmed his defeat, Morse smiled and waved his arm toward his farmland on the edge of Eugene.

"Take a look out the window.... I don't suffer from Potomac Fever.... I expect the city soon will take in my place, and I may come back and run for mayor," he smiled.

Morse said he felt his stand on the Vietnam War was a prime factor in the fact Packwood got so many votes in a state where Democrats hold a 5-4 margin in registration.

"There is conflict about the American people still.... We are never going to unite this country until you stop that war," he said.

Malaysia Says Mao Trying to Start Revolution

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The government accused Mao Tse-tung Saturday of inspiring attempts to launch "armed revolution" in Malaysia and announced the arrest of 116 members of the outlawed Communist party.

NO SEACHING

RAWLINS, Wy. (AP) — Some of the convicts at the Wyoming State Penitentiary here have taken up golf. A small golf course has been laid out on the prison grounds. Warden Lenard Meacham has given his approval to the golf program with one restriction — balls knocked over the prison walls are out of bounds and players will not be permitted to search for them.

Sen. Long Says He'd Like to Quit His Post

By ROY MCGHEE

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Mike Mansfield and Everett M. Dirksen are certain to remain the party leaders in the new Senate convening Jan. 3, but Russell B. Long of Louisiana may relinquish his post as assistant Democratic leader.

Long, the mercurial Democratic whip, has told political intimates he would like to quit the leadership post if he can do so gracefully and if his successor is a like-minded conservative. He cited a desire to devote more time to his chairmanship of the Senate Finance Committee.

But Long wants to make certain his departure cannot be interpreted as a stategic withdrawal made out of fear he could not be re-elected as whip when Democrats caucus just before the 91st Congress convenes.

Long's unpredictable behavior as No. 2 Senate Democrat has embarrassed, if not angered, some of his colleagues, raising doubts in some quarters that he actually would be retained in the post.

Last year, for example, Long stubbornly argued on the Senate floor with Mansfield, the Democratic leader, over Long's plan for federal financing of presidential election campaigns.

And Long made Senate liberals furious when he caught them off guard with a quick parliamentary shuffle and thwarted their effort, led by the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., to toss out a proposed freeze on welfare assistance to families with dependent children.

Long would look favorably on Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va., a close political associate, as his successor as whip. If Long were to step down and Byrd were promoted, Byrd's present third-ranking position as secretary of the Senate Democratic Conference would be up for grabs.

Likely contenders would include Sens. Fred Harris of Oklahoma and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota, both active in Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's presidential campaign.

But there is a possibility Byrd might not make it as Long's successor. Byrd made enemies when he supported Long in the welfare incident. Also, Democrats may want to make a place in their leadership ranks for Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine, their defeated candidate for vice president, and the whip post would be the best they could offer.

Mansfield and Dirksen, the GOP leader, face no visible opposition to re-election and none was considered likely to develop. In the Republican ranks, a fight was believed brewing over a successor to GOP whip Thomas H. Kuchel of California, who was defeated in the primaries. Sens. Hugh Scott, the liberal Pennsylvanian, and Roman Hruska, the Nebraska conservative, are the chief contenders.

Girl Heiresses Don't Want to Live With Mom

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (UPI)—Two teen-age heiresses to a cement fortune say they would rather live with their horseback riding teacher than their socialite mother, who they said ran a nonstop "party" at home.

A judge said the girls will stay in custody of a juvenile probation officer until he finds out why.

Mary Ann Brophy, 14, and her sister Nancy, 13, great-granddaughters of the founder of Southwest-Portland Cement Co., were turned over to a juvenile officer by Superior Court Judge Edward R. Brand at a hearing this week.

Their mother, Mrs. Gloria Powell de Young Baker, 42, said Friday they were runaways from home.

The girls were placed two months ago in the temporary custody of Mrs. Tonnea Landie, operator of a horse stable in San Fernando, Calif., pending a court hearing Thursday. In an affadavit submitted in September, the girls said life with their mother was a nonstop "party." They also accused her of "excessive drinking and profanity."

"The part about the excessive drinking is correct," Mrs. Baker said in an interview Friday. "The part about the profanity isn't. Those children have never been in need of food, care or transportation at any time in their lives."

My husband says that God isn't concerned with "little" things like his swearing and drinking. What can I say to him? J. E.

We make a mistake when we try to adapt non - Christians to Christian standards. When we do this, we do two things. First, we leave the impression that a right relationship to God depends upon what WE DO. Swearing, lying, immorality, and intemperance are products of a life separated from God. This does not mean that everyone out of Christ is given to these sins, but it is true that these things come natural to the natural man. The Bible says: "The works of the flesh are these; Adultery, uncleanness . . . hatred, wrath . . . drunkenness, and revellings and such like." Although your husband certainly would be a much better man if he didn't do the things you mention, he wouldn't be a Christian if all he did was to leave off these things. Christianity is Christ, and the acceptance of Him makes a person a Christian.

Second, an attitude of harrassment will do little but create tension in your home. Non-Christian husbands are not made Christian by lectures from Christian wives. Let Christ be seen in your life and attitudes. Jesus said, "Ye are the light of the world. A city set on a hill cannot be hid." Men can resist lectures, but a life changed by the power of Christ is hard to ignore. One man said: "When I saw the love of Christ in my wife, I had no alternative but to become a Christian myself."

Another Consistory Planned in Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Reports circulated at the Vatican today that Pope Paul VI will call his third consistory during the Christmas-New Year season to name at least 15 new cardinals.

Sources gave two reasons:

Deaths in the last year have reduced the College of Cardinals from its all-time high of 118 to its present 103. The vacancies have occurred in such important archdioceses as New York, Paris, Montreal and Bordeaux.

Many say Pope Paul needs to strengthen his hand in the high Church administration at a time of increasing disobedience to his rulings on birth control and priestly celibacy.

Heart, Lung, Kidney Transplants Reported

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Surgeons transplanted the heart, one lung and two kidneys from a 27-year-old woman into four men in simultaneous operations today.

The eyes of the donor, who died following a cerebral hemmorhage, also were removed and placed in an eye bank.

All patients were reported in satisfactory condition.

The heart transplant was the 23rd in Houston and was performed by a team headed by Dr. Denton A. Cooley.

Mrs. Carey, the wife of the lung recipient, was the recipient of a corneal transplant in the past.

Thorny Columbia Addition Problem Tops Tuesday's Council Agenda

The controversial city proposal to annex the 338-acre Columbia Addition is on the agenda for final action, one way or another, when the city council holds its regular meeting at 9:30 a.m. Tuesday in council chambers at City Hall.

The Columbia Addition matter, plus another controversial item involving a Boys' Club request on the west side and the fact the agenda includes more than 50 items all point toward another marathon session for the council.

The Columbia Addition proposal will come up for second reading following several weeks' delay. It was passed on first reading in July after a lengthy public hearing by the council. There was a great deal of dissatisfaction aired by Columbia residents who don't want to become a part of Colorado Springs.

When the matter came up for second reading, council, again after hearing many complaints from residents of the area, postponed final action to give it time to meet with the dissidents.

A meeting was held at Whittier School on the west side and more than 100 persons attended. Almost without exception they expressed no desire to join the city.

City officials maintained annexation of the penninsula, bounded on three sides by Colorado Springs and the fourth by Manitou Springs, is necessary to the orderly growth of the region. The residents in Columbia say they want to be left alone.

The Boys' Club matter also has been in the works for several months. The club association wants to build a new facility at 730-752 Manitou Blvd.

Homeowners have objected strenuously, saying a boys club would ruin the residential character of the neighborhood. When the matter last came before city council, after an earlier public hearing, action was delayed until a committee could further explore the west side to see if other property might not be available.

The fact that the item is back, as a request for permission to build the new facility, would indicate the committee was not successful in finding another property.

The full agenda is as follows:

The only item involving the Utilities Department is a recommendation for award of contract for a bridge across Monument Creek.

Heading the list of unfinished business items will be the second reading of the Columbia Addition Annexation. Other items of unfinished business include the following:

Proposal by the city to establish zoning in the Columbia Addition, a 338 acre tract.

The request of the Boy's Club Association of Colorado Springs for a conditional use on two acres at 730-752 Manitou Blvd. to permit construction of a west side branch facility in an existing R-3 zone.

Annexation of Berger's Addition No. 1 (second reading), plus establishing a use zone, also on second reading).

Changing 18.99 acres north of Chambers Way and west of 31st Street from R-2 to the PUD (second reading).

Changing 8.585 acres located south, southeast and southwest of the intersection of Corona and El Paso Streets from A-1 to PUD (second reading).

Changing 49.20 acres northeast of the intersection of the intersection of Interstate 25 and Fillmore Street from C-5 to M-1 (second reading).

First reading of an ordinance amending the Regional Building Code, plus a resolution amedning Resolution No. 7144.

Appointments to boards and commissions.

Coming under the head of new business will be the following:

An ordinance regulating going out of business sales and water, fire damage and similar sales, requiring licensing for such sales, prescribing regulations for such sales and violations.

Acceptance of a deed of gift from the 89th Division, World War II, for a monument which has been installed in Memorial Park.

First reading of an ordinance vacating certain alley ways in block 17 of Evergreen Cemetery and platting them into adult burial spaces.

Acceptance of a grant of right-of-way from Mrs. Mary L. Foulk and the execution of a quit claim deed on part of lot 8, Phillips Addition, by the city in favor of Mrs. Foulk.

Recommendation of the director of public works regarding award of contract for a pedestrian walk bridge on 31st Street and Valley Road in Pleasant Valley.

Recommendation of the director of public works for award of contract for two softball backstope and one baseball backstop to be constructed at Palmer Park (Meadows area), Pikes Peak Park and Grant School Park.

Recommendation of director of public works on award of contract for landscaping and improvements to existing island at Palmer Park Boulevard and Uintah Street.

Recommendation of director of public works regarding award of contract for construction of asphalt, hard-surfaced areas and asphalt parking lot in Meadows, Park, Memorial Park and Wilson Park.

Recommendation of director of public works regarding a request of R. D. VonEngeln for refund for fence and for unpaid assessment.

Authorization for the proper city officials to execute an agreement between the city and the State Highway Department for the installation of traffic control devices at certain intersections on Academy Boulevard, Murray Boulevard and Chetlon Road. The state has agreed to participate.

Award of contract for Phase I of the Little Shooks Run storm sewer. The director of public works will have a report and recommendation.

Petition for public improvements for installation of sewer main in the alley of the 100 and 1100 blocks of Aleander Road and McArthur Avenue.

Report on Improvement District No. 68.

Award of contract for the existing hardwood floor in the City Auditorium and gymnasium,

Request by Shepard Development Company for a 12 month extension for a PBC-1 near Delta Drive and Hancock Road.

Request by Shepard Development Company to change .581 of an acre northwest of the intersection of Laramie Drive and Hancock Road from PBC-1 to R-5.

Final plat of Dublin Boulevard Subdivsion by Mura Vista Corp., which involves a realignment of exsiting Dublin Lane west of Academy Boulevard, plus a request to vacate 1.485 feet of the 100 foot right-of-way lying west of the present intersection of Dublin Lane and Academy Boulevard.

Request by Douglas Peterson for issuance of a building permit prior to the filing of a preliminary and final plat at 424 E. Arvada St.

Application by Action Ambulance Inc. for a certificate to operate an ambulance service in the city. Council could set a date for a public hearing to determine the need for another ambulance service and to consider the rates for and other types of service to be rendered.

Amended lease with the United States for land at the airport.

Award of contract for alterations for the Planning Department at the Udick Building, 117 N. Nevada Ave.

Application of Taco-Tico of Colorado Springs Inc.for a 3.2 beer license at 410 N. Circle Drive., which license is now held by Mountain States Pizza Company Inc., doing business as Taco Sierra.

Application of Kelker Junction Concert Hall for a 3.2 beer license at 2540½ Weston Road., which license is held by William James Troxel as an individual.

Renewal of liquor licenses for 1969.

Request by Anthony Parascondola, doing business as the Intimate Lounge, for permission to expand the building at 2102 E. Bijou St. to house a bandstand, dance floor and service bar.

Public hearing on an appeal by Robert W. Johnson for a review of a Planning Commission decision regarding a request by C. K. Roberts to change 3.88 acres northwest of Palmer Park Boulevard and McArthur Avenue from R-2 to R-5.

Public hearing on an appeal by John J. McNamee for a review of a Planning Commission decision regarding 7.9 acres on the south side of Constitution Avenue at the intersection of Vista View Lane; this involves a preliminary and final replat of that section.

Discrimination at CU Being Charged

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — A mid-December probe is expected on hearings that a three-member committee conducted on charges of discrimination made by a University of Colorado associate professor.

The committee concluded intermittent hearings into the charges Thursday night and will report to the CU Board of Regents.

Dr. Edward Rozek, a member of the university's political science department, said he had been discriminated against by CU administrators because of his political beliefs.

Rozek said his salary increases have been kept down, and that his promotion to full professor has been delayed due to his political beliefs.

New Danger in Middle East Is Expected

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Real threat to peace:

Western diplomats in London say the next two months before President-elect Richard M. Nixon's inauguration will be particularly dangerous in the Middle East. They fear the Soviets may try to reopen the Suez Canal by force or encourage Egypt to step up the heat on Israel at a time when Washington would be least likely to intervene. This is a view in which the French concur. Foreign Minister Michel Debre, in a report to the French cabinet, said the Middle East, and not the festering Vietnam conflict, is the real threat to world peace.

Pressure on West Germany:

The United States is expected to voice its perennial complaint at the Nov. 14-16 North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) council of ministers meeting in Brussels that European members of the alliance are not shouldering their full share of the alliance's defense burden. U.S. officials are said to be particularly critical of West Germany, whose Bundeswehr is nearly 60,000 below its slated strength of 508,000.

Chinese like Nixon:

Nationalist Chinese officials made little secret of their hopes that Richard Nixon would win the presidential election. Now that he has, the nationalists are optimistic that he will slow the planned phase-out of U.S. military aid to Taiwan, now scheduled for 1972 with drastic cuts between now and then. The U.S. terminated its economic aid to Nationalist China in mid 1964. Nixon has visited Taiwan six times in recent years and has shown considerable sympathy to President Chiang Kai-Shek's anti-Communist cause.

The Boys' Club matter also has been in the works for several months. The club association wants to build a new facility at 730-752 Manitou Blvd.

Homeowners have objected strenuously, saying a boys club would ruin the residential character of the neighborhood. When the matter last came before city council, after an earlier public hearing, action was delayed until a committee could further explore the west side to see if other property might not be available.

The fact that the item is back, as a request for permission to build the new facility, would indicate the committee was not successful in finding another property.

The full agenda is as follows:

The only item involving the Utilities Department is a recommendation for award of contract for a bridge across Monument Creek.

Heading the list of unfinished business items will be the second reading of the Columbia Addition Annexation. Other items of unfinished business include the following:

Proposal by the city to establish zoning in the Columbia Addition, a 338 acre tract.

The request of the Boy's Club Association of Colorado Springs for a conditional use on two acres at 730-752 Manitou Blvd. to permit construction of a west side branch facility in an existing R-3 zone.

Annexation of Berger's Addition No. 1 (second reading), plus establishing a use zone, also on second reading).

Changing 18.99 acres north of Chambers Way and west of 31st Street from R-2 to the PUD (second reading).

Changing 8.585 acres located south, southeast and southwest of the intersection of Corona and El Paso Streets from A-1 to PUD (second reading).

Changing 49.20 acres northeast of the intersection of the intersection of Interstate 25 and Fillmore Street from C-5 to M-1 (second reading).

First reading of an ordinance amending the Regional Building Code, plus a resolution amedning Resolution No. 7144.

Appointments to boards and commissions.

Coming under the head of new business will be the following:

An ordinance regulating going out of business sales and water, fire damage and similar sales, requiring licensing for such sales, prescribing regulations for such sales and violations.

Acceptance of a deed of gift from the 89th Division, World War II, for a monument which has been installed in Memorial Park.

First reading of an ordinance vacating certain alley ways in block 17 of Evergreen Cemetery and platting them into adult burial spaces.

Acceptance of a grant of right-of-way from Mrs. Mary L. Foulk and the execution of a quit claim deed on part of lot 8, Phillips Addition, by the city in favor of Mrs. Foulk.

Recommendation of the director of public works regarding award of contract for a pedestrian walk bridge on 31st Street and Valley Road in Pleasant Valley.

Recommendation of the director of public works for award of contract for two softball backstope and one baseball backstop to be constructed at Palmer Park (Meadows area), Pikes Peak Park and Grant School Park.

Recommendation of director of public works on award of contract for landscaping and improvements to existing island at Palmer Park Boulevard and Uintah Street.

Recommendation of director of public works regarding award of contract for construction of asphalt, hard-surfaced areas and asphalt parking lot in Meadows, Park, Memorial Park and Wilson Park.

Recommendation of director of public works regarding a request of R. D. VonEngeln for refund for fence and for unpaid assessment.

Authorization for the proper city officials to execute an agreement between the city and the State Highway Department for the installation of traffic control devices at certain intersections on Academy Boulevard, Murray Boulevard and Chetlon Road. The state has agreed to participate.

Award of contract for Phase I of the Little Shooks Run storm sewer. The director of public works will have a report and recommendation.

Petition for public improvements for installation of sewer main in the alley of the 100 and 1100 blocks of Aleander Road and McArthur Avenue.

Final plat of Dublin Boulevard Subdivsion by Mura Vista Corp., which involves a realignment of exsiting Dublin Lane west of Academy Boulevard, plus a request to vacate 1.485 feet of the 100 foot right-of-way lying west of the present intersection of Dublin Lane and Academy Boulevard.

Request by Douglas Peterson for issuance of a building permit prior to the filing of a preliminary and final plat at 424 E. Arvada St.

Application by Action Ambulance Inc. for a certificate to operate an ambulance service in the city. Council could set a date for a public hearing to determine the need for another ambulance service and to consider the rates for and other types of service to be rendered.

Amended lease with the United States for land at the airport.

Award of contract for alterations for the Planning Department at the Udick Building, 117 N. Nevada Ave.

Application of Taco-Tico of Colorado Springs Inc.for a 3.2 beer license at 410 N. Circle Drive., which license is now held by Mountain States Pizza Company Inc., doing business as Taco Sierra.

Application of Kelker Junction Concert Hall for a 3.2 beer license at 2540½ Weston Road., which license is held by William James Troxel as an individual.

Renewal of liquor licenses for 1969.

Request by Anthony Parascondola, doing business as the Intimate Lounge, for permission to expand the building at 2102 E. Bijou St. to house a bandstand, dance floor and service bar.

New Danger in Middle East Is Expected

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

Real threat to peace:

Western diplomats in London say the next two months before President-elect Richard M. Nixon's inauguration will be particularly dangerous in the Middle East. They fear the Soviets may try to reopen the Suez Canal by force or encourage Egypt to step up the heat on Israel at a time when Washington would be least likely to intervene. This is a view in which the French concur. Foreign Minister Michel Debre, in a report to the French cabinet, said the Middle East, and not the festering Vietnam conflict, is the real threat to world peace.

Pressure on West Germany:

The United States is expected to voice its perennial complaint at the Nov. 14-16 North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) council of ministers meeting in Brussels that European members of the alliance are not shouldering their full share of the alliance's defense burden. U.S. officials are said to be particularly critical of West Germany, whose Bundeswehr is nearly 60,000 below its slated strength of 508,000.

Chinese like Nixon:

Nationalist Chinese officials made little secret of their hopes that Richard Nixon would win the presidential election. Now that he has, the nationalists are optimistic that he will slow the planned phase-out of U.S. military aid to Taiwan, now scheduled for 1972 with drastic cuts between now and then. The U.S. terminated its economic aid to Nationalist China in mid 1964. Nixon has visited Taiwan six times in recent years and has shown considerable sympathy to President Chiang Kai-Shek's anti-Communist cause.

Discrimination at CU Being Charged

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — A mid-December probe is expected on hearings that a three-member committee conducted on charges of discrimination made by a University of Colorado associate professor.

The committee concluded intermittent hearings into the charges Thursday night and will report to the CU Board of Regents.

Dr. Edward Rozek, a member of the university's political science department, said he had been discriminated against by CU administrators because of his political beliefs.

Rozek said his salary increases have been kept down, and that his promotion to full professor has been delayed due to his political beliefs.

AT&T Chairman Inaugurates CC's Chase Stone Lectures Thursday

One of the country's most distinguished business leaders will inaugurate a memorial lecture series at Colorado College named for H. Chase Stone.

H. I. Romnes, chairman of the board of American Telephone and Telegraph Company, will speak at 8:15 p. m. Thursday in Armstrong Hall Aduitorium on the campus. The lecture is open to the public without charge and tickets are not necessary.

Shepard's Citations, Colorado Springs, legal publishing unit of McGraw-Hill Book Company, is sponsoring the annual lectures to recognize Stone's contributions to the community and to Shepard's, which he served as a longtime director.

Stone was president of the First National Bank of Colorado Springs and a trustee of the College at his death in 1966 at the age of 66. A forceful personality, he led the development of the Air Force Academy and Ft. Carson, and sparked the reconstruction of downtown Colorado Springs through the creation of a complex dominated by Holly Sugar Building and Antlers Plaza Hotel which is now known as Chase Stone Center.

He was active in the advancement programs of Colorado College and Fountain Valley School and was chiefly responsible for bringing the American Numismatic Association and a number of key industries to Colorado Springs. As a trustee of El Pomar Foundation, he was central to benefactions which aided many local charities.

The Chase Stone Lectures are intended to bring to Colorado College outstanding figures from the fields of business, government and education to deal with the broad subject of the business role in community development. One lecture will be given each year.

Dr. Lloyd E. Worner, president of the 94 year-old school, welcomed the new series as "a most timely and welcome extension of our major lecture offerings."

"Business does not always get its full fair share of platform time on the American college campus," he declared. "We are delighted that Shepard's has seen fit to make possible a series which does something about that while honoring one of the great builders of Colorado College and its home community."

Romnes, whose position makes him head of one of the world's largest business corporations, has been with the Bell System for 40 years, beginning as a station installer and construction worker in Wisconsin. He was named president of AT & T in 1965 and became chairman of the board and chief executive officer two years later.

He is a native of Stoughton, Wis., a graduate of the University of Wisconsin, and a director of numerous corporations and other organizations. Wisconsin and Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn have awarded him honorary degrees.

'Flag Courtesy' Pamphlet Available for Residents

The Rotary Club of East Colorado Springs, as a community service project, has prepared and will distribute a pamphlet designed to familiarize citizens with the proper courtesy to the American flag and during the playing of the National Anthem.

A spokesman for the club said that it had hoped to have the pamphlet ready in time for Monday's Veteran's Day observance but that it has not yet been returned by the printer.

He said that when ready, the pamphlets will be made available to service clubs, the Chamber of Commerce and schools among other organizations.

"We hope to have city-wide, state-wide and national distribution of the pamphlet," the spokesman said. "But because of our large military community, we think that Colorado Springs should set the pace."

The pamphlet outlines the proper courtesy both indoors and out.

During the playing of the National Anthem indoors anyone in civilian attire should stand at attention; those in uniform, including military, firemen and policemen, should stand at attention and if under arms, salute.

When the Flag passes by in parade or review indoors, the same procedure should be followed. Indoors, during the ceremony of raising or lowering the Flag, all should stand at attention; hats should be removed; no salute is rendered; athletes should face the Flag or music.

Outdoors, both civilian and military should salute under all four occasions: playing of the National Anthem; when the Flag passes by; during the hoisting or lowering of the Flag or the posting of the colors; and during the pledge of allegiance.

If the Flag is visible it is faced and saluted; if not visible, then one should face the source of the music and salute; if music is recorded, face front and salute.

The salute is rendered at the first note of the music and is held until the last note.

When the Flag is passing by, the salute is rendered when it is six paces from the viewer and held until it has passed six paces beyond.

Workshop for Writers and Singers Tuesday

Folk singers and writers are invited to come and bring their talent with them to the coffee house atmosphere of the Red Ram Tuesday at 8 p.m. This weekly setup is sponsored by the Young Adult Project in an effort "to bring out local expression by song, music, poetry, and other genres in an uninhibited manner."

The project has been termed a "folk workshop." Drink of some type will be available as well as snacks and dinners comprised of the Eastern United States and the continental coffee house program.

The Young Adult Project believes that Bob Dylan, female folk artists and groups such as the Kingston Trio have propagated folk singing through writing their own lyrics of self-expression, and that a note of professionalism creates a dignified aid throughout the establishment.

Today's problems and traditional and eccentric art forms have an outlet through a coffee house atmosphere dedicated to self-expression. The folk workshop coffee house concept has expanded through Canada and the eastern and western seaboards; however, the Midwest has not seen too much of this type of expression. With this thought in mind, the local Young Adult Project is attempting to set up an uninhibited atmosphere for talented expressionists.

Springs Woman Joins 'VISTA'

Jennifer J. Friend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Friend at 1724 N. Tejon St. was one of 32 trainees who were graduated recently from a VISTA training program at the University of Oregon Training Center in Eugene, Oregon.

As a Volunteer in Service to America, Jennifer, 23, will spend one year working with the Napa County Economic Opportunity Commission, Inc. in Napa, Calif. Volunteer activities—neighborhood improvement; tutoring; self-help housing; job referral; adult basic education referrals; day-care center support.

Jennifer attended Wasson High School. She studied Spanish at the University of Colorado in Boulder, where she received her BA degree in 1968. Her previous volunteer work includes child care with "Operation Happy Learning" here.

Two Hurt in Mishap at Interchange

A wreck caused when a motorist hit an icy spot on North Union Boulevard injured two persons late Friday night while a two-car collision at the often-criticized U.S. 24 exit ramp and Academy Boulevard caused injury to three other persons at about the same time.

Driver of the vehicle involved in the one-car affair was identified by police as Donald Jacob Rohrig, 22, of Ft. Carson. He was taken to the Air Force Academy Hospital for treatment of a deep cut in his left hand and other cuts and bruises.

A passenger in the car, Ellen Marie Walden, 21, of 1110 E. Columbia St., was taken to St. Francis with a sprained back and cut knee.

Officer T. E. Smith reported Rohrig was going south in the 800 block on North Union when his vehicle hit an icy spot, went into a spin, hit a curb broadside and overturned on its top.

Drivers of the vehicles involved in the two-car wreck were identified as Wardell Harden Patterson, 48, 621 E. Dale St., and Janice Katherine Zellner, 24, of 3609 E. LaSalle St.

Officer D. R. Lloyd said Patterson was going south on Academy and the other vehicle moving onto Academy from the exit ramp when the collision occurred. Mrs. Zellner was treated at Penrose for cuts while a passenger in the Patterson car, Beatrice M. Jones, 19, 914 Stewart Place, was admitted to St. Francis with a possible back injury.

Patterson and five other passengers in his car were unhurt.

READY FOR DEDICATION — Construction work on the Colorado Springs Veterans Memorial is complete and the impressive Colorado granite structure will be dedicated Monday. The memorial, located in the southeast corner of Memorial Park off East Pikes Peak Avenue, now has the brass plaques in place. It was built at a cost of $175,000, of which memberships in the Memorial Park Association have so far provided $80,000. Actual dedication services will begin at 11:30 a.m. Monday, but band music will begin at 10:40 a.m. The dedication is open to the public.

Veterans Memorial Slated For Dedication on Monday

The Colorado Springs Veterans Memorial, a dream in the minds of many Colorado Springs residents since 1947 at the time of the dedication of Memorial Park, is now a reality.

Construction is complete on the impressive Colorado granite structure and the dedication of the Memorial will be held on Monday, November 11, from 10:40 a.m. until 12 noon. The ceremony will be on the site, in the southeast corner of Memorial Park.

The dedication, scheduled on Veterans Day, will be open to the public. Civilian citizens, military citizens, school children, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Veterans groups, Gold Star Mothers, and other special groups have been invited to participate. The dedication of the region's only memorial to veterans will be open to the public.

The deed to the Veterans Memorial will be presented to the City of Colorado Springs, making the Memorial the property of the citizens.

The deed will be presented by the Memorial Park Association, a private organization which, in conjunction with the Colorado Springs Jaycees, is responsible for the construction of the monument. Memberships in the Association, which provide the funds for the construction, have reached $80,000 toward the total cost of $175,000.

Providing band music will be the NORAD band, the Air Force Academy Drum and Bugle Corps, and the Cheyenne Mountain, Wasson, Mitchell and Palmer high school marching bands.

Posting of the Colors will be by the NORAD Color Guard, escorted by Ft. Carson troops; Invocation will be given by the Rev. Arthur Pierpoint of the Pikes Peak Council of Churches; Russell Tutt will give the official welcome, and J. D. Ackerman, chairman of the board of the Exchange National Bank, will outline the significance of the memorial; dedicatory remarks will be made by R. J. Campbell, chairman of the Colorado Springs Jaycees, with dedication and presentation of the memorial being made by Maj. Gen. William H. Gill (USA, Ret.), president of the Memorial Park Association; Acceptance for the City of Colorado Springs will be made by Mayor T. Eugene McCleary; the National Anthem will then be played by the NORAD band, and a Memorial Prayer will be given by Rabbi Cary D. Yales, Ft. Carson Post Jewish Chaplain; a carillon interlude will be performed by Dr. Julius Baird, and taps will follow by Air Force Academy Buglers; benediction by Father John Stawasz, Ent AFB Catholic Chaplain, will end the ceremony.

MEMORIAL DEDICATION MONDAY — Mrs. Mary Devon, president of the Colorado Springs Chapter of the Gold Star Mothers, inspects the Veterans Memorial with N. Kent Baker, chairman of the Colorado Springs Jaycees Memorial Project. The Gold Star Mothers, along with other veterans and military groups, will place a memorial wreath during the public dedication ceremonies Monday.

Peace Corps Worker Tells Of Experiences

Work in the Peace Corps is challenging, according to Carolyn Burgin, who spent two years in Panama before returning to her homeland to do recruiting for the organization.

"There's so much we can do with foreign students on campuses in this country," said Miss Burgin, who spent Thursday and Friday at the Colorado Springs Center of the University of Colorado.

Two others with the Peace Corps, Paul Kelly and John Exeter, spent the two days at Colorado College. Kelly, an architect, returned recently from a stint in Tanzania, Africa. He is a graduate of Catholic University, Wash., and holds an MA degree from the University of California at Berkeley. Exeter is a native of Guyana, formerly British Guiana, South America, employed by the Peace Corps, and experienced his first contact with snow on his visit to Colorado Springs.

Miss Burgin, a 1965 University of Colorado graduate from Denver, spent 1966 in a Panamanian village of 450 working on a self-help school project in conjunction with Panama's Alliance for Progress.

Last year, she worked on a leadership training project for home economic groups in conjunction with the Panama Department of Agriculture. Home economics clubs sent representatives to a school conducted by Miss Burgin in central Panama, about 350 participating.

Miss Burgin will spend this week at the University of Colorado campus in Boulder, and then will work out of a Peace Corps office established last July in the Denver Post Ofice for the remainder of the year.

"THE Maverick"

Dear Maverick:

Friends tell me that you recently published letters concerning people who are unfortunate enough to be unable to vote. We are recent re-arrivals to the Springs so we missed it. Read your column faithfully and would like to add my gripe. My husband is just retiring from Uncle Sam's Air Force after 20 years service. Having met and married him away from his home state of official record, I have to depend on the state in which we are stationed for my registration privileges. Having just left Nebraska, we have not been here long enough. At the time of Primary registration in Nebr. we were not allowed to register in our particular county as we were living in govt. quarters and there was a big hassle going on about the dependents being allowed to vote for local officials, etc. Our voting in 1964 was done by absentee from my husband's state for him: for me by absentee from Colo.—as last home ownership, etc., etc. Since I did not continue to carry that address as my official record, they could not accept my registration. They were very nice at the Court House, but very firm!

I realize that part of this matter is our own fault—or mistake, by not knowing I should keep a definite address (though false—or that of a relative), but does it not seem a sad state of affairs when a man serves his country for 20 years and at the very close of that 20, his wife (who also serves in her own way) cannot vote for his Commander-in-Chief? Where should one start to try to get some changes begun, for a more universal law for National Elections to protect people like myself? Granted we should not take part in local elections of which we have no knowledge. My situation is not unique as our legal officer tells us there are many. Thank you for letting me air my grievance—Incidentally, I was employed and paid both State and Fed. Income Tax in the State we just left so I am still trying!

T.C.

Many laws are written without consideration of such circumstances. Then you are faced with the dilemma of either lying or misrepresenting yourself or neglecting what you feel to be a duty, or foregoing what you consider a right. Many laws are ambiguous for more reasons than one.

Dear Maverick:

I read your letters every day and enjoy them. Now I have something on my mind.

We received a letter from the Property Assessor. Our house is 70 years old, now they come and assess it $900 higher after all this time. That means we have to pay about $60 more taxes or over. I don't think this is fair, since we have to live on Social Security check. Could you please tell us if we could do something about it?

We found out that the newer houses are assessed lower now, they have all the conveniences that we don't have. I am surprised nobody complained about this

E.G.

Go see Mr. Port, County Assessor (newly elected) he should be helpful. Seems you should have a re-evaluation if you think your property has been assessed too much.

Dear Maverick:

In my High School days as a baseball catcher we signalled for an "in, out, drop, out-drop and fast ball" and seldom saw much wiggle on the ball. Just hoped it didn't go clear out of sight.

I hear now the terms, "curve, slider, sinker and breaking stuff." Could you possibly explain the different things a pitcher does to the ball to make him so effective?

Also would like the action on a spit ball and a knuckler.

You are a great service to many people and I hope your work is as much of a pleasure to you as it is to your readers!

R.G.

A pitcher holds a ball in a certain position to allow the raised seams to rotate against the air, causing the ball to "break" or alter its course.

The closer to the end of the fingers the ball is held, the faster it will travel and by breaking his wrist in or out or by holding his wrist stiff a pitcher can cause a spin on the ball which will cause it to break out (curve) or in (screwball) or down (sinker) or simply slide to one side (slider).

The knuckle ball is held with the fingertips or knuckles, causing a little rotation and thus the ball moves erratically.

A spitball is an illegal pitch. Some pitchers reportedly use saliva, grease, hair oil or other substances to cause the ball to hop erratically, more so than the knuckleball.

Obviously, the more control a pitcher has over what type of pitch he'll make — the more valuable he is and the more effective. Also, this control will tire him and therefore, pitchers must be used carefully. Many parents who think their boy should be used continually as a pitcher since he "wins" ought to consider what the strain might do to him. Good coaches try to develop players slowly and sometimes they can't always win and still look out for their players.

Podnah, the pleasure is mine — glad you enjoy my efforts!

Dear Maverick:

Why doesn't the Army get a better system for promotions? If a man passed the promotion board once why should he have to go before the board again? Why don't they hold the board only when they have stripes that come down? Why don't they give the ones already on the list first chance for promotion before they go overseas?

Mrs. J.V.

Don't know M'am, procedures for promotion boards are set up by the Department of the Army, Adjutant General Branch and Chapter 7 of Army Regulations 600-200 state specifically that these regulations are "not to be changed at the local level."

Dear Maverick:

My English class is studying the subject of witchcraft and Satan worshipers. Could you please tell me of any organizations in the Colorado Springs area which are based on these beliefs? We would like to have a guest speaker on this subject very much. If you can give me this information, please include their addresses and phone numbers.

N.B.
STUDENT

No witchcraft clubs listed in our club notices and none in the yellow pages—but any witches or warlocks in the area drop us a line. (N.B. are you SURE you want them to talk to your class?)

'Flag Courtesy' Pamphlet Available for Residents

The Rotary Club of East Colorado Springs, as a community service project, has prepared and will distribute a pamphlet designed to familiarize citizens with the proper courtesy to the American flag and during the playing of the National Anthem.

A spokesman for the club said that it had hoped to have the pamphlet ready in time for Monday's Veteran's Day observance but that it has not yet been returned by the printer.

He said that when ready, the pamphlets will be made available to service clubs, the Chamber of Commerce and schools among other organizations.

"We hope to have city-wide, state-wide and national distribution of the pamphlet," the spokesman said. "But because of our large military community, we think that Colorado Springs should set the pace."

The pamphlet outlines the proper courtesy both indoors and out.

During the playing of the National Anthem indoors anyone in civilian attire should stand at attention; those in uniform, including military, firemen and policemen, should stand at attention and if under arms, salute.

When the Flag passes by in parade or review indoors, the same procedure should be followed. Indoors, during the ceremony of raising or lowering the Flag, all should stand at attention; hats should be removed; no salute is rendered; athletes should face the Flag or music.

Outdoors, both civilian and military should salute under all four occasions: playing of the National Anthem; when the Flag passes by; during the hoisting or lowering of the Flag or the posting of the colors; and during the pledge of allegiance.

If the Flag is visible it is faced and saluted; if not visible, then one should face the source of the music and salute; if music is recorded, face front and salute.

The salute is rendered at the first note of the music and is held until the last note.

When the Flag is passing by, the salute is rendered when it is six paces from the viewer and held until it has passed six paces beyond.

Workshop for Writers and Singers Tuesday

Folk singers and writers are invited to come and bring their talent with them to the coffee house atmosphere of the Red Ram Tuesday at 8 p.m. This weekly setup is sponsored by the Young Adult Project in an effort "to bring out local expression by song, music, poetry, and other genres in an uninhibited manner."

The project has been termed a "folk workshop." Drink of some type will be available as well as snacks and dinners comprised of the Eastern United States and the continental coffee house program.

The Young Adult Project believes that Bob Dylan, female folk artists and groups such as the Kingston Trio have propagated folk singing through writing their own lyrics of self-expression, and that a note of professionalism creates a dignified aid throughout the establishment.

Today's problems and traditional and eccentric art forms have an outlet through a coffee house atmosphere dedicated to self-expression. The folk workshop coffee house concept has expanded through Canada and the eastern and western seaboards; however, the Midwest has not seen too much of this type of expression. With this thought in mind, the local Young Adult Project is attempting to set up an uninhibited atmosphere for talented expressionists.

Exchange Adds Denver Man to Present Staff

Gary L. Bradley, national bank examiner from Denver, has joined The Exchange National Bank and been elected an assistant vice president, it has been announced by O. D. Olson, president of the bank.

Bradley was elected an officer in the commercial departmet of the bank at the October meeting of the board of directors.

Bradley earned his bachelor's degree in business and economics from the University of Montana in Missoula and then served a three-year tour with the U.S. Air Force as a logistics officer. He then attended the University of London in England for a year of graduate study in the school of economics. He joined the American National Bank in Denver in 1964, where he trained in the credit department and the commercial department.

After two years banking experience in Denver, Bradley joined the staff of the U.S. Treasury Department, office of the Comptroller of the Currency, and served as a bank examiner in this area from 1966 until his move to The Exchange National this month.

Two Hurt in Mishap at Interchange

A wreck caused when a motorist hit an icy spot on North Union Boulevard injured two persons late Friday night while a two-car collision at the often-criticized U.S. 24 exit ramp and Academy Boulevard caused injury to three other persons at about the same time.

Driver of the vehicle involved in the one-car affair was identified by police as Donald Jacob Rohrig, 22, of Ft. Carson. He was taken to the Air Force Academy Hospital for treatment of a deep cut in his left hand and other cuts and bruises.

A passenger in the car, Ellen Marie Walden, 21, of 1110 E. Columbia St., was taken to St. Francis with a sprained back and cut knee.

Officer T. E. Smith reported Rohrig was going south in the 800 block on North Union when his vehicle hit an icy spot, went into a spin, hit a curb broadside and overturned on its top.

Drivers of the vehicles involved in the two-car wreck were identified as Wardell Harden Patterson, 48, 621 E. Dale St., and Janice Katherine Zellner, 24, of 3609 E. LaSalle St.

Officer D. R. Lloyd said Patterson was going south on Academy and the other vehicle moving onto Academy from the exit ramp when the collision occurred. Mrs. Zellner was treated at Penrose for cuts while a passenger in the Patterson car, Beatrice M. Jones, 19, 914 Stewart Place, was admitted to St. Francis with a possible back injury.

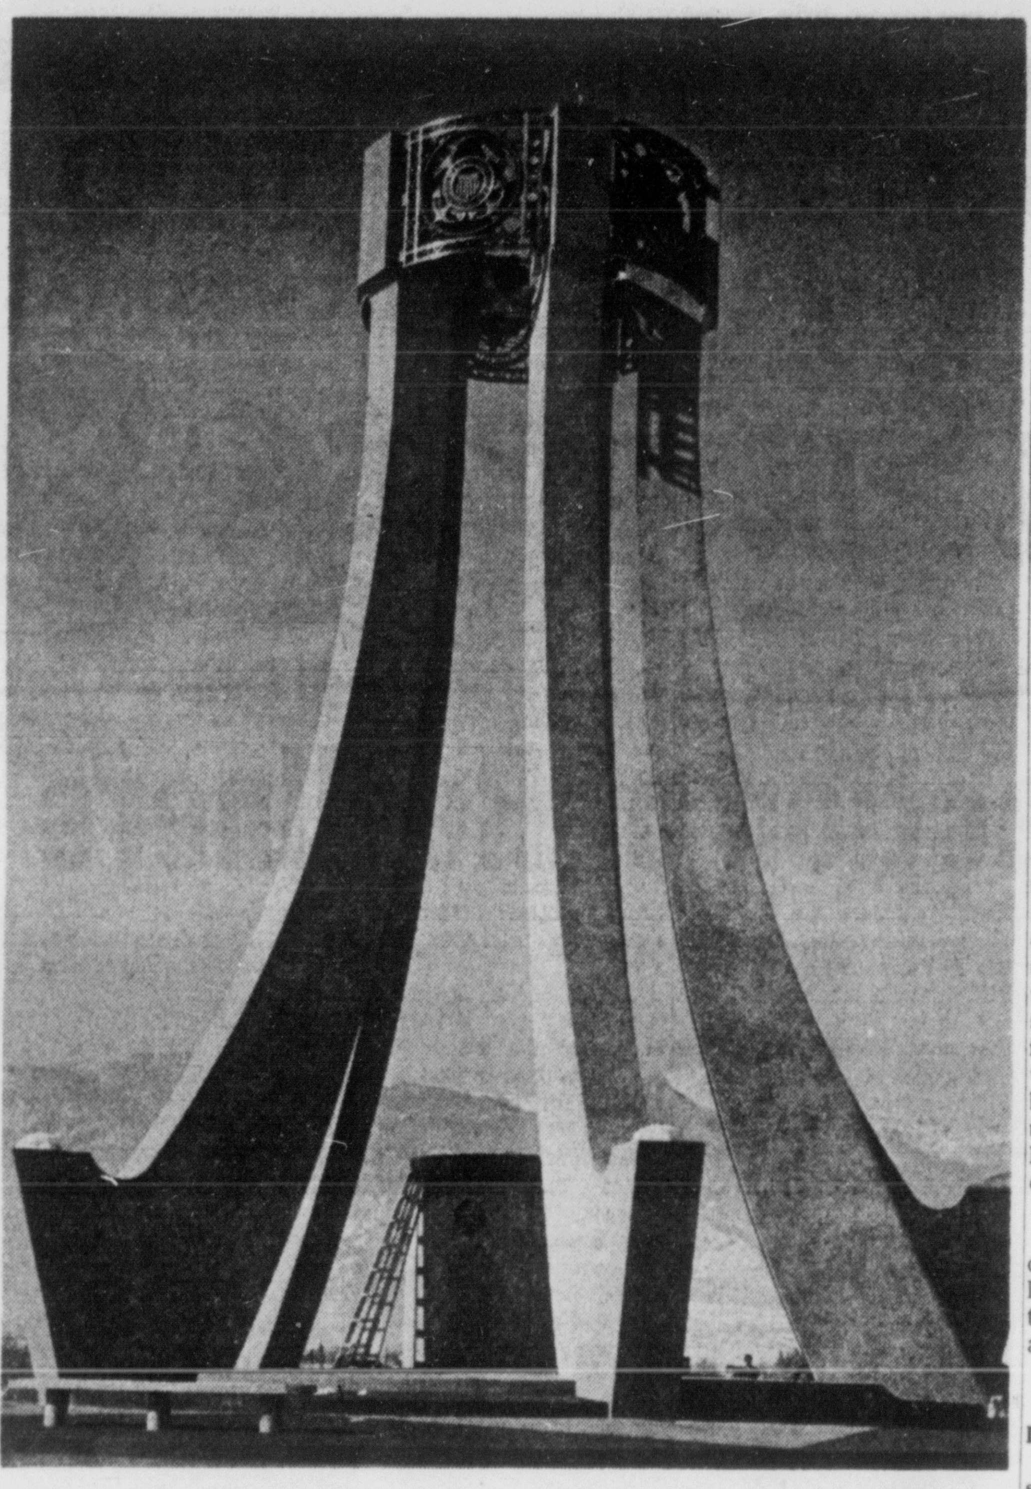
Patterson and five other passengers in his car were unhurt.

Springs Woman Joins 'VISTA'

Jennifer J. Friend, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Friend at 1724 N. Tejon St. was one of 32 trainees who were graduated recently from a VISTA training program at the University of Oregon Training Center in Eugene, Oregon.

As a Volunteer in Service to America, Jennifer, 23, will spend one year working with the Napa County Economic Opportunity Commission, Inc. in Napa, Calif. Volunteer activities—neighborhood improvement; tutoring; self-help housing; job referral; adult basic education referrals; day-care center support.

Jennifer attended Wasson High School. She studied Spanish at the University of Colorado in Boulder, where she received her BA degree in 1968. Her previous volunteer work includes child care with "Operation Happy Learning" here.



READY FOR DEDICATION — Construction work on the Colorado Springs Veterans Memorial is complete and the impressive Colorado granite structure will be dedicated Monday. The memorial, located in the southeast corner of Memorial Park off East Pikes Peak Avenue, now has the brass plaques in place. It was built at a cost of $175,000, of which memberships in the Memorial Park Association have so far provided $80,000. Actual dedication services will begin at 11:30 a.m. Monday, but band music will begin at 10:40 a.m. The dedication is open to the public.

Veterans Memorial Slated For Dedication on Monday

The Colorado Springs Veterans Memorial, a dream in the minds of many Colorado Springs residents since 1947 at the time of the dedication of Memorial Park, is now a reality.

Construction is complete on the impressive Colorado granite structure and the dedication of the Memorial will be held on Monday, November 11, from 10:40 a.m. until 12 noon. The ceremony will be on the site, in the southeast corner of Memorial Park.

The dedication, scheduled on Veterans Day, will be open to the public. Civilian citizens, military citizens, school children, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Veterans groups, Gold Star Mothers, and other special groups have been invited to participate. The dedication of the region's only memorial to veterans will be open to the public.

The deed to the Veterans Memorial will be presented to the City of Colorado Springs, making the Memorial the property of the citizens.

The deed will be presented by the Memorial Park Association, a private organization which, in conjunction with the Colorado Springs Jaycees, is responsible for the construction of the monument. Memberships in the Association, which provide the funds for the construction, have reached $80,000 toward the total cost of $175,000.

Providing band music will be the NORAD band, the Air Force Academy Drum and Bugle Corps, and the Cheyenne Mountain, Wasson, Mitchell and Palmer high school marching bands.

Posting of the Colors will be by the NORAD Color Guard, escorted by Ft. Carson troops; Invocation will be given by the Rev. Arthur Pierpoint of the Pikes Peak Council of Churches; Russell Tutt will give the official welcome, and J. D. Ackerman, chairman of the board of the Exchange National Bank, will outline the significance of the memorial; dedicatory remarks will be made by R. J. Campbell, chairman of the Colorado Springs Jaycees, with dedication and presentation of the memorial being made by Maj. Gen. William H. Gill (USA, Ret.), president of the Memorial Park Association; Acceptance for the City of Colorado Springs will be made by Mayor T. Eugene McCleary; the National Anthem will then be played by the NORAD band, and a Memorial Prayer will be given by Rabbi Cary D. Yales, Ft. Carson Post Jewish Chaplain; a carillon interlude will be performed by Dr. Julius Baird, and taps will follow by Air Force Academy Buglers; benediction by Father John Stawasz, Ent AFB Catholic Chaplain, will end the ceremony.

Peace Corps Worker Tells Of Experiences

Work in the Peace Corps is challenging, according to Carolyn Burgin, who spent two years in Panama before returning to her homeland to do recruiting for the organization.

"There's so much we can do with foreign students on campuses in this country," said Miss Burgin, who spent Thursday and Friday at the Colorado Springs Center of the University of Colorado.

Two others with the Peace Corps, Paul Kelly and John Exeter, spent the two days at Colorado College. Kelly, an architect, returned recently from a stint in Tanzania, Africa. He is a graduate of Catholic University, Wash., and holds an MA degree from the University of California at Berkeley. Exeter is a native of Guyana, formerly British Guiana, South America, employed by the Peace Corps, and experienced his first contact with snow on his visit to Colorado Springs.

Miss Burgin, a 1965 University of Colorado graduate from Denver, spent 1966 in a Panamanian village of 450 working on a self-help school project in conjunction with Panama's Alliance for Progress.

Last year, she worked on a leadership training project for home economic groups in conjunction with the Panama Department of Agriculture. Home economics clubs sent representatives to a school conducted by Miss Burgin in central Panama, about 350 participating.

Miss Burgin will spend this week at the University of Colorado campus in Boulder, and then will work out of a Peace Corps office established last July in the Denver Post Ofice for the remainder of the year.

MEMORIAL DEDICATION MONDAY — Mrs. Mary Devon, president of the Colorado Springs Chapter of the Gold Star Mothers, inspects the Veterans Memorial with N. Kent Baker, chairman of the Colorado Springs Jaycees Memorial Project. The Gold Star Mothers, along with other veterans and military groups, will place a memorial wreath during the public dedication ceremonies Monday.

"THE Maverick"

Dear Maverick:

Friends tell me that you recently published letters concerning people who are unfortunate enough to be unable to vote. We are recent re-arrivals to the Springs so we missed it. Read your column faithfully and would like to add my gripe. My husband is just retiring from Uncle Sam's Air Force after 20 years service. Having met and married him away from his home state of official record, I have to depend on the state in which we are stationed for my registration privileges. Having just left Nebraska, we have not been here long enough. At the time of Primary registration in Nebr. we were not allowed to register in our particular county as we were living in govt. quarters and there was a big hassle going on about the dependents being allowed to vote for local officials, etc. Our voting in 1964 was done by absentee from my husband's state for him: for me by absentee from Colo.—as last home ownership, etc., etc. Since I did not continue to carry that address as my official record, they could not accept my registration. They were very nice at the Court House, but very firm!

I realize that part of this matter is our own fault—or mistake, by not knowing I should keep a definite address (though false—or that of a relative), but does it not seem a sad state of affairs when a man serves his country for 20 years and at the very close of that 20, his wife (who also serves in her own way) cannot vote for his Commander-in-Chief? Where should one start to try to get some changes begun, for a more universal law for National Elections to protect people like myself? Granted we should not take part in local elections of which we have no knowledge. My situation is not unique as our legal officer tells us there are many. Thank you for letting me air my grievance—Incidentally, I was employed and paid both State and Fed. Income Tax in the State we just left so I am still trying!

T.C.

Many laws are written without consideration of such circumstances. Then you are faced with the dilemma of either lying or misrepresenting yourself or neglecting what you feel to be a duty, or foregoing what you consider a right. Many laws are ambiguous for more reasons than one.

Dear Maverick:

I read your letters every day and enjoy them. Now I have something on my mind.

We received a letter from the Property Assessor. Our house is 70 years old, now they come and assess it $900 higher after all this time. That means we have to pay about $60 more taxes or over. I don't think this is fair, since we have to live on Social Security check. Could you please tell us if we could do something about it?

We found out that the newer houses are assessed lower now, they have all the conveniences that we don't have. I am surprised nobody complained about this

E.G.

Go see Mr. Port, County Assessor (newly elected) he should be helpful. Seems you should have a re-evaluation if you think your property has been assessed too much.

Dear Maverick:

In my High School days as a baseball catcher we signalled for an "in, out, drop, out-drop and fast ball" and seldom saw much wiggle on the ball. Just hoped it didn't go clear out of sight.

I hear now the terms, "curve, slider, sinker and breaking stuff." Could you possibly explain the different things a pitcher does to the ball to make him so effective?

Also would like the action on a spit ball and a knuckler.

You are a great service to many people and I hope your work is as much of a pleasure to you as it is to your readers!

R.G.

A pitcher holds a ball in a certain position to allow the raised seams to rotate against the air, causing the ball to "break" or alter its course.

The closer to the end of the fingers the ball is held, the faster it will travel and by breaking his wrist in or out or by holding his wrist stiff a pitcher can cause a spin on the ball which will cause it to break out (curve) or in (screwball) or down (sinker) or simply slide to one side (slider).

The knuckle ball is held with the fingertips or knuckles, causing a little rotation and thus the ball moves erratically.

A spitball is an illegal pitch. Some pitchers reportedly use saliva, grease, hair oil or other substances to cause the ball to hop erratically, more so than the knuckleball.

Obviously, the more control a pitcher has over what type of pitch he'll make — the more valuable he is and the more effective. Also, this control will tire him and therefore, pitchers must be used carefully. Many parents who think their boy should be used continually as a pitcher since he "wins" ought to consider what the strain might do to him. Good coaches try to develop players slowly and sometimes they can't always win and still look out for their players.

Podnah, the pleasure is mine — glad you enjoy my efforts!

Dear Maverick:

Why doesn't the Army get a better system for promotions? If a man passed the promotion board once why should he have to go before the board again? Why don't they hold the board only when they have stripes that come down? Why don't they give the ones already on the list first chance for promotion before they go overseas?

Mrs. J.V.

Don't know M'am, procedures for promotion boards are set up by the Department of the Army, Adjutant General Branch and Chapter 7 of Army Regulations 600-200 state specifically that these regulations are "not to be changed at the local level."

Dear Maverick:

My English class is studying the subject of witchcraft and Satan worshipers. Could you please tell me of any organizations in the Colorado Springs area which are based on these beliefs? We would like to have a guest speaker on this subject very much. If you can give me this information, please include their addresses and phone numbers.

N.B.
STUDENT

No witchcraft clubs listed in our club notices and none in the yellow pages—but any witches or warlocks in the area drop us a line. (N.B. are you SURE you want them to talk to your class?)

If you have a problem send it to The Maverick, P.O. Box 1779, in care of The Gazette Telegraph, Colorado Springs, Colorado 80901 and if it is of general interest to others we will try to answer it. Be sure to include your name, address and telephone number. The Maverick will keep you anonymous but he must know who you are.

State Hunting, Fishing Penalty Points Urged

DENVER (AP)—A system of assessing penalty points against Colorado hunting and fishing licenses when the holder violates regulations was recommended Friday by a special legislative committee studying the state Game, Fish and Parks Department.

Tentatively, the committee adopted a penalty point system for all violations and provided that when 18 or more points accumulate against any license within a five-year period it can be suspended for three years.

Penalty points in the program are:

Three points—hunting or fishing without permission of the property owner; hunting before or after hours; leaving a fishing pole unattended; failure to tag game; fishing with more than one pole.

Four points—hunting with an illegal weapon; fishing with bait or lures in fly water only, or fishing with bait in waters restricted to flies or artificial lures.

Six points — hunting without having a duck stamp in possession; illegal possession of small game; illegal possession of fish; failure to leave evidence of sex on an animal killed; shooting from a public highway; hunting or fishing in a closed area; hunting during a closed season; waste of fish; littering.

Eight points — misuse of license.

Ten points—altering a license; "chumming" to attract fish; fishing or hunting without a license in possession; waste of game meat; acting as a guide without a license; leaving a fire unattended; illegal possession of big game; use of unlawful devices such as lights and recorded calls in hunting or fishing; refusing to produce a license or permit for inspection.

Twelve points—use of an aircraft or motor vehicle in hunting.

Eighteen points—purchase of a license with a false statement; causing a forest fire.

Licenses also could be suspended for anyone hunting while under the influence of liquor or drugs, or hunting in a careless or reckless manner, or for carrying or possessing firearms, except a pistol or revolver, in or on any motor vehicle unless it is unloaded in both the chamber and the magazine.

The committee chairman, Rep. Carl Gustafsn, R-Denver, said there probably will be some re-working of the provisions when the committee meets Nov. 25, then the bill will be sent to the legislature in January for action.

The bill makes it a felony, punishable by up to three years in prison, to willfully destroy wild game and provides that stealing another hunter's game can be a felony or misdemeanor depending upon the value.

It sets the minimum value of game as $300 for each elk, $100 for each deer; $200 for each antelope; $1,000 for each mountain sheep or mountain goat; $750 for each buffalo or bison; $25 for each beaver; $100 for each bear; $200 for each mountain lion; $25 for each game bird. Each fish has a minimum value of $5 under the bill and any other wildlife has a minimum value of $5.

The valuations are approximately double those now in effect.

Game, Fish and Parks Director Harry Woodward said the department now uses a somewhat different penalty point system adopted by the Game, Fish and Parks Commission.

Train Robber Taken To Court in England

LINSLADE, England (AP) — Unprecedented security precautions barred all spectators as Bruce Reynolds was brought into a tiny village courtroom Saturday for a five-minute hearing on charges of participating in Britain's Great Train Robbery.

Police with dogs surrounded the 37-year-old handcuffed defendant widely considered as the mastermind and leader of a gang that held up a train five years ago and escaped with more than $7 million. Only about $1 million of the loot has been found.

Reynolds, arrested Friday by Scotland Yard detective Tommy Butler, looked straight ahead during the hearing. He was ordered held in custody until another appearance set for Nov. 18.

This is standard British criminal practice. The police must produce their suspect in open court within two hours after charging him. For each working week they want to hold him for investigation, they have to bring him back before the magistrates to ask permission. The accused need not say anything, and Reynolds didn't.

Humphrey Entitled To Full Pension

WASHINGTON (AP) —Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will be entitled to full pension of $19,450 under the congressional retirement plan when he leaves office Jan. 20.

Senate disbursing officials do not disclose pension entitlements but Humphrey's can be figured from the plan's formula: 2½ per cent times his 20 years service times the $38,900 salary averaged for his final five years in office.

Humphrey is entitled to full pension because he served 20 years, 16 as a senator and four as vice president, and is over 50. An aide confirmed Friday he has participated in the retirement plan.

The vice president has not announced future plans but University of Minnesota President Malcolm Moos told his board of regents Friday the school is interested in having Humphrey as a political science professor.

Train Robber Taken To Court in England

LINSLADE, England (AP) — Unprecedented security precautions barred all spectators as Bruce Reynolds was brought into a tiny village courtroom Saturday for a five-minute hearing on charges of participating in Britain's Great Train Robbery.

Police with dogs surrounded the 37-year-old handcuffed defendant widely considered as the mastermind and leader of a gang that held up a train five years ago and escaped with more than $7 million. Only about $1 million of the loot has been found.

Reynolds, arrested Friday by Scotland Yard detective Tommy Butler, looked straight ahead during the hearing. He was ordered held in custody until another appearance set for Nov. 18.

This is standard British criminal practice. The police must produce their suspect in open court within two hours after charging him. For each working week they want to hold him for investigation, they have to bring him back before the magistrates to ask permission. The accused need not say anything, and Reynolds didn't.

Humphrey Entitled To Full Pension

WASHINGTON (AP) —Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will be entitled to full pension of $19,450 under the congressional retirement plan when he leaves office Jan. 20.

Senate disbursing officials do not disclose pension entitlements but Humphrey's can be figured from the plan's formula: 2½ per cent times his 20 years service times the $38,900 salary averaged for his final five years in office.

Humphrey is entitled to full pension because he served 20 years, 16 as a senator and four as vice president, and is over 50. An aide confirmed Friday he has participated in the retirement plan.

The vice president has not announced future plans but University of Minnesota President Malcolm Moos told his board of regents Friday the school is interested in having Humphrey as a political science professor.

Pittsburgh Minister Guest Leader for Fall Assembly

The Rev. Lewis R. Bigler, an ordained United Presbyterian minister from Pittsburgh, Pa., will serve as guest leader at the Fall Assembly of the Pikes Peak Council of Churches, Monday, on the fifth floor of the YWCA.

The program begins at noon with a luncheon meeting of the executive board. At 2 p.m., clergy and lay delegates and visitors will convene for study on the theme "Communications."

Bigler will present the introduction speech "Communication Dimensions", followed by a Create-In, in which each participant will be challenged to respond creatively to a given problem and develop it individually.

Participants will then break into 13 committees and will develop the best idea from the Create-In and relate it to the Council committee's work. This will be followed by a feedback of ideas to the general group.

Women of the Stewardess Board of Payne Chapel AME, headed by Mrs. L. C. Smith, will serve the luncheon and the dinner.

REV. LEWIS R. BIGLER

Bigler will speak at the 6:30 p.m. dinner on "Tribal Drums and Timid Giants," an examination of the various cultic factors forced on us in our daily lives.

Monday's program has been a development of the Ecumenical Relations Committee of the Council, chaired by the Rev. Douglas M. Williams. Members of the committee assisting with the decoration and registration are Mrs. Tom Peace, Mrs. Fred Wherle, Maj. and Mrs. John Ahearne, Mrs. Leroy Thomas, Edward Carrigan and Carl Sperry.

Reservations for the luncheon or dinner should be made by calling the office of the Council of Churches.

At 7:30 p.m., Sunday, Bigler will be featured in the service in the Assembly Room of the First United Methodist Church. Tuesday evening he will meet with the Rev. Fred Smoot, adult host of The Place, the Rev. Paul R. Peel, standby adult host of The Place, and adult advisors and teen-agers who make up the group working on the radio program.

Boy Scouts Schedule 'Aid-O-Ree'

The Rampart District of Boy Scouts will conduct a district First Aid-O-Ree at 7 p.m. in the East Junior High gymnasium, Nov. 15. Participating patrols will be confronted with stimulated First Aid problems and will be graded on diagnosis and treatment of the victim.

Judges for the contest are being provided by Ft. Carson, the Aerospace Defense Command, and the U. S. Air Force Academy.

George O'Connor, Rampart District Health and Safety Chairman of the Pikes Peak Council Boy Scouts of America announced that the First Aid-O-Ree is a culmination of an intensive first Aid training program. Contests have been held to determine those patrols best qualified in First Aid to act as representatives in the district contest.

Mrs. Marjorie Baker Died Here Nov. 3

Mrs. Marjorie Sperry Baker, 633 E. Boulder St., died Nov. 3 at a local hospital after a short illness. She was born in Colorado Springs Nov. 27, 1890 and spent all but a few years of her life in this city.

She was the daughter of Fred A. Sperry, a pioneer building contractor and paint dealer.

Mrs. Baker was an accomplished musician, serving for many years as organist at the old Second Congregational Church.

Her daughter, Lenore, died in early childhood. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Bessie Perazzo of Reno, Nev., a niece, Mrs. Eloise Parker, Santa Clara, Calif., a nephew, Frederick J. Perazzo, Las Vegas, Nev., and two grand nieces, four grand nephews and two great grand neices.

Following cremation the ashes were interred in the family lot in Evergreen Cemetery. Services were private.

Ronald Lee Mooney Rites Set Tuesday

Funeral services for Ronald Lee Mooney, 31, 719 S. Sierra Madre St., will be 1 p. m. Tuesday in the Swan Mortuary with Rev. Merle E. Headding officiating. Burial will follow in Fairview Cemetery.

Pallbearers will be John R Steffenson, Robert Chastine, William Wood, Eldon Steffenson, Virgil Fox and Bill Williams.

Mr. Mooney died Nov. 7. He was born June 24, 1937 and was a lifetime resident of Colorado Springs. He attended local schools, was employed by Aircraft Maintenance and was a member of the Pillar of Fire Church.

Survivors include his father, Marion Mooney, Colorado Springs; step-mother, Mrs. Lorna Paschal, Denver; two sisters, Mrs. Donna Acklam, Racine, Wis.; and Mrs. Shirle Steffenson, Penrose, as well as four uncles, eight aunts and several cousins, nieces and nephews.

Dallas L. Baldridge Died Here on Friday

Dallas L. Baldridge, 68, 1932 S. Prospect St., died Friday at his home. Funeral services will be noon Tuesday in the Law Mortuary with Rev. Earl Crowe officiating followed by burial in Evergreen Cemetery.

Mr. Baldridge was born Jan. 8, 1900 in Highland, Kan. and had been a local resident for 25 years. He was a retired clerk who had worked for the Santa Fe Railroad.

Mr. Baldridge had attended schools in La Junta and was married in 1948 in Hiawatha, Kan. He was a member of the Retired Railroad Association and the Historical Society of the Pikes Peak Region.

Survivors include his widow, Florence Baldridge, Colorado Springs; one sister, Mrs. Agnes Kenley, Pueblo; a step-daughter and a step-son, Mrs. Marie Brown and Dennis Wilder, both of Colorado Springs; one stepson, Melvin Wilder, Hayward, Calif., as well as 10 grandchildren, several nieces and nephews.

101,000 Christmas Seal Sheets Now in the Mail

Approximately 101,000 sheets of 1968 Christmas Seals have been put in the mail for residents of El Paso, Teller, Elbert, Park and Fremont Counties as the El Paso County and Central Colorado Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association opens its 1968 campaign.

The "Partridge In A Pear Tree" design on the 1968 Christmas Seal represents a theme of "Peace and Friendship." The design was created by William Eisele, a creative art director with a Columbus, Ohio, advertising agency.

Each sheet contains 25 four-unit designs showing a brown and white partridge, a golden pear and the green leaves of a pear tree. The units are printed on alternating blue and yellow backgrounds. The artist used a quail, a member of the partridge family, as the central figure for his design.

The task of preparing the approximately 37,000 individual mailings of the 1968 Christmas Seals was contributed by Colorado Springs area individuals and women's groups.

Volunteering their time to prepare the mailing were the Army Air Defense Command Officers Wives Club, Ft. Carson Officers Wives Club, Ent Officers Wives Club, Retired Officers Wives Club, V.F.W. Auxiliary 101, Colorado Springs Country Club Ladies and Beta Sigma Phi, City Council.

Other volunteers were The Femmes, 40 and 8; Epsilon Sigma Alpha, Beta Lambda Chapter; La Sertoma, Pikes Peak; La Sertoma, Centennial; Handy Homemakers Extension Club; National Secretaries Assn. and many individuals from the Colorado Springs area.

Contributions for the 1968 Christmas Seals, as in the past, will be used in the fight against respiratory diseases, which rate next to heart trouble as the nation's greatest crippler and death dealer, the association pointed out.

The seal contributions provide funds for research, for tests to detect these respiratory diseases in their early stages and for health education.

Although there has been a decline in the number of deaths from communicable diseases such as tuberculosis between 1962 and the present, this decline has been overshadowed by the marked rise in deaths due to emphysema and chronic bronichits, the association noted.

District 11 Residents Are Invited to Visit Schools

Superintendent Thomas B. Doherty has issued a special invitation to all School District 11 residents and "especially those who rarely enter a school building except to cast a vote in an election" to visit classrooms in any of the 41 Colorado Springs Public Schools during American Education today through Saturday.

Doherty said most people quite naturally tend to think of schools as they looked when they were pupils. "Even the most recent high school graduates, however, will find many changes have taken place since they were students.

"The most obvious changes, according to the superintendent, are in facilities. The new schools don't look like the older ones, and even these schools have undergone many changes with the addition of all purpose rooms and resource centers."

The new buildings and facilities are all designed to accommodate educational innovations that may not be quite so obvious, he added. "People should plan to spend some time in the classrooms observing and talking with teachers and principals about such things as team teaching, programmed learning, and nongraded organization."

The first observance of American Educatin Week was in 1921 and was co-sponsored by the then recently organized American Legion and the National Education Association. In 1922 the Bureau of Education, now the U. S. Office of Education, became a national sponsor, as did the National Congress of Parents and Teachers in 1938.

During World War I large numbers of men were rejected for military service because they were illiterate or physically unfit. Disclosure of these facts led the American Legion and the NEA to organize the American Education Week observance. President Warren G. Harding in 1921 and every President since have issued an annual proclamation urging Americans to visit their schools.

Doherty pointed out that schools are still concerned with the problems of turning out literate, physically fit young people, but they are also deeply involved in the serious social problems that now confront all Americans. "An informed citizenry with an intelligent concern for improving the schools is indispensable if the schools are to meet the demands placed on them."

Navigators Directors Conference Underway

The Navigators will hold a Regional Directors Conference today through Nov. 26 at Glen Eyrie here, international headquarters of The Navigators Chief topic for study will be the recent expansion of Navigator work.

Lorne C. Sanny, president, describes it as "the most significant single conference in Navigator history." Waldron Scott, Pacific Areas director, comes to the conference from Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia; Douglas Sparks, director of the work in Europe, the Middle East and Africa, arrives from London. The regional directors who report to them will come from other locations throughout the world.

Director of North America Navigator ministries, R. D. Sargent of Colorado Springs, and regional directors from this hemisphere will also join Sanny and his headquarters men for the sessions.

The formal opening of the conference will be a dinner at the Air Force Academy Officers Club today.

On Saturday several Navigator Pacific Areas representatives report on their work to Navigator contacts in the region at a rally at Glen Eyrie. Gene Tabor, Philippines director; Joe Simmons, New Zealand Australia director; Robert Boardman, director for Japan-Korea and Scott will be on hand.

Refreshment booths in the dining rooms will feature food specialties and displays of Pacific Areas countries.

An unusual feature of this Regional Directors Conference will be a two-day clinic on physical fitness Nov. 22-24 led by physical fitness expert Dr. Pondorf from the University of Illinois. Dr. Pondorf will lecture, give tests and map out physical fitness programs for staff members.

The 31 Navigator leaders will spend the bulk of the 16-day conference evaluating progress and objectives and setting guidelines for a more detailed strategy of ministry expansion around the world.

Expansion is not new to The Navigators, a Christian organization which started in 1933 in California and now ministers throughout the United Sttaes and in 21 other countries.

The Navigators "seek to spread the Gospel of Jesus Christ by training Christian laymen to be disciples who can teach others and by giving them practical, personal training in living balanced, effective Christian lives."

State Easter Seal Society Helped 7,424 Handicapped

The Colorado Easter Seal Society provided rehabilitation services to a record number of 7,424 handicapped persons in Colorado duing the past year, it reported this week.

This is a 31 percent increase over 1967, the report stated, noting also "an improvement the quality and comprehensiveness" of its rehabilitation services. The voluntary health organization operates seven Easter Seal centers and two Easter Seal camps in the state.

The statewide group carried out its activities on total budget expenditures during the year of $700,648. The 31 percent increase in rehabilitation services was carried out with a 13 percent higher budget, the report said. The Society's income is derived mainly from voluntary contributions.

The report also highlighted new plans for a $500,000 rebuilding and expansion program to double the present capacity of its camping program for crippled children. It reported expansion of its Rocky Mountain Rehabilitation Center here and proposed construction of new facilities at its High Plains Rehabilitation Center in Sterling.

These capital improvements are being financed by special gifts—not with donations to the annual Easter Seal appeal, the report said.

The Society's facilities are available to all crippled children and adults in Colorado, whatever the cause of their disability.

Commenting on its increase in services, the report said the Scoiety served twice as many handicapped persons this year than it did just five years ago. Its increase in income this year over 1963 was listed at 46 per cent.

The Easter Seal Society works with, but does not duplicate the services of other private or public agencies in rehabilitating the handicapped. The Society is governed by a 60-member House of Delegates representing every area of Colorado, and by a Board of Directors of twenty-five persons from throughout the State.

Its other rehabilitation facilities include the Easter Seal Therapy Center in Lakewood, Gateway Easter Seal Center in Fort Collins, Hilltop House Easter Seal Center in Grand Junction, Sewall Easter Seal Rehabilitation Center in Denver and the Pueblo County Society for Crippled Children and Adults. Camping programs are Easter Seal Handicamp near Idaho Springs and Grand Mesa Easter Seal Camp near Mesa.

I Remember

By CHARLES S. DUDLEY

Now that politics is all the go it is perhaps a time that I may be pardoned by turning back to the time when Charles Evans Hughes was a candidate for president. He came to Pasadena, where I was correspondent for the Los Angeles Examiner, and went from there to Long Beach. The city editor of the Examiner phoned me that I was to join the party in Pasadena and go on with it to Long Beach and Los Angeles. A reporter on the Pasadena paper said he would drive me.

The party was led by the Los Angeles chief of police, and the speed so great we could not keep up with the motorcade. As it was we were breaking the speed limit all the way and afraid we would be picked up and taken before a Democratic justice of the peace for speeding, and he would hold us until the Long Beach show was over. This did not happen, but we were late in reaching Long Beach and a reception was in progress at a hotel. We were told to go upstairs to a certain room, where I suppose refreshments were being served, and I started for the elevator. Standing near the elevator door was a girl who once lived next door to me in Denver. She told me she was married and that two boys who were with her were her children. Her husband she said was a member of the reception committee and was upstairs. She told me to introduce myself to him there.

But I lost all interest in the husband or Hughes. There was so much to say to the girl I had known that I was still talking to her when the party came down and was ready to leave. Again we were left far behind in the procession. But we caught up with the party at a college near Los Angeles. Mr. Hughes was being shown some of the exhibits in the college museum. There was a huge skeleton of a mastadon there and I asked Hughes if he would pose for a picture by me standing underneath this greatest emblem of the Republican Party. He laughingly complied with my request. It will be remembered what a large, bearded man he was. The picture was great and was widely published.

I went to the Examiner office in Los Angeles to leave the picture and pick up some film holders. Rather, I should say glass plate holders. I sent my pictures in from Pasadena on glass plates; because the Examiner often wished to make enlargements quickly from wet plates. I could not find the plate holders in the photographers' darkroom and in my search pulled open a drawer that should have been pulled out only in the dark. There was in it a pile of unexposed photograph paper of large size and about three inches high.

I was stunned. I feared I had spoiled all of that paper. I did not know whether to confess what I had done, or to run. But when a photographer returned from a parade he had been covering and was about to turn out the lights and reach for some of the enlarging paper I told him what I had done. He said it did not matter at all, as only the top sheet or so could have been spoiled. He pulled several sheets out in the dark and began printing his pictures all right from the next sheet.

But it was about that picture I had taken that I started out to write. Wilson beat Hughes for the presidency. But I was told no one had beaten that picture I had taken.

Speech Students To Address Area Service Clubs

Advanced speech students from Palmer, Wasson, and Mitchell High Schools are scheduled to speak at meetings of 16 service clubs during American Education Week, today through Saturday.

They will speak on some aspect of education and will urge service club members to visit the schools during the 48th annual observance of American Education Week. Nationally, the observance is sponsored by the American Legion, National Congress of Parents and Teachers, National Education Association, and the U. S. Office of Education.

Donald W. Bauman Completes Training

Seaman Recruit Donald W. Bauman, USN, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick N. Bauman of 3939 Azalea St., is undergoing nine weeks of basic training at the San Diego, Calif. Naval Training Center.

He is receiving instructions in Naval customs, courtesies and organization, ordnance and gunnery, seamanship, damage control, first aid, swimming and survival, shipboard drills and sentry duty.

His Navy Classification tests will determine whether he will be assigned to a school, shore station or ship after his graduation.

CU Pianists to Present Forum

Three faculty pianists from the University of Colorado will conduct a free public piano forum Nov. 22, at the CU Colorado Springs Center.

The forum, one in a series held in the state this year, is designed for private piano teachers in southern Colorado and it is open to any interested person.

Waltz will open the program at 9:30 a.m. with a talk entitled "Doing What Comes Naturally." At 10:45 a.m. Bull will discuss "Why Do You Teach Paino?"

Parmelee will give a lecture-demonstration at 1:15 p.m. on "New Teaching and Recital Pieces for Piano." A question-answer period will follow the program.

Twnty-minute lesson sessions for individual piano pupils will start at 3 p.m. and teachers have been asked to have their pupils at the center at that time.

Donald W. Bauman Completes Training

Seaman Recruit Donald W. Bauman, USN, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick N. Bauman of 3939 Azalea St., is undergoing nine weeks of basic training at the San Diego, Calif. Naval Training Center.

He is receiving instructions in Naval customs, courtesies and organization, ordnance and gunnery, seamanship, damage control, first aid, swimming and survival, shipboard drills and sentry duty.

His Navy Classification tests will determine whether he will be assigned to a school, shore station or ship after his graduation.

CU Pianists to Present Forum

Three faculty pianists from the University of Colorado will conduct a free public piano forum Nov. 22, at the CU Colorado Springs Center.

The forum, one in a series held in the state this year, is designed for private piano teachers in southern Colorado and it is open to any interested person.

Waltz will open the program at 9:30 a.m. with a talk entitled "Doing What Comes Naturally." At 10:45 a.m. Bull will discuss "Why Do You Teach Paino?"

Parmelee will give a lecture-demonstration at 1:15 p.m. on "New Teaching and Recital Pieces for Piano." A question-answer period will follow the program.

Twnty-minute lesson sessions for individual piano pupils will start at 3 p.m. and teachers have been asked to have their pupils at the center at that time.

FEDERAL TAX TIPS

By AUGUST W. EICKMEYER
Colorado Springs Representative of the District Director Internal Revenue Service

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U. S. Internal Revenue Serive and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q—What's this business about an amnesty period for registering firearms? I didn't know firearms had to be registered with IRS?

A—Certain ganster-type weapons such as machine guns, sawed-off shotuns, short barrelled rifles and silencers have been required to be registered with IRS since 1934 when the National Firearms Act was passed.

The amnesty period from Nov. 2 to Dec. 1 permits anyone who owns a gangster-type weapon and has violated the law by not registering it to register it without penalty during the 30-day amnesty period. Grenades, bombs, land mines and other destructive devices should also be registered during this period.

The Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division of IRS has the responsibility for administering the gun control laws and can give you the details on registering these weapons. Your local IRS office can give you the address of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax office nearest you.

Q—My return went through OK this year and I got my refund a month or so later. Is it true I can still be audited and have to pay additional tax?

A—Yes. IRS generally has three years from the due date of a return to make whatever checks might be necessary to assure that income and expense items are accurately reported and to assess additional taxes. For this reason it is advisable to keep tax records for at least three years.

It usually takes about five to six weeks to process a return calling for a refund. In that time it is only psosible to make sure the return is complete, the arithmetic is accurate and that the taxpayer is not filing a duplicate refund claim or has an outstanding tax liability.

Q—Is the cost of an out-of-state hunting license deductible?

A—No, hunting licenses are not deductible.

Q—On a job overseas will I have to pay foreign income tax and ours too?

A—It depends on where you work and the circumstances of your employment. The U. S. has agreements with many countries to ease the problem of double taxation. A U. S. citizen may also, in many cases, be able to take a credit or a deduction on his U. S income tax return for the foreign income taxes he pays.

Under certain conditions all or part of the income earned abroad may be exempt from Federal taxation. For details on this send a post card to your District Director requesting Publication 54, "Tax Guide for U. S. Citizens Abroad."

Q—We purchased tickets to a football game sponsored by a charity group. Can we deduct the cost of the tickets as a charitable contribution?

A—A portion of the ticket price may be deductible. To determine what this might be, find out what the cost of your seats would be at a comparable football game. The difference between the regular cost and the price you paid may be taken as a charitable contribution.

To make it easier for taxpayers to deduct the proper amount in these situations, the sponsors usually will list the deductible amount right on the ticket.

Q—I'm a free lance writer and one of the magazines to which I have sold a story wants my Social Security number. Have they a right to ask for it?

A—Yes, payments to self-employed persons need to be identified by the Social Security number of the recipient when they amount to $600 or more. These are reported to IRS on Form 1099 just as a bank reports interest payments to us.

Q—My baby is due the end of the month. When can my husband start taking another withholding exemption?

A—As soon as the child is born. The full $600 exemption for a dependent may be taken on your tax return for a child born any time before the end of the year.

Q—My company paid the plane fares and hotel bills for my wife and me when we went to look over the city I'm being transferred to. However, I noticed that taxes were deducted from the reimbursement. Why was that?

A—The amount you received is classified as wages subject to withholding and not a reimbursement for deductible moving expenses. When you actually move to the new location, the unreimbursed cost of transporting you, your family and your household goods may well be a deductible moving expense. The cost of meals and lodging while traveling to your new home may also be deductible. For further details, ask your IRS district offce for Document 5014, Employees' Expenses, Educational Expenses.

The last time two Constitutional amendments were proclaimed in the same year was in 1933, when the 20th and 21st amendments became effective.

Police Slate Public Auction

The Colorado Springs police department will hold a public auction starting at 9:30 a. m. Nov. 16 in the main arena of the City Auditorium to sell about 70 bicycles and other material.

Officer George Hall, police department custodian, said the bicycles have reached policy by being lost, stolen or abandoned and never reclaimed.

Hall said the bicycles can be inspected between 1 and 4 p. m. on the afternoons of Nov. 11, 12, 13 and 14 in order that some might be returned to the rightful owners before they are sold.

Those wanting to inspect the bicycles should check first at the information desk of the police building. Proceeds from the auction will go into the police pension fund.

Lt. Brian S. Dreith Stationed Near Pleiku

There is one Army badge that only combat infantrymen can wear—The Combat Infantryman Badge. It was awarded to 1st Lt. Brian S. Dreith near Pleiku, Vietnam.

Lt. Dreith, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Dreith, 2311 Flintridge Drive, is assigned to the 4th Infantry Division.

The CIB has been awarded since late in World War II for sustained ground contact against an enemy. It is not awarded to members of other combat arms, such as artillery, armor or engineers.

The first Democratic Convention was held in 1832 in Baltimore.

Astrological Forecast

MONDAY'S FORECAST

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is an excellent day for putting into effect or in first thinking out a plan of action that can reap rich rewards for you in almost any direction that you wish. So be up early, confer with yourself and the most important persons with whom you have any contact whatever and get a new perspective on life.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Your creativity is at its peak today and can get others to do your bidding where some personal aims are concerned. Doing whatever will make those you love happy is wise. Have you tried going along with their ideas lately?

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Follow through with what kin want you to do though it goes against your grain, since more security and harmony will result. Dig into that new plan you have in mind. Success can be increased appreciably.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Talk over with partners how to get routines working more successfully via a more modern approach. Be more appreciative of those who supply whatever is most valuable to you. Don't take them so much for granted.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get right into those duties that need more common-sense approach. Be very practical in all that you do. Attend to all of your accounts and be sure to make the collections you should. Have fun tonight, even at home, which would be best.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Spend some time today socially and improve your relationships with those you like. Discuss mutual ideas. Something very worthwhile could come from this. Where's your sense of humor? Use it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You desire some light recreation which is fine provided you get away from those who are your usual most serious-minded allies. Talk over with experts just how to get your life operating more ideally. Be ethical.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A pal who is generous and noble of spirit can give you the right answers now to certain problems you have. Follow through with his, or her wishes later. Get into the social with vim and also learn a great deal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Your finest contact has fine ideas to proffer how to improve your position in both civic and career work, so listen carefully. Find out what close ties desire of you and then be sure to back them. Show you are loyal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Many fine ideas come to you now so get busy doing research work on them so they become productive. Those new contacts will cooperate with you in becoming more successful in the days ahead. Be dynamic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Quickly get into those affairs that need your personal touch right now and that require precision and specialization. After you put in a good day's work, be concerned with the romantic. Happiness is yours for the taking.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your most intellectual pals are more than glad to carry on with what you desire, if you will include them in your plans monetarily. You can come to a very fine understanding with others now. Be alive, alert.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do your work so that you make a fine impression on higher-ups. Then do whatever will help you to handle those persons who mean much to you. Improve your health if you want to get that important work done well. Be smart.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY. . . he or she will be one of those amazing young people who finds it easy to understand projects and ideas to their highest degree. There is much self-confidence here. Education should be slanted along lines that have much imagination and scope. A place in big government would be very fine here. Teach diplomacy.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Fair Ass'n to Hold Two Day Meet in Pueblo

"Why Have a Fair" and "Who is the Winner" are among the topics for discussion at the organizational meeting of the new Colorado association of fairs and shows to be held in Pueblo next Friday and Saturday.

Following registration at 10 a.m. in the 4-H auditorium, Colorado state fairgrounds, and the welcome by Bob Scarffe of the Pueblo Chamber of Commerce, Sam Jones, Jr., president o fthe state fair commission will answer the question, "Why Have a Fair." Tom Knight, assistant state fair manager, will be general chairman for the two day event.

The afternoon program will lead off with "The Art of Promotion," and a discussion on what fair boards and show committees need to know about state regulations. The afternoon sessions will end with a question and answer period and a chuckwagon barbecue beef dinner.

Morning sessions on Saturday, Nov. 16 will lead off with Dr. C. S. Lumley, assistant executive secretary of the Colorado racing commission speaking on how to run a race meet. Edward L. Reilly of Denver will then discuss the pros and cons of Sunday racing.

They will be followed by Bill Culbertson of CSU speaking on standardization of horse show rules and events. At 11 a.m. Bill Kittle, regional fairs and shows representative for Pepsi-Cola Co. will address the group. His subject will be "Is Your Show Work or Fun?"

Primary objectives of the Colorado association of fairs and shows will be the exchange of ideas, standardization of rules and procedures, coordination of dates, and assistance for local boards and committees in long range planning. The meeting is open to all interested persons and groups.

Manitou Chamber Slates Annual Meet

The Manitou Springs Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual dinner at 7 p. m. Friday. The affair will be held at the Masonic Temple, 445 El Paso Blvd. All interested persons may contact the Manitou Chamber office for further information.

A program will include introduction of new board members and officers.

Reservations for the yearly event must be in by Tuesday.

Baha'i Community Here Observes Birth of Founder

The Baha'i Community of the Pikes Peak Region will observe the 151st Anniversary of the birth of Baha'u'llah, Prophet-Founder of the Baha'i Faith Tuesday.

Dr. Iraj Pootschi of Fort Collins and Iran, visiting professor of Agronomy at Colorado State University, will speak on "Baha'u'llah Divine Architect of Human Rights," at the Security Savings and Loan Building, Platte Avenue at Union, at 8 p.m.

A native of Iran, Dr. Poostachi received his education in England and Sweden receiving his Doctorate from Cornell in 1959. After a year of research for the University of California and the United States Department of Agronomy, he went to Iran and founded the experimental station of the Department of Agronomy of the College of Agriculture and the Department of National development of the University of Iran. This Department educated Iranians at the BS level to lead the development of rural Iran.

One of his contributions was the establishment of the Poostchi eye clinic, hospital and research center, a non-profit establishment dedicated by his father to the treatment of eye diseases.

Dr. Poostchi has served as director of this establishment since its founding. His 13 years of college and graduate work in Europe and America enabled Dr. Poostchi to visit many countries where, as a Baha'i' Speaker, he expounded the establishment of "a lasting peace for which humanity has suffered so much in so short a time in our living memory."

Jon Turner of the Suburban Colorado Springs Community of Baha'is said the theme of this year's observance is "Baha'u'llah—Divine Architect of Human Rights."

Baha'u'llah called for the elimination of all prejudices that separate men and are the primary causes of discord and war. He specifically pointed to religious, racial, political, economic and patriotic prejudices.

Over 100 years ago in messages to the leaders and peoples of the world Baha'u'llah called for a world-wide program "to extend the range of human inventions and technical development, to increase the productivity of mankind, to exterminate disease, to extend scientific research, to raise standards of health, to exploit the unused and unsuspected resources of the planet, to prolong human life and to uplift mankind intellectually, morally, and spiritually."

Central to the teachings of Baha'u'llah is a belief in the oneness of mankind. Baha'u'llah wrote, "Close your eyes to racial differences and welcome all with light of onenness . . . Ye are the fruits of one tree and the leaves of one branch." Baha'is see the teachings of Baha'u'llah as affirming that human rights are God-given rights.

Baha'u'llah, Whose name means "the Glory of God," was born in Tihran, Iran (then Persia), Nov. 12, 1817. He is considered by Baha'is as "the Bearer of God's latest revelation and as the power from God to initiate a new age of world peace and world unity." For His Teachings, Baha'u'llah was exiled from His homeland and finally imprisoned in the Holy Land in the then Turkish penal colony of Akka (across the bay from Haifa). His tomb, a Bah'ia shirne, is located at Bahji (near Haifa). Not too distant on Mt. Carmel is the World Center of the Baha'i' Faith which today has spread to 311 countries and territories of the world. The U.S. headquarters of the Faith is at the site of the world-famous Baha'i House of Worship in Wilmette, Ill. just north of Chicago.

PLAY GIRL OF THE YEAR — Students at the Air Force Academy prep school have selected Sandy Cook, 22, hostess and dancer at the Play Girl Club in Denver as their "Play Girl of the Year." Cadet candidate Robert L. Karras, 19, of Denver, made the announcement. Miss Cook is the first girl in the academy's history to dine in the mess hall with the men. The academy prep school is for men "who exhibit excellent leadership qualities," and is open to men in all branches of the service. Miss Cook, sadly, doesn't qualify under those requirements.

Police Slate Public Auction

The Colorado Springs police department will hold a public auction starting at 9:30 a. m. Nov. 16 in the main arena of the City Auditorium to sell about 70 bicycles and other material.

Officer George Hall, police department custodian, said the bicycles have reached policy by being lost, stolen or abandoned and never reclaimed.

Hall said the bicycles can be inspected between 1 and 4 p. m. on the afternoons of Nov. 11, 12, 13 and 14 in order that some might be returned to the rightful owners before they are sold.

Those wanting to inspect the bicycles should check first at the information desk of the police building. Proceeds from the auction will go into the police pension fund.

Lt. Brian S. Dreith Stationed Near Pleiku

There is one Army badge that only combat infantrymen can wear—The Combat Infantryman Badge. It was awarded to 1st Lt. Brian S. Dreith near Pleiku, Vietnam.

Lt. Dreith, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. John P. Dreith, 2311 Flintridge Drive, is assigned to the 4th Infantry Division.

The CIB has been awarded since late in World War II for sustained ground contact against an enemy. It is not awarded to members of other combat arms, such as artillery, armor or engineers.

The first Democratic Convention was held in 1832 in Baltimore.

Astrological Forecast

Carroll Righter

By Carroll Righter

MONDAY'S FORECAST

GENERAL TENDENCIES: This is an excellent day for putting into effect or in first thinking out a plan of action that can reap rich rewards for you in almost any direction that you wish. So be up early, confer with yourself and the most important persons with whom you have any contact whatever and get a new perspective on life.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Your creativity is at its peak today and can get others to do your bidding where some personal aims are concerned. Doing whatever will make those you love happy is wise. Have you tried going along with their ideas lately?

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Follow through with what kin want you to do though it goes against your grain, since more security and harmony will result. Dig into that new plan you have in mind. Success can be increased appreciably.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Talk over with partners how to get routines working more successfully via a more modern approach. Be more appreciative of those who supply whatever is most valuable to you. Don't take them so much for granted.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get right into those duties that need more common-sense approach. Be very practical in all that you do. Attend to all of your accounts and be sure to make the collections you should. Have fun tonight, even at home, which would be best.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Spend some time today socially and improve your relationships with those you like. Discuss mutual ideas. Something very worthwhile could come from this. Where's your sense of humor? Use it.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You desire some light recreation which is fine provided you get away from those who are your usual most serious-minded allies. Talk over with experts just how to get your life operating more ideally. Be ethical.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A pal who is generous and noble of spirit can give you the right answers now to certain problems you have. Follow through with his, or her wishes later. Get into the social with vim and also learn a great deal.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Your finest contact has fine ideas to proffer how to improve your position in both civic and career work, so listen carefully. Find out what close ties desire of you and then be sure to back them. Show you are loyal.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Many fine ideas come to you now so get busy doing research work on them so they become productive. Those new contacts will cooperate with you in becoming more successful in the days ahead. Be dynamic.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Quickly get into those affairs that need your personal touch right now and that require precision and specialization. After you put in a good day's work, be concerned with the romantic. Happiness is yours for the taking.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your most intellectual pals are more than glad to carry on with what you desire, if you will include them in your plans monetarily. You can come to a very fine understanding with others now. Be alive, alert.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Do your work so that you make a fine impression on higher-ups. Then do whatever will help you to handle those persons who mean much to you. Improve your health if you want to get that important work done well. Be smart.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY. . . he or she will be one of those amazing young people who finds it easy to understand projects and ideas to their highest degree. There is much self-confidence here. Education should be slanted along lines that have much imagination and scope. A place in big government would be very fine here. Teach diplomacy.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Fair Ass'n to Hold Two Day Meet in Pueblo

"Why Have a Fair" and "Who is the Winner" are among the topics for discussion at the organizational meeting of the new Colorado association of fairs and shows to be held in Pueblo next Friday and Saturday.

Following registration at 10 a.m. in the 4-H auditorium, Colorado state fairgrounds, and the welcome by Bob Scarffe of the Pueblo Chamber of Commerce, Sam Jones, Jr., president o fthe state fair commission will answer the question, "Why Have a Fair." Tom Knight, assistant state fair manager, will be general chairman for the two day event.

The afternoon program will lead off with "The Art of Promotion," and a discussion on what fair boards and show committees need to know about state regulations. The afternoon sessions will end with a question and answer period and a chuckwagon barbecue beef dinner.

Morning sessions on Saturday, Nov. 16 will lead off with Dr. C. S. Lumley, assistant executive secretary of the Colorado racing commission speaking on how to run a race meet. Edward L. Reilly of Denver will then discuss the pros and cons of Sunday racing.

They will be followed by Bill Culbertson of CSU speaking on standardization of horse show rules and events. At 11 a.m. Bill Kittle, regional fairs and shows representative for Pepsi-Cola Co. will address the group. His subject will be "Is Your Show Work or Fun?"

Primary objectives of the Colorado association of fairs and shows will be the exchange of ideas, standardization of rules and procedures, coordination of dates, and assistance for local boards and committees in long range planning. The meeting is open to all interested persons and groups.

Manitou Chamber Slates Annual Meet

The Manitou Springs Chamber of Commerce will hold its annual dinner at 7 p. m. Friday. The affair will be held at the Masonic Temple, 445 El Paso Blvd. All interested persons may contact the Manitou Chamber office for further information.

A program will include introduction of new board members and officers.

Reservations for the yearly event must be in by Tuesday.

Baha'i Community Here Observes Birth of Founder

The Baha'i Community of the Pikes Peak Region will observe the 151st Anniversary of the birth of Baha'u'llah, Prophet-Founder of the Baha'i Faith Tuesday.

Dr. Iraj Pootschi of Fort Collins and Iran, visiting professor of Agronomy at Colorado State University, will speak on "Baha'u'llah Divine Architect of Human Rights," at the Security Savings and Loan Building, Platte Avenue at Union, at 8 p.m.

A native of Iran, Dr. Poostachi received his education in England and Sweden receiving his Doctorate from Cornell in 1959. After a year of research for the University of California and the United States Department of Agronomy, he went to Iran and founded the experimental station of the Department of Agronomy of the College of Agriculture and the Department of National development of the University of Iran. This Department educated Iranians at the BS level to lead the development of rural Iran.

One of his contributions was the establishment of the Poostchi eye clinic, hospital and research center, a non-profit establishment dedicated by his father to the treatment of eye diseases.

Dr. Poostchi has served as director of this establishment since its founding. His 13 years of college and graduate work in Europe and America enabled Dr. Poostchi to visit many countries where, as a Baha'i' Speaker, he expounded the establishment of "a lasting peace for which humanity has suffered so much in so short a time in our living memory."

Jon Turner of the Suburban Colorado Springs Community of Baha'is said the theme of this year's observance is "Baha'u'llah—Divine Architect of Human Rights."

Baha'u'llah called for the elimination of all prejudices that separate men and are the primary causes of discord and war. He specifically pointed to religious, racial, political, economic and patriotic prejudices.

Over 100 years ago in messages to the leaders and peoples of the world Baha'u'llah called for a world-wide program "to extend the range of human inventions and technical development, to increase the productivity of mankind, to exterminate disease, to extend scientific research, to raise standards of health, to exploit the unused and unsuspected resources of the planet, to prolong human life and to uplift mankind intellectually, morally, and spiritually."

Central to the teachings of Baha'u'llah is a belief in the oneness of mankind. Baha'u'llah wrote, "Close your eyes to racial differences and welcome all with light of onenness . . . Ye are the fruits of one tree and the leaves of one branch." Baha'is see the teachings of Baha'u'llah as affirming that human rights are God-given rights.

Baha'u'llah, Whose name means "the Glory of God," was born in Tihran, Iran (then Persia), Nov. 12, 1817. He is considered by Baha'is as "the Bearer of God's latest revelation and as the power from God to initiate a new age of world peace and world unity." Bids on Storage Building to Be Opened Nov. 22

Bids for an addition to the storage building behind the main police building will be opened at 3 p.m. Nov. 22 at the city purchasing office.

A second story is to be placed on the entire length of the storage building to give the police department additional storage space for bicycles and other matters.

The addition calls for separate rooms on either end of the second story, but the entire addition will be closed.

For one thing, the police department now has to store turned in bicycles and other miscellaneous matter at two different locations. Additional storage is also needed for evidence needed in prosecuting crime cases.

There was some talk earlier this year of adding a second story or a partial second story, on the police building itself, but this has been bypassed for at least a year.

Plans and specifications for the work are avavilable at the office of architect Carlisle B. Guy, 460 Holly Sugar Building.

Whitney Young Here for Urban League Meet Dec. 6

Whitney M. Young, Jr., New York City, executive director, National Urban League, will address the second annual meeting of the Urban League of the Pikes Peak Region Dec. 6 in the Palmer High School auditorium.

Recognized as a foremost national leader in the combined fields of civil rights and social work, Young was appointed to head the National Urban League in 1961, after serving as dean of the Atlanta University School of Social Work for seven years.

WHITNEY M. YOUNG JR.

This will be the second visit of Young to Colorado Springs during 1968. He was keynote speaker for the regional conference of YMCA here on April 20.

B. W. Campbell, local Urban League president, announced that the meeting will be open to the public without charge. This will be the first opportunity for the Springs general public to hear the noted civil rights leader in person.

"If you really want to hear it like it is in civil rights today," says John S. Holley, UL executive director, "you can't afford to miss Whitney Young."

Young was the subject of a cover story in Time magazine in August, 1967, and has been the subject of articles and interviews in several other national publications during the past year. He is the author of the book "To Be Equal" (McGraw-Hill, 1964) and writes a weekly newspaper column under the same title. His articles have appeared in a wide number of magazines and professional journals.

Young is past president of the National Conference on Social Welfare and is currently president of the National Association of Social Workers. He is a member of the President's Committee on Urban Housing and of several other national commissions and advisory groups.

The Paris Treaty of 1783, which formally recognized the United States as an independent nation ended the Revolutionary War in America.

O Boy. Now that we have got John Mitchell for commissioner a lot of us are going to feel Blue.

Right off the bat he is heading for Chicago, that toddling town. He wants to see how Daley builds his bridges. The other commishes was prison happy. I can see this one is going to be bridge happy.

Also, he says he has to see what kind of equipment they use. He don't want to use Chevey's. What he wants to use is Rolls-Royces! We can't have city employees riding around in Chevy equipment anymore. Let's see, what was his spiel during the campaign? — oh, yes, save the taxpayer's money. He's forgot it already. You might as well forget it too.

I am puttin in a request for Mitchell to go direct to the factory in England. He can get Rolls-Royce's right off the line there. It might take a year or two for him to get back. The way it looks, with him over there it would be cheaper for us over here. He could also get first-hand info on that London Bridge.

We could use a bridge like that in Help-Ah-So county to jump off of.

Colorado Notes Its 14th Hunting Death

He was identified as George Eugene Liller of Carbondale, Ill.

The State Patrol said the vehicle was driven by Robert A. Viner, 56, Perris, Calif., when it slipped and then rolled as it was going down a trail about 69 miles southwest of Meeker along Piceance Creek.

Viner was not injured.

Pennsylvania ranks first in production of pretzels.

Colorado Notes Its 14th Hunting Death

MEEKER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado's 14th hunting fatality was recorded Friday when a four-wheel drive vehicle overturned on a mountain trail and killed a 51-year-old Illinois man.

He was identified as George Eugene Liller of Carbondale, Ill.

The State Patrol said the vehicle was driven by Robert A. Viner, 56, Perris, Calif., when it slipped and then rolled as it was going down a trail about 69 miles southwest of Meeker along Piceance Creek.

Viner was not injured.

Pennsylvania ranks first in production of pretzels.

Dude, Guest Ranch Group Begins Annual Convention at Broadmoor

The Colorado Dude and Guest Ranch Association will hold its 35th Annual Convention at The Broadmoor today through Thursday.

Owners, operators and managers of the 47 active member ranches of the Association from all sections of the state converge on Colorado Springs and Denver each year for their annual business sessions, following their summer and their fall hunting seasons.

Basic theme of the sessions this year will be "Operation Profit." The majority of those ranches, which bring over 30,000 guests from all 50 states of the Union, and many foreign countries, to Colorado each year, operate only during the summer and fall seasons. Steady increase in operating costs, from food prices, wage and hour costs and regulations, to everything from horse-shoes to swimming pool construction costs, combined to set the theme for the 1968 meetings.

Special guests for the panel discussions on the basic theme will be State Sen. Harry A. Locke, State Rep. Ronald H. Strahle, past president W. P. "Wad" Hinman and executive secretary Dave Rice of the Colorado Cattlemen's Association.

Hinman is the newly elected state representative from House District 62. Dick Carleton, executive secretary of the Colorado-Wyoming Restaurant Association and Sen. Fay DeBerard will keynote the convention deliberations in a luncheon talk on Monday.

Traditionally, the Association kicks off its Annual Convention with a cocktail-buffet honoring its over 300 associate members throughout the state. This affair is scheduled tonight.

Transportation companies serving Colorado, including the railroads, bus lines and airlines, have contributed immeasurably to the promotion of Dude and Guest Ranches in the state. During 1968 the Airlines pioneered in the development and promotion of an all-expense package tour to the ranches in the intermountain states. To review the successful 1968 program and plan for 1969, sales executives of eight airlines serving Colorado—Braniff International, Continental, Frontier, Ozark, Pan American, Trans World, United and Western—will be special guests for the afternoon session on Tuesday. Ronald R. Beaumont, manager of tour sales for Frontier Airlines, will moderate the panel for the Airlines, assisted by tour sales planning executives Tom Dempsey, Continental Airlines, John A. Neubauer, Trans World Airlines, Karl P. Hughes, United Airlines, and Don Lehman, Western Airlines.

On Wednesday, Dr. Edgar A. Ott, director of the House Research Division of the Purina Company will make a special presentation on the care and feeding of saddle horses, one of the ranchers' most essential operations.

Fred Sindt, director of public relations for the Broadmoor, will be the luncheon speaker Wednesday. His subject will be promotion, advertising and publicity. These subjects will be featured in a joint presentation in the afternoon session by Clarence Hokum and John Holcomb of the Colorado Visitors Bureau and Lou Cobb and Hal Haney of the Colorado division of Commerce and Industry.

The annual dinner of the association will also be held Wednesday. Pete Smythe, lifetime honorary member of the association, and East Tincup's contribution to radio and TV, will be master of ceremonies. Golf tournament awards will be featured.

Special luncheon guests on Thursday will be Harry Woodward, director and Bob Elliott, assistant director of the Colorado Game, Fish and Parks Departmen—and Dave Nordwall, Regional Forester, U. S. Forest Service.

Library New Books

New books at the Pikes Peak Regional District Library include the following:

"Report of the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders." A searing analysis of the causes and rememdies of America's violent racial crisis.

"Ellen Terry" by Roger Manvell. A biography of one of the greatest actresses of her time.

"The Recruitment Function" by Roger H. Hawk. Spells out the steps needed to establish and maintain an effective recruitment system. Published by the American Management Association.

"Lessons of Leadership." Twenty-one top executives speak out on creating, developing, and managing success.

"The Restless American' 'by Tom Powell. A modern Odyssey on horseback through the backwoods of the United States; from Rhode Island to Arizona.

"Fishing From Boats" by Milt Rosko. An illustrated guide to salt water fishing.

"Our Own Worst Enemy' 'by William J. Lederer. A first hand account of what is happening in Vietnam by the author of "The Ugly American."

"Negotiation With the Chinese Communists" by Kenneth T. Young. The story of United States negotiations and contacts with the People's Republic of China since the Korean armistice of July 1953.

"In the Fist of the Revolution" by Jose Yglesias. Life as it is in Cuba today by an author who spent three months in a Cuban country town.

"Africa, the Politics and Unity," by Immanuel Wallerstein. A contribution to the understanding of the key poltical issues of contemporary Africa and to the appreciation of the complex organizational and ideological problems of modern social movements.

"The Experts" by Seymour Freidin. A spirited indictment of Americaa's obsession for expertise in foreign affairs.

"A Citizen's Dissent" by Mark Lane. The author of "Rush to Judgment" writes of the problems caused by his criticism of the Warren Report.

Bids on Work for City to Be Opened

Bids for construction of three shelters and a score booth in city parks will be opened at 2 p. m. Nov. 29 at the city purchasing office, Stuart Richter, director of the Park and Recreation Department, said Friday.

He said shelters would be built in North Cheyenne Canon, Bonny Park, and one in Palmer Park. The one in Palmer will contain five shelter units in one structure.

The score booth facilities in a concrete and masonry building, will be constructed in connection with the baseball diamond in Wasson Park.

English Union Slates Annual Meet, Election

The English-Speaking Union will hold its annual meeting and election of board members with a dinner at the El Paso Club on Monday.

Also, Mrs. Ruth Brown of Australia will speak on "Tasmania—Little England." She will illustrate her talk with colored slides. Mrs. Brown, writer, lecturer, traveler, and photographer, is an expert on Australia and New Guinea.

Born and educated in Australia, Mrs. Brown and her late husband lived in the Tasmanian Midlands where they owned and operated a sheep ranch of 5,000 acres. Their land was known as Ellenthorpe which for over 100 years produced Merino wool, the finest wool in the world, which is used for the State Robes of the Kings and Queens of England.

After her husband's death, Ruth Brown joined the staff of the "Examiner," a daily newspaper in Launceston, Australia. Her job is to write feature articles, travelogues, and personal interviews with visiting VIPs.

Mrs. Brown has traveled and spoken in 11 different countries. A year ago she was invited to tour Papua, New Guinea, one of the least civilized parts of the world. Recently, Trans-Australian Airways invited Mrs. Brown to tour central Australia to observe the Royal Flying Doctor Service. She flew with these dedicated men on mercy flights into the true heart of Australia.

Chevelle SS 396
Second place is still up for grabs.

Grab hold of a Chevelle SS 396 and see what driving's all about.

"SS" stands for Super Sport . . . and no nonsense. The "396" part stands for the 396-cu.-in. 325-hp V8 that comes standard in this machine. Backing it up is a special suspension, floor-mounted 3-speed, power disc brakes and white lettered wide oval tires on extra-wide sport wheels.

Just by looking, you can tell this one's the real thing. A special domed hood and emblazoned SS badges let you know it's something special.

And here's the best part: you don't have to order the most luxurious Chevelle to get an SS 396. For a budget performer, you can order an SS 396 version of the Chevelle 300 Deluxe Sport Coupe or 300 pillar Coupe.

The Chevelle SS 396 comes with everything you need: a big V8, power disc brakes, special suspension, wide oval tires—the works. All you add is you. Stop at your Chevrolet dealer's Sports Shop and grab yourself one man-sized handful of car. The Chevelle SS 396—what it takes to grab first place.

Second place is still up for grabs.

Grab hold of a Chevelle SS 396 and see what driving's all about.

"SS" stands for Super Sport . . . and no nonsense. The "396" part stands for the 396-cu.-in. 325-hp V8 that comes standard in this machine. Backing it up is a special suspension, floor-mounted 3-speed, power disc brakes and white lettered wide oval tires on extra-wide sport wheels.

Just by looking, you can tell this one's the real thing. A special domed hood and emblazoned SS badges let you know it's something special.

And here's the best part: you don't have to order the most luxurious Chevelle to get an SS 396. For a budget performer, you can order an SS 396 version of the Chevelle 300 Deluxe Sport Coupe or 300 pillar Coupe.

The Chevelle SS 396 comes with everything you need: a big V8, power disc brakes, special suspension, wide oval tires—the works. All you add is you. Stop at your Chevrolet dealer's Sports Shop and grab yourself one man-sized handful of car. The Chevelle SS 396—what it takes to grab first place.

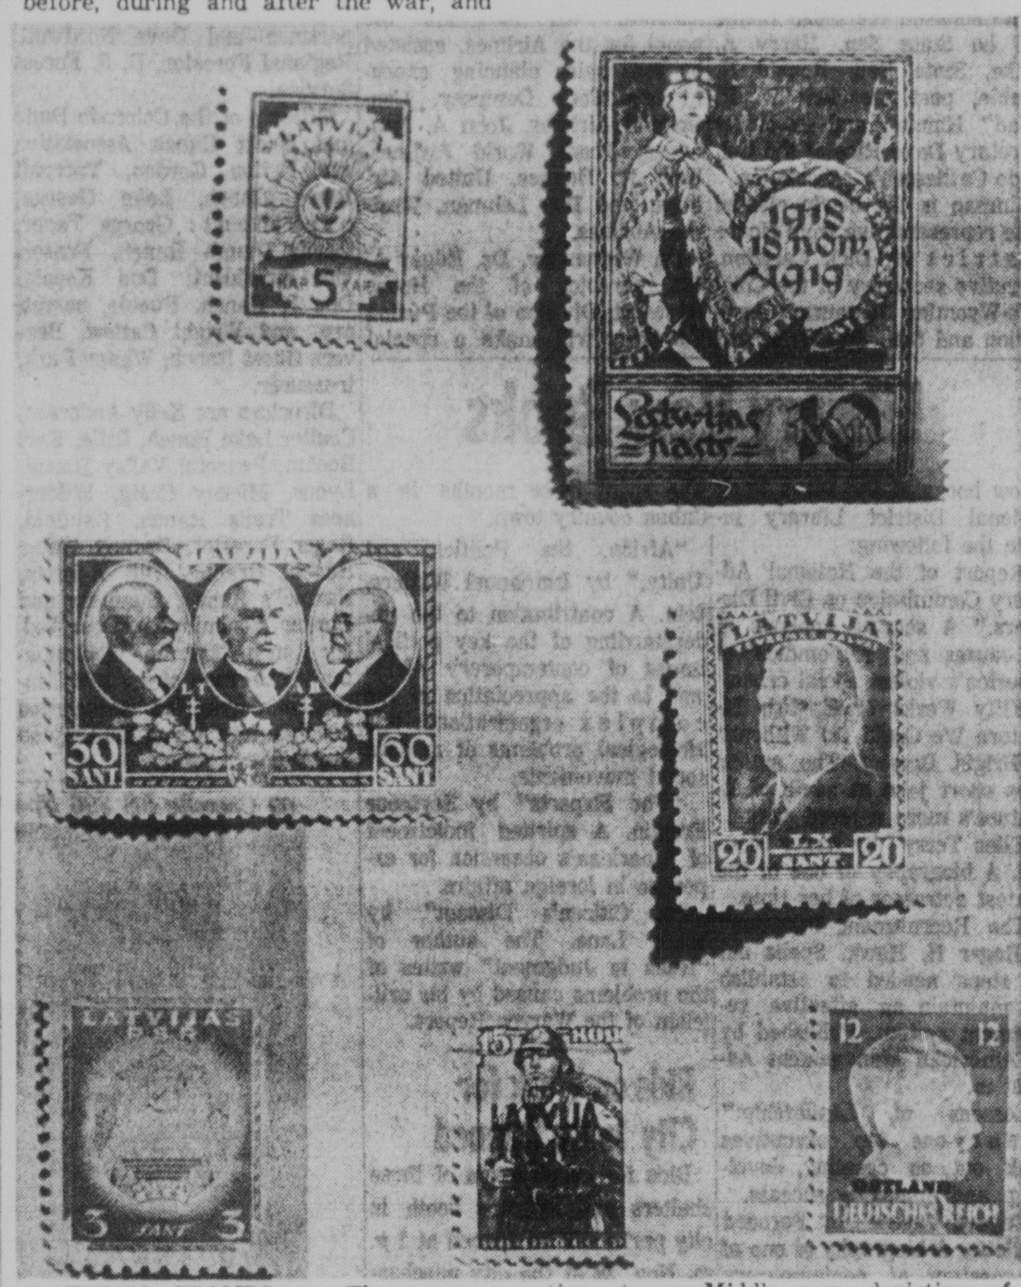
COLLECTOR — Bruno Rancis of Manitou Springs displays a few of the stamps in his extensive collection which includes stamps from Britain, Germany, before, during and after the war, and the United States. Stamps from his homeland, Latvia, show that country from the beginning of its independence to its takeover by Russian forces.



LATVIAN STAMPS — These seven stamps outline the history of Latvia from the time of its independence in 1918 to the occupation years under Germany during World War II. Top row, the first stamp of the new republic of Latvia and the one-year commemorative stamp. Middle row, depiction of three presidents of Latvia and a portrait of President Ulmanis, the country's last president. Bottom row, stamps issued during the Russian occupation and during the German occupation.

Springs Man's Stamps Of Latvia Date From '18

Stamps relating the history of his homeland, Latvia, from the beginning of its independence in 1918 to the present day are part of the collection of Bruno Rancis of Manitou Springs, now a United States citizen.

Rancis began his collection with the first stamp issued by the independent republic of Latvia in 1918 and has another commemorating the first year of independence, issued Nov. 18, 1919.

Another stamp, issued in 1930, depicts three presidents of the republic, Cakste, Kviesis and Zemgals. Issued in 1937, one stamp portrays the man who was the first and the last president of the repulbic, Karlis Ulmanis. He celebrated his 60th birthday the year the stamp was issued. Ulmanis was educated in Nebraska before leading his country into independence under a democratic system. He was exiled to Siberia in 1940 and died there in 1953.

Russian forces occupied Latvia in 1940 before Germany invaded the country in 1942. The 2 million Latvians were then under Hitler's rule until Russian forces drove the Germans out in 1944. During Hitler's rule his profile appeared on stamps marked Ostland Deutsches Reich which were in use during that time in Latvia.

The final stamp in Rancis' collection from Latvia has the U.S.S.R. symbolic hammer and sickle and is in current use.

West Germans Note Crystal Night Date

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) —West Germans solemnly marked the eve of the 30th anniversary of "Kristallnacht" —Crystal Night—Friday when Nazi anti-Semitism turned from discrimination into terror.

The night gets it name from the broken glass in the streets the night of Nov. 9-10, 1938 when Jewish synagogues were fired and homes and shops belonging to Jewish families were burned and stoned.

At a nondenominational service in Berlin's Jewish Synagogue, the Rev. Kurt Scharf, Evangelical bishop of Berlin, said the church should not forget that a certain religious anti-Judaism was prevalent before Hitler "and we, too, are guilty for what happened."

Another Newspaper Is Closed in Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese government closed another newspaper and suspended two more Saturday in its continuing crackdown on the Saigon press for printing material it considers harmful to the national interest.

An Information Ministry spokesman said six papers have been shut down, and four have been temporarily suspended in the last 15 days.

The stiffened enforcement of government regulations on press freedom is aimed primarily against papers that give publicity to Communist leaders or publish material which, in the official view, is helpful to the Communists, the spokesman said.

The government said newspapers are "free to criticize the government, but not to criticize the nation."

Third Round in Lagos Talks Being Planned

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN

LAGOS (AP) — A third round of negotiations to try and end the 16-month-old civil war in Nigeria is expected to begin within a few weeks, informed government sources said Friday.

The meeting, to be attended by members of the Heads of State Consultative Committee on Nigeria of the Organization of African Unity, probably will be in Monrovia, Liberia, the sources said.

A Nigerian government source said that the OAU committee probably would invite the Nigerian head of state, Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, and the Biafran leader, Lt. Col. C .Odumegwu Ojukwu, to separate conferences.

The two leaders held fruitless talks in Addis Ababa in September.

Nigerian armies, meanwhile, were reported losing some ground to the Biafrans, who have grown stronger because of increased arms deliveries.

In Geneva, the International Red Cross Committee said today international aid has helped reduce infant mortality among the 1.5 million refugees in the Nigerian-Biafran war.

But it said the need for relief supplies was increasing daily. It called its Nigerian effort, the biggest aid program it has launched since World War II.

Maj. Jack J. Gordon Receives Air Medal

Army Maj. Jack J. Gordon, son of Mrs. Hess Gordon, Little Rock, Ark., recently received the Air Medal near Dong Ba Thin, Vietnam.

Maj. Gordon received the award for heroism involving aerial flight in action against enemy forces in Vietnam.

During the same ceremonies, he was also presented the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service as the executive officer of the 92nd Assault Helicopter Co. near Dong Ba Thin.

The major entered the Army in April 1959 and formerly served with the 155th Assault Helicopter Company in Vietnam. He holds the Army Commendation Medal and the Vietnamese Gallantry Cross with Silver Star.

State Invests $150 Million In Securities

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP) — The State of Colorado has more than $150 million invested in interest-bearing securities, State Treasurer Virginia Blue reported Satcrday.

The amount is about $30 million higher than a year ago.

During the fiscal year ending next June 30, she hopes to add about $5.8 million to the state's general fund through interest earned by putting the money to work.

Already, since July 1, 2,181,534 interest has been received and deposited in the fund. For the 1967-68 fiscal year interest totaled $5.1 million.

"I am pleasantly surprised that the state's position is as favorable as it is," the treasurer commented.

The state's daily balance sheet Friday showed $93,789,838 of the money is invested in U.S. government securities. Some of them are for as short a period as five days. Others don't mature for two years. The bulk, Mrs. Blue says, are for periods of lessthan a year.

The balance sheet showed deposits of $59,165,000 earning interest in 198 banks in Colorado —every one which wanted to participate in the program—and deposits totaling $795,000 in all 53 chartered savings and loan associations in the state. The state deposit limit for each savings and loan agency is $15,000, the limit of insurance.

Only a fraction of the money —about $37.5 million—is made up of items in the state's general fund. The largest single classification is earmarked cash funds, which total nearly $71 million. Some 300 separate funds are included, however. The cash funds are set up for specific purposes, such as insuring money will be available in workmen's compensation cases.

None of the money is surplus, Mrs. Blue emphasized, and she warned the balance will be dropping during the next few months. In December alone, she said, the state will spend $22 million more than it will receive, largely because of a payment it will make for state aid to schools.

The securities purchases have been timed so that enough will mature prior to the payment date to assure that cash will be on hand to meet the obligation. Similar precautions have been taken for future months.

Usually the state's peak receipts come in March and April when income tax payments fall due, although this has leveled out somewhat because of withholding.

The investment of funds will be discussed at a seminar next Wednesday conducted by Mrs. Blue. A featured speaker will be Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, state treasurer of California and a former treasurer of the United States.

THE STRAIGHT SCOOP ON COMPUTER PROGRAMMING

Forget those weird electronic bloops and bleeps that provide the background for science fiction films. They're unreal. The fact is, a computer is practically silent when it runs, and practically useless unless a plain old human being runs it. An average guy, someone pretty much like you. ■ In short, you don't have to be a scientist to be a computer programmer. The fact is, most of the nation's programmers are people with a couple of years of college (not necessary incidentally), a logical mind, and an ambition to be something more prestigious than a grey collar number on the corporate rolls. ■ The fact is, most men and women know a lot more about programming than they realize. Many of our everyday accomplishments are related in principle; even a simple thing, such as mixing a cocktail or baking a cake. What goes into the drink is the data. The proportions and the order in which you use the ingredients is the recipe, that is, the program. The blender is the machine or computer. The result is called output. ■ Skol. ■ Of course, all the facts aren't so intoxicating. It's a lot harder work to be a computer programmer than a bartender. You need special training; college type course; practical instruction on how the computers work; and there's a new language abbreviation to be learned because computers, as advanced as they are, still can't speak English. That takes time, temperament, and tuition. About four months and fifteen hundred dollars worth. ■ The fact is, the straight scoop on computer programming takes some of the glamour out of the field, but puts the field into its proper place. Not among the out-of-reach jobs reserved for eggheads and space explorers, but within the reach of people like yourself. ■ Yourself. ■ There's an easy way to prove it, one way or the other. Take an aptitude test and find out if computer programming fits your intelligence and your inclinations. ■ If tomorrow is important to you, mail this coupon today. ■ No kidding. ■

NOT EVERYONE CAN BE A COMPUTER PROGRAMMER, BUT IF YOUR NEIGHBOR CAN, MAYBE YOU CAN.

Pueblo Parents Charge Abuse By Teachers

PUEBLO (AP) — Complaints of physical and mental abuse of students by teachers at a junior high school here were made at a meeting of parents Friday night.

The meeting, concerning incidents at Risley Junior High School in East Pueblo, was sponsored by the Pueblo G-I Forum and the Eastside Residents Council, both headed by Tony Romero.

Parents related a number of incidents at the school, including an allegation that a teacher had grabbed a pupil by the hair and banged his head on a locker door and of a girl who was made to do push-ups in a hallway because a teacher objected to the length of her skirt.

Romero asked that teachers and pupils involved not be named at the open meeting but that written accounts with names be submitted for investigation by school authorities.

After the meeting, Romero said 22 separate charges of abuse by teachers were filed.

A school board spokesman said it would have no comment on the charges at this time.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

To have her new dentures checked, Mrs. R. paid a visit to the dentist. There she got a rude surprise. The dentist locked his office doors, pocketed the key, and demanded that she pay her overdue bill.

After a war of nerves that lasted for half an hour, she finally did pay up. Later, however, she filed suit for false imprisonment.

"But she wasn't 'imprisoned'," the dentist protested in court. "She was free to leave at any time, just by paying me what she owed."

Nevertheless, the dentist was held liable for taking the law into his own hands, The court said he had no right to use such forcible methods to collect his money.

"False imprisonment" may befall you even if you are nowhere near an actual prison. The essence of the matter is an unlawful limitation on your freedom of locomotion. The law places a high value on the right of every individual to go where he pleases.

Even if your freedom is limited for only a few moments, you may have grounds for complaint: Thus:

A weary housewife, walking home from the market, gratefully accepted a ride offered by the man next door. But to her dismay, he began talking to her in amorous terms. Despite her protests, he kept on driving past her house. Not until a block beyond was she able to get out of the car with some degree of dignity.

When she sued the man for damages, a court ruled she had indeed suffered false imprisonment—although it had lasted only a few moments. The court said she had been forcibly prevented, by the car's continuing movement, from leaving when she wanted to.

Nevertheless, not every interference with your freedom is false imprisonment. Take this situation:

A shopper had just emerged from a department store when a clerk hurried outside after her. Pointing at the purse she was carrying, he asked:

"Did you buy that here?"

The woman said no—and then, without being asked, painstakingly exhibited the purse and its contents to the clerk.

Admittedly, this incident did delay her departure. But had she suffered false imprisonment? In a court test, the judge said no. He pointed out that she had lingered on the sidewalk not out of any compulsion by the clerk but of her own free will.

King's Former Aide Is Found Shot to Death

CHICAGO (AP) — The Rev. Charles Billups, once an aide to the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has been found shot to death in a car parked on the South Side.

Police theorized he was the victim of a robbery and it was not known whether the assailant was aware of Billups' connection with civil rights causes in Chicago and Alabama.

Billups, 41, had been shot three times in the chest when found Thursday. Police identified the body Friday by tracing the car to his family.

Sgt. Lesley Dillard said detectives are investigating the shooting under the assumption that it was a robbery since no wallet and no car keys were found. It was not immediately clear whether he had been shot in the car or elsewhere, Dillard said.

Billups was a founder of the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights in 1954 in his native Birmingham. King was closely aligned with this group, and the two often were involved in the same demonstrations in Birmingham in 1963.

In 1966, Billups came to Chicago to join King, taking a leading organizational role in Operation Breadbasket, an arm of King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Last year he was appointed a personnel director of the National Tea Co., and recently he was named head of human relations for the company.

Services were planned today in Chicago. The funeral will be Tuesday in Birmingham.

Surviving are the widow Almarie, and three teen-age daughters.

State Invests $150 Million In Securities

By GORDON G. GAUSS

DENVER (AP) — The State of Colorado has more than $150 million invested in interest-bearing securities, State Treasurer Virginia Blue reported Saturday.

The amount is about $30 million higher than a year ago.

During the fiscal year ending next June 30, she hopes to add about $5.8 million to the state's general fund through interest earned by putting the money to work.

Already, since July 1, 2,181,534 interest has been received and deposited in the fund. For the 1967-68 fiscal year interest totaled $5.1 million.

The investment of funds will be discussed at a seminar next Wednesday conducted by Mrs. Blue. A featured speaker will be Mrs. Ivy Baker Priest, state treasurer of California and a former treasurer of the United States.

THE STRAIGHT SCOOP ON COMPUTER PROGRAMMING

Forget those weird electronic bloops and bleeps that provide the background for science fiction films. They're unreal. The fact is, a computer is practically silent when it runs, and practically useless unless a plain old human being runs it. An average guy, someone pretty much like yod. ■ In short, you don't have to be a scientist to be a computer programmer. The fact is, most of the nation's programmers are people with a couple of years of college (not necessary incidentally), a logical mind, and an ambition to be something more prestigious than a grey collar number on the corporate rolls. ■ The fact is, most men and women know a lot more about programming than they realize. Many of our everyday accomplishments are related in principle; even a simple thing, such as mixing a cocktail or baking a cake. What goes into the drink is the data. The proportions and the order in which you use the ingredients is the recipe, that is, the program. The blender is the machine or computer. The result is called output. ■ Skol. ■ Of course, all the facts aren't so intoxicating. It's a lot harder work to be a computer programmer than a bartender. You need special training; college type course; practical instruction on how the computers work; and there's a new language abbreviation to be learned because computers, as advanced as they are, still can't speak English. That takes time, temperament, and tuition. About four months and fifteen hundred dollars worth. ■ The fact is, the straight scoop on computer programming takes some of the glamour out of the field, but puts the field into its proper place. Not among the out-of-reach jobs reserved for eggheads and space explorers, but within the reach of people like yourself. ■ Yourself. ■ There's an easy way to prove it, one way or the other. Take an aptitude test and find out if computer programming fits your intelligence and your inclinations. ■ If tomorrow is important to you, mail this coupon today. ■ No kidding. ■

NOT EVERYONE CAN BE A COMPUTER PROGRAMMER, BUT IF YOUR NEIGHBOR CAN, MAYBE YOU CAN.

Pueblo Parents Charge Abuse By Teachers

PUEBLO (AP) — Complaints of physical and mental abuse of students by teachers at a junior high school here were made at a meeting of parents Friday night.

The meeting, concerning incidents at Risley Junior High School in East Pueblo, was sponsored by the Pueblo G-I Forum and the Eastside Residents Council, both headed by Tony Romero.

Parents related a number of incidents at the school, including an allegation that a teacher had grabbed a pupil by the hair and banged his head on a locker door and of a girl who was made to do push-ups in a hallway because a teacher objected to the length of her skirt.

Romero asked that teachers and pupils involved not be named at the open meeting but that written accounts with names be submitted for investigation by school authorities.

After the meeting, Romero said 22 separate charges of abuse by teachers were filed.

A school board spokesman said it would have no comment on the charges at this time.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

To have her new dentures checked, Mrs. R. paid a visit to the dentist. There she got a rude surprise. The dentist locked his office doors, pocketed the key, and demanded that she pay her overdue bill.

After a war of nerves that lasted for half an hour, she finally did pay up. Later, however, she filed suit for false imprisonment.

"But she wasn't 'imprisoned'," the dentist protested in court. "She was free to leave at any time, just by paying me what she owed."

Nevertheless, the dentist was held liable for taking the law into his own hands. The court said he had no right to use such forcible methods to collect his money.

"False imprisonment" may befall you even if you are nowhere near an actual prison. The essence of the matter is an unlawful limitation on your freedom of locomotion. The law places a high value on the right of every individual to go where he pleases.

Even if your freedom is limited for only a few moments, you may have grounds for complaint: Thus:

A weary housewife, walking home from the market, gratefully accepted a ride offered by the man next door. But to her dismay, he began talking to her in amorous terms. Despite her protests, he kept on driving past her house. Not until a block beyond was she able to get out of the car with some degree of dignity.

When she sued the man for damages, a court ruled she had indeed suffered false imprisonment—although it had lasted only a few moments. The court said she had been forcibly prevented, by the car's continuing movement, from leaving when she wanted to.

Nevertheless, not every interference with your freedom is false imprisonment. Take this situation:

A shopper had just emerged from a department store when a clerk hurried outside after her. Pointing at the purse she was carrying, he asked:

"Did you buy that here?"

The woman said no—and then, without being asked, painstakingly exhibited the purse and its contents to the clerk.

Admittedly, this incident did delay her departure. But had she suffered false imprisonment? In a court test, the judge said no. He pointed out that she had lingered on the sidewalk not out of any compulsion by the clerk but of her own free will.

King's Former Aide Is Found Shot to Death

CHICAGO (AP) — The Rev. Charles Billups, once an aide to the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., has been found shot to death in a car parked on the South Side.

Police theorized he was the victim of a robbery and it was not known whether the assailant was aware of Billups' connection with civil rights causes in Chicago and Alabama.

Billups, 41, had been shot three times in the chest when found Thursday. Police identified the body Friday by tracing the car to his family.

Sgt. Lesley Dillard said detectives are investigating the shooting under the assumption that it was a robbery since no wallet and no car keys were found. It was not immediately clear whether he had been shot in the car or elsewhere, Dillard said.

Billups was a founder of the Alabama Christian Movement for Human Rights in 1954 in his native Birmingham. King was closely aligned with this group, and the two often were involved in the same demonstrations in Birmingham in 1963.

In 1966, Billups came to Chicago to join King, taking a leading organizational role in Operation Breadbasket, an arm of King's Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Last year he was appointed a personnel director of the National Tea Co., and recently he was named head of human relations for the company.

Services were planned today in Chicago. The funeral will be Tuesday in Birmingham.

Surviving are the widow Almarie, and three teen-age daughters.

'SAFE' Organization Charters Local Group

The national headquarters of Survival and Flight Equipment (SAFE) have recently granted a charter to a Colorado Springs group.

The objectives of the association are to advance the science and arts as they apply to survival during flight and following emergency escape from an aerospace vehicle; establishing and maintaining communication links between SAFE and other groups concerned with aeronautical and astronautical development and progress; and promoting, protecting and maintaining safety in aviation and astronautics.

To accomplish the objectives the organization holds a national symposium presenting educational and technical information, active demonstrations and equipment displays, publishes an engineering journal and a newsletter, conducts meeting by members in various geographical areas, coordinates services among members, advances the importance of survival and flight equipment throughout the industry and affiliates itself with the Aerospace Museum in San Diego.

K. M. Barnes, who presented the Colorado Springs group with their charter, is president of the Los Angeles chapter of SAFE and a member of the governor's board of the national SAFE organization. He is also marketing manager of military systems for McDonnel-Douglas Corp.

The chapter was presented to R. H. Kaatz, vice-president and general manager of Aircraft Mechanics, Inc., AMI-MECH Division, who has been instrumental in the "spade work" necessary to establish a local chapter. The charter presentation was Nov. 7 at the Ramada Inn.

Capt. Hall S. Elliott is stationed at Peterson Field and was elected secretary-treasurer of the organization. He manages a section that provides life support training for over 800 aircrew members and is in charge of life support equipment for these and for over 1,200 Air Force Academy cadets.

C. Thomas Jones, vice president, is a flight operations instructor of Air Crews at United Air Lines. He has been active in the Civil Air Patrol, having been training officer and test officer of the Park Hill CAP.

Other chapters have been formed in Los Angeles, New York City, San Diego, St. Louis, Georgia and Norfolk areas.

Charter members of the local branch are presently active in the Army and Air Force in ADC, Stanley Aviation Inc. of Denver, Frost Engineering Inc., of Littleton, Survival Research Labs of Colorado Springs, United Air Lines in Denver and Aircraft Mechanics Inc. in Colorado Springs.

In 1910, there were about 880,000 black people outside the South. That number has now risen to about 9,700,000.

Married Stewardess Expects Her Job Back

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Celeste Lansdale, fired from her stewardess job because her bedmate was legal, said today she expects to head back to the job with United Air Lines.

"Maybe it's that they've decided wedding bands and wings are compatible," Mrs. Lansdale said.

United announced Friday it has changed a policy prohibiting marriage for its stewardesses and will rehire those who have valid grievances.

Mrs. Lansdale had filed a complaint with a state board when she was fired after seven years of flying and four years of secret marriage. She said the old policy "was awfully archaic. It's wonderful that they've changed it. Encouraging the stewardess to lie to keep her job and to have bad morals—or maybe to pretend she does—is wrong.

"I've known of stewardesses being granted maternity leave, but they couldn't marry." She said the airline did not object to a stewardesses living with a man so long as they didn't marry.

The 29-year-old blonde said she has not received formal notification of the rule change.

Pack 182 Held Halloween Party

The den mothers and Cub Scout Master Juan Villalva got the meeting of Pack 182 off to a prosperous start at S. A. Wilson School on Oct. 30.

Bright paper mache masks adorned their heads as Den 1 presented the Halloween skit for the evening.

Den 8 gave the flag ceremony and the Welcome was given by Den. 5.

Many boys received their service stars for one year in Cub Scouting. Lloyd Haynes and David Johnson from Den 1 received their wolf badges. Entering into Webeloes were Robert Benny, Monty Baldwin, Richard Lucero and Kevin Jordon.

Darrell Myers and Paul Mitchell were honored in their project achievement and received both a gold and silver arrow point. Denner bars were also given to several boys from each den. Mrs. Roy Taylor volunteered to become a new den mother for Pack 182, so new boys were accepted to make a total of six dens.

Colorado School Board Members to Meet Here

More than 500 school board members and school administrators from 140 Colorado school districts are expected to attend the 1968 Colorado Association of School Boards — Colorado Association of School Administrators convention here Wednesday through Friday.

Lt. Gov. Mark A. Hogan will give a keynote address Wednesday evening at the first general session in the Broadmoor Hotel. Other guest speakers will be Dr. Juan Martinez of San Francisco State College, Dr. Kenneth McFarland of Topeka, Kan., and Dr. Byron W. Hansford, Colorado commissioner for education.

Martinez, director of the Mexican American Studies Institute at San Francisco State College, will speak Thursday on "Education Problems of the Culturally and Educationally Deprived." McFarland, a school executive for 24 years and one of America's leading public speakers, will address the annual convention banquet Thursday night on "Americanism for Americans." He is city school superintendent, Topeka, Kan.

Hansford will speak at a Friday luncheon.

The convention also will include roundtable discussions on school finance legislation and negotiations legislation, and special interest clinics which include legal problems of school districts, trends in salary schedules, sanctions and strikes in public schools, and curriculum trends in the public schools.

Martinez is a nationally recognized authority on education for the culturally and educationally deprived. Last summer he toured California, Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado, talking with Mexican American leaders and organizations.

McFarland received the National Freedom Leadership Award in February, 1968, from the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

Hansford has been state commissioner for education since 1960; formerly he was a public school administrator in Lansing, Mich., and Pilot Grove and Gower, Mo.

Court Dismisses Marijuana Charge

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — A Justice Court judge has dismissed marijuana possession charges against British actor Terence Stamp because of insufficient evidence.

But Judge John J. Merrich refused Friday to drop charges against Stamp's younger brother, Christopher. 22. Christopher's arraignment was set for Nov. 22.

Stamp, 29, and his brother were arrested May 18 after police said they found two unsmoked marijuana cigarettes and half-pound packet of the drug in the brothers' car.

Town Meeting Series To Begin on Tuesday

A new series of Town Meetings will begin Tuesday under the sponsorship of the 27 organizations which co-sponsored the series for the past two years. The general topic of the series is "Bridging Gaps in our Community."

The meetings are open to the community without charge.

The meetings will be on Tuesday evenings, Nov. 12, Nov. 26, and Dec. 10. All will begin at 7:30 p. m. in the auditorium of the County Office building at 27 E. Vermijo Ave.

The Board of County Commissioners, together with the Colorado Springs City Council and the Pikes Peak Area Council of Governments are honorary sponsors of the meetings.

The topic for the first discussion will be "Bridging Gaps between Social and Economic Groups." Panelists will be Mrs. Mary Helen Trujillo, secretary for the Community Action Program; Tom Hoe, supervisor for work-study programs and part-time social workers in School District 11; Tod Campbell, editor in chief of Shepard's Citations; and Philip A. Dieffenbach, director of corporate planning for Colorado Interstate Corporation.

The session will be moderated by Rev. George Otto of the Broadmoor Community Church.

Following brief introductory presentations by each of the panelists, the session will be opened for general discussion from the audience.

The second and third sessions will deal with the topics "Bridging Gaps between Citizens and their Government; and "Bridging the Generation Gap."

Chess Club to Begin Finals In Tournament

Monday Dick Jourdan will play Byron Olson and Walter Novak will compete with Fran Mason for the final two positions.

According to tournament director Ray Howard, the following requirements for play must be adhered to: each game must be played with a chess clock at the rate of 50 moves every two hours; all clocks will be started at 8 p. m., unless previous arrangements have been made with the director; any player may request an adjournment at 11 p.m. or at any time thereafter; each participant must also keep a written score of his game; in any question that arises the decision of the tournament director will be final.

Following the completion of the club championship Dec. 2, a lecture series by Fran Mason, club president, and Walter Novak, publicity chairman, will begin. This should be beneficial to beginning players. Scheduled are such aspects of the game as opening strategy, endgame fundamentals, and the middle game.

The club meets each Monday beginning at 7:30 p. m. in Room 15 of the Civil Defense Emergency Operations Center, 230 E. Kiowa St.

The 13th wedding anniversary is traditionally known as the Lace Wedding.

Pack 182 Held Halloween Party

The den mothers and Cub Scout Master Juan Villalva got the meeting of Pack 182 off to a prosperous start at S. A. Wilson School on Oct. 30.

Bright paper mache masks adorned their heads as Den 1 presented the Halloween skit for the evening.

Den 8 gave the flag ceremony and the Welcome was given by Den. 5.

Many boys received their service stars for one year in Cub Scouting. Lloyd Haynes and David Johnson from Den 1 received their wolf badges. Entering into Webeloes were Robert Benny, Monty Baldwin, Richard Lucero and Kevin Jordon.

Darrell Myers and Paul Mitchell were honored in their project achievement and received both a gold and silver arrow point. Denner bars were also given to several boys from each den. Mrs. Roy Taylor volunteered to become a new den mother for Pack 182, so new boys were accepted to make a total of six dens.

Colorado School Board Members to Meet Here

More than 500 school board members and school administrators from 140 Colorado school districts are expected to attend the 1968 Colorado Association of School Boards — Colorado Association of School Administrators convention here Wednesday through Friday.

Lt. Gov. Mark A. Hogan will give a keynote address Wednesday evening at the first general session in the Broadmoor Hotel. Other guest speakers will be Dr. Juan Martinez of San Francisco State College, Dr. Kenneth McFarland of Topeka, Kan., and Dr. Byron W. Hansford, Colorado commissioner for education.

Martinez, director of the Mexican American Studies Institute at San Francisco State College, will speak Thursday on "Education Problems of the Culturally and Educationally Deprived." McFarland, a school executive for 24 years and one of America's leading public speakers, will address the annual convention banquet Thursday night on "Americanism for Americans." He is city school superintendent, Topeka, Kan.

Hansford will speak at a Friday luncheon.

The convention also will include roundtable discussions on school finance legislation and negotiations legislation, and special interest clinics which include legal problems of school districts, trends in salary schedules, sanctions and strikes in public schools, and curriculum trends in the public schools.

Martinez is a nationally recognized authority on education for the culturally and educationally deprived. Last summer he toured California, Arizona, New Mexico and Colorado, talking with Mexican American leaders and organizations.

McFarland received the National Freedom Leadership Award in February, 1968, from the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge.

Hansford has been state commissioner for education since 1960; formerly he was a public school administrator in Lansing, Mich., and Pilot Grove and Gower, Mo.

Court Dismisses Marijuana Charge

MALIBU, Calif. (AP) — A Justice Court judge has dismissed marijuana possession charges against British actor Terence Stamp because of insufficient evidence.

But Judge John J. Merrich refused Friday to drop charges against Stamp's younger brother, Christopher, 22. Christopher's arraignment was set for Nov. 22.

Stamp, 29, and his brother were arrested May 18 after police said they found two unsmoked marijuana cigarettes and half-pound packet of the drug in the brothers' car.

Town Meeting Series To Begin on Tuesday

A new series of Town Meetings will begin Tuesday under the sponsorship of the 27 organizations which co-sponsored the series for the past two years. The general topic of the series is "Bridging Gaps in our Community."

The meetings are open to the community without charge.

The meetings will be on Tuesday evenings, Nov. 12, Nov. 26, and Dec. 10. All will begin at 7:30 p. m. in the auditorium of the County Office building at 27 E. Vermijo Ave.

The Board of County Commissioners, together with the Colorado Springs City Council and the Pikes Peak Area Council of Governments are honorary sponsors of the meetings.

The topic for the first discussion will be "Bridging Gaps between Social and Economic Groups." Panelists will be Mrs. Mary Helen Trujillo, secretary for the Community Action Program; Tom Hoe, supervisor for work-study programs and part-time social workers in School District 11; Tod Campbell, editor in chief of Shepard's Citations; and Philip A. Dieffenbach, director of corporate planning for Colorado Interstate Corporation.

The session will be moderated by Rev. George Otto of the Broadmoor Community Church.

Following brief introductory presentations by each of the panelists, the session will be opened for general discussion from the audience.

The second and third sessions will deal with the topics "Bridging Gaps between Citizens and their Government; and "Bridging the Generation Gap."

Chess Club to Begin Finals In Tournament

Monday Dick Jourdan will play Byron Olson and Walter Novak will compete with Fran Mason for the final two positions.

According to tournament director Ray Howard, the following requirements for play must be adhered to: each game must be played with a chess clock at the rate of 50 moves every two hours; all clocks will be started at 8 p. m., unless previous arrangements have been made with the director; any player may request an adjournment at 11 p.m. or at any time thereafter; each participant must also keep a written score of his game; in any question that arises the decision of the tournament director will be final.

Following the completion of the club championship Dec. 2, a lecture series by Fran Mason, club president, and Walter Novak, publicity chairman, will begin. This should be beneficial to beginning players. Scheduled are such aspects of the game as opening strategy, endgame fundamentals, and the middle game.

The club meets each Monday beginning at 7:30 p. m. in Room 15 of the Civil Defense Emergency Operations Center, 230 E. Kiowa St.

The 13th wedding anniversary is traditionally known as the Lace Wedding.

Arizona Sneaks Past Air Force

Wildcat Defense Comes Through In Scoreless Second Halt Struggle

By MORRIS FRASER
Gazette Telegraph
Sports Editor

Arizona fell back on its defense in the second half Saturday afternoon to hold onto a 14-10 victory over Air Force before 32,196 fans in Falcon Stadium.

The victory, Arizona's first in the state since it defeated Colorado State in 1934, advanced the Wildcats' record to 6-1 and sliced Air Force's margin to 5-3, with a 2-1 mark showing against Western Conference foes this season.

Darrell Mudra praised Air Force's offense as "the toughest we've seen all season," but gave due credit to his own defensive line, which held the Cadets to 74 yards in the final half.

The score was identical to last year's, when Arizona broke a winless series against the Falcons by winning in Tucson.

Bright spot in the Falcon offense was junior split end Charlie Longnecker, who set Academy records for passes caught in a career (41), yards by passes caught in a season (580) and yards by passes caught in a game (168).

Longnecker also scored the Academy's only touchdown, a 46-yard completion from Gary Baxter. Longnecker wrestled away the ball from defensive halfback Bill Miller and ran over in the first period.

It was half of a good two-man battle. Later in the half Miller swiped the ball from Longnecker. The big end has just caught a nine-yarder from Baxter, breaking the career yardage record, when Miller grabbed the ball and returned nine yards with it.

Longnecker's touchdown pass broke the reception record of 33 catches set by Jim Greth in 1964. The career yardage mark, broken just before Miller's theft, snapped the standard of 525 set by Jim Schultz. A 17-yard pass in the third quarter broke the single-game yards-by-passes-caught record set by Ernie Jennings only a week ago. Jennings went 149 yards against North Carolina.

But the records didn't mean much after the Wildcat defense, particularly Tom Nelson and Rex Macklin, two rough linemen, damaged the Salcons' offense almost beyond repair.

It perhaps is unnecessary to state that the Falcons missed regular tailback Curtis Martin, who walked the sidelines with a knee injury. But junior Jim DeOrio did a more than creditable job, picking up 86 yards rushing and catching a pass for nine yards.

The Falcons were damaged considerably following Longnecker's score, when fleet Rick Stevenson ran back the ensuing kickoff 63 yards. It took Stevenson 13 seconds to pile through a midfield tangle and break loose, using a downfield block by Ron Gardin to go all the way. He had run back a 67-yard kickoff return for a score in 12 seconds against Indiana.

But the Falcons had to settle for a 44-yard field goal by Dennis Leuthauser in the second quarter. The only two times after that they reached Arizona territory, misfortune struck.

In the third period the Falcons were working on a drive which began after a punt on their own 17. On third down and long yardage, Baxter went back to pass and fumbled, with Nelson recovering. In the fourth period the Falcons had the advantage of recovering an Arizona fumble on the Wildcat 36. An offensive pass interference penalty shoved Air Force back into its own territory and they never recovered.

The rest of the game was catchup for the Falcons, who couldn't get too much organized against the vaunted Wildcat defesne.

The Falcons are expected to have an easier time of it this week as they host Tulsa in their home finale. The Wildcats, meanwhile, re-enter WAC play against rugged Utah, Wyoming and Arizona State.

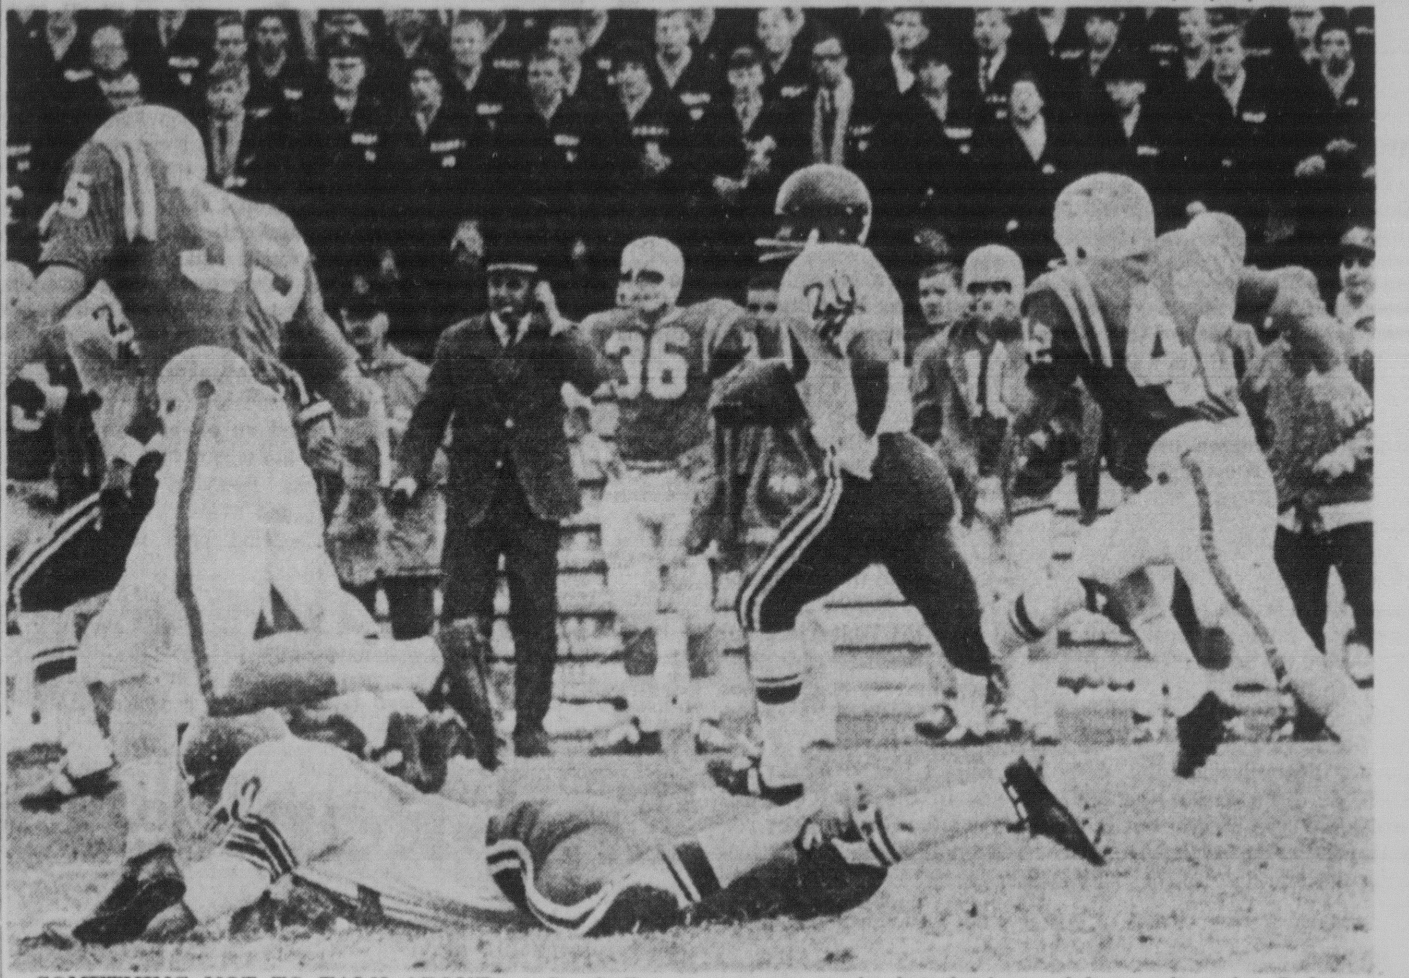
GAZETTE TELEGRAPH SPORTS

Sunday, Nov. 10, 1968 Gazette Telegraph—1-D



SOMETHING NOT TO TALK ABOUT — Coach Ben Martin of the Air Force Academy, standing on the sideline, didn't need a telephone to tell him what was happening as Arizona's Rick Stevenson raced 93 yards to score a back-to-back touchdown after the Cadets had tallied on a pass play. Stevenson took the ball on his own seven-yard line and streaked up the middle of the field behind a fast-stepping wave of blockers. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Breakaway Kick Return Key Factor for Arizona

BY JOHN SUNDVOR
Gazette Telegraph
Sports Writer

Some say a single play isn't a factor in the outcome of a football game, but Air Force Academy coach Ben Martin tends to disagree.

"One of the key factors in Arizona's win was Rick Stevenson's 93-yard kickoff return in the first quarter right after we scored," he said. "It took us a long time to regain our momentum after that, and the run forced us to make some changes in our game plans."

It all happened with 3:53 left in the first quarter, after the Falcon's Gary Baxter hurled a 47-yard touchdown pass to Charlie Longnecker. According to Martin, the Arizona runback gave Air Force a momentum letdown, and helped the Wildcats take its 14-10 win.

"We tried to mix our offense the best we could with running and passing, but near the end, we were forced to play catchup football, and against a team like Arizona, it's particularily difficult," he said.

Baxter, who completed only eight of 19 passes in the first half for 130 aerial yards, went heavily to the air in the last two quarters. However, unlike the first half, many of his sideline passes to Longnecker were effectively covered by the Arizona secondary.

Darrell Mudra, Arizona's head coach, said he felt the four-point edge made it easier for his squad, because Air Force would have to rely more heavily on it's aerial attack. "Tom Neson our co-captain felt that this was a definite factor in the game," he said, "because we could go into a pass rush."

Arizona took it's four point advantage late in the second quarter when quarterback Mark Driscoll hit Ron Gardin with a 15-yard scoring pass. Neither team scored in the second half, and Air Force watched its season record drop to 5-3.

"Errors and penalties constantly killed our efforts to get a drive going," Martin said. "It seemed like every time that we began to march, something would happen to kill the threat.

A number of times the Air Force took possession of the ball in Arizona territory, but either a series of penalties or an inaccurate passing attack killed the drive.

The Falcons totaled 62 yards in penalties, with 42 of the yards coming in the second half of play. Arizona gave up 70 yards because of infractions, but 35 of the yards were lost during the first two quarters of play.

"Air Force's offense is the toughest we faced this year, Mudra said. "They moved the ball well. I was real thrilled with the progress of our team—the credit goes to the kids and the coaches—We're really pleased—Air Force has a fine team, and they were tougher on the inside than we expected."

The Air Force continually directed it's running plays over left guard Tom Nelson. "We weren't picking on the guy," Martin conceeded. "Baxter said he would prefer to work to the left going down the field. And then, possibly the blocker that was facing him was having a good day and everything was working for him. We go where we can pick up yardage."

Martin noted that Baxter was having a little trouble with his passes. When asked if the passes were overthrown or if the receiver was partially at fault, Martin replied, "Baxter was overthrowing on the bombs. They're (Arizona) so tough on defense that many of our passes were under a lot of pressure, so they hurried the passes a little, because they were afraid the defense would break down.

"Arizona had an outstanding pass rush which gave us trouble plenty of the time. Their defense was the best we've faced this season. They're most effective, and they're quick. That combined with poor execution on our part was also a big factor in Arizona's win."

However, Mudra claimed Air Force had a fine offensive unit. "They really came after us and got a lot of yards against us. Their offense had our defense on edge for quite some time."

The score Saturday was an exact duplication of last year's Air Force-Arizona game. The Falcons play host to Tulsa Saturday and close out the season Nov. 23 at the University of Colorado.

AFA Captures Run With Adams State

Mike Ryan ran an easy 22:09.7 Saturday to lead Air Force's cross-country team to a near-perfect 15-48 victory over Western State on the Academy's four-mile course.

Ryan was the front-runner in a five-man sweep for the Falcons. The only break in the first eight places was Western's Merill Dobson, who an sixth.

Bob Brodel and John Jones locked arms to tie for second, followed by Bill Glushko and Tim Whitlock.

The finish boosted Air Force's dual-meet record to 6-4 as the Falcons closed their home season.

The AFA freshman team nipped Southern Colorado State College, 28-29, and wiped out Royal Roads, 15-50, in a double-dual meet Saturday.

CC Varsity Tips Alums

BY JOHN SUNDVOR
Gazette Telegraph
Sports Writer

About this time every year, the Colorado College alumni take it upon themselves to test the ability of the new Tiger varsity hockey team, and every year, the result is the same—The Varsity edge the college elders.

This year was no exception, as the varsity squad rallied from a two-point deficit early in the third period to take the game, 8-6.

"They (Colorado College) are greatly improved this year," referee Harry Whitworth said after the game. They are more aggressive and they're better at passing."

Less than a minute later, Art Berglund gave the old men from CC a two-point lead after he scored on assist from Stouffer.

The varsity plagued with a inaccurate scoring and passing attack throughout the first two periods of play, finally scored behind Bob Collyard.

"We were having trouble with our passing," Colorado College coach John Matchefts said. "It was taking us too long to pass the puck off. We were dribbling it."

Matchefts said he noticed that the club at times passed well, but added that it wasn't until the last half of the last period that the team started to pass the puck properly. "We played our best in the last half of the last period," he said. "The alumni was more creative than we were. They were able to get the puck off the boards better than we were."

The varsity came back early in the second frame and moved the game into a tie when Bob Collyard scored on an assist from Jack Coles.

However the tie was shortlived. With 2:16 expired Doug King took a pass from Chuck Reinking in for the score.

Late in the stanza the Varsity rallied again on Pete Ryan's unassisted goal in front. The goal, however, was an unpopular one with the Alumni and seconds later the elder squad registered its discontent when Chris Bailey pushed one in.

"This year's team has improved quite a bit," Andy Gambucci said. "They have better forwards and their defensemen give them quite a bit of strength."

The varsity went into the final stanza trailing 5-3.

The varsity started a push after the midway point. Bruce LaHue opened the surge with a slap from the blue line. Minutes later Ryan picked off a rebound and tucked it in.

Ken Carnes then scored for the Alumni to make it 6-5.

The varsity rallied for three goals to take their first lead and wrap it up. Bill Allen scored the winner with less than two minutes after Jim Albrecht had Albrecht wrapped it up in the final seconds on an open net.

Cowboys Upset Buffaloes, 34-17

STILLWATER, Okla.—Oklahoma State's Cowboys took advantage of Colorado University errors here Saturday, turning two first-quarter fumbles into scores, as the Cowboys stunned the Buffs, 34-17 in a Big Eight football game.

Quarterback Ronnie Johnson led the winners, although CU signal caller Bob Anderson fell only seven yards shy of the conference total offense record with 353 yards to his credit for the afternoon.

O-State again relied on the passing and running of Johnson and the receiving of wingback Terry Brown.

Johnson completed 10 of 16 passes for 121 yards, padding his conference-leading figures to 95 of 187 for 1,136 yards. He also carried 17 times for 125 yards and added two scoring runs in the fourth quarter to his early touchdown.

Brown, No. 2 in the league in receiving, caught six Johnson tosses for 82 yards.

The Buffs came to life after intermission, marching 56 yards to score after Isaac Howard recovered an Oklahoma State fumble at the Colorado 44. Ward Walsh blasted across from the one with the touchdown, Dave Haney kicked the extra point, and Colorado trailed 16-7.

O-State came back with a 12-play, 72-yard drive, Bub Deerinwater going the last two for a 22-7 lead.

Haney booted a 23-yard field goal on Colorado's next possession to cut the margin to 22-10, but Johnson promptly led the Pokes to the 28-10 touchdown, taking it in himself from the five.

Fullback Tom Nigbur hammered across from the one-yard line six minutes into the final period to make the score 28-17, but the Buffs could get no closer.

Johnson added his third TD—from four yards out—with three seconds to play.

Trojans Fall To Sheridan In Playoff

FORT LOGAN—Fountain's hopes for a Class AA title were squashed 42-14 by Sheridan Saturday afternoon as the Rams utilized a strong running attack.

The winners swept to a 28-0 lead before Bob Potkonjak put the Trojans on the scoreboard with an 8 yard dash. Jerry Jacques added the only other Fountain TD with a 2-yard run.

Arizona Sneaks Past Air Force

Wildcat Defense Comes Through In Scoreless Second Halt Struggle

By MORRIS FRASER

Arizona fell back on its defense in the second half Saturday afternoon to hold onto a 14-10 victory over Air Force before 32,196 fans in Falcon Stadium.

The victory, Arizona's first in the state since it defeated Colorado State in 1934, advanced the Wildcats' record to 6-1 and sliced Air Force's margin to 5-3, with a 2-1 mark showing against Western Conference foes this season.

Darrell Mudra praised Air Force's offense as "the toughest we've seen all season," but gave due credit to his own defensive line, which held the Cadets to 74 yards in the final half.

The score was identical to last year's, when Arizona broke a winless series against the Falcons by winning in Tucson.

Bright spot in the Falcon offense was junior split end Charlie Longnecker, who set Academy records for passes caught in a career (41), yards by passes caught in a season (580) and yards by passes caught in a game (168).

Longnecker also scored the Academy's only touchdown, a 46-yard completion from Gary Baxter. Longnecker wrestled away the ball from defensive halfback Bill Miller and ran over in the first period.

It was half of a good two-man battle. Later in the half Miller swiped the ball from Longnecker. The big end has just caught a nine-yarder from Baxter, breaking the career yardage record, when Miller grabbed the ball and returned nine yards with it.

Longnecker's touchdown pass broke the reception record of 33 catches set by Jim Greth in 1964. The career yardage mark, broken just before Miller's theft, snapped the standard of 525 set by Jim Schultz. A 17-yard pass in the third quarter broke the single-game yards-by-passes-caught record set by Ernie Jennings only a week ago. Jennings went 149 yards against North Carolina.

But the records didn't mean much after the Wildcat defense, particularly Tom Nelson and Rex Macklin, two rough linemen, damaged the Salcons' offense almost beyond repair.

It perhaps is unnecessary to state that the Falcons missed regular tailback Curtis Martin, who walked the sidelines with a knee injury. But junior Jim DeOrio did a more than creditable job, picking up 86 yards rushing and catching a pass for nine yards.

The Falcons were damaged considerably following Longnecker's score, when fleet Rick Stevenson ran back the ensuing kickoff 63 yards. It took Stevenson 13 seconds to pile through a midfield tangle and break loose, using a downfield block by Ron Gardin to go all the way. He had run back a 67-yard kickoff return for a score in 12 seconds against Indiana.

But the Falcons had to settle for a 44-yard field goal by Dennis Leuthauser in the second quarter. The only two times after that they reached Arizona territory, misfortune struck.

In the third period the Falcons were working on a drive which began after a punt on their own 17. On third down and long yardage, Baxter went back to pass and fumbled, with Nelson recovering. In the fourth period the Falcons had the advantage of recovering an Arizona fumble on the Wildcat 36. An offensive pass interference penalty shoved Air Force back into its own territory and they never recovered.

The rest of the game was catchup for the Falcons, who couldn't get too much organized against the vaunted Wildcat defesne.

The Falcons are expected to have an easier time of it this week as they host Tulsa in their home finale. The Wildcats, meanwhile, re-enter WAC play against rugged Utah, Wyoming and Arizona State.

Breakaway Kick Return Key Factor for Arizona

BY JOHN SUNDVOR
Gazette Telegraph
Sports Writer

Some say a single play isn't a factor in the outcome of a football game, but Air Force Academy coach Ben Martin tends to disagree.

"One of the key factors in Arizona's win was Rick Stevenson's 93-yard kickoff return in the first quarter right after we scored," he said. "It took us a long time to regain our momentum after that, and the run forced us to make some changes in our game plans."

It all happened with 3:53 left in the first quarter, after the Falcon's Gary Baxter hurled a 47-yard touchdown pass to Charlie Longnecker. According to Martin, the Arizona runback gave Air Force a momentum letdown, and helped the Wildcats take its 14-10 win.

"We tried to mix our offense the best we could with running and passing, but near the end, we were forced to play catchup football, and against a team like Arizona, it's particularily difficult," he said.

Baxter, who completed only eight of 19 passes in the first half for 130 aerial yards, went heavily to the air in the last two quarters. However, unlike the first half, many of his sideline passes to Longnecker were effectively covered by the Arizona secondary.

Darrell Mudra, Arizona's head coach, said he felt the four-point edge made it easier for his squad, because Air Force would have to rely more heavily on it's aerial attack. "Tom Neson our co-captain felt that this was a definite factor in the game," he said, "because we could go into a pass rush."

Arizona took it's four point advantage late in the second quarter when quarterback Mark Driscoll hit Ron Gardin with a 15-yard scoring pass. Neither team scored in the second half, and Air Force watched its season record drop to 5-3.

"Errors and penalties constantly killed our efforts to get a drive going," Martin said. "It seemed like every time that we began to march, something would happen to kill the threat.

A number of times the Air Force took possession of the ball in Arizona territory, but either a series of penalties or an inaccurate passing attack killed the drive.

The Falcons totaled 62 yards in penalties, with 42 of the yards coming in the second half of play. Arizona gave up 70 yards because of infractions, but 35 of the yards were lost during the first two quarters of play.

"Air Force's offense is the toughest we faced this year, Mudra said. "They moved the ball well. I was real thrilled with the progress of our team—the credit goes to the kids and the coaches—We're really pleased—Air Force has a fine team, and they were tougher on the inside than we expected."

The Air Force continually directed it's running plays over left guard Tom Nelson. "We weren't picking on the guy," Martin conceeded. "Baxter said he would prefer to work to the left going down the field. And then, possibly the blocker that was facing him was having a good day and everything was working for him. We go where we can pick up yardage."

Martin noted that Baxter was having a little trouble with his passes. When asked if the passes were overthrown or if the receiver was partially at fault, Martin replied, "Baxter was overthrowing on the bombs. They're (Arizona) so tough on defense that many of our passes were under a lot of pressure, so they hurried the passes a little, because they were afraid the defense would break down.

"Arizona had an outstanding pass rush which gave us trouble plenty of the time. Their defense was the best we've faced this season. They're most effective, and they're quick. That combined with poor execution on our part was also a big factor in Arizona's win."

However, Mudra claimed Air Force had a fine offensive unit. "They really came after us and got a lot of yards against us. Their offense had our defense on edge for quite some time."

The score Saturday was an exact duplication of last year's Air Force-Arizona game. The Falcons play host to Tulsa Saturday and close out the season Nov. 23 at the University of Colorado.

AFA Captures Run With Adams State

Mike Ryan ran an easy 22:09.7 Saturday to lead Air Force's cross-country team to a near-perfect 15-48 victory over Western State on the Academy's four-mile course.

Ryan was the front-runner in a five-man sweep for the Falcons. The only break in the first eight places was Western's Merill Dobson, who an sixth.

Bob Brodel and John Jones locked arms to tie for second, followed by Bill Glushko and Tim Whitlock.

The finish boosted Air Force's dual-meet record to 6-4 as the Falcons closed their home season.

The AFA freshman team nipped Southern Colorado State College, 28-29, and wiped out Royal Roads, 15-50, in a double-dual meet Saturday.

Trojans Fall To Sheridan In Playoff

FORT LOGAN—Fountain's hopes for a Class AA title were squashed 42-14 by Sheridan Saturday afternoon as the Rams utilized a strong running attack.

The winners swept to a 28-0 lead before Bob Potkonjak put the Trojans on the scoreboard with an 8 yard dash. Jerry Jacques added the only other Fountain TD with a 2-yard run.

SOMETHING NOT TO TALK ABOUT — Coach Ben Martin of the Air Force Academy, standing on the sideline, didn't need a telephone to tell him what was happening as Arizona's Rick Stevenson raced 93 yards to score a back-to-back touchdown after the Cadets had tallied on a pass play. Stevenson took the ball on his own seven-yard line and streaked up the middle of the field behind a fast-stepping wave of blockers. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

CC Varsity Tips Alums

BY JOHN SUNDVOR
Gazette Telegraph

About this time every year, the Colorado College alumni take it upon themselves to test the ability of the new Tiger varsity hockey team, and every year, the result is the same—The Varsity edge the college elders.

This year was no exception, as the varsity squad rallied from a two-point deficit early in the third period to take the game, 8-6.

"They (Colorado College) are greatly improved this year," referee Harry Whitworth said after the game. They are more aggressive and they're better at passing."

Less than a minute later, Art Berglund gave the old men from CC a two-point lead after he scored on assist from Stouffer.

The varsity plagued with a inaccurate scoring and passing attack throughout the first two periods of play, finally scored behind Bob Collyard.

"We were having trouble with our passing," Colorado College coach John Matchefts said. "It was taking us too long to pass the puck off. We were dribbling it."

Matchefts said he noticed that the club at times passed well, but added that it wasn't until the last half of the last period that the team started to pass the puck properly. "We played our best in the last half of the last period," he said. "The alumni was more creative than we were. They were able to get the puck off the boards better than we were."

The varsity came back early in the second frame and moved the game into a tie when Bob Collyard scored on an assist from Jack Coles.

However the tie was shortlived. With 2:16 expired Doug King took a pass from Chuck Reinking in for the score.

Late in the stanza the Varsity rallied again on Pete Ryan's unassisted goal in front. The goal, however, was an unpopular one with the Alumni and seconds later the elder squad registered its discontent when Chris Bailey pushed one in.

"This year's team has improved quite a bit," Andy Gambucci said. "They have better forwards and their defensemen give them quite a bit of strength."

The varsity went into the final stanza trailing 5-3.

The varsity started a push after the midway point. Bruce LaHue opened the surge with a slap from the blue line. Minutes later Ryan picked off a rebound and tucked it in.

Ken Carnes then scored for the Alumni to make it 6-5.

The varsity rallied for three goals to take their first lead and wrap it up. Bill Allen scored the winner with less than two minutes after Jim Albrecht had Albrecht wrapped it up in the final seconds on an open net.

Cowboys Upset Buffaloes, 34-17

STILLWATER, Okla.—Oklahoma State's Cowboys took advantage of Colorado University errors here Saturday, turning two first-quarter fumbles into scores, as the Cowboys stunned the Buffs, 34-17 in a Big Eight football game.

Quarterback Ronnie Johnson led the winners, although CU signal caller Bob Anderson fell only seven yards shy of the conference total offense record with 353 yards to his credit for the afternoon.

O-State again relied on the passing and running of Johnson and the receiving of wingback Terry Brown.

Johnson completed 10 of 16 passes for 121 yards, padding his conference-leading figures to 95 of 187 for 1,136 yards. He also carried 17 times for 125 yards and added two scoring runs in the fourth quarter to his early touchdown.

Brown, No. 2 in the league in receiving, caught six Johnson tosses for 82 yards.

The Buffs came to life after intermission, marching 56 yards to score after Isaac Howard recovered an Oklahoma State fumble at the Colorado 44. Ward Walsh blasted across from the one with the touchdown, Dave Haney kicked the extra point, and Colorado trailed 16-7.

O-State came back with a 12-play, 72-yard drive, Bub Deerinwater going the last two for a 22-7 lead.

Haney booted a 23-yard field goal on Colorado's next possession to cut the margin to 22-10, but Johnson promptly led the Pokes to the 28-10 touchdown, taking it in himself from the five.

Fullback Tom Nigbur hammered across from the one-yard line six minutes into the final period to make the score 28-17, but the Buffs could get no closer.

Johnson added his third TD—from four yards out—with three seconds to play.

Minnesota Upsets Purdue

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Burly fullback Jim Carter hammered in for three first period touchdowns as Minnesota knocked sixth-ranked Purdue reeling 27-13 Saturday in a stunning Big Ten football upset.

Carter, who gained 100 yards rushing, rambled 49 yards for the opening touchdown early in the period and then added two more scores on short yardage plunges, igniting the Gophers to a 27-0 halftime lead.

Purdue, a two-touchdown favorite which had been averaging 33 points per game, never recovered from the first half onslaught.

The Boilermakers, suffering their second loss of the season, prevented an all-out Minnesota rout in the second half, on Perry Williams two-yard touchdown plunge and Mike Phipps' three-yard scoring pass to Marion Griffin.

The Gophers, capitalizing on two fumble recoveries and two intercepted passes, churned 307 yards rushing in the game played before a crowd of 49,780 and a national television audience in 33-degree weather.

When the Gophers had to pass, quarterback Ray Stephens connected on key downs and wound up with four completions in just six attempts in the game.

Stephens swept left end for three yards for Minnesota's fourth touchdown.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Ron Johnson bulled his way for two touchdowns in the first half and quarterback Dennis Brown fired two touchdown passes as the Michigan Wolverines rolled over winless Illinois 36-0 Saturday.

The victory gives the Wolverines a 5-0 Big Ten record and moves them within one game of a season finale against Ohio State with the winner likely to go to the Rose Bowl.

Brown took to the air often and Michigan had little trouble moving against the Illini defense. He threw a sparkling 69-yard touchdown pass to end Billy Harris late in the first half to bring the crowd of 56,775 to its feet.

He also tossed a 14-yarder to sophomore flanker Paul Staroba for another score in the third quarter.

Johnson's two touchdowns came in the first half on four and two yard runs. He went into the game with 10 touchdowns.

The Illinois scoring threat came early in the fourth quarter when quarterback Bob Naponic guided the Illini to the Michigan 14 before safety Tom Curtis intercepted for the Wolverines on the three. It was his eighth Big Ten interception of the season and broke the record of seven which he tied last year.

Tim Killian kicked a 26-yard field goal in the third quarter five plays after George Hoey recovered an Illini fumble at the Illinois 20.

Missouri Crunches Iowa State, 42-7

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Missouri used a crunching ground attack and two long punt returns by Roger Wehrli to punish outmanned Iowa State, 42-7, in a Big Eight Conference football game played before an M. U. Homecoming crowd of 52,200 Saturday.

The Missouri victory, coupled with Kansas' 27-23 loss to Oklahoma, left the Tigers in undisputed possession of first place in the Big Eight with a 5-0 record.

Missouri ground out 320 yards on the ground to 81 for the Cyclones.

The Tigers put the ball in the air just 11 times, completing 6 for 99 yards.

Wehrli's 129 yards on six punt returns gave him a career total of 1023, breaking the Big Eight record of 927 set by Jack Mitchell of Oklahoma.

Wehrli's 33-yard runback of Bob Brouillette's kick after Iowa State's initial possession put the ball on the Cyclone 38 and set up Missouri's first touchdown.

The Tigers took it over in four plays. A 23-yard sprint to the 2-yard line by quarterback Terry McMillan put it in position for fullback Ron McBride's touchdown. Bill Sangster added the extra point.

After Iowa State had tied it 7-7 on a 36-yard halfback pass from Obert Tisdale to Sam Campbell late in the first period Missouri forged ahead again on an 80-yard drive in 14 plays.

Tailback Greg Cook sprinted in from the 10.

Another return by Wehrli, this time a 49-yarder that ended on the Iowa State 27, led to Jim Harrison's 1-yard plunge and built a 21-7 halftime lead for the Tigers.

Harrison scored two more touchdowns in the third period on runs of 9 and 3 yards. Sophomore Joe Moore capped a 57-yard march in the fourth period with a 5-yard TD run.

Missouri's scoring ended with a little less than five minutes left in the game when sophomore end Mike Bennett nailed Tisdale in the end zone for a safety.

Iowa State's only trip into Missouri territory in the second half came early in the third quarter and ended when Vern Skripsky's 29-yard field goal attempt was wide.

Iowa State's Jeff Allen set a single season conference record for kickoff returns, eclipsing the old mark of 516 set by Larry Elliott of Oklahoma State in 1964. Allen's 48 yards on three returns gave him a season total of 557.

2nd-Ranked OSU Crushes Wisconsin

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Second-ranked Ohio State, sluggish in the first half, used the passing and running of Ron Maciejowski to crush Wisconsin's winless Badgers 43-8 Saturday in a Big Ten Conference football game.

The Buckeyes from Ohio State had to settle for a 28-yard field goal by Jim Roman the first time they got the ball. Their next series ended when Maciejowski fired an eight-yard scoring pass to Larry Zelina.

Wisconsin's defensive unit, on the field most of the day, stiffened and the visitors went into halftime leading 10-0.

Any hopes for a major upset by the 40,972 watching the slaughter amid snow flurries vanished rapidly at the start of the third period.

Maciejowski's 13-yard keeper started the Buckeyes goalward again. The sophomore quarterback also picked his way through the Badger secondary for 10 and 21 yards before breaking over center for a five-yard TD.

Ohio State got another six points minutes later when fullback Jim Otis plunged across from the two to cap a 51-yard march.

The Buckeyes pushed the score to 30-0 later in the period with Otis again going over from the two.

Wisconsin, whose winless streak stretched to 18, finally scored at the start of the final quarter. The 68-yard drive, highlighted by a 31-yard aerial from John Ryan to Tom McCauley, was culminated when Ryan sneaked in from the one.

Iowa Rambles Past Northwestern, 68-34

By PAUL LEBAR

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Tailback Ed Podolak galloped to an amazing 286 yards on 17 rushing attempts while pacing rambunctious Iowa to a 68-34 Big Ten Conference football romp over hapless Northwestern Saturday.

The 6-1 193-pound senior, in eclipsing a 2-year-old Big Ten rushing record set by Clinton Jones of Michigan State, amassed 208 of the yards as Iowa built a 42-14 lead in the first half.

He shattered Jones' mark with a 42-yard dash to Northwestern's eight-yard line at the third quarter's conclusion and retired from the game four minutes later with a bruised shoulder.

Iowa, in compiling its greatest point total in 11 seasons, ran and passed for 639 yards, 28 yards over a Big Ten record set by Michigan State against the Hawkeyes in 1966.

The Hawkeye defense wavered against the passing of Dave Shelbourne and the running of Dick Emmerich or the team's total offense may have been greater.

Podolak, a former quarterback playing his fourth game at tailback, slashed 60 yards to a touchdown in the opening period, and ran 32 yards to score again before halftime.

Late Indiana Touchdown Drops Tough MSU, 24-22

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Indiana scored a touchdown with 52 seconds left and edged Michigan State 24-22 Saturday. The victory kept Hoosier Big Ten title hopes alive.

A Steve Brown pass to Eric Stolberg, who made a spectacular catch on the one-yard line, set up Indiana's winning touchdown. The pass covered 33 yards.

Michigan State fumbled six times and lost the ball four times, while Indiana had seven fumbles and four ball losses.

Indiana is 4-1 in the conference and cannot yet be counted out of the title run and the Rose Bowl bid.

Michigan State, 1-4 in conference play, now can only hope to play the role of a spoiler.

Indiana jumped to a 10-0 lead in the first quarter on a 27-yard field goal by Don Warner and a touchdown from the one by Bob Pernell, se up by a Spartan fumble on their own 28.

Michigan State struck back with a 75-yard touchdown drive, Don Highsmith going over the last two yards for the touchdown. Charlie Wedemeyer then ran in the ball for two points.

Both teams scored in the third period, MSU on a 54-yard push and Indiana on a 75-yard drive.

Bill Feraco, alternating at quarterback with Bill Triplett sneaked in from the one for the MSU score. Greg Brown made the Indiana touchdown from the three.

Oklahoma Upsets Jayhawks, 27-23

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Oklahoma, undaunted by Kansas' perfect football record, crunched 81 yards to a fourth-quarter touchdown, then got a game-saving pass interception from Steve Barrett in the end zone to upset the Jayhawks 27-23 Saturday.

The defeat was the first for the No. 3 ranked Kansans after seven straight victories and may have ruined the Jayhawks' chances of going to the Orange Bowl. Kansas had been considered a strong bet to win a bid to Miami had it beaten Oklahoma and Kansas State next week.

The loss also dropped Kansas out of a tie for the Big Eight Conference lead with Missouri, which took over sole possession of first place with a 5-0 league record. Kansas is 4-1 in the conference and Oklahoma 3-1.

The Sooners, who had lost this season to Notre Dame, Texas and Colorado, turned the tide with perhaps their finest defensive performance. Despite setting a career high with 262 yards total offense, Bobby Douglass could not pull out a last-minute touchdown that would have kept the Jayhawks unbeaten and untied. In a race with the clock, Douglass moved Kansas 54 yards to the Oklahoma 26.

At that point Douglass was swarmed by a host of Sooners for a 12-yard loss back to the 38. On the next play Douglass fired a long pass into the end zone. The ball was batted into the air, and Barrett speared it for the Sooners with 1½ minutes to play.

Oklahoma, with Steve Owens again bashing through defenders for a ton of yardage, had gone ahead 27-23 with 4:14 remaining. Owens swept five yards around right end with a pitchout to score, capping the 81-yard march in 10 plays.

Ownes gained 157 yards rushing, scored twice and passed for another touchdown.

The loss broke a nine-game Kansas winning streak, dating back to last season. That was the most consecutive games the Jayhawks had won since 1907-09.

The scoring duel began, ironically, after a scoreless first quarter.

Cornhuskers Upset by Wildcats

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Kansas State used the passing of Lynn Dickey, the kicking of Max Arreguin and a stubborn defense Saturday to fashion their first Big Eight Conference football victory in four years, a 12-0 conquest of favored Nebraska.

Not since Oklahoma State bowed in the next to last game of the 1964 season had Kansas State beaten a loop rival.

A tie with Kansas in 1966 was the Wildcat's best since then.

The upset lofted K-State to a 3-5 season record, 1-4 in the conference. Nebraska stands 5-3 over-all, 23 in the Big Eight.

A Nebraska homecoming crowd of 65,986 had scarcely settled in their seats before K-State scored.

On the first play from scrimmage after a Nebraska punt, Dickey lofted a long sideline pass to end Dave Jones, good for 47 yards. Two plays later Dickey passed to Mack Herron for a nine-yard touchdown.

Arreguin's conversion kick failed and the Wildcats owned a 6-0 lead with less than 2½ minutes of playing time elapsed.

Army Football Stadium Adds Seating Deck

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Army is adding 11,000 seats to Michie Stadium by double decking the west stand to bring the capacity to 42,000, Maj. Gen. Samuel W. Koster, academy superintendent, announced Saturday.

The cost of the expansion is $1.9 million and will be financd with Army Athletic Association funds. The construction will be completed in time for the 1969 football season.

Army plays six home games next year: New Mexico, Sept. 20; Texas A&M, Oct. 4; Utah State, Oct. 18; Boston College, Oct. 25; Air Force, Nov. 1, and Pittsburgh, Nov. 15.

Oehrlein Named AFA Net Coach

Freshman coach last season, Oehrlein earned three letters each in tennis and squash at West Point and was tennis captain during his senior year. He was intercollegiate squash champion in 1965 and was ranked second-best tennis player in Florida in 1967. He was rated third in the Eastern Intercollegiate tennis standings in 1963-64-65.

Minnesota Upsets Purdue

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Burly fullback Jim Carter hammered in for three first period touchdowns as Minnesota knocked sixth-ranked Purdue reeling 27-13 Saturday in a stunning Big Ten football upset.

Carter, who gained 100 yards rushing, rambled 49 yards for the opening touchdown early in the period and then added two more scores on short yardage plunges, igniting the Gophers to a 27-0 halftime lead.

Purdue, a two-touchdown favorite which had been averaging 33 points per game, never recovered from the first half onslaught.

The Boilermakers, suffering their second loss of the season, prevented an all-out Minnesota rout in the second half, on Perry Williams two-yard touchdown plunge and Mike Phipps' three-yard scoring pass to Marion Griffin.

The Gophers, capitalizing on two fumble recoveries and two intercepted passes, churned 307 yards rushing in the game played before a crowd of 49,780 and a national television audience in 33-degree weather.

When the Gophers had to pass, quarterback Ray Stephens connected on key downs and wound up with four completions in just six attempts in the game.

Stephens swept left end for three yards for Minnesota's fourth touchdown.

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Ron Johnson bulled his way for two touchdowns in the first half and quarterback Dennis Brown fired two touchdown passes as the Michigan Wolverines rolled over winless Illinois 36-0 Saturday.

The victory gives the Wolverines a 5-0 Big Ten record and moves them within one game of a season finale against Ohio State with the winner likely to go to the Rose Bowl.

Brown took to the air often and Michigan had little trouble moving against the Illini defense. He threw a sparkling 69-yard touchdown pass to end Billy Harris late in the first half to bring the crowd of 56,775 to its feet.

He also tossed a 14-yarder to sophomore flanker Paul Staroba for another score in the third quarter.

Johnson's two touchdowns came in the first half on four and two yard runs. He went into the game with 10 touchdowns.

The Illinois scoring threat came early in the fourth quarter when quarterback Bob Naponic guided the Illini to the Michigan 14 before safety Tom Curtis intercepted for the Wolverines on the three. It was his eighth Big Ten interception of the season and broke the record of seven which he tied last year.

Tim Killian kicked a 26-yard field goal in the third quarter five plays after George Hoey recovered an Illini fumble at the Illinois 20.

Missouri Crunches Iowa State, 42-7

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP)—Missouri used a crunching ground attack and two long punt returns by Roger Wehrli to punish outmanned Iowa State, 42-7, in a Big Eight Conference football game played before an M. U. Homecoming crowd of 52,200 Saturday.

The Missouri victory, coupled with Kansas' 27-23 loss to Oklahoma, left the Tigers in undisputed possession of first place in the Big Eight with a 5-0 record.

Missouri ground out 320 yards on the ground to 81 for the Cyclones.

Wehrli's 129 yards on six punt returns gave him a career total of 1023, breaking the Big Eight record of 927 set by Jack Mitchell of Oklahoma.

Wehrli's 33-yard runback of Bob Brouillette's kick after Iowa State's initial possession put the ball on the Cyclone 38 and set up Missouri's first touchdown.

The Tigers took it over in four plays. A 23-yard sprint to the 2-yard line by quarterback Terry McMillan put it in position for fullback Ron McBride's touchdown. Bill Sangster added the extra point.

After Iowa State had tied it 7-7 on a 36-yard halfback pass from Obert Tisdale to Sam Campbell late in the first period Missouri forged ahead again on an 80-yard drive in 14 plays.

Tailback Greg Cook sprinted in from the 10.

Another return by Wehrli, this time a 49-yarder that ended on the Iowa State 27, led to Jim Harrison's 1-yard plunge and built a 21-7 halftime lead for the Tigers.

Harrison scored two more touchdowns in the third period on runs of 9 and 3 yards. Sophomore Joe Moore capped a 57-yard march in the fourth period with a 5-yard TD run.

Missouri's scoring ended with a little less than five minutes left in the game when sophomore end Mike Bennett nailed Tisdale in the end zone for a safety.

Iowa State's only trip into Missouri territory in the second half came early in the third quarter and ended when Vern Skripsky's 29-yard field goal attempt was wide.

Iowa State's Jeff Allen set a single season conference record for kickoff returns, eclipsing the old mark of 516 set by Larry Elliott of Oklahoma State in 1964. Allen's 48 yards on three returns gave him a season total of 557.

2nd-Ranked OSU Crushes Wisconsin

By BOB GREENE
Associated Press Sports Writer

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Second-ranked Ohio State, sluggish in the first half, used the passing and running of Ron Maciejowski to crush Wisconsin's winless Badgers 43-8 Saturday in a Big Ten Conference football game.

The Buckeyes from Ohio State had to settle for a 28-yard field goal by Jim Roman the first time they got the ball. Their next series ended when Maciejowski fired an eight-yard scoring pass to Larry Zelina.

Wisconsin's defensive unit, on the field most of the day, stiffened and the visitors went into halftime leading 10-0.

Any hopes for a major upset by the 40,972 watching the slaughter amid snow flurries vanished rapidly at the start of the third period.

Maciejowski's 13-yard keeper started the Buckeyes goalward again. The sophomore quarterback also picked his way through the Badger secondary for 10 and 21 yards before breaking over center for a five-yard TD.

Ohio State got another six points minutes later when fullback Jim Otis plunged across from the two to cap a 51-yard march.

The Buckeyes pushed the score to 30-0 later in the period with Otis again going over from the two.

Wisconsin, whose winless streak stretched to 18, finally scored at the start of the final quarter. The 68-yard drive, highlighted by a 31-yard aerial from John Ryan to Tom McCauley, was culminated when Ryan sneaked in from the one.

Iowa Rambles Past Northwestern, 68-34

By PAUL LEBAR

IOWA CITY, Iowa (AP) — Tailback Ed Podolak galloped to an amazing 286 yards on 17 rushing attempts while pacing rambunctious Iowa to a 68-34 Big Ten Conference football romp over hapless Northwestern Saturday.

The 6-1 193-pound senior, in eclipsing a 2-year-old Big Ten rushing record set by Clinton Jones of Michigan State, amassed 208 of the yards as Iowa built a 42-14 lead in the first half.

He shattered Jones' mark with a 42-yard dash to Northwestern's eight-yard line at the third quarter's conclusion and retired from the game four minutes later with a bruised shoulder.

Iowa, in compiling its greatest point total in 11 seasons, ran and passed for 639 yards, 28 yards over a Big Ten record set by Michigan State against the Hawkeyes in 1966.

The Hawkeye defense wavered against the passing of Dave Shelbourne and the running of Dick Emmerich or the team's total offense may have been greater.

Podolak, a former quarterback playing his fourth game at tailback, slashed 60 yards to a touchdown in the opening period, and ran 32 yards to score again before halftime.

Oklahoma Upsets Jayhawks, 27-23

By LEW FERGUSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — Oklahoma, undaunted by Kansas' perfect football record, crunched 81 yards to a fourth-quarter touchdown, then got a game-saving pass interception from Steve Barrett in the end zone to upset the Jayhawks 27-23 Saturday.

The defeat was the first for the No. 3 ranked Kansans after seven straight victories and may have ruined the Jayhawks' chances of going to the Orange Bowl. Kansas had been considered a strong bet to win a bid to Miami had it beaten Oklahoma and Kansas State next week.

The loss also dropped Kansas out of a tie for the Big Eight Conference lead with Missouri, which took over sole possession of first place with a 5-0 league record. Kansas is 4-1 in the conference and Oklahoma 3-1.

The Sooners, who had lost this season to Notre Dame, Texas and Colorado, turned the tide with perhaps their finest defensive performance. Despite setting a career high with 262 yards total offense, Bobby Douglass could not pull out a last-minute touchdown that would have kept the Jayhawks unbeaten and untied. In a race with the clock, Douglass moved Kansas 54 yards to the Oklahoma 26.

At that point Douglass was swarmed by a host of Sooners for a 12-yard loss back to the 38. On the next play Douglass fired a long pass into the end zone. The ball was batted into the air, and Barrett speared it for the Sooners with 1½ minutes to play.

Oklahoma, with Steve Owens again bashing through defenders for a ton of yardage, had gone ahead 27-23 with 4:14 remaining. Owens swept five yards around right end with a pitchout to score, capping the 81-yard march in 10 plays.

Ownes gained 157 yards rushing, scored twice and passed for another touchdown.

The loss broke a nine-game Kansas winning streak, dating back to last season. That was the most consecutive games the Jayhawks had won since 1907-09.

The scoring duel began, ironically, after a scoreless first quarter.

Cornhuskers Upset by Wildcats

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Kansas State used the passing of Lynn Dickey, the kicking of Max Arreguin and a stubborn defense Saturday to fashion their first Big Eight Conference football victory in four years, a 12-0 conquest of favored Nebraska.

Not since Oklahoma State bowed in the next to last game of the 1964 season had Kansas State beaten a loop rival.

A tie with Kansas in 1966 was the Wildcat's best since then.

The upset lofted K-State to a 3-5 season record, 1-4 in the conference. Nebraska stands 5-3 over-all, 23 in the Big Eight.

A Nebraska homecoming crowd of 65,986 had scarcely settled in their seats before K-State scored.

On the first play from scrimmage after a Nebraska punt, Dickey lofted a long sideline pass to end Dave Jones, good for 47 yards. Two plays later Dickey passed to Mack Herron for a nine-yard touchdown.

Arreguin's conversion kick failed and the Wildcats owned a 6-0 lead with less than 2½ minutes of playing time elapsed.

Late Indiana Touchdown Drops Tough MSU, 24-22

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Indiana scored a touchdown with 52 seconds left and edged Michigan State 24-22 Saturday. The victory kept Hoosier Big Ten title hopes alive.

A Steve Brown pass to Eric Stolberg, who made a spectacular catch on the one-yard line, set up Indiana's winning touchdown. The pass covered 33 yards.

Michigan State fumbled six times and lost the ball four times, while Indiana had seven fumbles and four ball losses.

Indiana is 4-1 in the conference and cannot yet be counted out of the title run and the Rose Bowl bid.

Michigan State, 1-4 in conference play, now can only hope to play the role of a spoiler.

Indiana jumped to a 10-0 lead in the first quarter on a 27-yard field goal by Don Warner and a touchdown from the one by Bob Pernell, se up by a Spartan fumble on their own 28.

Michigan State struck back with a 75-yard touchdown drive, Don Highsmith going over the last two yards for the touchdown. Charlie Wedemeyer then ran in the ball for two points.

Both teams scored in the third period, MSU on a 54-yard push and Indiana on a 75-yard drive.

Bill Feraco, alternating at quarterback with Bill Triplett sneaked in from the one for the MSU score. Greg Brown made the Indiana touchdown from the three.

Dribble Dreams

It might be too early for a treatise on basketball, but lately sports seasons merge so swiftly that if we don't take the opportunity, it might pass us by.

To hear an Air Force fan talk, you never saw a bad Falcon team — in any sport. Regardless of the record, this is one group of people which backs its teams to the hilt.

So when an average team comes along, there's the usual hoopla and people enjoy following the games. But when a really outstanding team crops up, there's an extra crackling in the crisp air north of town.

Such vibrations are being produced by the 1968-69 edition of the basketball team. It's a veteran team, but it has youngsters with experience. There's a star or two, but the balance and depth is tremendous.

There's a new arena, seating 6,600 which, if filled, will begin to take on the apportionments of a snake pit-style coliseum. And there are enough outstanding opponents, both at home and on the road, to make it doubly worthwhile to visit more than a few games.

Top-Caliber Opponents

When you mention visitors to the Academy, you will discuss Colorado, Arkansas State, Stanford, Denver, Navy, Colorado State, Wyoming, Oklahoma City, Marquette, New Mexico State and Regis — just to hit some of the better ones.

When you mention opponents you include Notre Dame, Xavier, Tulane and Georgia Tech — just a few of them.

The opponents Air Force plays generally are worth watching, even when the caliber of the Cadet teams is sub-standard. Take Colorado:

It boasts 7-2 sophomore Ron Smith, and there's not a two-year resident of Colorado Springs who does not remember this Pueblo Centennial standout. While the Buffs have lost a number of star shooters to graduation, they do have guard Gordon Tope returning, with sophomore Dudley Mitchell (former Denver TJ star) due to inherit a starting berth.

Colorado State? Just mention Lloyd and Floyd Kerr and Cliff Shegogg, and the fact that coach Jim Williams will be spending his full time on basketball, and you have the makings of a WAC contender.

Denver? New coach Stan Albeck has guard Horace Kearney and forward Moses Brewer. He doesn't have Harry Hollines, but then he has additional height along the front line.

Wyoming? Guard Harry Hall will give anyone fits and Carl Ashley will be jumping all over the court at center and forward.

I could go on, eternally, listing the caliber of the opposition. Let's just wind it up by noting that Notre Dame is rated in the top ten in the country and New Mexico State is ranked in the top 20.

Parsons and Company

But this season is something more than a good list of opponents. Last year the Falcons finished 9-15 against the same type of teams. This year the fans are looking toward a winning season, possibly even a spot in the NCAA playoffs.

It's a good possibility, too. Center Cliff Parsons hasn't grown any from his 6-10 sophomore stature, but he ranks second on the school's scoring list. He's a deadly defender. No one shoots from the corner much anymore, with Parsons ready to send the ball into the third row.

He's not as aggressive on rebounding as some would like, but that seems to be a shortcoming of most big men who never have had to jump much.

Rebounding will be the big asset of the co-captain forwards, Mike Klindt and Mike Thiessen. It's easy to tell them apart. Klindt is stocky, with muscles enough to rip the ball away from anyone. Thiessen looks as if he couldn't stay in the game more than ten minutes, but he's one of the better rebounders in the region and won't give away anything to anyone.

The guard spots currently are claimed by Bert Spear and Mark Bean. Spear is the son of head coach Bob Spear, but he's earned his way on this team.

Bert is an agile playmaker, dribbler and shooter. At Air Academy High he was one of the most prolific long-range shooters the school had witnessed.

Bean played at Pueblo East and developed quickly as a corner shot and rebounder. He's big enough to play both guard and forward.

Reserves Are Strong

You really can't say that Mike Kelley is behind anyone on the team. He and Spear made quite a backcourt duo last season as sophomores and only Bean's front line skills have given him the edge at the moment.

Broncos Meet Raiders

By JOHN SUNDVOR
Gazette Telegraph
Sports Writer

DENVER — The Denver Broncos may well change their name to the "Hard Luck Horses" Sunday after the Oakland Raiders make their first season appearance in Bear Stadium.

The Broncos, coached by Lou Saban, have twice put on a two-game winning streak, and this week two forces are threatening to cut it short. The club will not only have to contend with one of the tougher teams in the American Football League, but also will have to shake off the effects of a flu bug that has been playing havoc with Denver's training schedule.

Pete Jaquess, one of the club's tough defensive backs, was sent home from practice earlier in the week because of a confrontation with the flu, and John Huard also made his exit during the week. Both players are expected to play Sunday.

Game time is slated for 1 p.m., and a crowd of 50,000 is expected to be on hand for the game.

However, Denver isn't alone in the problems department. While the Bronco's are concerned about the affects of the flu, Oakland is concerned about the affects of a tough season which has left the club physically sore.

The Raiders' big arm, Daryle Lamonica, may well be watching the game for the sidelines after suffering a wrenched knee against Kansas City last week.

Lamonica, who led Oakland past Kansas City, 38-21, last week was injured in the second half, and George Blanda was brought in to call signals. Lamonica, however, completed 18 of 32 passes for 352 aerial yards in the game. Blanda hit on 11 of 14 passes for 129 yards.

In addition to Lamonica, the Raiders will be without the services of defensive tackle Tom Keating. Keating, who underwent Achilles tendon surgery, accounted for much of Oakland's defensive speed.

But Denver's squad also has to be regarded as a bit tender going into this game. Veteran quarterback Steve Tensi, who was sidelined at the first of the season with a broken left collarbone, is still nursing a bruise on his left shoulder. And Al Denson, who also suffered a broken collarbone this season, returned for the club last game.

Against Boston, the Broncos combined Tensi's strong aerial attack and Floyd Little's heavy running attack to total 470 offensive yards. Boston was held to 175 yards during the game.

Denver, which took the game, 35-14, picked up 238 yards on the ground and 232 yards in the air. Tensi completed 11 of 17 passing attempts for 206 yards. He had one pass intercepted.

"We did a good job in almost every department," Lou Saban said. "Offensively, Tensi threw well and we got another strong effort from Little. Our pass protection was sound and we lso did a good job blocking fro the run.

"Defensively, we limited Boston to just one touchdown until the middle of the fourth quarter."

Tensi engineered touchdown drives the first two times the Broncos had the ball and the club captured a 14-0 edge in less than eight minutes of play. Last week's performance pushes Tensi into sixth place in AFL passing. The veteran quarterback has completed 37 of 84 passing attempts for 588 yards.

Oakland's Lamonica is in third place in league passing with 109 completions out of 237 attempts. The Raider quarterback has totaled 1,792 aerial yards this season.

Little has started to move up in the rushing standings as a result of his games against Miami and Boston.

The 195 pound offensive back rushed for 147 yards on 30 carries against Boston to set a new all-time Bronco high for a ballcarrier in a single game. Little's performance, which included a 55-yard touchdown run, came on the heels of a 125-yard rushing effort against Miami.

"It was a long time coming," Little said, "but I always knew that I could do the job. I might have had some mental lethave had some mental letdowns, but I never really doubted my ability. The blocking was great. We'll just try to go on from here."

His 273 rushing total for the last two weeks has vaulted him from nowhere to ninth place in AFL rushing. Oakland's Hewritt Dixon leads the league in rushing with a 607-yard total. Little has 349 rushing yards.

Alabama Tips LSU For Fifth Victory

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Sophomore Scott Hunter threw two scoring strikes Saturday to give Alabama its fifth straight football victory over Louisiana State, 16-7, after a stout Tiger defense refused to allow the Crimson Tide to run for a touchdown.

Representatives from at least six post-season bowls watched as the Tide handed the Tigers their third straight loss. Alabama's mark now stands at 6-2.

The Southeastern Conference loss eliminated LSU from the title chase because the Tigers now have lost two league games.

Alabama also has been beaten twice in the conference.

Hunter threw for 11 yards to Pete Jilleba in the first period and for 16 yards to Donnie Sutton in the final quarter after Louisiana State's defense, led by Mike Anderson, halted Tide drives three times within the five.

Mike Dean kicked a 29-yard field goal in the third period to make the score 9-7 after LSU had taken a 7-6 lead earlier in the quarter on Kenny Newfield's 15-yard burst over left tackle.

Dean earlier had been wide on two 22-yard field goal attempts, and his conversion kick after the Tide's first score was blocked by Anderson.

The Tide swept to the four but two plays moved Alabama back to the 16. Then Hunter tossed to Sutton in the end zone for the clinching touchdown on Sutton's first offensive play of the game.

Cardinals Top Japan's Star Contingent

TOKYO (AP) — Mike Shannon slammed five hits, including two home runs, in leading the St. Louis Cardinals to a 13-10 victory over Japan's baseball All-Stars Saturday.

Held scoreless in two previous games by the All-Stars, the National League champions broke out with 19 hits including four homers. The other home runs were hit by Orlando Cepeda and John Edwards.

The All-Stars belted three homers and got nine other hits off ace Bob Gibson and reliever Joe Hoerner.

Gibson, celebrating his 33rd birthday, was the winning pitcher although Shinichi Eto reached him for a three-run homer in the first inning.

But Gibson tightened up after that and blanked the Stars in his next four innings.

India's Ace Krishnan In Davis Cup Win

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Ramanathan Krishnan, India's 31-year-old tennis ace, crushed Clark Graebner, 7-5, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, Saturday and gave his team a 1-1 tie with the favored United States in the Davis Cup Inter-Zone finals.

Arthur Ashe, the U.S. amateur and open champion, had won the opening match for the United States by beating Premjit Lall 6-2, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Krishnan, the veteran internationalist and Cup star, was the player the Americans feared and he lived up to expectations in downing the hard-hitting but erratic 25-year-old New Yorker.

In the crucial doubles match Sunday, Krishnan will team with Jaidip Mukerjea against the Los Angeles tandem of Stan Smith and Bob Lutz. The match will start at 1 p.m., EST.

The final two singles contests on Monday will send Krishnan against Ashe and Graebner against Lall.

The winning team will meet Australia's Cup holders in the Challenge Round at Adelaide, Australia, Dec. 26-28. The American s pleay163d nhetniewh9 er they defeated Australia 3-2 and won the Cup.

The Aussies regained it at Cleveland, Ohio, in 1964 and have held it since. That was the last time the United States played in the Challenge Round.

Ashe, the 25-year-old American ace from Richmond, Va., hit too hard and accurately for the 27-year-old Lall. Lall, however, brought cheers from the sparse crowd of a little more than 1,000 at the Caribe Hilton Hotel courts by taking the second set.

Lall double-faulted twice in holding his service in the 11th game and then he broke Ashe's serve, after two deuces, to win the 12th game and the set. Ashe then came back to sweep the next two sets and the match.

Penn State Tops Hurricanes, 22-7

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP) — Halfbacks Charlie Pittman and Bob Campbell ripped apart the nation's second best college defense against rushing Saturday as unbeaten Penn State came from behind in the second half to beat Miami 22-7 for the Nittany Lions' seventh straight football victory.

Fourth-ranked State trailed the Hurricanes from Florida 7-0 in the first half on a 78-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Dave Olivo to flanker Ray Bellamy.

In the final 30 minutes, however, Pittman scored three touchdowns and ran for 123 yards, while Campbell cracked the tough Miami defense for 86.

A crowd of 49,863, including scouts from the Sugar, Cotton, Orange and Gator Bowls, watched a rugged State defense blunt the Miami offense in the second half while its offense romped for all 22 points.

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Sophomore Joe Theismann and little Coley O'Brien, erstwhile understudy to injured Terry Hanratty, teamed for five touchdowns in a 56-7 Notre Dame football rout of pathetic Pittsburgh Saturday.

Theismann, replacing star quarterback Hanratty who suffered a severe knee injury in practice, brilliantly directed the Fighting Irish to a 43-0 lead in the first 27 minutes of play.

O'Brien, who basked in Hanratty's shadow for two previous seasons, scored three straight touchdowns as a halfback in Notre Dame's 26-point second quarter.

Two of O'Brien's three touchdowns came on passes of 15 to 31 yards from the 163-pound Theismann who scored himself on runs of 10 and 9 yards as Notre Dame stunned Pitt with 23 points in the first quarter.

Pitt's 159-pound Dave Havern began clicking on passes after the intermission against fumbling Irish reserves. He broke the Panthers' shutout with an 11-yard scoring shot to Joe McCain on the third play of the second half.

It was Notre Dame's sixth triumph against defeats by Purdue and Michigan State. It was the seventh setback in eight starts for Pitt, whose worst defeat was a 63-7 opening massacre by UCLA.

Theismann, who had thrown only 11 passes all season behind the record-breaking Hanratty, Saturday hit on 7 of 10 tosses for 153 yards.

He showed skill and poise in directing scoring marches of 80, 77, 65, 50 and 45 yards in Notre Dame's devastating first half.

Hanratty's knee injury may require surgery but a decision will not be made until next week.

Broncos Meet Raiders

By JOHN SUNDVOR
Gazette Telegraph
Sports Writer

DENVER — The Denver Broncos may well change their name to the "Hard Luck Horses" Sunday after the Oakland Raiders make their first season appearance in Bear Stadium.

The Broncos, coached by Lou Saban, have twice put on a two-game winning streak, and this week two forces are threatening to cut it short. The club will not only have to contend with one of the tougher teams in the American Football League, but also will have to shake off the effects of a flu bug that has been playing havoc with Denver's training schedule.

Pete Jaquess, one of the club's tough defensive backs, was sent home from practice earlier in the week because of a confrontation with the flu, and John Huard also made his exit during the week. Both players are expected to play Sunday.

Game time is slated for 1 p.m., and a crowd of 50,000 is expected to be on hand for the game.

However, Denver isn't alone in the problems department. While the Bronco's are concerned about the affects of the flu, Oakland is concerned about the affects of a tough season which has left the club physically sore.

The Raiders' big arm, Daryle Lamonica, may well be watching the game for the sidelines after suffering a wrenched knee against Kansas City last week.

Lamonica, who led Oakland past Kansas City, 38-21, last week was injured in the second half, and George Blanda was brought in to call signals. Lamonica, however, completed 18 of 32 passes for 352 aerial yards in the game. Blanda hit on 11 of 14 passes for 129 yards.

In addition to Lamonica, the Raiders will be without the services of defensive tackle Tom Keating. Keating, who underwent Achilles tendon surgery, accounted for much of Oakland's defensive speed.

But Denver's squad also has to be regarded as a bit tender going into this game. Veteran quarterback Steve Tensi, who was sidelined at the first of the season with a broken left collarbone, is still nursing a bruise on his left shoulder. And Al Denson, who also suffered a broken collarbone this season, returned for the club last game.

Against Boston, the Broncos combined Tensi's strong aerial attack and Floyd Little's heavy running attack to total 470 offensive yards. Boston was held to 175 yards during the game.

Denver, which took the game, 35-14, picked up 238 yards on the ground and 232 yards in the air. Tensi completed 11 of 17 passing attempts for 206 yards. He had one pass intercepted.

"We did a good job in almost every department," Lou Saban said. "Offensively, Tensi threw well and we got another strong effort from Little. Our pass protection was sound and we lso did a good job blocking fro the run.

"Defensively, we limited Boston to just one touchdown until the middle of the fourth quarter."

Tensi engineered touchdown drives the first two times the Broncos had the ball and the club captured a 14-0 edge in less than eight minutes of play. Last week's performance pushes Tensi into sixth place in AFL passing. The veteran quarterback has completed 37 of 84 passing attempts for 588 yards.

Oakland's Lamonica is in third place in league passing with 109 completions out of 237 attempts. The Raider quarterback has totaled 1,792 aerial yards this season.

Little has started to move up in the rushing standings as a result of his games against Miami and Boston.

The 195 pound offensive back rushed for 147 yards on 30 carries against Boston to set a new all-time Bronco high for a ball-carrier in a single game. Little's performance, which included a 55-yard touchdown run, came on the heels of a 125-yard rushing effort against Miami.

"It was a long time coming," Little said, "but I always knew that I could do the job. I might have had some mental let-have had some mental letdowns, but I never really doubted my ability. The blocking was great. We'll just try to go on from here."

His 273 rushing total for the last two weeks has vaulted him from nowhere to ninth place in AFL rushing. Oakland's Hewritt Dixon leads the league in rushing with a 607-yard total. Little has 349 rushing yards.

Dribble Dreams

It might be too early for a treatise on basketball, but lately sports seasons merge so swiftly that if we don't take the opportunity, it might pass us by.

To hear an Air Force fan talk, you never saw a bad Falcon team — in any sport. Regardless of the record, this is one group of people which backs its teams to the hilt.

So when an average team comes along, there's the usual hoopla and people enjoy following the games. But when a really outstanding team crops up, there's an extra crackling in the crisp air north of town.

Such vibrations are being produced by the 1968-69 edition of the basketball team. It's a veteran team, but it has youngsters with experience. There's a star or two, but the balance and depth is tremendous.

There's a new arena, seating 6,600 which, if filled, will begin to take on the apportionments of a snake pit-style coliseum. And there are enough outstanding opponents, both at home and on the road, to make it doubly worthwhile to visit more than a few games.

Top-Caliber Opponents

When you mention visitors to the Academy, you will discuss Colorado, Arkansas State, Stanford, Denver, Navy, Colorado State, Wyoming, Oklahoma City, Marquette, New Mexico State and Regis — just to hit some of the better ones.

When you mention opponents you include Notre Dame, Xavier, Tulane and Georgia Tech — just a few of them.

It boasts 7-2 sophomore Ron Smith, and there's not a two-year resident of Colorado Springs who does not remember this Pueblo Centennial standout. While the Buffs have lost a number of star shooters to graduation, they do have guard Gordon Tope returning, with sophomore Dudley Mitchell (former Denver TJ star) due to inherit a starting berth.

Colorado State? Just mention Lloyd and Floyd Kerr and Cliff Shegogg, and the fact that coach Jim Williams will be spending his full time on basketball, and you have the makings of a WAC contender.

Denver? New coach Stan Albeck has guard Horace Kearney and forward Moses Brewer. He doesn't have Harry Hollines, but then he has additional height along the front line.

Wyoming? Guard Harry Hall will give anyone fits and Carl Ashley will be jumping all over the court at center and forward.

I could go on, eternally, listing the caliber of the opposition. Let's just wind it up by noting that Notre Dame is rated in the top ten in the country and New Mexico State is ranked in the top 20.

Parsons and Company

But this season is something more than a good list of opponents. Last year the Falcons finished 9-15 against the same type of teams. This year the fans are looking toward a winning season, possibly even a spot in the NCAA playoffs.

It's a good possibility, too. Center Cliff Parsons hasn't grown any from his 6-10 sophomore stature, but he ranks second on the school's scoring list. He's a deadly defender. No one shoots from the corner much anymore, with Parsons ready to send the ball into the third row.

He's not as aggressive on rebounding as some would like, but that seems to be a shortcoming of most big men who never have had to jump much.

Rebounding will be the big asset of the co-captain forwards, Mike Klindt and Mike Thiessen. It's easy to tell them apart. Klindt is stocky, with muscles enough to rip the ball away from anyone. Thiessen looks as if he couldn't stay in the game more than ten minutes, but he's one of the better rebounders in the region and won't give away anything to anyone.

The guard spots currently are claimed by Bert Spear and Mark Bean. Spear is the son of head coach Bob Spear, but he's earned his way on this team.

Bert is an agile playmaker, dribbler and shooter. At Air Academy High he was one of the most prolific long-range shooters the school had witnessed.

Bean played at Pueblo East and developed quickly as a corner shot and rebounder. He's big enough to play both guard and forward.

Reserves Are Strong

You really can't say that Mike Kelley is behind anyone on the team. He and Spear made quite a backcourt duo last season as sophomores and only Bean's front line skills have given him the edge at the moment.

LIMON—The rumor that Wisconsin's Badgers and Limon's Badgers were to trade playing fields for a weekend is definitely not true.

Limon mentor Lloyd Gaskill would have none of it.

The Badgers from Wisconsin are 0-7 at the moment while the Badgers closer to home are 10-0 following a Class A quarterfinal lesson to Revere by a 55-14 count Saturday afternoon.

Randy Amerine gave a preview of the Shape of Things To Come when he ran 20 yards the first time Limon had the ball. A short time later he scooted in from four yards out for the TD to put the lid on a 60-yard, eight play drive. The game was less than two minutes old.

With a little over two minutes left in the first quarter Gary Weibert's four yard run gave the winners a 14-0 edge.

The Raiders gave signs of making a good fight of it when Terry Sanger intercepted a Limon pass that was deflected into his waiting arms. With a fourth and four situation Robbie Lauer ran through the left side of the Badger defense for a 32 yard score. With 8:19 left in the half Limon was holding a slim 14-7 lead.

Here the Badger offense displayed erratic running and stalled several times. A quick kick on third down is something the Badgers aren't used to. Then, in the space of one minute the roof caved in on the Raiders as the winners scored two TD's with less than 1:40 left in the half.

After Amerine's one yard storm for his second score to make the count 20-7, Troy Glass intercepted a Revère aerial at his own 31 yard line. Glass promptly threw a 31 yard scoring strike to Tom Blazer with 42 seconds left in the half and the Badgers headed for intermission with a 27-7 lead.

The second half began on an interesting note. Badger Jerry Meston pounced upon a Revere fumble on the visitors 18 yard line. Two plays later Amerine, seemingly on another scoring strike, fumbled the ball into the endzone and the Raiders recovered for a touchback.

Badger Terry Malcolm wrestled the ball out of Raider Bruce Henry's arms for a interception and the winners were on the way for three touchdowns in less than six minutes.

It was in this period that the Badgers used many pass eligible plays, with four players throwing the ball. The only one who didn't get to throw the ball in the backfield was the referee.

After Weibert scored his second TD Terry McCall, Limon's workhorse in the second half who gained 65 yards on 8 carries, ran for a one-yarder to cap a drive from the enemy 45-yard line in only three plays.

Jack Garnhart then intercepted a Revere pass on his own 32 yard line. Glass promptly caught a 32-yard aerial on the next play and the Badgers were running away 48-7. Limon defenses picked off five enemy passes in the game.

Coach Gaskill substituted freely in the fourth quarter by utilizing some 50 players in the contest—which is more than the entire Revere squad had. The winners suited up over 70 gridders.

The Raiders finally got on the score board when a blocked Limon punt was scooped up by Scott Johnson on his own 40 yard line and run into the endzone while most of the Limon team just stood with amazed faces. It was the only real bad defensive effort by the Badger line in the game.

Glass then capped the scoring with a 12-yard run for the final score 55-14.

"They're a bunch of good players," commented Coach Gaskill on the Revere lineup. "But" he added, "they don't have the depth we have."

Good defensive plays were turned in by Don, Rich, Terry and Dan Sanger, brothers who kept statisticians busy looking to see who made what.

Trinidad Squeaks Past Regis, 21-20

TRINIDAD—A fantastic performance by Regis' Mike Boryla went for nought here Saturday as Trinidad's Miners squeaked to a 21-20 win over Regis in a state Class AAA playoff football game.

Boryla passed for 241 yards, hitting 21 of 35 attempts and rushed for another 75, but his team could not score often enough to upset the favored Miners.

Rich Cahill was the hero for the Miners, blocking an extra point attempt by Regis' Mike Bock to provide the Miners with their winning margin.

Vic Dionisio led the winners, passing for 100 yards and running for another 94. Dionisio passed for two touchdowns. The third Miner six-pointer was added by Ronnie Dotson on a three-yard plunge.

Regis almost pulled the game out of the fire in the last few seconds. After stopping Trinidad on the Regis four yard line, Boryla led his team all the way to the Miner 10 with 16 seconds left. Regis had used all its time outs and attempted a field goal, but Bock's boot went just under the cross bar.

Trinidad, now 10-0 on the season, meets Thomas Jefferson next Saturday in a quarter-final contest.

CALHAN—Calhan's bid for the state 8-man championship fell short as Sangre De Cristo posted a 38-6 win over the Bulldogs.

The losers were penalized on three successive occasions at the start of the game and lost three fumbles to fall behind 26-0 at the half and were never able to catch up.

Dan Curtis and John Kempf were the workhorses for the Thunderbirds, Curtis netting four TD's and Kempf the remaining two.

Daryl Mitchell scored the only TD for the Bulldogs on a spectacular 89-yard run—the best play of the day. The game was close statistically but Calhan was hamperd by penalties.

Jim Cooper is another one who can play a great deal. A sharpshooting forward, he can rebound with a lot of people and his touch from the corner will force foes to respect him as much as they will the rest of the team.

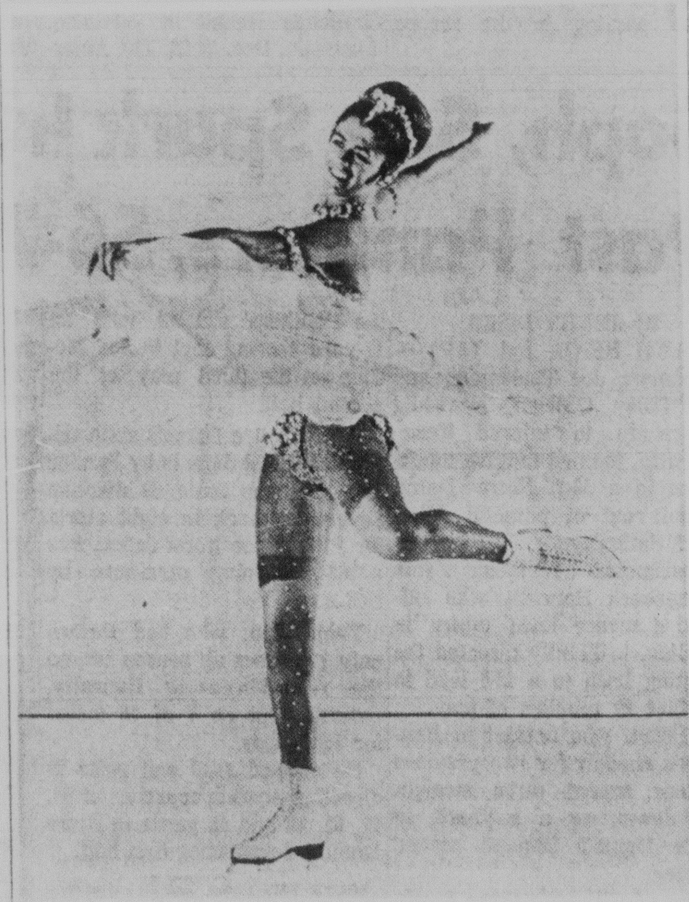
Pete Halvonik is in an uneviable position. He has played two years behind Parsons and hisduties primarily are spotting Cliff rest periods here and there. But Halvonik stands 6-7 and is a brute on the boards. The Falcons may miss some scoring when Pete's in, but they won't lack for defense.

The rest of the team? Well, take touted sophomores like 6-6 Ron Weilert, the freshman team's leading rebounder; 6-4 Bill Purcell, second in both scoring and rebounding; 5-8 Charles Brown, a deadeye shooter at times; and 6-4 Joe Kreimborg, an aggressive defensive player.

Add juniors Greg Popovich, off the junior varsity squad, and Jimmy Love, an outstanding jumper who missed last season, and you have a well-balanced outfit capable of hurting you in any number of ways.

Then add coach Spear, the only head coach to have been at the Academy since its beginning. He's planning a change this year, leaving the famed shuffle offense for a fast-break style. He feels he has the personnal to make this offense go —and it should be exciting to watch.

It all starts Nov. 30 against Colorado which, as we said at the start, is a long way from now. But it's worth waiting for.



ARDITH PAUL
Queen of Ice Skating

Ardith Paul, former member of the Broadmoor Skating Club, has been named Queen of Ice Skating for 1968-69 by the Ice Skating Institute of America. Miss Paul, who has lived in Colorado Springs for the past eight years, now stars with the Ice Capades. She studied skating under the late Edi Scholdan and Carlo Fassi. Since 1963 she has won several titles and skated in leading roles in the annual Broadmoor Ice Revue. Another to hold that honor was Peggy Fleming, now a professional skater who won the 1968 Winter Olympics gold medal. Others to be named queen include Aja Zanova, Barbara Wagner and Uschi Keszler.

WINNING FORM — U.S. Davis Cup ace Arthur Ashe returns a backhand against India's Premjit Lall in Saturday's interzone finals in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Ashe topped Lall 6-2, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4 to give U.S. momentary 1-0 lead in the best of five series but India's Ramanathan Krishnan evened it up a little later with a 7-5, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1 upset win over Clark Graebner of the U.S. (See story on page 3D, AP Wirephoto)

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern California's Steve Sogge threw three touchdown passes, O.J. Simpson ran for two, and aided by a rib-cracking defense, the Trojans thundered Saturday past California 35-17 in an important Pacific-8 Conference game with Rose Bowl bearing.

The unbeaten, top-ranked Trojans, coming through with their finest game of the season before 80,871, the largest football crowd of the year in Memorial Coliseum. USC increased its record to 7-0 and the Golden Bears' Rose Bowl hopes were blunted with a conference record now of 1-1-1.

California, with its finest team in a decade, made it close for a half, leaving the field at intermission trailing 14-3. But Southern Cal unloaded three touchdowns in the third quarter and Coach John McKay took his main stars of offense out of the game.

Sogge, a senior, threw scoring strikes to Bob Klein for four yards, to Sam Dickerson for 28 and Bobb Chandler, a sophomore playing his first full varsity game, for 10.

The fabulous Simpson shot up the middle for 39 yards for his first touchdown in the third quarter scoring downpour, and circled end for seven yards before the period ended.

Simpson gained 164 yards in 31 carries against a California team which was ranked ninth nationally in rushing defense. Sogge completed 10 of 16 passes for 147 yards, with one interception, and his three scores.

California's Ron Miller kicked a 28-yard field goal in the second quarter and Randy Humphries threw touchdown passes in the waning minutes of the contest, six yards to Paul Williams and 15 to 6-foot-7 Wayne Stewart.

Oilers, Jets Battle for Lead in AFL East Division

By MURRAY CHAS
Associated Press Sports Writer

When the Houston Oilers traded quarterback Don Trull to the Boston Patroits last year, Oiler Coach Wally Lemm said, "I think he'll be better with a change of scene."

It's taken one year and two scene changes, but Trull has proved Lemm correct.

Now it's up to Trull to prove he can keep the Oilers in the running for their second consecutive title in the American Football League's Eastern Division.

With the 27-year-old Oklahoman at quarterback, the Oilers are in New York Sunday to try and keep the Jets from taking the crown away from them.

New York, which never has won the title, has a 2½-game lead over Houston. If the Oilers lose Sunday, they would have four more losses than the Jets and only four games to play.

In the West, Meanwhile, the top three teams are bunched within a half game, and the schedule has first-place Kansas City at Cincinnati, Oakland at Denver and San Diego at Boston. Miami is at Buffalo in the other game.

Trull was the nation's No. 1 college passer at Baylor in 1962 and 1963, then sat on the Oiler bench behind George Blanda for three years. He finally was handed the No. 1 job before the 1967 season but couldn't hold and was shuttled to Boston.

The Patriots thought so highly of Trull's potential that they traded away veteran Babe Parilli. Then for the second time Trull was unable to hold the starting job.

After the Pats cut him, the quarterback shopped around and wound up back with the Oilers—but on their taxi squad.

Finally, as the result of Pete Beathaid's emergency appenectomy and Bob Davis' ineffectiveness, the 6-foot-1, 196-pound Trull got a third, and most likely, final chance.

Three weeks ago, aginst the Jets, he passed for two touchdowns in the final quarter, forcing New York to come from behid for its victory.

Going into the second Jet game, he now has thrown six scoring tosses in nine quarters and has completed 56 per cent of his passes—more than a slight improvement over his 1967 record of 33.7 per cent.

Trull's six touchdown passes, incidentally, are six more than the Jets' Joe Namath has thrown in his past five games. The Jets aren't concerned, however, since they've won four of those contests.

If any team is likely to continue Namath's streak, it should be the Oilers, who have the best record against passing this year. Their defense has allowed only 116.2 yards a game. The Jets have the best defense against rushing, permitting mere 71.8 yards a game.

The Kansas City-Cincinnati game features the AFL's top two rookie running backs. Cincinnati's Paul Robinson has gained 315 yards in his last two games and is second in the league. Robert Holmes of Kansas City ranks fourth but has a better average than Robinson, 5.3 to 4.5.

The Chiefs are expected to maintain their slight lead in the West even though quarterback Len Dawson, suffering from a bruised thigh, may not play. If he doesn t, Jacky Lee will start.

Oakland, tied with San Diego for second place, faces a suddenly tough Denver team that has won four of its last five games.

With quarterback Steve Tensi, halfback Floyd Little and receiver Al Denson healthy again, the Broncos are a powerful team,. but the Raiders have visions of another AFL championship.

Like Kansas City, Oakland has quarterback problems with Daryle Lamonica recovering from a knee injury. George Blanda is set to start if Lamonica can't.

There's no quarterback problem for San Diego, though. The Chargers have the league's No. 1 man, John Hadl, and the sometimes tough Boston defense will have a busy time trying to stop the explosive attack.

San Diego has averaged 423.6 yards a game and leads the league with 19 touchdown passes. The Patriots, on the other hand, have allowed the fewest touchdown tosses, seven in eight games.

Buffalo and Miami will be meeting for the second time this year, having played to a 14-14 tie in the first one.

Both came close to pulling upsets last Sunday. San Diego had to come from behind to down Miami while Buffalo shot ahead of New York until Jim Turner kicked his fifth and sixth field goals.

Big Games Dot NFL Schedule Sunday

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baltimore invades Earl Morrall country again Sunday, Green Bay seeks a vital victory at Minnesota and both St.Louis and Cleveland risk winning streaks in top National Football League action.

Most of the games pair rivals within their own divisions. Only two interdivisional matches are listed—Baltimore (7-1) at Detroit (3-4-1) and San Francisco (4-4) at Chicago (4-4).

It is a wide open scramble in the rugged Central Division with only a half game separating the four teams. The winner of the Green Bay (3-4-1) at Minnesota (4-4) rematch could take over, depending on the success or failure of the Lions and Bears.

The Los Angeles Rams (7-1), tied with Baltimore in the Coastal Division, will be at Atlanta (1-7) with a chance to take control if the Colts falter in Detroit.

St. Louis (5-3), winner of four straight, will be at home to Pittsburgh (2-6), a surprising winner of its last two. Cleveland (5-3) tied with the Cards in the Century Division, will be at home to New Orleans (3-5).

Dallas (7-1) can virtually wrap up the Capitol Division by winning its home game with the runnerup New York Giants (5-3). Winless Philadelphia (0-8) gets its best chance to avoid complete disaster in a home game with Washington (3-5).

Baltimore visited one of Morrall's old stomping grounds last week and shut out the Giants 26-0 at Yankee Stadium. Morrall will lead the Colts against more old mates this week in the trip to Detroit, a club whose offense has not scored a touchdown in two weeks. The clubs met in an exhibition game in August, won by the Lions 14-7.

With Gale Sayers on a hot running spree and Mac Percival booting field goals at a wild pace, the Bears have managed to recover from a stuttering start to tie for first place with the Vikings. Chicago hosts a San Francisco team that was manhandled by Cleveland last week, 33-21.

The Packer-Vikings rematch at the Metropolitan Stadium has set the Twin cities afire with ticket demands. Minnesota won the first game, Sept. 22 at Milwaukee, 26-13 after rolling up a 16-0 halftime lead. The Vikings played ball control and even gambled on fourth down deep in their own territory and made it. Green Bay appears to be facing a series of must games, especially after bowing to the Bears last week 13-10 on a free kick field goal.

Defense did the job for Los Angeles last week after the Rams recovered from a kickoff runback by Detroit's Lem Barney. Now they face the Falcons for the second time in four weeks. Atlanta led 14-0 in the second quarter of their first meeting, Oct. 20, and 17-14 going into the fourth before the Rams pulled it out, 27-14.

St. Louis has won four straight in its drive toward the title in the Century Division. Pittsburgh followed up its triumph over the Eagles by bombing the Falcons 41-21 with Roy Jefferson catching 11 passes. They played an exhibition in August, won by the Cards 24-7.

The Browns are on a three-game win streak, heading into a rematch with a New Orleans team they had trouble with Sept. 15 but finally beat 24-10. It was 10-10 at the end of the third period. The Saints upended the Cards in an exhibition 40-27.

If Dallas, winner of its last six over the Giants, can do it again in the Cotton Bowl the Cowboys will hold a three-game edge with five to play. The Cowboys are coming off a 17-3 bounce-back victory against the Saints after losing to the Packers. The Giants' offense collapsed in its first shutout in 75 games against Baltimore.

When the Redskins and Eagles met Oct. 6, Sonny Jurgensen ran for a touchdown in a 17-14 Washington victory. Philadelphia, faces a winless season unless it breaks out against the Skins in a battle of the walking wounded.

Top Pro Golfers to Meet For Two-Man Title

By TOM REEDY

ROME (AP) — Golfers from 44 nations invade Rome next week for a prize unique in the sport—the two-man Professional Team Championship of the world.

The United States again is favored to win the World Cup, a 15-year-old competition which started in 1953 as the Canada Cup and has now spread around the globe.

Representing Uncle Sam are Lee Trevino, the U.S. Open champion, and PGA king Julius Boros, the middle-aged stylist with the lazy swing.

Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus won the team trophy and Palmer the individual title last year in Mexico City. It was the ninth time the Americans triumphed. Argentina, Australia, Japan, Ireland and South Africa each have won it.

Rome's Olgiata Course, measuring 6,843 yards with a par 72, is tailor-made for the Americans. Unlike the British links with which they are more familiar on their jaunts abroad, Olgiata is tree-lined and lush, similar to the top layouts in the United States.

Eight of the 88 competitors this year are amateurs, from countries which have little opportunity to develop professionals. They include Jiri Dvorak and Jan Kunsta of Czechoslovakia.

Norway is sending a pair of amateurs as well, Westye Hoegh and Lars Musaeus. The others are Jalo Gronlund of Finland, Aris Simeonoglou of Greece, Jean-Charles Ray of Monaco and Phua Thin Kiay of Singapore.

Headliners among the professionals include Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo, winner of the British Open and a constant threat in any international field; Gary Player of South Africa who has the finest record of them all over the past half dozen years; George Knudson of Canada and veteran Flory Van Donck of Belgium. Each has won the individual World Cup title once.

The four daily rounds of 18 holes start Thursday and wind up Sunday.

Unsuccessful Prep Lineman Finally Makes It Big

By JAMES R. POLK
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — There might have been a political omen 35 years ago in the short, unsuccessful football career of the 155-pound lineman who never even won a letter at little Whittier College in California.

"He was always a scrapper," said retired Coach Wallace Newman. "I remember some of the terrific lickings he would take. We all marveled at the way he always got up and came back for more."

Newman said, "he never made a letter in football. But he never quit in anything."

Richard M. Nixon, the man who kept bouncing back all the way from Whittier to the White House, has climaxed what might have been the political comeback of the century with his election as 37th president of the United States.

Nixon's victory means that once again there will be a golfer in the White House.

"He loves to play," said Max Elbin, the pro at Washington's famed Burning Tree Country Club.

With his election, Nixon's golf score becomes as guarded as a state secret. But the best guess is that it ranges about midway between that of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, an avid and accomplished golfer, and that of President Johnson, who makes infrequent appearances on the fairways.

Nixon's style was described by another golfer who has seen him play as very enthusiastic.

The 55-year-old Nixon used to accompany Eisenhower in rounds at Burning Tree during his two terms as vice president. Nixon still retains his membership at Burning Tree, and Elbin said, "He'll probably play a good bit of golf."

However, it is unlikely that Nixon's golf interest will stir the same controversy that Eisenhower's did in his first year in the White House when Ike decided to pass up the traditional ceremony of throwing out the first pitch of the baseball season and go on a golfing vacation to Augusta, Ga., instead.

Nixon is a strong sports fan who often went to Washington Senators games when he was vice president, chatted with the team in the locker room, and was a personal friend of several of the top players.

Senators manager Jim Lemon, who was a hard-hitting outfielder in those years, said Nixon usually sat in the front row right behind the dugout and kept up a steady patter of support: "All right, now we need a couple of runs. Let's get a hit. Let's knock one out of here."

Nixon didn't get to throw out the first ball in 1953—the opener was rained out and Eisenhower returned from Georgia for the rescheduled game, hitting an umpire on the back with his pitch—but the vice president substituted in 1959 and tossed out the inaugural ball in a rare Washington victory over Baltimore.

Lemon, whose last-place Senators haven't won an opening game in six years, is looking forward to Nixon's return next April. Lemon said, "maybe he can at least be 4-0 in his stay or maybe even 8-0."

Syracuse Pounds Wm. & Mary, 31-0

By HERBERT G. PELKEY

SYRACSUE, N.Y. (AP) — Sophomore speedster John Godbolt raced for three touchdowns Saturday to power Syracuse to a 31-0 football victory over outclassed William and Mary.

Syracuse, moving virtually at will against the Indian defense, marched 91 and 68 yards for touchdowns the first times the Orange had the football.

Godbolt, a 5-foot 11, 203 pounder, put the Orange ahead to stay at 3:57 of the opening period when he swept nine yards around the left side for the score to cap a 10-play, 68-yard drive following the opening kickoff.

Godbolt, who picked up 68 yards in 11 carries, also scored on a two-yard sweep in the third period and an eight-yard burst in the fourth.

Quarterback Paul Paolisso, who completed eight of 16 passes for 138 yards in engineering all of the Orange touchdowns, gave Syracuse its second touchdown with a 44-yard scoring toss to big tight end John Maddox.

The Big Orange defense, which set up one touchdown with a pass interception, completely throttled the Indian attack and turned back two William and Mary drives deep in Orange territory.

Safetyman Tony Kyasky set up a Syracuse touchdown when he intercepted Wes Meeter's pass on the William and Mary 35 and returned it to the Indian 11. Godbolt went into the end zone three plays later from the two.

George Jakowenko added three points on a 39-yard field goal in the second period.

William and Mary moved to the Orange 10 yard line in the second and again in the fourth before being halted.

Lotz, Archer Share Lead

HONOLULU (AP) — Young Dick Lotz rode in a 35-foot eagle putt on the 18th hole in the third round of the $125,000 Hawaiian International Golf Tournament Saturday to share the 54-hole lead with lanky George Archer.

Archer birdied the 18th, 566 yards, with the Hawaiian trade winds at his back, for a three-round total of 203.

Both Lotz and Archer had 69s in the third round.

Mac McLendon, six months on the tour, had a 69 for 205.

Halfway leader Ken Ellsworth, playing in his first professional tournament, salvaged a birdie on the 18th hole for a one-over-par 73 on the 7,000-yard Waialae course that borders the Pacific, and finished with a 54-hole total of 206, three strokes back.

Dale Douglass, who looks like a high school sophomore on a hunger strike, shot a 69 and also had 206.

From there the field dropped back to 210, where Bruce Crampton, Frank Beard and Marty Fleckman shared the position.

Deane Beman and Gene Littler were among those at 211.

Billy Casper shot a 69 for 212, a position he shared with Al Geiberger and Doug Sanders.

Arnold Palmer made his third straight 71 for 213.

Lotz, 26, from San Francisco, said he telephoned his wife Friday night and discovered a second baby is on the way.

The couple has a 16-month-old daughter.

Good Leads Danes to Win Over St. Anthony

Tom Good scored two touchdowns and added five extra points in leading Fountain Valley to a 48-14 win over St. Anthony's Saturday.

Good scored on runs of 76 yards and 25 yards in leading the Danes to the win. Fountain Valley finished the season with a 5-3-1 record.

Oilers, Jets Battle for Lead in AFL East Division

By MURRAY CHAS
Associated Press Sports Writer

When the Houston Oilers traded quarterback Don Trull to the Boston Patroits last year, Oiler Coach Wally Lemm said, "I think he'll be better with a change of scene."

It's taken one year and two scene changes, but Trull has proved Lemm correct.

Now it's up to Trull to prove he can keep the Oilers in the running for their second consecutive title in the American Football League's Eastern Division.

With the 27-year-old Oklahoman at quarterback, the Oilers are in New York Sunday to try and keep the Jets from taking the crown away from them.

New York, which never has won the title, has a 2½-game lead over Houston. If the Oilers lose Sunday, they would have four more losses than the Jets and only four games to play.

Finally, as the result of Pete Beathaid's emergency appenectomy and Bob Davis' ineffectiveness, the 6-foot-1, 196-pound Trull got a third, and most likely, final chance.

Three weeks ago, aginst the Jets, he passed for two touchdowns in the final quarter, forcing New York to come from behid for its victory.

Going into the second Jet game, he now has thrown six scoring tosses in nine quarters and has completed 56 per cent of his passes—more than a slight improvement over his 1967 record of 33.7 per cent.

Trull's six touchdown passes, incidentally, are six more than the Jets' Joe Namath has thrown in his past five games. The Jets aren't concerned, however, since they've won four of those contests.

If any team is likely to continue Namath's streak, it should be the Oilers, who have the best record against passing this year. Their defense has allowed only 116.2 yards a game. The Jets have the best defense against rushing, permitting mere 71.8 yards a game.

The Kansas City-Cincinnati game features the AFL's top two rookie running backs. Cincinnati's Paul Robinson has gained 315 yards in his last two games and is second in the league. Robert Holmes of Kansas City ranks fourth but has a better average than Robinson, 5.3 to 4.5.

The Chiefs are expected to maintain their slight lead in the West even though quarterback Len Dawson, suffering from a bruised thigh, may not play. If he doesn t, Jacky Lee will start.

Oakland, tied with San Diego for second place, faces a suddenly tough Denver team that has won four of its last five games.

With quarterback Steve Tensi, halfback Floyd Little and receiver Al Denson healthy again, the Broncos are a powerful team,. but the Raiders have visions of another AFL championship.

Like Kansas City, Oakland has quarterback problems with Daryle Lamonica recovering from a knee injury. George Blanda is set to start if Lamonica can't.

There's no quarterback problem for San Diego, though. The Chargers have the league's No. 1 man, John Hadl, and the sometimes tough Boston defense will have a busy time trying to stop the explosive attack.

San Diego has averaged 423.6 yards a game and leads the league with 19 touchdown passes. The Patriots, on the other hand, have allowed the fewest touchdown tosses, seven in eight games.

Buffalo and Miami will be meeting for the second time this year, having played to a 14-14 tie in the first one.

Both came close to pulling upsets last Sunday. San Diego had to come from behind to down Miami while Buffalo shot ahead of New York until Jim Turner kicked his fifth and sixth field goals.

St. Louis has won four straight in its drive toward the title in the Century Division. Pittsburgh followed up its triumph over the Eagles by bombing the Falcons 41-21 with Roy Jefferson catching 11 passes. They played an exhibition in August, won by the Cards 24-7.

The Browns are on a three-game win streak, heading into a rematch with a New Orleans team they had trouble with Sept. 15 but finally beat 24-10. It was 10-10 at the end of the third period. The Saints upended the Cards in an exhibition 40-27.

If Dallas, winner of its last six over the Giants, can do it again in the Cotton Bowl the Cowboys will hold a three-game edge with five to play. The Cowboys are coming off a 17-3 bounce-back victory against the Saints after losing to the Packers. The Giants' offense collapsed in its first shutout in 75 games against Baltimore.

When the Redskins and Eagles met Oct. 6, Sonny Jurgensen ran for a touchdown in a 17-14 Washington victory. Philadelphia, faces a winless season unless it breaks out against the Skins in a battle of the walking wounded.

Nixon is a strong sports fan who often went to Washington Senators games when he was vice president, chatted with the team in the locker room, and was a personal friend of several of the top players.

Senators manager Jim Lemon, who was a hard-hitting outfielder in those years, said Nixon usually sat in the front row right behind the dugout and kept up a steady patter of support: "All right, now we need a couple of runs. Let's get a hit. Let's knock one out of here."

Nixon didn't get to throw out the first ball in 1953—the opener was rained out and Eisenhower returned from Georgia for the rescheduled game, hitting an umpire on the back with his pitch—but the vice president substituted in 1959 and tossed out the inaugural ball in a rare Washington victory over Baltimore.

Lemon, whose last-place Senators haven't won an opening game in six years, is looking forward to Nixon's return next April. Lemon said, "maybe he can at least be 4-0 in his stay or maybe even 8-0."

Syracuse Pounds Wm. & Mary, 31-0

By HERBERT G. PELKEY

Syracuse, moving virtually at will against the Indian defense, marched 91 and 68 yards for touchdowns the first times the Orange had the football.

Godbolt, a 5-foot 11, 203 pounder, put the Orange ahead to stay at 3:57 of the opening period when he swept nine yards around the left side for the score to cap a 10-play, 68-yard drive following the opening kickoff.

Godbolt, who picked up 68 yards in 11 carries, also scored on a two-yard sweep in the third period and an eight-yard burst in the fourth.

Quarterback Paul Paolisso, who completed eight of 16 passes for 138 yards in engineering all of the Orange touchdowns, gave Syracuse its second touchdown with a 44-yard scoring toss to big tight end John Maddox.

The Big Orange defense, which set up one touchdown with a pass interception, completely throttled the Indian attack and turned back two William and Mary drives deep in Orange territory.

Safetyman Tony Kyasky set up a Syracuse touchdown when he intercepted Wes Meeter's pass on the William and Mary 35 and returned it to the Indian 11. Godbolt went into the end zone three plays later from the two.

George Jakowenko added three points on a 39-yard field goal in the second period.

William and Mary moved to the Orange 10 yard line in the second and again in the fourth before being halted.

Lotz, Archer Share Lead

HONOLULU (AP) — Young Dick Lotz rode in a 35-foot eagle putt on the 18th hole in the third round of the $125,000 Hawaiian International Golf Tournament Saturday to share the 54-hole lead with lanky George Archer.

Archer birdied the 18th, 566 yards, with the Hawaiian trade winds at his back, for a three-round total of 203.

Both Lotz and Archer had 69s in the third round.

Mac McLendon, six months on the tour, had a 69 for 205.

Halfway leader Ken Ellsworth, playing in his first professional tournament, salvaged a birdie on the 18th hole for a one-over-par 73 on the 7,000-yard Waialae course that borders the Pacific, and finished with a 54-hole total of 206, three strokes back.

Dale Douglass, who looks like a high school sophomore on a hunger strike, shot a 69 and also had 206.

From there the field dropped back to 210, where Bruce Crampton, Frank Beard and Marty Fleckman shared the position.

Deane Beman and Gene Littler were among those at 211.

Billy Casper shot a 69 for 212, a position he shared with Al Geiberger and Doug Sanders.

Arnold Palmer made his third straight 71 for 213.

Lotz, 26, from San Francisco, said he telephoned his wife Friday night and discovered a second baby is on the way.

The couple has a 16-month-old daughter.

HORIZON — AUTUMN ISSUE — In the new issue, Horizon, the hard-back culture magazine, runs the gamut of commentary on the cultural and historical scene.

In an article ominously entitled "Before the Fall," Edmund Stillman looks at what Gibbon, Spengler, and Toynbee had to say about morality and society and draws some startling parallels with the miniskirt, Andy Warhol, and LSD.

Stillman finds agreement among the great historians of decadence that one symptom of decline in a civilization is the failure of creativity. In society's failure to respond successfully to this challenge, Stillman sees the Toynbeean pattern of cultural breakdown and decay. Witness, for example, the petrification of a "creative minority": ruling elite adopting the habits of the lowest classes, such as adoration of the proletarian vitality of the Beatles, Pop Art, and alien religions like Zen and Indian mysticism. This imitation of the down-trodden poor and submerged minorities bespeaks a loss of self-sufficiency and self-confidence — an obvious parallel of late republican Rome, when the great senatorial families found themselves practicing the vices of their slaves and worshiping their gods.

But Stillman does not believe that "whatever it is that we are witnessing in the modern world — long-haired boys and short-haired girls, sexy movies, Black power, arson in the ghetto, semilegal pot, love-ins, draft-card burners, and militant students" — it is the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. "America is not Rome," he writes, "it is neither so vicious nor, probably, so great." The downfall of Rome was due to a variety of reasons not applicable to the situation today. Roman technology was essentially unprogressive; the Roman transportation system was incapable of supporting the vast empire; the slaves, with their outlandish customs and religions, introduced the notion of an Oriental despotism — of the ruler of God manifest on earth; the professional army took government into its own hands; the liberties of the Roman people were crushed under the conformity of a protototalitarian state; and most important of all, the economy decayed. "Since economic decay underlay much of the story of Rome's ruin, we need to note that modern America remains productive and, in industrial matters, at least, innovative." The world is no longer young, and modern men carry the weight of history on their backs — which is what accounts for the striving for "forced, and false, parallels with the Rome of the winter years." Even so, Stillman maintains, we are all like the superannuated young man who, in V.S. Pritchett's phrase, had a brilliant future behind him. "While the fall may be distant, the decline may well be upon us, and far advanced at that."

For Oswald Spengler, an embittered product of the years following Germany's defeat in World War I, a dark prophet of the Decline of the West, all societies go through four seasons of life: springtime, or birth; summer, or the years of achievement; and lastly autumn and winter — petrification and death. And only when the Culture passes out of the growth phase do men enter the period of self-examination which we are in today — prompting a spate of articles such as this one. "The sick man feels his limbs."

Rome in its twilight years attained a certain majesty, but not all the civilizations of the past died as well. "Others with an unkillable will to survive, like China and Pharaonic Egypt, refused to give way and went on ceaselessly, century after century, tirelessly dotting the i's and crossing the t's of an increasingly empty inheritance. Perhaps we will drag on, too, technologically capable of keeping the barbarians at bay but of little else."

The editors of Horizon inject a ray of light into this dark prophecy. "Who can say that out of the wild ferment of happenings and light shows and underground films there will not emerge a new and vital art form? Who can say, as Stillman does, that we have no giants to equal Planck and Einstein and Freud? The biological sciences today are in just such a state of bursting discovery as the physical sciences were half a century ago. Where, indeed, are the Plancks and Einsteins of biology? In their laboratories, perhaps, stirring up some primordial soup in hopes of creating life from amino acids, or fiddling with chromosomes in hopes of altering human heredity. Before they get through they may make a genius out of every new baby."

WHEN DOES A RIOT BECOME A REVOLUTION? by J. H. Plumb. This article, the seventh in Dr. Plumb's series, "In The Light of the Past," traces instances of rioting and mob violance through history and shows how often the mob has ruled. In every century there has been rioting, burning, shooting in the streets. Dr. Plumb, taking the long view of history, puts today's news into perspective. In comparing the nature of the recent American riots with the European experience, Dr. Plumb points out that the general aim of the mob is local, immediate, and specific — not general and revolutionary. It takes agents provocateurs to turn a riot to a revolutionary end. Riots rarely fail — past and present. His view to the future allows that there must be a ray of real, not illusory, hope in America which will turn rioting Negroes from revolution and possible civil war to political participation.

NAPOLEON SLEPT HERE, by John Kobler. Retracing the exact route Napoleon took from Golfe-Juan to Paris after his daring escape from Elba in 1815, Mr. Kobler interviewed the great-grandchildren of people who entertained Napoleon, viewed hundreds of artifacts (though not the discarded chicken bones one relic-mad provincial is reputed to have salvaged from Napoleon's lunch), and visited chambers where Napoleon slept. "The old families," writes Mr. Kobler, "spoke of Napoleon's passage with such intimacy, such immediacy, that it might have happened yesterday." Plaques and monuments along the trail record moments on this journey — in Napoleon's words, "the most prodigious march of which history has any record." "Here on Monday, March 6, 1815, returning from Elba, the Emperor Napoleon paused," recalls a monument at Stain-Bonnet; "Here Napoleon was hailed by the peasants of Champsaur. . . ," reads another; and one celebrates a spot where the Emperor was observed to urinate. Related one hotel owner: "If Napoleon slept in all the hotels around here and ate in all the restaurants people claim he did, he would never have got to Paris."

SIR ISAAC NEWTON, by Walter Karp. "If modern science and its methods can be likened to a machine, then it was Newton who assembled its parts and demonstrated its awesome power," writes biographer Karp of this complex man who is indisputably the greatest scientist who ever lived. "Had he not lived," continues Mr. Karp, "the course of science might have been radically altered." By the age of 24 Newton had invented calculus, had discovered a profound truth about the nature of light and color, and was on his way toward expounding the theory of universal gravitation. Newton was a supreme experimental scientist, a supreme theoretical scientist, and a supreme mathematician. "He was to achieve in three distinct modes of thought what only a few scientists have been able to achieve in one." This article narrates the life of this somber titan who longed to be praised and feared to be criticized and gives a graphic explanation of the nature of Newton's real contribution to the science of our own world.

GAUDI, by Roy McMullen. A stimulating analysis of "the great outsider of 20th century architecture" points out that the current enthusiasm for Gaudi's work is because of a turn from functionalism to romanticism. Whatever the reaction to this great genius of Spanish architecture, it's always strong — from the unstinting praise of Salvador Dali to the scorn of French critic Maurice Casteels who considered one of Gaudi's buildings "adorned with abscesses." His greatest achievement and dream (still incomplete), the Sagrada Familia Church in Barcelona, occupied his final years. Author McMullen, besides analyzing the elements of Gaudi's genius, points out the political and social factors that supported the building of his outrageous creations. A riot of textures, ornaments, and natural forms were all made possible by the natural materials available to him in Barcelona. What is the assessment of his genius? McMullen considers Gaudi "a great maker of habitable sculpture" but adds that "one Gaudi in the 20th century is quite enough."

RENDER UNTO CEDAR, by Frederic V. Grunfeld. Totem poles have all but vanished from the coastal villages of the Pacific Northwest. As recently as the turn of the century, hundreds of these huge, abstractly carved cedar images that illustrated their owners' lineage or recalled local legends dotted landing beaches along the 1000-mile coast from Vancouver Island to Yakutat Bay, Alaska. In this article Mr. Grunfeld reports on the double-edged fate of the totem pole. Many examples of the art can be found in museums, he points out, and in auction galleries where prices for them have risen ten-fold in the past 25 years. Those that remain in their native locales are found in deserted villages where the forest is slowly reclaiming its own. Gradually they are falling to the ground, where the process of decay begins. Unlike much Western and Asian art, which represents an attempt to stay the hand of time, the author observes, the totem pole "abides by the time-table of the forest." Nine photographs taken by Mr. Grunfeld's wife, Toby Molenaar, in British Columbia and Alaska accompany the article.

THE HIDDEN ART OF THE HIGH HIMALAYA, by Madanjeet Singh. The outstanding paintings reproduced in this article have never before been seen in color outside the Himalayan temple-fortresses in which they were painted. Madanjeet Singh, a student of Asian art and a member of India's diplomatic corps, made 35 trips — harrowing journeys along mountain paths in the face of blizzards, avalanches, and other natural hazards — over the space of a year to photograph these magnificent paintings. In the bleak, mountain-walled Himalayas — what Mr. Singh calls, "the last great remote area of the world" — a branch of Indian Buddhism has made its last stand and with it the strange mystical art, rarely seen by outsiders, which has been photographed by this venturesome scholar. Tantric art serves a religious prupose, and the style has not changed over the centuries. "The Himalaya's artists are still at work," says Mr. Singh, "painting as the Byzantine artists did. . . blissfully unaware that history, as always, has rushed on ahead of them."

THE INCOMPARABLE ENFANTIN: A MORAL TALE, by Morris Bishop. Upon the death in 1825 of Saint-Simon, the founder of French socialism, 29-year-old Barthelemy Prosper Enfantin, illegitimate son of an impoverished French banker, inherited the master's prophetic robe. Enfantin set himself up as a divinity, "le Pere," and instituted a world-wide serach for "la Mere." Many candidates appeared and were tested but the Father was always obliged to announce that this again was not the Female Messiah. Le Pere Enfantin along with forty faithful male disciples took up residence in Menilmontant to await the coming of his destined bride. The authorities, alarmed at the strange goings-on and the spread of revolutionary spirit, jailed Enfantin. Upon his release, his movement tottering, he traveled to Egypt to continue his search for his mate, to convert the Egyptians to his faith, and to await a revelation. At the end of the 1830's he lapsed into obscurity — only to find "a resurrection among his human brothers." He dreamed of a great railroad line in France and became the chief promoter of the Paris-Lyon-Mediterranee line. He died in 1864, a rich and honored railroad magnate.

THE LITERARY LARCENY OF SAINT COLUMBA, by Phyllis McGinley. From the fifth to the tenth centuries, Ireland safeguarded "the twin lights of learning and Christianity, when over Europe they had almost entirely flickered out," Mrs. McGinley writes. "Actual saints and real scholars preserved a persecuted faith, a classic but perishing literature, and by their immense efforts restored both to Western Europe when the era was ripe." She recalls in this article one of the legends of this Irish golden age — the story of Saint Columba, whose secret passion for a rare manuscript led to his banishment to the Island of Iona, in the Hebrides, where he founded what became the most influential of all the Celtic abbeys.

FREDERICK II: THE WONDER OF THE WORLD, by Edmund Stillman. A Renaissance man two centuries before the Renaissance, Frederick II of Hohenstaufen was also a despotic megalomaniac who saw himself as the earthly incarnation of divine law, a kind of second Christ. He was a sicentist, mathematician, lawmaker, poet, linguist, and ornithologist, as well as a political genius. His vision of a united, secular Europe clashed, however, with the ambitions of the Church and the postfeudal spirit of the middle-class, urban, capitalistic society that was then struggling into being in Italy. And "stupor mundi, wonder of the world, outstanding political intelligence of his time though he might be, in collision with these nascent forces he proved helpless. He could not in the end transcend the materials and the inherent limitations of his age," writes Edmund Stillman. Frederick died in 1250, at the age of 56, defeated and bitterly disappointed. "He had built the first secular European state, codified laws, regulated commerce, fostered progress in the governmental interest, challenged medieval obscurantism and ecclesiastical pretension, but his work did not live long beyond him."

HOW DO I KNOW YOU KNOW WHAT YOU MEAN? by Peter Farb. Is man a prisoner of his language? In a long-obscure theory finally published in book form in 1956, Benjamin Lee Whorf calls language not merely a means of voicing ideas, but "the shaper of ideas" as well. The Whorf hypothesis — also labelled "linguistic relativity," "psycholinguistics," metalinguistics," and "ethnolinguistics" — throws into doubt the rationality of man's every decision. A scholar who disagrees with Whorf's theory, Charles F. Hockett, writes: "The history of Western logic and science constitutes not so much the story of scholars hemmed in and misled by the nature of their specific languages, as the story of a long fairly successful struggle against inherited linguistic limitations." The real value of Whorf's work, concludes author Farb, is that "he has alerted us to a problem that becomes more pressing as more people in the world communicate with each other."

THE VIEW FROM BABEL, by Padma Perera. What is it like to live in a country with 17 major languages and more than 500 individual dialects? Padma Perera, member of a peripatetic Indian family, reports that she needed a constant working facility with several languages at a time. In New Delhi, she writes, "We generally wound up speaking English to friends, Hindustani to local street vendors, Tamil to our South Indian cook, and a conglomeration of all three plus our own dialect to one another." In this subjective essay, the author relates the confusions and the pleasures that come with the gift of languages. Her conclusion: "In the end it becomes an inescapable way of seeing your world. Perceptions tend to refract through the prism of another language. . for words may mean the same thing in various languages, but they seldom feel the same. Part of being polylingual is being perpetually caught in the limboes between languages."

THE GALSWORTHY SAGA, by J. W. Lambert. John Galsworthy marred his early writing by his overwhelming sense of pity for those less richly endowed than he, but his novels about the rich, overstuffed Forsyte clan—in fact, the Galsworthy family — are the epitome of late Victorianism. Galsworthy knew and understood the bleak but vital Victorians. His own life was circumscribed by their rigid social code, while his inner life smoldered with pent-up passion. "The Forsyte stock lives in his pages," writes J. W. Lambert, literary editor of The London Sunday Times, "with 'gray unmoving eyes hiding their instinct with its hidden roots of violence, their instinct for possession. . .'" Lambert sees something Roman in Galsworthy's Victorians and concludes, "he was the noblest Forsyte of them all."

ANCIENT ACHES AND PAINS, by Calvin Wells. Palaeontologists are aided in their study of ancient disease and injury by the evidence faithfully recorded by ancient artists. The illustrations accompanying this article include: a bronze figure of a dwarf from Benin in West Africa, showing an achondroplastic dwarf; and assymetrical Mohica vase, representing the lopsided expression of a sufferer from cranial hemorrhage; a wooden dance mask from Liberia showing a face paralyzed on one side; a portrait of the pharaoh Ahkenaten, who must have suffered from acromegaly which produced an exceptional elongation of his jaw; and a Congolese carving representing goiter. "Surprisingly enough," writes the author, "man is still heir to all the fleshy ills portrayed in these ancient works of art."

Credit Women Group To Meet Wednesday

Pikes Peak Credit Women International will meet Wednesday noon at the Stockyard's Steak House.

Newly elected president Mrs. June Palmer will preside at the meeting and a test will be given on the completed manual.

"This is an excellent time for women working in credit who wish to gain more knowledge and become more efficient in their jobs to join our organization," said a club spokesman.

Looking at Hollywood

BY FLORABEL MUIR

HOLLYWOOD—The work of famed Italian director, Michelangelo Antonioni, will be honored by a month-long exhibit of stills of his motion pictures at Harvard University's Graduate School of Design in Robinson Hall from Nov. 15 through Dec. 15.

A montage of his work, including individual production stills, will reflect the month-long theme of the exhibit, "Man's Alienation in the Technological Environment," including suitable stills from his latest effort for MGM, "Zabriskie Point"—Antonioni's first American film.

Other Antonioni films from which material will be drawn include "Blow Up," also released by MGM, "The Eclipse," "L'Avventura," "La Notte" and "Red Desert."

The director, now filming "Zabriskie Point" in the desert at Zabriskie Point, Death Valley, will not be able to attend to receive appropriate honors at the exhibit, but will forward a message and a dissertation on the significance of his work as a film director.

Lee Marvin will host acocktail party for Toshiro Mifune—both in New York and Hollywood—to introduce him to the American press and theatrical luminaries in connection with the screening of their Oscar-contending "Hell in the Pacific."

Mifune will do likewise in Tokyo, where the film will have its world premiere in December. It opens in a few key U.S. cities in February, but will run for a week in Hollywood first in order to qualify for Oscars.

The London premiere of Euan Lloyd's "Shalako" on Dec. 12 will be an instant replay of the Munich world premiere—meaning Stephen Boyd and Brigitte Bardot, who star with Sean Connery in the Spanish western but need no help off-screen, have agreed to in-person appearances. In Munich, screaming fans overturned the couple's car, ripped Steve's $500 tuxedo to shreds and BB barely got away from the mob.

Sight Of The Week: Robert Mitchum and George Kennedy eating Beluga caviar while on horseback at the 12,000-foot level outside Chama, N.M. The two husky actors, starring in Warners-Seven Arts' "The Good Guys and the Bad Guys," enjoyed the delicacy between takes. It was a gift from Bob's son, Jim, who shipped a pound of caviar from Tehran, Iran where he's starring with Stu Whitman and Elke Sommer in "The Heroes."

Donovan (who insists on being called by only one name) rushed back from New York a day ahead of schedule and went directly to the studio from the airport to tape a "Hollywood Palace" show just hours before the musicians' strike started. Donovan wasn't scheduled to do the show until two days later, but he's a headliner who believes in keeping his obligations to other people.

Before Elvis Presley departed for Memphis, he left his fabulous converted $50,000 bus here to be overhauled. He's having $9,000 new motor and transmission put in and an $800 air conditioning sytem installed. The bus, which Elvis uses for transporting himself and his retinue, already has sleeping quarters, a hi-fi system, kitchen, and numerous other conveniences.

While Andre Previn is devoting himself almost exclusively to his serious musical career, his lyricist-wife Dory has found herself a new partner — professional, that is. Composer Elmer Bernstein and she are collaborating on a Broadway musical for the '70 season.

In U. A.'s "Buona Sera, Mrs. Campbell," Marian Moses plays the wife of Peter Lawford and since the picture was made in Italy, there are several occasions on which Miss Moses is pinched by Italian males. Her only comment on these episodes was, "As a Moses, I don't like this breach of the Ten Commandments."

BY JOHN FETLER

HORIZON — AUTUMN ISSUE — In the new issue, Horizon, the hard-back culture magazine, runs the gamut of commentary on the cultural and historical scene.

In an article ominously entitled "Before the Fall," Edmund Stillman looks at what Gibbon, Spengler, and Toynbee had to say about morality and society and draws some startling parallels with the miniskirt, Andy Warhol, and LSD.

Stillman finds agreement among the great historians of decadence that one symptom of decline in a civilization is the failure of creativity. In society's failure to respond successfully to this challenge, Stillman sees the Toynbeean pattern of cultural breakdown and decay. Witness, for example, the petrification of a "creative minority": ruling elite adopting the habits of the lowest classes, such as adoration of the proletarian vitality of the Beatles, Pop Art, and alien religions like Zen and Indian mysticism. This imitation of the down-trodden poor and submerged minorities bespeaks a loss of self-sufficiency and self-confidence — an obvious parallel of late republican Rome, when the great senatorial families found themselves practicing the vices of their slaves and worshiping their gods.

But Stillman does not believe that "whatever it is that we are witnessing in the modern world — long-haired boys and short-haired girls, sexy movies, Black power, arson in the ghetto, semilegal pot, love-ins, draft-card burners, and militant students" — it is the Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire. "America is not Rome," he writes, "it is neither so vicious nor, probably, so great." The downfall of Rome was due to a variety of reasons not applicable to the situation today. Roman technology was essentially unprogressive; the Roman transportation system was incapable of supporting the vast empire; the slaves, with their outlandish customs and religions, introduced the notion of an Oriental despotism — of the ruler of God manifest on earth; the professional army took government into its own hands; the liberties of the Roman people were crushed under the conformity of a prototototalitarian state; and most important of all, the economy decayed. "Since economic decay underlay much of the story of Rome's ruin, we need to note that modern America remains productive and, in industrial matters, at least, innovative." The world is no longer young, and modern men carry the weight of history on their backs — which is what accounts for the striving for "forced, and false, parallels with the Rome of the winter years." Even so, Stillman maintains, we are all like the superannuated young man who, in V.S. Pritchett's phrase, had a brilliant future behind him. "While the fall may be distant, the decline may well be upon us, and far advanced at that."

For Oswald Spengler, an embittered product of the years following Germany's defeat in World War I, a dark prophet of the Decline of the West, all societies go through four seasons of life: springtime, or birth; summer, or the years of achievement; and lastly autumn and winter — petrification and death. And only when the Culture passes out of the growth phase do men enter the period of self-examination which we are in today — prompting a spate of articles such as this one. "The sick man feels his limbs."

Rome in its twilight years attained a certain majesty, but not all the civilizations of the past died as well. "Others with an unkillable will to survive, like China and Pharaonic Egypt, refused to give way and went on ceaselessly, century after century, tirelessly dotting the i's and crossing the t's of an increasingly empty inheritance. Perhaps we will drag on, too, technologically capable of keeping the barbarians at bay but of little else."

The editors of Horizon inject a ray of light into this dark prophecy. "Who can say that out of the wild ferment of happenings and light shows and underground films there will not emerge a new and vital art form? Who can say, as Stillman does, that we have no giants to equal Planck and Einstein and Freud? The biological sciences today are in just such a state of bursting discovery as the physical sciences were half a century ago. Where, indeed, are the Plancks and Einsteins of biology? In their laboratories, perhaps, stirring up some primordial soup in hopes of creating life from amino acids, or fiddling with chromosomes in hopes of altering human heredity. Before they get through they may make a genius out of every new baby."

WHEN DOES A RIOT BECOME A REVOLUTION? by J. H. Plumb. This article, the seventh in Dr. Plumb's series, "In The Light of the Past," traces instances of rioting and mob violance through history and shows how often the mob has ruled. In every century there has been rioting, burning, shooting in the streets. Dr. Plumb, taking the long view of history, puts today's news into perspective. In comparing the nature of the recent American riots with the European experience, Dr. Plumb points out that the general aim of the mob is local, immediate, and specific — not general and revolutionary. It takes agents provocateurs to turn a riot to a revolutionary end. Riots rarely fail — past and present. His view to the future allows that there must be a ray of real, not illusory, hope in America which will turn rioting Negroes from revolution and possible civil war to political participation.

NAPOLEON SLEPT HERE, by John Kobler. Retracing the exact route Napoleon took from Golfe-Juan to Paris after his daring escape from Elba in 1815, Mr. Kobler interviewed the great-grandchildren of people who entertained Napoleon, viewed hundreds of artifacts (though not the discarded chicken bones one relic-mad provincial is reputed to have salvaged from Napoleon's lunch), and visited chambers where Napoleon slept. "The old families," writes Mr. Kobler, "spoke of Napoleon's passage with such intimacy, such immediacy, that it might have happened yesterday." Plaques and monuments along the trail record moments on this journey — in Napoleon's words, "the most prodigious march of which history has any record." "Here on Monday, March 6, 1815, returning from Elba, the Emperor Napoleon paused,"recalls a monument at Stain-Bonnet; "Here Napoleon was hailed by the peasants of Champsaur. . . ," reads another; and one celebrates a spot where the Emperor was observed to urinate. Related one hotel owner: "If Napoleon slept in all the hotels around here and ate in all the restaurants people claim he did, he would never have got to Paris."

SIR ISAAC NEWTON, by Walter Karp. "If modern science and its methods can be likened to a machine, then it was Newton who assembled its parts and demonstrated its awesome power," writes biographer Karp of this complex man who is indisputably the greatest scientist who ever lived. "Had he not lived," continues Mr. Karp, "the course of science might have been radically altered." By the age of 24 Newton had invented calculus, had discovered a profound truth about the nature of light and color, and was on his way toward expounding the theory of universal gravitation. Newton was a supreme experimental scientist, a supreme theoretical scientist, and a supreme mathematician. "He was to achieve in three distinct modes of thought what only a few scientists have been able to achieve in one." This article narrates the life of this somber titan who longed to be praised and feared to be criticized and gives a graphic explanation of the nature of Newton's real contribution to the science of our own world.

GAUDI, by Roy McMullen. A stimulating analysis of "the great outsider of 20th century architecture" points out that the current enthusiasm for Gaudi's work is because of a turn from functionalism to romanticism. Whatever the reaction to this great genius of Spanish architecture, it's always strong — from the unstinting praise of Salvador Dali to the scorn of French critic Maurice Casteels who considered one of Gaudi's buildings "adorned with abscesses." His greatest achievement and dream (still incomplete), the Sagrada Familia Church in Barcelona, occupied his final years. Author McMullen, besides analyzing the elements of Gaudi's genius, points out the political and social factors that supported the building of his outrageous creations. A riot of textures, ornaments, and natural forms were all made possible by the natural materials available to him in Barcelona. What is the assessment of his genius? McMullen considers Gaudi "a great maker of habitable sculpture" but adds that "one Gaudi in the 20th century is quite enough."

RENDER UNTO CEDAR, by Frederic V. Grunfeld. Totem poles have all but vanished from the coastal villages of the Pacific Northwest. As recently as the turn of the century, hundreds of these huge, abstractly carved cedar images that illustrated their owners' lineage or recalled local legends dotted landing beaches along the 1000-mile coast from Vancouver Island to Yakutat Bay, Alaska. In this article Mr. Grunfeld reports on the double-edged fate of the totem pole. Many examples of the art can be found in museums, he points out, and in auction galleries where prices for them have risen ten-fold in the past 25 years. Those that remain in their native locales are found in deserted villages where the forest is slowly reclaiming its own. Gradually they are falling to the ground, where the process of decay begins. Unlike much Western and Asian art, which represents an attempt to stay the hand of time, the author observes, the totem pole "abides by the time-table of the forest." Nine photographs taken by Mr. Grunfeld's wife, Toby Molenaar, in British Columbia and Alaska accompany the article.

THE HIDDEN ART OF THE HIGH HIMALAYA, by Madanjeet Singh. The outstanding paintings reproduced in this article have never before been seen in color outside the Himalayan temple-fortresses in which they were painted. Madanjeet Singh, a student of Asian art and a member of India's diplomatic corps, made 35 trips — harrowing journeys along mountain paths in the face of blizzards, avalanches, and other natural hazards — over the space of a year to photograph these magnificent paintings. In the bleak, mountain-walled Himalayas — what Mr. Singh calls, "the last great remote area of the world" — a branch of Indian Buddhism has made its last stand and with it the strange mystical art, rarely seen by outsiders, which has been photographed by this venturesome scholar. Tantric art serves a religious prupose, and the style has not changed over the centuries. "The Himalaya's artists are still at work," says Mr. Singh, "painting as the Byzantine artists did. . . blissfully unaware that history, as always, has rushed on ahead of them."

THE INCOMPARABLE ENFANTIN: A MORAL TALE, by Morris Bishop. Upon the death in 1825 of Saint-Simon, the founder of French socialism, 29-year-old Barthelemy Prosper Enfantin, illegitimate son of an impoverished French banker, inherited the master's prophetic robe. Enfantin set himself up as a divinity, "le Pere," and instituted a world-wide serach for "la Mere." Many candidates appeared and were tested but the Father was always obliged to announce that this again was not the Female Messiah. Le Pere Enfantin along with forty faithful male disciples took up residence in Menilmontant to await the coming of his destined bride. The authorities, alarmed at the strange goings-on and the spread of revolutionary spirit, jailed Enfantin. Upon his release, his movement tottering, he traveled to Egypt to continue his search for his mate, to convert the Egyptians to his faith, and to await a revelation. At the end of the 1830's he lapsed into obscurity — only to find "a resurrection among his human brothers." He dreamed of a great railroad line in France and became the chief promoter of the Paris-Lyon-Mediterranee line. He died in 1864, a rich and honored railroad magnate.

THE LITERARY LARCENY OF SAINT COLUMBA, by Phyllis McGinley. From the fifth to the tenth centuries, Ireland safeguarded "the twin lights of learning and Christianity, when over Europe they had almost entirely flickered out," Mrs. McGinley writes. "Actual saints and real scholars preserved a persecuted faith, a classic but perishing literature, and by their immense efforts restored both to Western Europe when the era was ripe." She recalls in this article one of the legends of this Irish golden age — the story of Saint Columba, whose secret passion for a rare manuscript led to his banishment to the Island of Iona, in the Hebrides, where he founded what became the most influential of all the Celtic abbeys.

FREDERICK II: THE WONDER OF THE WORLD, by Edmund Stillman. A Renaissance man two centuries before the Renaissance, Frederick II of Hohenstaufen was also a despotic megalomaniac who saw himself as the earthly incarnation of divine law, a kind of second Christ. He was a sicentist, mathematician, lawmaker, poet, linguist, and ornithologist, as well as a political genius. His vision of a united, secular Europe clashed, however, with the ambitions of the Church and the postfeudal spirit of the middle-class, urban, capitalistic society that was then struggling into being in Italy. And "stupor mundi, wonder of the world, outstanding political intelligence of his time though he might be, in collision with these nascent forces he proved helpless. He could not in the end transcend the materials and the inherent limitations of his age," writes Edmund Stillman. Frederick died in 1250, at the age of 56, defeated and bitterly disappointed. "He had built the first secular European state, codified laws, regulated commerce, fostered progress in the governmental interest, challenged medieval obscurantism and ecclesiastical pretension, but his work did not live long beyond him."

HOW DO I KNOW YOU KNOW WHAT YOU MEAN? by Peter Farb. Is man a prisoner of his language? In a long-obscure theory finally published in book form in 1956, Benjamin Lee Whorf calls language not merely a means of voicing ideas, but "the shaper of ideas" as well. The Whorf hypothesis — also labelled "linguistic relativity," "psycholinguistics," metalinguistics," and "ethnolinguistics" — throws into doubt the rationality of man's every decision. A scholar who disagrees with Whorf's theory, Charles F. Hockett, writes: "The history of Western logic and science constitutes not so much the story of scholars hemmed in and misled by the nature of their specific languages, as the story of a long fairly successful struggle against inherited linguistic limitations." The real value of Whorf's work, concludes author Farb, is that "he has alerted us to a problem that becomes more pressing as more people in the world communicate with each other."

THE VIEW FROM BABEL, by Padma Perera. What is it like to live in a country with 17 major languages and more than 500 individual dialects? Padma Perera, member of a peripatetic Indian family, reports that she needed a constant working facility with several languages at a time. In New Delhi, she writes, "We generally wound up speaking English to friends, Hindustani to local street vendors, Tamil to our South Indian cook, and a conglomeration of all three plus our own dialect to one another." In this subjective essay, the author relates the confusions and the pleasures that come with the gift of languages. Her conclusion: "In the end it becomes an inescapable way of seeing your world. Perceptions tend to refract through the prism of another language. . for words may mean the same thing in various languages, but they seldom feel the same. Part of being polylingual is being perpetually caught in the limboes between languages."

THE GALSWORTHY SAGA, by J. W. Lambert. John Galsworthy marred his early writing by his overwhelming sense of pity for those less richly endowed than he, but his novels about the rich, overstuffed Forsyte clan—in fact, the Galsworthy family — are the epitome of late Victorianism. Galsworthy knew and understood the bleak but vital Victorians. His own life was circumscribed by their rigid social code, while his inner life smoldered with pent-up passion. "The Forsyte stock lives in his pages," writes J. W. Lambert, literary editor of The London Sunday Times, "with 'gray unmoving eyes hiding their instinct with its hidden roots of violence, their instinct for possession. . .'" Lambert sees something Roman in Galsworthy's Victorians and concludes, "he was the noblest Forsyte of them all."

ANCIENT ACHES AND PAINS, by Calvin Wells. Palaeontologists are aided in their study of ancient disease and injury by the evidence faithfully recorded by ancient artists. The illustrations accompanying this article include: a bronze figure of a dwarf from Benin in West Africa, showing an achondroplastic dwarf; and assymetrical Mohica vase, representing the lopsided expression of a sufferer from cranial hemorrhage; a wooden dance mask from Liberia showing a face paralyzed on one side; a portrait of the pharaoh Ahkenaten, who must have suffered from acromegaly which produced an exceptional elongation of his jaw; and a Congolese carving representing goiter. "Surprisingly enough," writes the author, "man is still heir to all the fleshy ills portrayed in these ancient works of art."

Credit Women Group To Meet Wednesday

Pikes Peak Credit Women International will meet Wednesday noon at the Stockyard's Steak House.

Newly elected president Mrs. June Palmer will preside at the meeting and a test will be given on the completed manual.

"This is an excellent time for women working in credit who wish to gain more knowledge and become more efficient in their jobs to join our organization," said a club spokesman.

Looking at Hollywood

BY FLORABEL MUIR

HOLLYWOOD—The work of famed Italian director, Michelangelo Antonioni, will be honored by a month-long exhibit of stills of his motion pictures at Harvard University's Graduate School of Design in Robinson Hall from Nov. 15 through Dec. 15.

A montage of his work, including individual production stills, will reflect the month-long theme of the exhibit, "Man's Alienation in the Technological Environment," including suitable stills from his latest effort for MGM, "Zabriskie Point"—Antonioni's first American film.

Other Antonioni films from which material will be drawn include "Blow Up," also released by MGM, "The Eclipse," "L'Avventura," "La Notte" and "Red Desert."

The director, now filming "Zabriskie Point" in the desert at Zabriskie Point, Death Valley, will not be able to attend to receive appropriate honors at the exhibit, but will forward a message and a dissertation on the significance of his work as a film director.

Lee Marvin will host acocktail party for Toshiro Mifune—both in New York and Hollywood—to introduce him to the American press and theatrical luminaries in connection with the screening of their Oscar-contending "Hell in the Pacific."

Mifune will do likewise in Tokyo, where the film will have its world premiere in December. It opens in a few key U.S. cities in February, but will run for a week in Hollywood first in order to qualify for Oscars.

The London premiere of Euan Lloyd's "Shalako" on Dec. 12 will be an instant replay of the Munich world premiere—meaning Stephen Boyd and Brigitte Bardot, who star with Sean Connery in the Spanish western but need no help off-screen, have agreed to in-person appearances. In Munich, screaming fans overturned the couple's car, ripped Steve's $500 tuxedo to shreds and BB barely got away from the mob.

Sight Of The Week: Robert Mitchum and George Kennedy eating Beluga caviar while on horseback at the 12,000-foot level outside Chama, N.M. The two husky actors, starring in Warners-Seven Arts' "The Good Guys and the Bad Guys," enjoyed the delicacy between takes. It was a gift from Bob's son, Jim, who shipped a pound of caviar from Tehran, Iran where he's starring with Stu Whitman and Elke Sommer in "The Heroes."

Donovan (who insists on being called by only one name) rushed back from New York a day ahead of schedule and went directly to the studio from the airport to tape a "Hollywood Palace" show just hours before the musicians' strike started. Donovan wasn't scheduled to do the show until two days later, but he's a headliner who believes in keeping his obligations to other people.

Before Elvis Presley departed for Memphis, he left his fabulous converted $50,000 bus here to be overhauled. He's having $9,000 new motor and transmission put in and an $800 air conditioning sytem installed. The bus, which Elvis uses for transporting himself and his retinue, already has sleeping quarters, a hi-fi system, kitchen, and numerous other conveniences.

While Andre Previn is devoting himself almost exclusively to his serious musical career, his lyricist-wife Dory has found herself a new partner — professional, that is. Composer Elmer Bernstein and she are collaborating on a Broadway musical for the '70 season.

In U. A.'s "Buona Sera, Mrs. Campbell," Marian Moses plays the wife of Peter Lawford and since the picture was made in Italy, there are several occasions on which Miss Moses is pinched by Italian males. Her only comment on these episodes was, "As a Moses, I don't like this breach of the Ten Commandments."

Behavioral Science Meet Set in Denver

More than 150 experts in nearly all major areas of the behavioral sciences will be represented at the 78th annual Colorado Conference of Social Welfare that opens Nov. 20 in Denver.

The experts on the program range from caseworkers who work on local scenes with welfare clients, juveniles in trouble and families with mental health difficulties to regional and national health, education and welfare planners and educators.

Colorado Springs people who will attend the conference include Rev. James D. Burnett, rector, Chapel of Our Saviour; Mrs. Andrew Marshall, member, Governor's Coordinating Commission on Implementation of Mental Health-Mental Retardation Planning.

Bill Comer Returns From Navy Cruise

Bill Comer, son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Comer, 1023 Norwood St., is home from the Navy after serving two cruises in Vietnam.

Comer, a 1965 graduate of Harrison High School, joined the Naval Reserve in April of 1965.

Colorado Medical Society Notes

Autopsies sometimes present a sensitive problem, both for families and their physicians, because the necessity for them arises at a time of grief and bereavement.

Actually, there are solid positive values to be derived from postmortem examinations.

Not the least of these is the banishment of doubts and uncertainties from the minds of the family of the deceased person. A lingering question about the cause of death may needlessly haunt a family for many years, and conscientious physicians often feel their responsibility to the family can be discharged best when there is a final and certain diagnosis which may be obtainable only by autopsy.

More immediately and concretely, the findings of an autopsy can be a direct protection to the relatives and descendants of the dead person. If the examination discloses, for example that a contagious or infectious condition was the cause of death, immediate steps can be taken to prevent the same disease in family members who were exposed.

The findings also may reveal congenital or familial conditions against which counter-measures should be taken for the protection of sons, daughters and near relatives. Disclosure that a certain unsuspected condition "runs in the family" — a disclosure which may result from an autopsy — can be a major service to everyone else in the family, perhaps for generations to come.

To families in which earlier children have died of unknown causes, an autopsy can be of first importance to other sick children right now. For instance, the autopsy might disclose an inherited tendency in the family to a condition called galactosemia, an inborn malfunction of metabolism which can be controlled by alterations of diet but which can lead to death or mental retardation if uncontrolled.

There are many other congenital and familial conditions against which a physician can protect a family once existence of the condition within the family has been conformed by autopsy findings.

Autopsies also are valuable to humanity in the largest sense.

Much of modern medicine is based upon a foundation of knowledge won from multiple autopsies over the years. It was not until the 1890's that autopsies proved children could suffer, and die of, acute appendicitis. Until that time, appendicitis had been regarded as strictly an adult disease. Autopsy proof that this was not so has saved thousands of young lives over the generations since.

Similarly, it was not until the 1940's that medicine began to understand, on the basis of accumulated autopsy evidence, the true nature and extent of atherosclerosis. The evidence proved that the condition, one of the major causes of heart attacks, is widespread and very often affects only segments of arteries rather than the entire arterial system, as once was believed. This knowledge has led to better understanding of heart disease, better protection against heart attacks, and, specifically, to major developments in blood vessel surgery during the past fifteen years.

A condition known as "status thymicus lymphaticus" once was an acceptable diagnosis as cause of death in infants. Theoretically, an enlarged thymus gland in the lower neck choked the babies to death. A Colorado doctor wondered whether this was true, and a series of autopsies proved it wasn't. The thymus gland, it was found, is normally large in infants and diminishes in size as the child grows. This put an end to the use of X-ray on babies to shrink the gland.

The modern history of medicine offers many such examples of progress based on autopsies. A long step toward measurement of the problem of trichinosis, and thus toward its control, came in the 1930's when a long series of autopsies at the University of Colorado Medical Center showed that about seventeen per cent of the population was infected by the trichinosis organism from under-cooked pork.

As a result of these and other advances, recognition of the scientific value of the autopsy has grown to the point where one of the criteria for the evaluation of the quality of a hospital or medical school is the percentage of deaths which are autopsied. The Colorado University Medical Center, for example, has built up one of the highest rates in the country, consistently well above eighty per cent, placing it year after year among the top twenty hospitals in the nation.

The history of medical advances and the steady increase in hospital autopsy rates give promise of further progress based on knowledge gained through postmortem examinations. One of the horizons of contemporary medicine lies in viruses and their relationship to cancer. A single autopsy might well provide a key which would lead to the unlocking of knowledge that could save thousands of lives.

Some countries — Austria is one — have laws which require autopsies after all deaths, and the United States military services have so high a regard for postmortems that all deaths are autopsied.

More is to be gained from an autopsy than just confirmation of the cause of death. The physician who makes the examination looks for more than the immediate cause. His study of all tissues and organs may lead to discovery of long-term conditions which affected the patient's life, and thus the autopsy is a contribution to total medical knowledge, the physician's own and that of medical science as a whole.

Old Doc Experience advises:

—An autopsy is a service to humanity, in the largest sense, and its immediate value may lie in protection of the family and the children of the family.

—The findings may substitute peace of mind and certainty for a question mark.

—Autopsies are particularly needed when there has been anything obscure or baffling in the case.

—A postmortem examination is a respectful, humane and scientific procedure. Precise surgical techniques are employed, and there is no random destruction of the body.

—In the case of death within twenty-four hours after admission to the hospital, Colorado law requires that the case be reported to the coroner, and an autopsy may be required at his discretion.

—Persons who thoughtfully plan ahead with life insurance programs and wills would do well to give similar thought to a final service to their families and humanity by indicating their desire to be autopsied after death.

NAACP Banquet Slated Thursday

State Sen. George Brown will speak at the NAACP banquet at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Acacia Hotel on the subject, "Gripes from the Ghetto."

The banquet will be to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the NAACP in the city. The first meetings concerning civil rights and the organization were held in Colorado Springs because of concern about lynchings and other brutalities inflicted upon Negroes and a chapter was formally charted Nov. 17, 1918.

Prejudice in Colorado Springs at that time was reflected in the segregation of bathers at Prospect Lake and in the theaters, discrimination against Negro customers at drug stores and restaurants (if a Negro ate out, he went to a colored restaurant) and discrimination in the use of public facilities.

In 1947 the NAACP initiated and won a law suit against one of the local theaters and for the first time in the history of the community Negroes could sit anywhere they wanted to in a theater.

In 1948 the NAACP tested the provisions of the state constitution and successfully challenged the discrimination that prevailed in public facilities and they were made available to all citizens of Colorado Springs.

At a later date the NAACP joined with the Unity Council to open the YMCA and Boy's Club to Negroes and introduced Negro teachers into the District 11 school system for the first time.

The NAACP in recent years, has become more active in the affairs of Colorado Springs and today serves as liaison between the Negro community and city officials. The organization continues to fight discrimination in the city, but under the leadership of Jim White it has moved into closer involvement in anti-poverty activities and federal government programs with committees working on consumer education, housing, employment and political action.

The emphasis in the future will be to aid and counsel the Negro attempting to enter the business world.

SCOPES' SENTENCE

In his 1925 "monkey" trial, John T. Scopes was found guilty of teaching the theory of evolution, contrary to Tennessee law, and was fined $100 and costs.

—Autopsies are particularly needed when there has been anything obscure or baffling in the case.

—A postmortem examination is a respectful, humane and scientific procedure. Precise surgical techniques are employed, and there is no random destruction of the body.

—In the case of death within twenty-four hours after admission to the hospital, Colorado law requires that the case be reported to the coroner, and an autopsy may be required at his discretion.

—Persons who thoughtfully plan ahead with life insurance programs and wills would do well to give similar thought to a final service to their families and humanity by indicating their desire to be autopsied after death.

NAACP Banquet Slated Thursday

State Sen. George Brown will speak at the NAACP banquet at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Acacia Hotel on the subject, "Gripes from the Ghetto."

The banquet will be to celebrate the 50th anniversary of the NAACP in the city. The first meetings concerning civil rights and the organization were held in Colorado Springs because of concern about lynchings and other brutalities inflicted upon Negroes and a chapter was formally charted Nov. 17, 1918.

Prejudice in Colorado Springs at that time was reflected in the segregation of bathers at Prospect Lake and in the theaters, discrimination against Negro customers at drug stores and restaurants (if a Negro ate out, he went to a colored restaurant) and discrimination in the use of public facilities.

In 1947 the NAACP initiated and won a law suit against one of the local theaters and for the first time in the history of the community Negroes could sit anywhere they wanted to in a theater.

In 1948 the NAACP tested the provisions of the state constitution and successfully challenged the discrimination that prevailed in public facilities and they were made available to all citizens of Colorado Springs.

At a later date the NAACP joined with the Unity Council to open the YMCA and Boy's Club to Negroes and introduced Negro teachers into the District 11 school system for the first time.

The NAACP in recent years, has become more active in the affairs of Colorado Springs and today serves as liaison between the Negro community and city officials. The organization continues to fight discrimination in the city, but under the leadership of Jim White it has moved into closer involvement in anti-poverty activities and federal government programs with committees working on consumer education, housing, employment and political action.

The emphasis in the future will be to aid and counsel the Negro attempting to enter the business world.

SCOPES' SENTENCE

In his 1925 "monkey" trial, John T. Scopes was found guilty of teaching the theory of evolution, contrary to Tennessee law, and was fined $100 and costs.

U.S. Prisoners Invited to Cambodia Rites

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Prince Norodom Sihanouk, Cambodian chief of state, invited 11 American prisoners to ceremonies Saturday marking 15th anniversary of Cambodia's independence.

Government ministers, members of the diplomatic corps and local residents gathered for the principal ceremony at the Monument to Independence.

The Americans, captured July 17 in a Cambodian river along with one Vietnamese, were given white suits for their trip to Phnom Penh, where they lunched at a restaurant. Later they attended a meeting of the Royal Cambodian Socialist Youth Movement.

Without indicating when, Sihanouk said that when they are released they will be given a chance to visit the famous temples at Angkor Wat.

At a news conference, the prince said that he is waiting for a gesture from Washington guaranteeing a halt in bombing of Cambodian frontier villages before releasing the prisoners.

He said that American planes machine gunned inhabitants of Svayrieng Province Nov. 7, causing two casualties.

U.S. military sources estimate that at least 20,000 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops are in Cambodia.

VISIT

MADRID (UPI)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk will visit Madrid next Saturday attempting to smooth the way for renewal of a treaty allowing U.S. bases in Spain, diplomatic sources said today.

The Spanish government has balked at renewing the treaty. If it is not renewed by March 29, 1969, the United States will have one year to evacuate the two Air Force and one Navy base it maintains in Spain.

SWAP Club to Hear Discussion On Socialism

H. Robert Adelmann, veteran insurance agent in Colorado Springs, will address the SWAP Club Monday on the subject "Socialism Versus the Ten Commandments."

The club meets for breakfast at Hof's Hut No. 2 at 7:15 a.m.

Adelmann, a native of New York, has bachelor of mechanical engineering and a master of business administration degrees.

He entered the insurance field in 1964 and in 1967 sold $1.5 million volume in life insurance and $6,000 of premium health insurance.

In addition to being quite active in civic and religious work in the local area, he has recently formed an association with three other well-known life insurance men for the purpose of providing customers with financial counseling.

Interested persons are invited to attend the breakfast meeting.

Valkyrie Units Bought by W. Sorensen

Woodrow Sorensen, owner of Sorensen's Inc., has announced the purchase of The Valkyrie Apartments at 129 Bonfoy and Bijou streets from Real Estate Management Corp. in trade for property, buildings and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Realtors handling the transaction included Claude Blue of Central Enterprises Realtor and Duane Jensen of Builders Realty Inc.

Designed for young adults, the Valkyrie has an outdoor heated pool, roof-top sun deck, sauna, and a recreation room complete with fireplace, conversation pit and pool table.

A richly appointed exterior with a Northern European decor marks the 4½ story structure.

Most of the 48 apartments feature fireplaces and private balconies. The air conditioned apartments have laundry facilities on every floor.

The Valkyrie was designed by architect Paul Rush & Associates, and patterned after similar units successful in Denver, to meet the demands of today's young, active society for high-styled living comfort in a convivial atmosphere.

Paving Firm Low Bidder On Park Work

Rocky Mountain Paving Inc., has submitted a low bid of $7,950 for park improvements of the Park and Recreation Department.

The only other bid submitted amounted to $13,333. It came from Broderick and Gibbons, Inc. Engineer's estimate on the project was $8,748.

The low bid will be submitted to city council Tuesday for its approval or rejection.

One phase of the contract involves hard surfaced areas for basketball and volleyball in Wilson and Meadows Parks.

Another phase will be the hardsurfacing needed where 12 horseshoe courts are to be constructed in Memorial Park.

Still another phase of the project will be to construct a parking lot where six tennis courts are to be built in Memorial Park.

Funds for these improvements will come from the city's sales and use tax.

Frontier Sells Last DC-3 to Texas Broker

Frontier's last scheduled DC-3 has been sold by the airline to an aircraft broker in Houston, Tex.

At one time, Frontier had a fleet of 37 DC-3's.

Most of the DC-3's from Frontier's fleet, after flying over 20 years in the high and dry country of the West, have been bought by an airline operating in the Philippines where they will be flying low and wet.

Flights which Frontier previously operated with DC-3's were replaced by jet-prop Convair 580's, which cruise at over 350 miles per hour and carry 53 passengers in pressurized, air-conditioned comfort.

In addition, Frontier has eight Boeing 727 jets which carry up to 134 passengers and which cruise at 600 miles per hour.

There is also a difference in price. Frontier bought most of its DC-3's from the trunk airlines or converted the military C-47's into DC-3's with the purchase price being approximately $20,000 to $25,000. In contrast, Frontier's newest 727-200 carries a $6,000,000 price tag.

Although the scheduled operations of Frontier's DC-3 are now a matter of history, the DC-3 aficionado will be pleased to know that the DC-3 will still be cruising at 150 miles per hour in skies throughout the world for a long, long time to come.

Play School Official at National Meet

Mrs. Ann K. Doss, supervisor of The Play School Children's Centers, in Colorado Springs is in New York City this week attending the 1968 Conference of the National Assn. For The Education of Young Children (NAEYC).

Mrs. Doss' participation in the four-day conference will focus mainly on facts concerning federal funding as it applies to National Day Care Programs.

Currently in her second year as state president of the Association for Childhood Education, Mrs. Doss also served a four-year term as president from 1960-1964.

She holds the distinction of initiating a "pilot program" of on-the-job training in the field of nursery school teaching.

Working with Colorado University officials and Aid to Dependent Children personnel, Mrs. Doss encompassed this "Title V" cooperative plan into her three play schools.

She is also a member of the Advisory Board for the Colorado Springs Headstart Program.

Last year she was an active committee member of the Community Planning and Research Task Force to Study Children's Affairs in Colorado Springs.

Mrs. Dodd has long worked with the State of Colorado in helping to formulate state standards for nursery schools and child care.

Springs Bank Mails Yule Club Checks

In the Pikes Peak region this week 360 people will enjoy the prospect of a "prepaid Christmas" in the form of Christmas Club checks mailed today by The Colorado Springs National Bank.

John W. Armstrong, president, said today that checks totaling $36,082.00 will contribute to the economy of the area this pre-holiday season.

The Christmas Club plan involves the monthly payment of agreed upon amounts. It is highly favored by housewives and others who look forward to having special funds available each year for Christmas expenses.

Beginning Tuesday, Christmas Club accounts for 1969 will be opened in the lobby of the bank, Armstrong said.

This year a special premium consisting of a mint set of 1964 silver coins will be given to each customer who opens a $3 a week or larger Christmas Club.

Giddings Recalls History of Pioneer Building

Opening of the new Fashion Bar on The Corner Nov. 14 will mark 70 continuous years of retailing at the building located at 101 N. Tejon St.

Ralph O. Giddings, Jr., whose grandfather erected the building in 1898, says, "I am very glad to have Fashion Bar occupying the building. I understand it is one of the most up and coming merchandising organizations in Colorado."

Giddings is also pleased that the remodeling program undertaken by Fashion Bar has left the original construction intact. "I feel it is important for the city to retain some of its historical downtown places," he declares.

Active in the Horticultural Society and long a member of the board of the Fine Arts Center, (FAC) Giddings has been in the vanguard of the artistic life of Colorado Springs since the days of the Broadmoor Art Academy, predecessor to the FAC.

In so doing, he carries on a family tradition of involvement in the business and cultural life of the city.

His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Giddings, came to the new little town of Colorado Springs a year or two after its founding in 1871.

For approximately a year, E. W., who had come from Michigan for his health, traveled the area with horse and buggy selling dry goods and notions for a Denver firm.

In 1874, he opened his first store at 17 S. Tejon St., moving shortly to a larger adjoining building.

Here, dry goods boxes served as counters and merchandise displays were set out on the plank sidewalk each day.

The little town with dreams of grandeur grew, and with it the Giddings business.

In 1898, Giddings purchased the site at 101 N. Tejon St. and erected a five-story building. In a few years, further construction extended the building to its present size.

Giddings participated in numerous community activities as well as maintaining interests in mining and cattle. In 1899, he retired. His brother, L. A. Giddings, and his son, Ralph O. Giddings, Sr., took over the business.

When L. A. Giddings retired in 1912, the company became Giddings and Kirkwood until 1932, when T. C. Kirkwood sold his interest to Ralph O. Giddings.

At this time Ralph O. Giddings, Jr., became active in the management of the company. One of the first projects undertaken by father and son was extensive remodeling of the store.

"As a little boy," Giddings, Jr., recalls, "I had enjoyed the excitement of growing up in the store."

"I remember the old open-cage elevator, the revolving stools in front of the counters — and how I and other youngsters loved to whirl them around, making a great racket. And I remember the overhead baskets which carried merchandise and money across the store on wires and how the kids chased after them — including me."

"But," he says, "like most sons, I didn't want to go into the business." Instead, he studied architecture.

When he joined his father in the firm, however, he discovered how fascinating merchandising could be.

In 1949, the company observed its 75th anniversary. Ralph Giddings, Sr., had died in 1948, and Ralphn Jr., was president.

His sister, the late Miss Margaret Giddings, was vice president and secretary.

Once more the store underwent extensive remodeling. In 1954, it was purchased by Daniels & Fisher, which merged with the May Co. in 1957. May-D&F remodeled the building in 1959 and occupied it until August of this year.

For many years, Giddings operated Giddings Interiors, specializing an interior design and antiques. "I'm not really active at present," he says, "but still do some designing and consulting."

As for the latest turn in the history of the Giddings Building, he says, "I am delighted. I plan to set out trees in front and at the side of the store to add to the attractiveness of the location."

Canon City Firm Bought by Portec Corp.

The sale of Fry & Co. of Canon City to Portec Inc. of Chicago was announced Wednesday. The cash salt price was in excess of $1 million.

President Charles Fry said the sale to the larger company will give a greater financial backing to the Canon City firm. Officials said the firm will definitely remain in Canon City.

Fry stressed that the firm will be autonomous from the parent company, Portec, with all local management and company policies remaining in effect.

Headquartered in Chicago, Portec, Inc. is a parent company owning nine different divisions other than their newest purchase. Presently they manufacture railway equipment products, quarry and road building machinery, structural steel products, shipping systems, steel frames and casings and industrial belting.

Fry and Company's patented Flowmaster power turn conveyor systems and a line of vehicles for baggage and material handling at airports have now beed added to Portec's line with the sale.

President Fry said he was happy with the sale as it will give the firm a chance to expand at a reasonable rate with more backing. Arriving soon at the Canon Ctiy plant is a model of a British built hover craft for evaluation with possible construction in mind.

Since it's move to Canon City a few years ago, Fry and Co. has been an economic boon to the area. They presently employ 38 people with a monthly payroll of $25,000. The firm has been continually expanding, recently completing its seventh project, a paint shop, machine shop, employe's lounge and cafeteria.

Fashion Bar on the Corner Set For Grand Opening Thursday

Fashion Bar on The Corner, Tejon and Kiowa Streets, will hold its grand opening Thursday.

Doors will open at 9:30 a.m.

First and second floors of the completely remodeled building will be devoted exclusively to men's wear, making it the largest men's store, (18,000 square feet) in Colorado Springs. A youth center occupying 7,000 square feet on the third floor will be the largest children's shop in the city. Remodeling cost was not revealed by firm officials.

Fashion Bar at 115 N. Tejon St. will continue to feature three floors of women's wear. It will undergo extensive remodeling early in 1969.

Fashion Bar on The Corner will be the second store in Colorado Springs and the 14th in the state for the Colorado apparel specialty chain. The firm has been in continuous operation here since 1936.

"We grew up with Colorado Springs and have faith and confidence in the city and in the downtown area," says Jack H. Levy, chairman of the board. "That is why we feel there can be no doubt about the success of our newest store. We hope that other downtown merchants will benefit from this exciting new addition to the downtown business area."

In the retailing business since 1946, he was formerly general merchandise manager and a member of the board of directors of the Idaho Department Store Co., headquartered in Caldwell, Idaho, which operated 27 stores in Colorado, Idaho, Oregon, Washington, Utah, and South Dakota.

The company was sold to International Shoe Co. in 1966.

Shaffer and his wife Patricia are the parents of six children, two boys and four girls. The older boy is in college, the rest of the children will attend schools here.

New to Colorado Springs, Shaffer says, "I look forward to meeting and getting to know all the people I possibly can."

Fashion Bar on The Corner will employ 35 persons, all from the Colorado Springs area, he said. "We will have the most complete assortment of men's merchandise in this area and possibly all of Colorado."

Bob Levy, vice president, men's wear division, agrees. "Like all Fashion Bar stores, this store will have something for everyone in every style and price range. We aim for universal appeal with good taste."

Fashion Bar on The Corner marks an important phase for the firm, Levy declares. "This is our biggest men's unit. It is just the beginning of more complete and expanded operations for both our men's and women's stores. There's a revolution in men's wear, and we are moving with it."

Famous brand names featured at the store will include Ratner of California, Petrocelli, H. Freeman, and Hollywood Clothes in men's clothing and Stanley Blacker sports coats.

Levi, HIS, and Day slacks are featured in casual pants. London Fog and Aquascutum rainwear, Arrow dress shirts, Damon sweaters, and Munsingwear and Jockey are among other brands carried.

The store's own Fashion Bar label will be on many clothing items and furnishings by top manufacturers.

Famous names in children's clothing will include Rob Roy, Robert Bruce, and Lee Wald, and — in boys' wear — Don Moor, Hortex, and Mann Pants.

"Our customers will find something for every price range and style preference," Reece Shaffer notes. "I think people will be amazed at the dramatic change in the appearance of the store," he adds.

Outside of the pioneer business building has been transformed with dark bronze paint, awnings of bronze-green with black stripes, and olive-black panels over the two entrances. Three 16-foot "Fashion Bar" signs are mounted flat on the walls.

Richard L. Crowther of Crowther, Kruse, Landin & Associates, Denver, nationally known architect, says, "I was working for a feeling of masculine solidity — contemporary - with -feeling — combining today and the traditional."

Interior of the store has been completely remodeled. On the men's floors, walls are of orange-brass, with deep cedar and olive-black trim. Pillars ars of resawn cedar, with brass accents. Walls of the traditional shop are covered in cork. Combination lighting is used to give a daylight effect.

The first floor, from the front entrance, features men's sportswear and accessories, with a men's boutique in the center. Casual pants and trend merchandise will be displayed at the back.

The men's shoe department offers Florsheim and imported shoes.

Black shag rug, antique furniture and coat trees add to the atmosphere. "Men want a quiet mood for browsing," Crowther says.

White vinyl brick accents the Kiowa Street entrance. The show department and the display windows are carpeted in vibrant rust.

Outerwear and clothing for men and students, the contemporary and traditional departments, and the international shop are on the second floor.

Here, suspended open wood grillwork adds to the spacious, masculine effect. A large walnut sideboard is reported to have come from Baby Doe Tabor's home. Also noteworthy are the two 6x11-foot photo murals by Crowther depicting scenes in the Garden of the Gods.

Third floor will be a complete youth center. Gay wallpaper patterns will be used to separate the various departments yet leave the entire area free-flowing for easy shopping from one section to the next.

Vivid plaid will mark the boys' department, with sizes 2-7 and 8-20 (to age 16). Infants, 3-6x, and 7-14 sizes will be shown against a backdrop of gay yellow and gold balls on white.

The girls' junior teen department is highlighted by blue and green multistripes. Large yellow and white herringbone sets off the shoe area.

Bruce Hughes, Colorado Springs, was general contractor for remodeling of the Giddings Building. Whitney Electric Co., Colorado Springs, was the electrical contractor. Fixtures are by Hughes and Co., Denver; carpeting by Bill Staab and awnings by the Colorado Tent and Awning Co., both of Denver. Douglas Rapson, Colorado Springs, was the painting contractor, and Sperry and Mock did the tile work.

Fashion Bar began in Denver in 1933. The Colorado Springs, Pueblo, and Greeley stores were acquired when the firm purchased the Green Dress Shops in 1936. Stores in Boulder and Grand Junction followed.

The Colorado Springs Fashion Bar moved to 115 N. Tejon St. in 1960, remodeling the Peerless Building at a cost of $150,000.

The first men's wear department was opened in the Denver Westland Store in March 1963 and in the Colorado Springs store November 1963.

Growth of the men's wear business has proved so overwhelming that the current expansion program became necessary, according to William M. Weil, president.

Verne Johnson To Attend Council Meet

Verne Johnson, president and general manager of Johnson Pontiac-GMC-Jeep, was elected to attend the National Jeep Dealer Council meeting.

He is representing the Jeep Dealers in the Rocky Mountain States, officials said.

Daily sessions of the Council, beginning Monday will cover discussions between Kaiser-Jeep Corp. management and dealer representatives from all regions in the U.S.A.

The purpose of the newly instituted council is to assist Kaiser-Jeep in constructive action on a continuing program involving improvement of service and sales to Jeep buyers and owners.

Johnson, who is secretary of the Denver Region Dealer Council, was elected national representative at the October Dealer Council meeting.

United Will Provide Faster Reservations

United Air Lines and Atars Computers Systems, Inc., have signed an agreement to provide immediate flight reservation information to travel agents and commercial accounts.

Under the agreement United will feed flight schedule and reservations information into a central Atars computer system located at Los Angeles.

Travel agents and commercial accounts, by leasing IBM 1977 typewriter terminals through Atars, may obtain immediate reservations on any airline participating in the program.

The leased typewriter terminals, located in travel agent and commercial account offices, permit almost instantaneous booking and confirmation of reservations.

ASTME Group To Meet Here Monday

The American Society of Tool and Manufacturer Engineers will hold its monthly meeting at 6:30 p.m. Monday at the Candlelight Inn, 3800 N. Nevada Ave.

Leon Klingensmith, of Vasco, a teledyne company of Latrobe, Pa., will speak to the group on the subject "New Developments in Space-Age Tooling."

The subject should be of interest to each person in the metal working and manufacturing business due to the demand for increased productivity plus tooling requirements of the metal working industry. Klingensmith was born in Latrobe, Pa.

He attended the Latrobe school system and in 1960 was graduated from Latrobe High School.

In 1964 he received his bachelor of science degree in Metallurgy from Pennsylvania State University.

Following graduation he joined Vasco, as a service metallurgist.

His duties consist of product development, investigating tool steel performance, and assisting customers in the proper heat treatment and application of tool and specialty steels.

Klingensmith is a member of the American Ordnance Association, the American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers, and the American Society for Metals.

He served on both the regular meetings and membership committees of the ASM's Pittsburgh Chapter.

In addition, Klingensmith is a director of the Greater Latrobe Jaycees.

SWAP Club to Hear Discussion On Socialism

H. Robert Adelmann, veteran insurance agent in Colorado Springs, will address the SWAP Club Monday on the subject "Socialism Versus the Ten Commandments."

The club meets for breakfast at Hof's Hut No. 2 at 7:15 a.m.

Adelmann, a native of New York, has bachelor of mechanical engineering and a master of business administration degrees.

He entered the insurance field in 1964 and in 1967 sold $1.5 million volume in life insurance and $6,000 of premium health insurance.

In addition to being quite active in civic and religious work in the local area, he has recently formed an association with three other well-known life insurance men for the purpose of providing customers with financial counseling.

Interested persons are invited to attend the breakfast meeting.

Valkyrie Units Bought by W. Sorensen

Woodrow Sorensen, owner of Sorensen's Inc., has announced the purchase of The Valkyrie Apartments at 129 Bonfoy and Bijou streets from Real Estate Management Corp. in trade for property, buildings and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Realtors handling the transaction included Claude Blue of Central Enterprises Realtor and Duane Jensen of Builders Realty Inc.

Designed for young adults, the Valkyrie has an outdoor heated pool, roof-top sun deck, sauna, and a recreation room complete with fireplace, conversation pit and pool table.

A richly appointed exterior with a Northern European decor marks the 4½ story structure.

Most of the 48 apartments feature fireplaces and private balconies. The air conditioned apartments have laundry facilities on every floor.

The Valkyrie was designed by architect Paul Rush & Associates, and patterned after similar units successful in Denver, to meet the demands of today's young, active society for high-styled living comfort in a convivial atmosphere.

Paving Firm Low Bidder On Park Work

Rocky Mountain Paving Inc., has submitted a low bid of $7,950 for park improvements of the Park and Recreation Department.

The only other bid submitted amounted to $13,333. It came from Broderick and Gibbons, Inc. Engineer's estimate on the project was $8,748.

The low bid will be submitted to city council Tuesday for its approval or rejection.

One phase of the contract involves hard surfaced areas for basketball and volleyball in Wilson and Meadows Parks.

Another phase will be the hardsurfacing needed where 12 horseshoe courts are to be constructed in Memorial Park.

Still another phase of the project will be to construct a parking lot where six tennis courts are to be built in Memorial Park.

Funds for these improvements will come from the city's sales and use tax.

Frontier Sells Last DC-3 to Texas Broker

Frontier's last scheduled DC-3 has been sold by the airline to an aircraft broker in Houston, Tex.

At one time, Frontier had a fleet of 37 DC-3's.

Most of the DC-3's from Frontier's fleet, after flying over 20 years in the high and dry country of the West, have been bought by an airline operating in the Philippines where they will be flying low and wet.

Flights which Frontier previously operated with DC-3's were replaced by jet-prop Convair 580's, which cruise at over 350 miles per hour and carry 53 passengers in pressurized, air-conditioned comfort.

In addition, Frontier has eight Boeing 727 jets which carry up to 134 passengers and which cruise at 600 miles per hour.

There is also a difference in price. Frontier bought most of its DC-3's from the trunk airlines or converted the military C-47's into DC-3's with the purchase price being approximately $20,000 to $25,000. In contrast, Frontier's newest 727-200 carries a $6,000,000 price tag.

Although the scheduled operations of Frontier's DC-3 are now a matter of history, the DC-3 aficionado will be pleased to know that the DC-3 will still be cruising at 150 miles per hour in skies throughout the world for a long, long time to come.

Play School Official at National Meet

Mrs. Ann K. Doss, supervisor of The Play School Children's Centers, in Colorado Springs is in New York City this week attending the 1968 Conference of the National Assn. For The Education of Young Children (NAEYC).

Mrs. Doss' participation in the four-day conference will focus mainly on facts concerning federal funding as it applies to National Day Care Programs.

Currently in her second year as state president of the Association for Childhood Education, Mrs. Doss also served a four-year term as president from 1960-1964.

She holds the distinction of initiating a "pilot program" of on-the-job training in the field of nursery school teaching.

Working with Colorado University officials and Aid to Dependent Children personnel, Mrs. Doss encompassed this "Title V" cooperative plan into her three play schools.

She is also a member of the Advisory Board for the Colorado Springs Headstart Program.

Last year she was an active committee member of the Community Planning and Research Task Force to Study Children's Affairs in Colorado Springs.

Mrs. Dodd has long worked with the State of Colorado in helping to formulate state standards for nursery schools and child care.

Springs Bank Mails Yule Club Checks

In the Pikes Peak region this week 360 people will enjoy the prospect of a "prepaid Christmas" in the form of Christmas Club checks mailed today by The Colorado Springs National Bank.

John W. Armstrong, president, said today that checks totaling $36,082.00 will contribute to the economy of the area this pre-holiday season.

The Christmas Club plan involves the monthly payment of agreed upon amounts. It is highly favored by housewives and others who look forward to having special funds available each year for Christmas expenses.

Beginning Tuesday, Christmas Club accounts for 1969 will be opened in the lobby of the bank, Armstrong said.

This year a special premium consisting of a mint set of 1964 silver coins will be given to each customer who opens a $3 a week or larger Christmas Club.

Giddings Recalls History of Pioneer Building

Opening of the new Fashion Bar on The Corner Nov. 14 will mark 70 continuous years of retailing at the building located at 101 N. Tejon St.

Ralph O. Giddings, Jr., whose grandfather erected the building in 1898, says, "I am very glad to have Fashion Bar occupying the building. I understand it is one of the most up and coming merchandising organizations in Colorado."

Giddings is also pleased that the remodeling program undertaken by Fashion Bar has left the original construction intact. "I feel it is important for the city to retain some of its historical downtown places," he declares.

Active in the Horticultural Society and long a member of the board of the Fine Arts Center, (FAC) Giddings has been in the vanguard of the artistic life of Colorado Springs since the days of the Broadmoor Art Academy, predecessor to the FAC.

In so doing, he carries on a family tradition of involvement in the business and cultural life of the city.

His grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Giddings, came to the new little town of Colorado Springs a year or two after its founding in 1871.

For approximately a year, E. W., who had come from Michigan for his health, traveled the area with horse and buggy selling dry goods and notions for a Denver firm.

In 1874, he opened his first store at 17 S. Tejon St., moving shortly to a larger adjoining building.

Here, dry goods boxes served as counters and merchandise displays were set out on the plank sidewalk each day.

The little town with dreams of grandeur grew, and with it the Giddings business.

In 1898, Giddings purchased the site at 101 N. Tejon St. and erected a five-story building. In a few years, further construction extended the building to its present size.

Giddings participated in numerous community activities as well as maintaining interests in mining and cattle. In 1899, he retired. His brother, L. A. Giddings, and his son, Ralph O. Giddings, Sr., took over the business.

When L. A. Giddings retired in 1912, the company became Giddings and Kirkwood until 1932, when T. C. Kirkwood sold his interest to Ralph O. Giddings.

ASTME Group To Meet Here Monday

The American Society of Tool and Manufacturer Engineers will hold its monthly meeting at 6:30 p.m. Monday at the Candlelight Inn, 3800 N. Nevada Ave.

Leon Klingensmith, of Vasco, a teledyne company of Latrobe, Pa., will speak to the group on the subject "New Developments in Space-Age Tooling."

The subject should be of interest to each person in the metal working and manufacturing business due to the demand for increased productivity plus tooling requirements of the metal working industry. Klingensmith was born in Latrobe, Pa.

He attended the Latrobe school system and in 1960 was graduated from Latrobe High School.

In 1964 he received his bachelor of science degree in Metallurgy from Pennsylvania State University.

Following graduation he joined Vasco, as a service metallurgist.

His duties consist of product development, investigating tool steel performance, and assisting customers in the proper heat treatment and application of tool and specialty steels.

Klingensmith is a member of the American Ordnance Association, the American Society of Tool and Manufacturing Engineers, and the American Society for Metals.

He served on both the regular meetings and membership committees of the ASM's Pittsburgh Chapter.

In addition, Klingensmith is a director of the Greater Latrobe Jaycees.

Republican Solons Plan Organization

DENVER (UPI) — The Republican leadership which controls the Colorado General Assembly will hold a legislative organization session Nov. 15.

GOP lawmakers, who hold a 24-11 edge in the State Senate and a 38-27 advantage in the House, will name their legislative leaders during the meeting.

House Speaker John Vanderhoof, R-Glenwood Springs, is expected to retain his position, but there may be a battle in the Senate over the majority leader's job. The post is held by Sen. Ted Gill, R-Hillrose.

The powerful six-member legislative Joint Budget Committee also will undergo some changes. Rep. Harrie Hart, R-Colorado Springs, is committee chairman, but the job may go to Sen. Harry Locke, R-Salida.

Reds Had to Pull Back, Says General Walt

TOKYO (UPI) — Lt. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, assistant commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps., said Thursday Allied victories have forced Communist forces to pull back in South Vietnam.

The three - star general from Fort Collins, Colo., said he does not believe the withdrawal had anything to do with the preliminary Paris peace talks.

"They had no choice but to pull back," Walt said at a news conference following a nine-day inspection tour in Vietnam.

"I am confident we are winning this war. I am sure South Vietnam eventually will have the capacity to take over the job."

Walt, pleading for "patience and perserverance on the home front," said the Allies have killed about 250,000 N. Vietnamese and Viet Cong in the past year and said the losses had changed the character of Communist forces.

"The enemy now is an entirely different breed of cat," Walt said. "He is not properly trained He is not disciplines. He is not equipped to go on the battlefield."

The Marine commander said the TET offensive launched by Communist forces last January was the "turning point" in the war.

Walt served as commanding officer of the 3rd Marine Amphibious Force in South Vietnam from May, 1965, until June 1967.

Two Plead Innocent To Murder Charges

DENVER (AP) — Mrs. Sarah Manley, 46, and a friend, Jack C. McDevitt, 46, both pleaded innocent to murder charges today in connection with the fatal shooting Sept. 3 or Mrs. Manley's husband, a former prizefighter and restaurateur.

The body of George V. Manley, 67, was found Sept. 5 in his Denver home. Police said it appeared he was shot the night of Sept. 3. He had been shot four times and beaten, police said.

McDevitt was arrested Oct. 15 at his home on a misdemeanor charge, then questioned about Manley's death because of his association with Mrs. Manley.

A gun, believed to be the death weapon, was found in a southwest Denver lake.

Exchange Club Declares Stand On Patriotism

The Colorado Springs Exchange Club, meeting in the Medalion Hotel Thursday voted unanimously to publicly declare its individual and collective stand on the "One Nation Under God" concept as it is stated in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

As an organization it wishes to thank and praise all of the God-fearing patriots of the past, because of the heritage our present generation enjoys; and to pledge its allegiance to all of the present generation who are striving to preserve this concept.

Club officials said:

"We especially thank the business and professional men who are scheduling the "One Nation Under God, with Liberty and Justice for All" Parade Breakfast. The hour is from 6:15 a.m. to 9:15 a.m. Friday at the Acacia Hotel. We urge all who can to declare their faith by stopping by the Acacia sometime during the hours scheduled."

The Exchange Club is a national organization and its purpose and objectives from the beginning have been oriented to patriotism, with love of country and the freedoms it stood for.

Investment Rule Is Discussed This Week

EDITOR'S NOTE — The most important rule regarding investments is discussed in this week's article by Kenneth Cox of C. W. Britton Co. The article is one of a series prepared for the Gazette Telegraph.

Question: What do you consider the most important single rule regarding investments?

Answer: This is such a basic question that you have to go beyond the standard "Ten Rules for Investing." Those are too limited in nature.

My choice of a cardinal rule is "Be aware of the risks involved in any investment and do not assume more risk than you are willing to accept."

The rule sounds simple until you realize the variety of risks involved and that it is not limited to stocks and bonds. There is risk in the ownership of any kind of property whether it is cash, land, bank accounts, real estate, securities, savings and loan shares, merchandise, government bonds, insurance, etc.

Inflation, deflation, wars, civil strife, mismanagement, competition, dishonesty, technological and political change are just a few of the more obvious risks that are every day occurrences.

To complicate matters, these risks are acquired in two ways. New commitments mean added risks. The risks on old acceptable holdings tend to change and must be evaluated.

In most cases the rate of potential gain has a direct relationship to the amount and type of risk incurred. A high yield usually indicates a high risk, a low yield —a lower risk.

Once you have decided the amount and type of risk you are willing to assume and what risks you wish to guard against, then it is a much easier job to find the correct investment for you.

Two Boys Admit Setting School Fire

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — Two boys, one 12 and the other 13, said today in court they set a fire that caused an estimated $1.5 million damage to Western Junior High School Tuesday because they wanted to win a $10 bet and skip school.

District Court Judge Allan Roy Kingston committed the boys to the Youth Service Board in lieu of $10,000 bail each. He continued their cases to Nov. 18 on charges of breaking and entering and arson.

Police said they seized several packets of matches and a partially filled gasoline can when they arrested the boys this morning.

Fire walls contained the blaze in one wing of the H-shaped building, but officials said the rest of the structure sustained smoke and water damage. The school has about 1,200 pupils.

NEW TOMATO!

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — A University of California scientist has changed the shape of the tomato so it will be easier for machines to pick the popular favorite.

Plant breeder G. C. Hanna has developed a bright red tomato which is five inches long and two inches around. It's not on the market yet.

So far, no machine has been successful in picking fresh-market tomatoes without serious bruising. But the bologna-shaped tomato, Hanna says, has more surface length to absorb jolts and josling.

Beauty Salon Has New Name And Look

The beauty salon originally known as Barbee's Curl Shop will be known in the future as the "Artistic Curl Shop.

Mrs. Leone Miller, owner, reports that the salon, located at 713 N. Union Blvd., has been newly redecorated and has a new staff of hair stylists and can provide customers with a complete beauty service.

Mrs. Miller and her staff have had advanced training to specialize in hair styling for patrons having baby fine hair texture.

Mrs. Miller is a student of the Americano School of New York.

Thursday evening is "men only" night at the salon. Special hair problems for men will be given special attention and a manicuring service will also be provided.

Staff members include Barbee Gilkison, Sandy Archuleta and Alicia Cadwallader.

A gift of a wiglet will be given Dec. 23.

Hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Saturday and evening appointments can be made by calling 636-2221.

The facility offers off street parking for 10 vehicles at the rear of the building.

New Barber Shop Opens on Rand Street

Bert's Barber Shop, 2301 Rand St., is now open for business under the ownership of Bert Medina.

Presently the shop has one chair with another one planned for the near future, Medina said.

Medina is a native of Colorado and a veteran of the U.S. 82nd Airborne Division serving from 1952 to 1956.

He is a graduate of barber chool in Pueblo and came to Colorado Springs in 1960 where he worked in several barber shops in the local area.

He and his wife Cora are the parents of three daughters. Mrs. Medina is presently attending a local beauty school.

Placement Firm Plans Extensive State Expansion

Mr. J. V. Brady, president of Modern Placement Services, Inc., (MPS), 121 E. Pikes Peak Ave., announced today plans for extensive expansions for more employment offices throughout Colorado.

Nov. 25th will mark the opening of an eastside employment office in Colorado Springs. . .an added convenience for business firms.

Five more offices will open in Grand Junction, Boulder, Greeley, Denver, and Fort Collins around the first of the year.

At the present, Modern Placement Services, Inc., has an employment branch in Pueblo.

Brady stated that adding more agencies throughout Colorado will enable a state-wide computer system for faster and more efficient handling of applicants and employers.

The first Modern Placement Service in the Independence Building here opened eight years ago marking approximately 41,000 applicants. With the rapid growth of Colorado Springs and the state of Colorado, Brady feels the great demand for more MPS agencies to aid large and small concerns and the population growth.

With these new expansions, the firm will be the only statewide employment service in Colorado.

ENLARGED QUARTERS — Shown here is the new and enlarged quarters of Goffe-Wilkins, 2264 Naegle Rd. The firm has increased its ski sales department and have added several lines of ski accessories. It has also expanded its ski rental section and provided space for the display of Sno-Mobiles. Rentals of ski equipment are available on daily, week-end or season basis. The firm recently sold all its lawn mower parts and merchandise lines. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

Republican Solons Plan Organization

DENVER (UPI) — The Republican leadership which controls the Colorado General Assembly will hold a legislative organization session Nov. 15.

GOP lawmakers, who hold a 24-11 edge in the State Senate and a 38-27 advantage in the House, will name their legislative leaders during the meeting.

House Speaker John Vanderhoof, R-Glenwood Springs, is expected to retain his position, but there may be a battle in the Senate over the majority leader's job. The post is held by Sen. Ted Gill, R-Hillrose.

The powerful six-member legislative Joint Budget Committee also will undergo some changes. Rep. Harrie Hart, R-Colorado Springs, is committee chairman, but the job may go to Sen. Harry Locke, R-Salida.

Reds Had to Pull Back, Says General Walt

TOKYO (UPI) — Lt. Gen. Lewis W. Walt, assistant commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps., said Thursday Allied victories have forced Communist forces to pull back in South Vietnam.

The three - star general from Fort Collins, Colo., said he does not believe the withdrawal had anything to do with the preliminary Paris peace talks.

"They had no choice but to pull back," Walt said at a news conference following a nine-day inspection tour in Vietnam.

"I am confident we are winning this war. I am sure South Vietnam eventually will have the capacity to take over the job."

Walt, pleading for "patience and perserverance on the home front," said the Allies have killed about 250,000 N. Vietnamese and Viet Cong in the past year and said the losses had changed the character of Communist forces.

"The enemy now is an entirely different breed of cat," Walt said. "He is not properly trained He is not disciplines. He is not equipped to go on the battlefield."

The Marine commander said the TET offensive launched by Communist forces last January was the "turning point" in the war.

Walt served as commanding officer of the 3rd Marine Amphibious Force in South Vietnam from May, 1965, until June 1967.

Two Plead Innocent To Murder Charges

DENVER (AP) — Mrs. Sarah Manley, 46, and a friend, Jack C. McDevitt, 46, both pleaded innocent to murder charges today in connection with the fatal shooting Sept. 3 or Mrs. Manley's husband, a former prizefighter and restaurateur.

The body of George V. Manley, 67, was found Sept. 5 in his Denver home. Police said it appeared he was shot the night of Sept. 3. He had been shot four times and beaten, police said.

McDevitt was arrested Oct. 15 at his home on a misdemeanor charge, then questioned about Manley's death because of his association with Mrs. Manley.

A gun, believed to be the death weapon, was found in a southwest Denver lake.

Exchange Club Declares Stand On Patriotism

The Colorado Springs Exchange Club, meeting in the Medalion Hotel Thursday voted unanimously to publicly declare its individual and collective stand on the "One Nation Under God" concept as it is stated in the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

As an organization it wishes to thank and praise all of the God-fearing patriots of the past, because of the heritage our present generation enjoys; and to pledge its allegiance to all of the present generation who are striving to preserve this concept.

Club officials said:

"We especially thank the business and professional men who are scheduling the "One Nation Under God, with Liberty and Justice for All" Parade Breakfast. The hour is from 6:15 a.m. to 9:15 a.m. Friday at the Acacia Hotel. We urge all who can to declare their faith by stopping by the Acacia sometime during the hours scheduled."

The Exchange Club is a national organization and its purpose and objectives from the beginning have been oriented to patriotism, with love of country and the freedoms it stood for.

Investment Rule Is Discussed This Week

EDITOR'S NOTE — The most important rule regarding investments is discussed in this week's article by Kenneth Cox of C. W. Britton Co. The article is one of a series prepared for the Gazette Telegraph.

Question: What do you consider the most important single rule regarding investments?

Answer: This is such a basic question that you have to go beyond the standard "Ten Rules for Investing." Those are too limited in nature.

My choice of a cardinal rule is "Be aware of the risks involved in any investment and do not assume more risk than you are willing to accept."

The rule sounds simple until you realize the variety of risks involved and that it is not limited to stocks and bonds. There is risk in the ownership of any kind of property whether it is cash, land, bank accounts, real estate, securities, savings and loan shares, merchandise, government bonds, insurance, etc.

Inflation, deflation, wars, civil strife, mismanagement, competition, dishonesty, technological and political change are just a few of the more obvious risks that are every day occurrences.

To complicate matters, these risks are acquired in two ways. New commitments mean added risks. The risks on old acceptable holdings tend to change and must be evaluated.

In most cases the rate of potential gain has a direct relationship to the amount and type of risk incurred. A high yield usually indicates a high risk, a low yield —a lower risk.

Once you have decided the amount and type of risk you are willing to assume and what risks you wish to guard against, then it is a much easier job to find the correct investment for you.

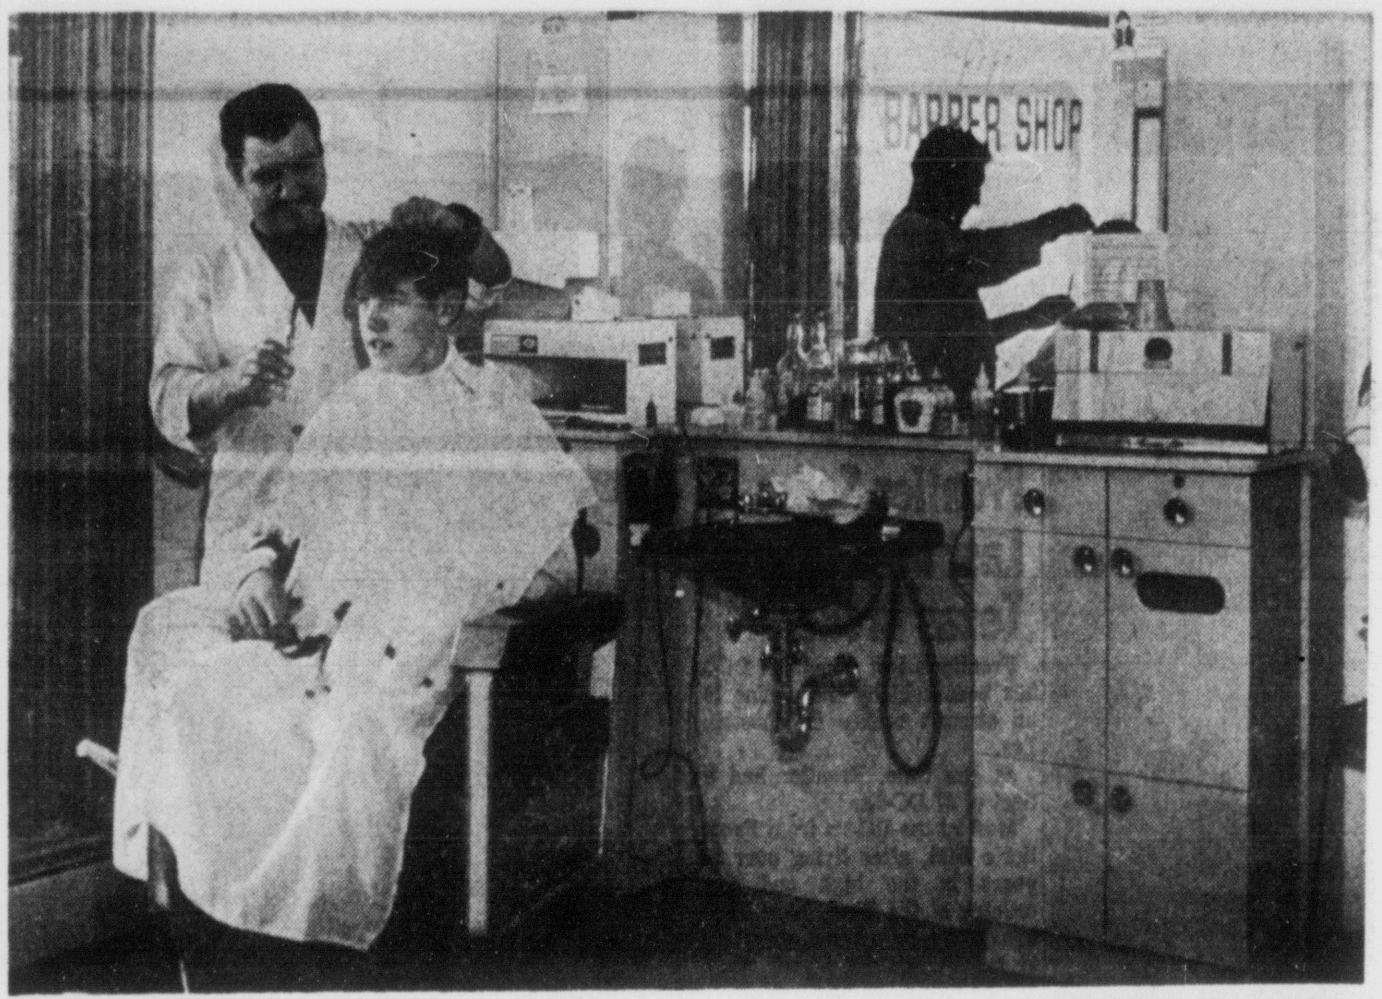
Two Boys Admit Setting School Fire

SOMERVILLE, Mass. (AP) — Two boys, one 12 and the other 13, said today in court they set a fire that caused an estimated $1.5 million damage to Western Junior High School Tuesday because they wanted to win a $10 bet and skip school.

District Court Judge Allan Roy Kingston committed the boys to the Youth Service Board in lieu of $10,000 bail each. He continued their cases to Nov. 18 on charges of breaking and entering and arson.

Police said they seized several packets of matches and a partially filled gasoline can when they arrested the boys this morning.

Fire walls contained the blaze in one wing of the H-shaped building, but officials said the rest of the structure sustained smoke and water damage. The school has about 1,200 pupils.



NEW BARBER SHOP — Bert Medina, owner of Bert's Barber Shop, 2301 Rand St., is shown here hard at work in his new shop. Presently he has a one-chair operation but plans to add another chair in the near future. The shop has the latest in equipment. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

NEW TOMATO!

DAVIS, Calif. (UPI) — A University of California scientist has changed the shape of the tomato so it will be easier for machines to pick the popular favorite.

Plant breeder G. C. Hanna has developed a bright red tomato which is five inches long and two inches around. It's not on the market yet.

So far, no machine has been successful in picking fresh-market tomatoes without serious bruising. But the bologna-shaped tomato, Hanna says, has more surface length to absorb jolts and josling.

Beauty Salon Has New Name And Look

The beauty salon originally known as Barbee's Curl Shop will be known in the future as the "Artistic Curl Shop.

Mrs. Leone Miller, owner, reports that the salon, located at 713 N. Union Blvd., has been newly redecorated and has a new staff of hair stylists and can provide customers with a complete beauty service.

Mrs. Miller and her staff have had advanced training to specialize in hair styling for patrons having baby fine hair texture.

Mrs. Miller is a student of the Americano School of New York.

Thursday evening is "men only" night at the salon. Special hair problems for men will be given special attention and a manicuring service will also be provided.

Staff members include Barbee Gilkison, Sandy Archuleta and Alicia Cadwallader.

A gift of a wiglet will be given Dec. 23.

Hours are from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Saturday and evening appointments can be made by calling 636-2221.

The facility offers off street parking for 10 vehicles at the rear of the building.

New Barber Shop Opens on Rand Street

Bert's Barber Shop, 2301 Rand St., is now open for business under the ownership of Bert Medina.

Presently the shop has one chair with another one planned for the near future, Medina said.

Medina is a native of Colorado and a veteran of the U.S. 82nd Airborne Division serving from 1952 to 1956.

He is a graduate of barber school in Pueblo and came to Colorado Springs in 1960 where he worked in several barber shops in the local area.

He and his wife Cora are the parents of three daughters. Mrs. Medina is presently attending a local beauty school.

Placement Firm Plans Extensive State Expansion

Mr. J. V. Brady, president of Modern Placement Services, Inc., (MPS), 121 E. Pikes Peak Ave., announced today plans for extensive expansions for more employment offices throughout Colorado.

Nov. 25th will mark the opening of an eastside employment office in Colorado Springs. . .an added convenience for business firms.

Five more offices will open in Grand Junction, Boulder, Greeley, Denver, and Fort Collins around the first of the year.

At the present, Modern Placement Services, Inc., has an employment branch in Pueblo.

Brady stated that adding more agencies throughout Colorado will enable a state-wide computer system for faster and more efficient handling of applicants and employers.

The first Modern Placement Service in the Independence Building here opened eight years ago marking approximately 41,000 applicants. With the rapid growth of Colorado Springs and the state of Colorado, Brady feels the great demand for more MPS agencies to aid large and small concerns and the population growth.

With these new expansions, the firm will be the only state-wide employment service in Colorado.

United States Automotive Inc. Started Out on a Ping-Pong Table; Now Is Selling Across the Country

By RAY HERST
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

One of the most remarkable Cinderella stories of the business world is happening here in Colorado Springs, but unlike the tale about the beautiful princess, this one is true.

It began as an idea, developed into a local business with the product being manufactured on a ping pong table in the basement of its inventor's home, has grown to an 80,000 square foot plant and is in the process of growing into a giant via a possible multi-million dollar merger deal.

The little giant is called United States Automotive Inc. and is located at 3524 N. Tejon St. It is the brainchild of two men, William J. Gillum, a retired Air Force major, who is its president, and Harry Kevis Jr., its vice president and the driving force behind the company.

The product supplying the impetus behid the growth is called Powr. Gillum, who invested it, calls it a "battery longevitor."

"It gives new life to automobile batteries," Kevis explained. "It's not just another additive. It works."

It is working for United States Automotive which this week went nationwide in its distribution and advertising. The firm has contracts withthe J. C. Penny Co. and several national automotive chain store firms and is negotiating with Sears Roebuck for possible distribution through their stores.

Stan Freeberg was in town this week to discuss radio and television commercials he will create for Powr and Ed McMahon of the Tonight Show is interested in joining the company as stockholder and announcer.

"I just never dreamed it would be anything like this," Gillum said.

At that same time, Kervis revealed that negotiations are underway which would provide a merger with a multi-million dollar West Coast-based corporation. He declined to reveal the details.

"I've never quite met anyone like Gil," Kevis said, speaking of the inventor of Powr. "I first met him in 1957 and he had already made quite a reputation for himself in the Air Force." (Among other things, Gillum developed a new photo system for the Air Force and was the briefing officer at NORAD prior to his retirement.)

Gillum did not set out to invent Powr, Kevis said. He said that Gillum was more interested in trying to develop a fast charge for the automobile battery —a system which would put electric cars on the market within a year.

Gillum hasn't yet been able to come up with a fast-charge system, but in the process of attempting to develop one, he came up with Powr.

"You know the battery hasn't changed since it was invented 75 years ago. I mean the basic principals," Gillum said. "The package has changed but there have been no new developments in the basic acid-lead battery at all. In theory, they shouldn't fail, but they do."

There are two reasons known in the industry why batteries fail. One is mechanical failure —a break down in the physical parts — and the other is sulphation. Nothing can be done about the former but Gillum says Powr can solve the problem of sulphation — this happens when the lead plates are completely coated with a hard, thick, nonporus crust of large crystals of lead sulphate. When this happens the batetry cannot charge and fails.

Gillum's product is a chemical solution which softens the crust which then goes into solution as the battery is charged. The battery acids can then reach the clean plates much faster to deliver the power needed.

"We look at it as a major breakthrough in the automotive industry," Kevis said. "It's the most revolutionary product to hit the market in years. Look, we went into New York with it to test the market there. We figured if we could crack the nut in New York City, we could do it anywhere."

In five days, Kevis had orders for $102,000 worth of Powr.

"We're told that that's a record for a chemical product in the automotive industry in New York," Kevis said with justifiable pride.

Orders began piling up immediately from other distributors throughout the country and Canada. Wednesday, Kevis and Gillum played host to 25 distributors here who are anxious to handle Powr.

At present, the plant is working two shifts, manufacturing 100,000 bottles a day.

"We are going to have to go to three shifts a day," Jay Hansen, general manager of the company said. "I just wish there was 36 hours in a day." (Hansen resigned as manager of Skagg's stores here —a company he had worked for 18 years — to become associated with United States Automotive.)

"That's pretty good for two guys who didn't know anything about the automotive business and who started out on a ping-pong table," Kevis says. "On a good production day, we'd take the net down."

He can joke about it now. Kevis gave up a career in the Air Force —he was a captain with 14 years —to go full time with the company.

"I was working at the Hard-site and it got pretty cold up there during the winter," Kevis said. "Someone was always having car trouble. I took a couple of bottles of Gil's stuff up and we tried it. Twenty-two out of 25 guys who tried it never had trouble with their batteries again."

Kevis then put some of the product — called IBM, Instant Battery Maintenance, at that time —on the counters of local stores. ("We sold $7,000 worth almost immediately.")

At about the same time, two years ago, a local service station operator took five batteries off a junk pile, added Powr and put them on slow charge.

"Today, four of those batteries are still working," Kevis said.

But when they worked two years ago, Kevis and Gillum "decided we had something." Each man invested his life savings in the company and on orders from Mrs. Gillum — "she said get out or I'm leaving. We had stuff all over that basement" — rented a room.

"We thought we were really in the big time then," Kevis recalls. Orders were coming in and the men could keep pace — "Making Powr in an old coffee pot" — but then they took stock of the situation.

"You just can't do things the old way anymore," Gillum said. "In the past you could start small, do a little more the next year and more the next etc. and in 10 years you've got something. But today, the big companies can eat you up before you get started. You have to go big now and go fast."

The firm hired a packaging company to design a new bottle, label and display board. More money was spent on advertising to go national, larger quarters were needed, people had to be hired.

"Eighteen months ago, we unveiled Powr at a national automotive show. It ranked third in interest," Kevis explained. There are two major shows a year. That was the first. The second was in Las Vegas and when the partners took stock, they discovered that they had only $240 in the till. They drove to the show and again were a hit.

But they were broke. Kevis had even borrowed money to keep the company going. The partners incorporated and began selling stock.

A group of influential investors from Denver became interested in the company — they included Hal and Peter Writer, Denver stock brokers; Herbert and Russell M. Writer of Writer's Manor; Fred McLaughlin, rancher; Bob Allis of Allis-Chalmers; Gary Garrison, investment broker; Arthur Guida, rancher and oilman; Don Ringsbury of Ringsbury Trucking and Darin Writer, who is the franchise dealer for Robo-Wash in four states.

"Impressed isn't the word for it," Darin Writer said when asked the investors' impression of the product and the company. "These guys have done a fantastic job. They asked for $100,000 and now we're committed for a half-million and more.

"You know all these men — the investors — made their money by not going into bad deals. They worked for their money and worked hard for it. We're amazed that it has gone so far so fast."

So far so fast had made United States Automotive the fastest growing corporation in the state and one of the fastest growing in the country.

And the end is not in immediate sight. In addition to Powr, the firm will unveil another battery product in February which experts predict will sell about two million units a month.

Also planned for the future is a franchise operation for the rejuvenation of old batteries — "we plan to take dead batteries, restore them to life and sell them as used batteries with an 18-month guarantee," Gillum said. Negotiations are underway with a national firm to handle the franchise deal.

A new laboratory has been built in the firm's new addition to their present building. Gillum has several ideas he wants to work on.

"I may have invented Powr," Gillum says, "but a great deal of the success of this firm is due to Harry here. Harry's too modest about his contributions. It was at his urging that we developed the new product. He should get equal credit for everything. He's got enthusiasm and he fills you with it."

He has filled United States Automotive with it and he has filled the industry with it.

And if Harry Kevis has his way, he will fill the country with it.

84,000 Jobs For Hard-Core Jobless Found

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

EW YORK (AP) — Most Americans, regardless of political persuasion, no doubt welcomed the news from the National Alliance of Businessmen that 84,000 jobs have been found for hard-core unemployed.

Although nearly 23,000 of these jobs later were lost, the net gain of 61,000 indicates that the alliance is going to reach its goal of 100,000 by next June 30.

The feeling among many people is that here is a program for social good whose development has gone beyond the state of hope and experiment to that of practical results.

The key to the alliance's success, small as it is, seems to be training. But even with training, worker and job still might have remained apart unless alliance members had stepped in and turned the key, for jobs and unemployment have a curious relationship.

It has been a continuing mystery to many people, for example, why nearly 2.9 million Americans are jobless while the classified advertising pages of newspapers are filled with appeals for business for help.

Month after month during the greatest economic boom in American history this condition has existed, one of the reasons being that the job requirements and the skills possessed by the job seekers simply do not match.

Other major factors are involved: Many of the best jobs, for instance, are in factories that have deserted the cities, where most of the unemployed Negroes live, and moved to the psychologically distant and nearly all-white suburbs.

Age is a factor, especially when an obsoleted skill is also involved. Mobility is a factor also, for many idle workers are unwilling to uproot their families from depressed rural communities.

Racial and age discrimination have played obvious roles, too, but lack of training and a failure to understand the mechanics of job seeking have always been near the top of the list.

Teen-agers entering the work force have been inadequately prepared, and so the teen-age work force has a jobless rate of 12.6 per cent, or nearly eight times that of married men, whose rate is 1.6 per cent.

Among adults, meager skills that once permitted a worker to hold tenuosuly to a job have become useless in an age of increasing technological complexity and automation. Elevator operators, you have noticed, are a disappearing breed.

Without retraining in a new skill, most of these workers have found themselves with little to sell a potential employer and no knowledge of how to go about changing the situation.

This is the gap into which the alliance stepped as a catalyst. Formed this year, with Henry Ford II as chairman, its immediate results now indicate that a goal of 500,00 jobs by mid-1971 will be achieved.

The importance of such achievements should be measured in terms of the social disorder that clearly has resulted from unemployment—in terms, that is, of the despair and sense of injustice from which violence erupts.

Leo C. Beebe, vice chairman of the alliance, said "Numbers do not tell the whole story. The real potential for success . . . is visible more importantly in the positive and constructive reaction to the exeprience by employers and the hard-core alike."

Record High Noted For Missouri Basin

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)— Water stored in six Missouri River reservoirs at the end of October totaled 60,793,000 acre-feet, a record high for this time of year, the Corps of Army Engineers reported today.

Brig. Gen. C. Craig Cannon, Missouri River Division Engineer, said the storage total was 419,000 acre-feet more than the storage level a year ago.

He attributed the current high storage levels to a continuation of above normal inflows to the system combined with below normal releases to support navigation and other downstream uses.

"The large amount of water in storage makes it necessary to increase releases to evacuate flood control storage space for next spring's high flows," he said.

"Therefore, we have raised our releases to meet target flows 2,000 cubic feet per second above those maintained since Aug. 25," he added. "The increased flows will provide added water to navigation in the remaining weeks of the season as well as contributing to other downstream uses."

Biologist Says Pope Is Tragic Figure

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — A Stanford University specialist in population biology said today Pope Paul VI is a "tragic figure" for maintaining church prohibition of contraceptives.

Dr. John H. Thomas, a Stanford lecturer, said in a speech at St. John's College, the Pope heads a church that "refuses to meet challenges.

"It was inexcusable for him to maintain the status quo in Catholic teaching in his most recent encyclical, 'Humane Vitae,' " Thomas said.

"Pope Paul is a tragic figure of our times," he said. "So are many members of the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

The church holds its position against birth control "at a time when the survival of civilization depends on achieving zero growth rate in world population," declared Thomas, who is a Roman Catholic.

Mrs. F. E. Hamilton Rites Held Saturday

Graveside services for Mrs. Frances E. Hamilton, 1612 E. Platte Ave., were held Saturday at Evergreen Cemetery with the Rev. John Dreher presiding.

Mrs. Hamilton, a housewife, died Thursday in a local hospital. She was born Jan 12, 1896 in St. Joseph, Mo. and has been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1921.

She is survived by her husband, Benton Hamilton, two daughters, Janet Smith of Wheatridge, and Mrs. Joan Johnson, of Colorado Springs; and five grandchildren.

In lieu of flowers, friends may contribute to the charity of their choice.

EW YORK (AP) — Most Americans, regardless of political persuasion, no doubt welcomed the news from the National Alliance of Businessmen that 84,000 jobs have been found for hard-core unemployed.

Although nearly 23,000 of these jobs later were lost, the net gain of 61,000 indicates that the alliance is going to reach its goal of 100,000 by next June 30.

The feeling among many people is that here is a program for social good whose development has gone beyond the state of hope and experiment to that of practical results.

The key to the alliance's success, small as it is, seems to be training. But even with training, worker and job still might have remained apart unless alliance members had stepped in and turned the key, for jobs and unemployment have a curious relationship.

It has been a continuing mystery to many people, for example, why nearly 2.9 million Americans are jobless while the classified advertising pages of newspapers are filled with appeals for business for help.

Month after month during the greatest economic boom in American history this condition has existed, one of the reasons being that the job requirements and the skills possessed by the job seekers simply do not match.

Other major factors are involved: Many of the best jobs, for instance, are in factories that have deserted the cities, where most of the unemployed Negroes live, and moved to the psychologically distant and nearly all-white suburbs.

Age is a factor, especially when an obsoleted skill is also involved. Mobility is a factor also, for many idle workers are unwilling to uproot their families from depressed rural communities.

Racial and age discrimination have played obvious roles, too, but lack of training and a failure to understand the mechanics of job seeking have always been near the top of the list.

Teen-agers entering the work force have been inadequately prepared, and so the teen-age work force has a jobless rate of 12.6 per cent, or nearly eight times that of married men, whose rate is 1.6 per cent.

Among adults, meager skills that once permitted a worker to hold tenuosuly to a job have become useless in an age of increasing technological complexity and automation. Elevator operators, you have noticed, are a disappearing breed.

Without retraining in a new skill, most of these workers have found themselves with little to sell a potential employer and no knowledge of how to go about changing the situation.

This is the gap into which the alliance stepped as a catalyst. Formed this year, with Henry Ford II as chairman, its immediate results now indicate that a goal of 500,00 jobs by mid-1971 will be achieved.

The importance of such achievements should be measured in terms of the social disorder that clearly has resulted from unemployment—in terms, that is, of the despair and sense of injustice from which violence erupts.

Leo C. Beebe, vice chairman of the alliance, said "Numbers do not tell the whole story. The real potential for success . . . is visible more importantly in the positive and constructive reaction to the exeprience by employers and the hard-core alike."

Record High Noted For Missouri Basin

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)— Water stored in six Missouri River reservoirs at the end of October totaled 60,793,000 acre-feet, a record high for this time of year, the Corps of Army Engineers reported today.

Brig. Gen. C. Craig Cannon, Missouri River Division Engineer, said the storage total was 419,000 acre-feet more than the storage level a year ago.

He attributed the current high storage levels to a continuation of above normal inflows to the system combined with below normal releases to support navigation and other downstream uses.

"The large amount of water in storage makes it necessary to increase releases to evacuate flood control storage space for next spring's high flows," he said.

"Therefore, we have raised our releases to meet target flows 2,000 cubic feet per second above those maintained since Aug. 25," he added. "The increased flows will provide added water to navigation in the remaining weeks of the season as well as contributing to other downstream uses."

Biologist Says Pope Is Tragic Figure

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — A Stanford University specialist in population biology said today Pope Paul VI is a "tragic figure" for maintaining church prohibition of contraceptives.

Dr. John H. Thomas, a Stanford lecturer, said in a speech at St. John's College, the Pope heads a church that "refuses to meet challenges.

"It was inexcusable for him to maintain the status quo in Catholic teaching in his most recent encyclical, 'Humane Vitae,'" Thomas said.

"Pope Paul is a tragic figure of our times," he said. "So are many members of the Roman Catholic hierarchy.

The church holds its position against birth control "at a time when the survival of civilization depends on achieving zero growth rate in world population," declared Thomas, who is a Roman Catholic.

Mrs. F. E. Hamilton Rites Held Saturday

Graveside services for Mrs. Frances E. Hamilton, 1612 E. Platte Ave., were held Saturday at Evergreen Cemetery with the Rev. John Dreher presiding.

Mrs. Hamilton, a housewife, died Thursday in a local hospital. She was born Jan 12, 1896 in St. Joseph, Mo. and has been a resident of Colorado Springs since 1921.

She is survived by her husband, Benton Hamilton, two daughters, Janet Smith of Wheatridge, and Mrs. Joan Johnson, of Colorado Springs; and five grandchildren.

In lieu of flowers, friends may contribute to the charity of their choice.

Miller's Markets Slate New Store, Plus Remodeling

Miller's Super Markets at 3143 W. Colorado Ave. and 2022 Southgate Rd., Southgate Shopping Center are presently in stages of complete remodeling.

Both stores will be highlighted with the new, colorful decorative New Orleans' motif.

The New Orleans' style motif is the latest addition to enter the supermarket field as a pleasing decoration for the public.

Officials announced each store will be replacing frozen food and dairy cases with the latest and most scientifically designed equipment.

The Southgate Miller's Supermarket will also feature a new, modern, complete delicatessen, which will offer the finest quality delicacies available.

Choice meats will be barbecued to order for customers and a wide variety of salads, cheese and sausages will be offered.

Each store will have a complete on-the-premier bakery featuring 200 different bakery products. Remodelling plans should be completed in the near future.

Miller's will have a beautiful new, modern 23,200 square foot supermarket under construction in the very near future in the shopping center on the corner of North Circle Drive and Galley Road.

This Miller's store will have the most unique equipment available in the food industry with which to serve the public.

It also will be highlighted with the decorative New Orleans' motif.

Additional features of this new future supermarket include the newest and fastest type checkout system available plus a new fresh flower department, which will complement the most modern fresh fruit and vegetable setup available.

A complete in-store bakery will also be available to all customers in this new fast growing area.

The remodelling of the Miller stores plus the new outlet is Miller's way of saying, "We have complete faith and trust in the continued future and prosperity of Colorado Springs area."

Financial Roundup

By ED MORSE
A PBusiness Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street apparently liked what it saw during the past week. It rallied.

The advance was not an uproarious affair on volume and it was somewhat limited in gains, but it was there. This was cheerful for those who want higher stock prices, because things could have turned out otherwise.

It was fair to say that Wall Street celebrated the election of Richard M. Nixon. He has been recognized this fall as the candidate liked best by the Street. At the same time, many in the financial community were just happy that somebody had been elected instead of having an inconclusive result which would have meant weeks of waiting before the House of Representatives could choose a president from three contenders, none with the required 270 electoral votes.

The tentative and somewhat restrained nature of the election rally was reflected by the fact tha only 49,502,660 shares changed hands compared wiht 56,221,211 in the previous week. Both trading weeks were of four sessions.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week advanced 10.57 to 958.98.

As the week ended on a strong upbeat, one experienced analyst declared his belief that the dow would reach the ever-elusive figure of 1,000 by yearend. In recent months, this 1,000 figure has cropped up repeatedly whenever the market is strong. When the market is weak, the analysts usually say that it will probably go down and "test 930," a theoretical support line. In fact, some of them were saying this earlier in the week when stocks were not doing so well.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week rose 3.6 to 354.6.

Of 1,699 issues traded this week on the New York Stock Exchange, 914 advanced and 644 declined. New highs for the year totaled 148 and new lows 34.

Thee week began with a decline on Monday as the market showed extreme pre-election caution. Trading was light.

As the markets reopened on Wednesday, the results of the election were not yet definitely known, but the trend was a bi thigher on the Big Board. After the first hour, Nixon's victory became certain andd the market celebrated with a brief but vigorous rally. Most of the gains faded away as traders took profits, but hte first post-election session did end with a modest advance.

The market was lower most of Thursday. It was a spiritless session in which selling pressure gradually eased and a late spurt put the list narrowly higher for the day.

On Friday the market made its best advance in a couple of months. No particular fresh news spurred stocks but some analysts believed that Wall Street was having a somewhat belated and more genuine celebration of the fact that there would be "a new face in the White House." The market has acted this way in past years.

In addition, big institutional investors such as pension and mutual funds were making use of some of their huge piles of available cash.

The stock exchanges will be closed Monday for Veterans' Day.

Miller's Markets Slate New Store, Plus Remodeling

Miller's Super Markets at 3143 W. Colorado Ave. and 2022 Southgate Rd., Southgate Shopping Center are presently in stages of complete remodeling.

Both stores will be highlighted with the new, colorful decorative New Orleans' motif.

The New Orleans' style motif is the latest addition to enter the supermarket field as a pleasing decoration for the public.

Officials announced each store will be replacing frozen food and dairy cases with the latest and most scientifically designed equipment.

The Southgate Miller's Supermarket will also feature a new, modern, complete delicatessen, which will offer the finest quality delicacies available.

Choice meats will be barbecued to order for customers and a wide variety of salads, cheese and sausages will be offered.

Each store will have a complete on-the-premier bakery featuring 200 different bakery products. Remodelling plans should be completed in the near future.

Miller's will have a beautiful new, modern 23,200 square foot supermarket under construction in the very near future in the shopping center on the corner of North Circle Drive and Galley Road.

This Miller's store will have the most unique equipment available in the food industry with which to serve the public.

It also will be highlighted with the decorative New Orleans' motif.

Additional features of this new future supermarket include the newest and fastest type checkout system available plus a new fresh flower department, which will complement the most modern fresh fruit and vegetable setup available.

A complete in-store bakery will also be available to all customers in this new fast growing area.

The remodelling of the Miller stores plus the new outlet is Miller's way of saying, "We have complete faith and trust in the continued future and prosperity of Colorado Springs area."

Financial Roundup

By ED MORSE
A PBusiness Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street apparently liked what it saw during the past week. It rallied.

The advance was not an uproarious affair on volume and it was somewhat limited in gains, but it was there. This was cheerful for those who want higher stock prices, because things could have turned out otherwise.

It was fair to say that Wall Street celebrated the election of Richard M. Nixon. He has been recognized this fall as the candidate liked best by the Street. At the same time, many in the financial community were just happy that somebody had been elected instead of having an inconclusive result which would have meant weeks of waiting before the House of Representatives could choose a president from three contenders, none with the required 270 electoral votes.

The tentative and somewhat restrained nature of the election rally was reflected by the fact tha only 49,502,660 shares changed hands compared wiht 56,221,211 in the previous week. Both trading weeks were of four sessions.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week advanced 10.57 to 958.98.

As the week ended on a strong upbeat, one experienced analyst declared his belief that the dow would reach the ever-elusive figure of 1,000 by yearend. In recent months, this 1,000 figure has cropped up repeatedly whenever the market is strong. When the market is weak, the analysts usually say that it will probably go down and "test 930," a theoretical support line. In fact, some of them were saying this earlier in the week when stocks were not doing so well.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week rose 3.6 to 354.6.

Of 1,699 issues traded this week on the New York Stock Exchange, 914 advanced and 644 declined. New highs for the year totaled 148 and new lows 34.

Thee week began with a decline on Monday as the market showed extreme pre-election caution. Trading was light.

As the markets reopened on Wednesday, the results of the election were not yet definitely known, but the trend was a bi thigher on the Big Board. After the first hour, Nixon's victory became certain andd the market celebrated with a brief but vigorous rally. Most of the gains faded away as traders took profits, but hte first post-election session did end with a modest advance.

The market was lower most of Thursday. It was a spiritless session in which selling pressure gradually eased and a late spurt put the list narrowly higher for the day.

On Friday the market made its best advance in a couple of months. No particular fresh news spurred stocks but some analysts believed that Wall Street was having a somewhat belated and more genuine celebration of the fact that there would be "a new face in the White House." The market has acted this way in past years.

In addition, big institutional investors such as pension and mutual funds were making use of some of their huge piles of available cash.

The stock exchanges will be closed Monday for Veterans' Day.

Four Bedrooms In Up-to-Date Farmhouse

By ANDY LANG

Architects in all parts of the country say there is a growing demand for houses with four bedrooms. Statistics confirm their reports. While the three-bedroom home continues to be the most popular among buyers of new dwellings, more and more persons are buying or building houses with four rooms in the bedroom wing.

Curiously, this trend has nothing to do with the existence of larger families. Based on their conversations with prospective purchasers, real estate brokers say it is part of the modern practice of permitting children to have separate rooms at a much earlier age than in the past. In much the same way, the majority of home buyers want at least two bathrooms in a house no matter what the size of the family.

The latest House of the Week traditional in style, with a farmhouse appearance, has four bedrooms and 2½ baths. Although it has four other rooms, a sizable foyer and a laundry area, the habitable space has been kept to less than 1900 square feet, no small achievement in a ranch, where all rooms are on one floor.

A covered entry provides a welcome introduction to the house. Immediately visible from the foyer is the entire length of the living room and a wide picture window looking out on the rear garden. Housewives will love the long unbroken wall at the left because of its suitability for any type of furniture arrangement.

The adjoining dining room also has a full picture window and an unbroken wall. It is conveniently accessible to both the living room and the kitchen. The latter, with a full complement of appliances and cabinets, is at the front of the house and has an offset dinette large enough to accommodate the family during breakfast or any other meal. A boxed baby in the dinette provides natural light, and there is another window over the kitchen sink. A few steps away is the laundry complex, with a closet, lavatory and an entrance from the outside.

Architect William B. Chirgotis has placed the family room between the dining room and the garage. With a brick fireplace and sliding glass doors leading to patio and garden, this area is sure to be the focal point of many family activities.

At the opposite side of the house is the bedroom wing. Three of the four bedrooms have cross ventilation. The master bedroom includes two clothes closets and a private bath with mirrored vanity and stall shower. The main bathroom is close to the three other bedrooms.

A partial basement and a two-car garage with storage space complete the design. This is a practical plan wrapped in a pleasing outer combination of hand-split shingles and vertical siding.

Z-66 STATISTICS

Design Z-66, a ranch, has a living room, dining room, family room, kitchen, dinette, foyer, four bedrooms, 2½ baths and a laundry room, with a total habitable area of 1898 square feet. Two-car garage has a side entrance which could be changed to the front if space does not permit. Over-all dimensions, which include the garage, are 81' by 38' 6''.

Furnishings Need Protection From Winter Sun

The big pre-Christmas home furnishing season is now upon us with purchases of new carpeting and furniture at their peak.

With the incursions of last summer's sun now a memory, many homeowners may not be thinking in terms of window awnings until next spring.

Yet, explains James Englund, a sun control specialist for Alcan Aluminum Corporation's Building Products Division, winter sunlight can do more damage to your expensive carpeting or furniture by fading rug colors and upholstery and drying out oils in wood than the summer sun.

The reason is that the winter sun is much lower on the horizon and its rays fall much farther into rooms.

The problem is intensified if you're furnishing a new home, Englund says, because the trend is to wider expanses of glass areas.

The answer for many homeowners, the specialist adds, are Flexalum aluminum roll-up awnings. These can be rolled down below the sill level to keep out the winter sun. When the sun departs from the window, the awnings can be rolled up by releasing the cord for maximum enjoyment of the view.

Roll-ups, like fixed awnings, come in a variety of attractive color combinations to enhance the appearance of your home and when warm weather returns, they keep the home considerably cooler.

Further information on these awnings is available in a free booklet. For a copy, write to "Roll Up Booklet," Alcan Aluminum Corporation, 100 Erieview Plaza, Cleveland, Ohio 44114.

Marlite Plan Creates Area For Sportsman

Concerned about a home improvement project for fall, or the lack of one?

Plans for building a distinctive sportsman's "hideout" are available from Marlite Paneling.

The sportsman's corner offers storage space, special racks for guns and the like, and generous counter and drawer space. Yet the plan calls for only five Marlite panels in the woodgrain of your choice, and requires only a modest investment of money.

The plastic-finished panels are resistant to stains, mars and dirt. A damp cloth handles cleaning.

For your plan for a sportsman's corner, write Marlite Paneling, Dept. 9202, Dover, Ohio 44622.

Mirror Is Tonic for Dull Wall

Chicago (NFS)—Handsomely framed decorative mirrors reflect a charm and versatility that can brighten any room in the home.

The most effective use of a decorative mirror depends largely on how well it relates to the rest of the room, notes interior designer Mary Ann Wills. So the first consideration must be selecting a frame style that complements other furnishings.

Homemakers can find a wide range of choices in the many mirrors made by Arabesque, the Traverse City, Mich., accessories firm Miss Wills serves as decorating consultant.

The current collections include museum reproductions that recreate the works of such famous designers as Sheraton and Chippendale, as well as styles from the French Empire, Italian Renaissance, Neoclassic, and American Colonial periods.

The frames of these plate glass mirrors are exacting replicas of hand-carved designs, appropriately finished to simulate the carved plaster and woods of past centuries.

In hanging a mirror, always remember that the glass will reflect whatever it "sees" and try to make sure the resulting picture will be attractive from any point in the room, Miss Wills advised.

In a foyer or entrance hall, where a mirror's purpose is both decorative and useful, it should be hung at comfortable adult eye level above some sort of chest or console where a woman can place her handbag while checking her appearance.

Redwood Panels Avant Garde, Old Guard

Whether you are the first to the latest thing, a lover of the traditional or somehewre in between, redwood paneling can express your personality and your taste.

Redwood interiors may be subdued, formal, conservative, or exciting, casual and fun-loving. In city, county or country, redwood performs as you want it to.

For the connoisseur of change, there's a well-documented revolution in redwood household interiors afoot.

Pictured in national home magazines and in architectural publications, this "revolution" is as striking as the current changes in wearing apparel for men and women.

In contemporary architecture, the new look in redwood interiors is due to an increasingly close relationship between the inside and the outside of a house.

This integration means that the interior design reflects the exterior design, that the architecture dictates the interior.

Redwood interiors of contemporary houses and remodeled houses often display a newly popular structural honesty, an honesty which leaves redwood posts and beams exposed, walls covered with redwood paneling and interior space following no usual format.

In traditional residences, redwood paneling is essentially decorative although it remains much more than an attractive background. Properly used it becomes a vital element in the personality or signature of the traditional house.

For example a room paneled in Clear All Heart vertical grain redwood exudes a feeling of formal excellence, a discreet quality of richness unparalled by any other material.

Refined and restrained, the elegance of redwood is a splendid compliment for antiques, preserving a treasured atmosphere and attitude.

Unlike the fluctuating "ins and outs" of clothing fashion design in which the gamut of materials is used, the desirability of redwood paneling stays constant.

Redwood paneling has been prized ever since early settlers saw its exquisite appearance, discovered its strength and durability and realized its resistance to fire, termites and extremes of weather.

Over the years no other single construction material has been able to replace it.

Available in rough sawn or smooth textures, in unusual sizes and in a spectrum of natural colors ranging from the serene cinnamon brown of Clear All Heart to the sprightly color mix of insouciant A-Grade, redwood is happily adaptable to the design schemes of the most wild-eyed or to the plans of the most conservative.

The installation of redwood paneling, whether you are building or remodeling, is not difficult although professional advice may be helpful.

A check with your lumberman, architect or contractor will save time and trouble and help insure a proper job using correct grades of Certified Kiln Dried redwood.

Once in place, the low-maintenance or no maintenance characteristic of redwood paneling pays off in economy while upgrading the value of your house. There is no need to repaint, replaster or repaper every few years.

Check Apartment For Privacy Before Renting

During the first six months of 1968, according to F. W. Dodge, the contracts for apartments soared 50 percent, but the increase for single-family homes was up only 10 percent.

The Insulation Board Institute comments that we may well becoming a nation of apartment dwellers, so here are a few tips on buying or renting apartments.

The location, appearance of the building, the floor plan and price are, of course, vital considerations.

But as the popularity of apartments grow, the public is discovering the importance of buildings designed for quiet and privacy. All the beauty of a new apartment fades if the construction is paper-thin and noise is transmitted both through the walls and floors.

A recent study by the Research Foundation of National Association of Home Builders indicates that in a 98-unit garden apartment studied, most of the occupants could hear people walking upstairs and a high percentage heard noise through the walls.

The Insulation Board Institute suggests that prospective renters or buyers can now find apartments where the builder has engineered quiet into his properties. By making a simple check, it is easy to learn if the building is truly sound conditioned.

1. Enter an apartment, close the door, and observe if noise created in the hallway comes through. The door should be the solid type and closely fitted to the frame. Preferably, it should close into a vinyl gasket and the bottom should have a threshold closure.

The hallway itself should be carpeted and the ceiling should be acoustical insulation board to reduce noise. Walls of the hall must be constructed to contain noise.

2. Wall Test—Never buy or rent until you nave tested noise transmission through walls you will share with your neighbors. This so-called "common wall" now can be constructed to reduce noise using such products as sound deadening insulation board.

Have someone start a lively conversation in the next apartment to test the wall you might eventually share. Many experienced renters and buyers bring a transistor radio when they shop, using this for the noise source. The key question—does voice or radio penetrate enough to be annoying?

3. Floor Test—Carpeting overhead helps, but your builder should also have used a special floor-ceiling system now available to reduce noise. The test here is simple—have a friend walk around above your apartment—just listen. Is the impact of heels disturbing? Can you stand it day after day?

4. Nechanical Noise—The NAHB research illustrated widespread complaints on plumbing and appliance noise from 70 percent of the renters. Plumbing noise can easily be checked.

Try the plumbing in the next apartment, in the apartment overhead. And don't neglect the appliances. Quieter models and improved installation methods are available to your builder. Check the garbage disposal unit and the dishwasher. Both these appliances are often singled out as key noise offenders.

Textured Look Is Now in For Walls

One of 14 new textured hardboard panels with a washable plastic finish may fill your need, says Robert Huff, home improvement director for Marlite Paneling.

The Marlite line of textured panels features five woodgrains in textured oak and wormy chestnut patterns. Tapestry in green, antique white and gold combines the look and feel of expensive woven fabric.

Also new from Marlite are two satin-finished tones of travertine marble. If you are looking for something that's really different, there is an opportunity to select from four leather textured patterns, Huff adds.

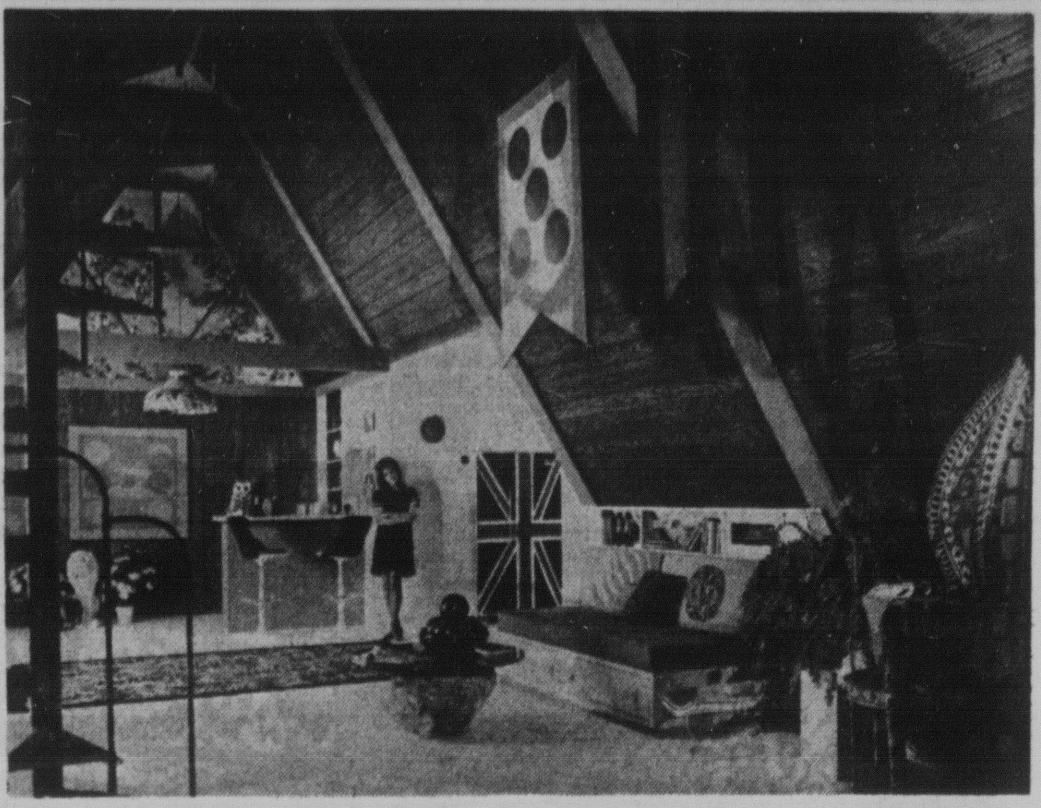
The paneling's rugged plastic finish is fused at high temperatures to a dense, splinterless base. Panels wipe clean with a damp cloth and retain a like-new finish for years. Local building material dealers have complete information on Marlite.



VACATION HOMES COME OF AGE — National building statistics reveal that more than 2 billion American today own vacation, or leisure, homes — and the number is growing every year. The rustic "A" frame vacation home design shown here features Marlite's new textured oak woodgrain planks in horizontal ceiling and vertical wall applications. The random-scored planks enhance a casual atmosphere and contribute to a feeling of spaciousness. The plastic-finished hardboard planks, in easy-to-handle 16"x8' size, can be installed easily by the home handyman using concealed clips and a special adhesive. Washable Marlite paneling, available at local lumber dealers, can be used in new construction and remodeling .

Wrought Iron Tables Sport Expansion Tops

Chicago (NFS)—If you long to entertain at festive formal dinners but feel that your dining room or area isn't spacious enough, there may be a simple solution to your problem.

"A handsome wrought iron dining table with a fine furniture top that expands when leaves are added can turn a small dining area into an accommodation for a larger number of diners than could ordinarily be seated comfortably," notes style consultant June Woodard.

Because of its see-through design, wrought iron furniture is ideal for the small dining room. Even when fully extended, a wrought iron table doesn't overpower the room with massiveness, and yet provides comfortable seating for as many as 10 people.

"Replacing a regular table with the convenience of an expandable wrought iron model doesn't mean that you must discard all your dining room furnishings," Miss Woodard said. "You can keep your present buffet or china cabinet and choose a table top material, pattern, or finish to enhance your present decor."

Woodard offers a choice of expendable table tops in fine walnut wood in mellow finishes and plastic laminates in woodgrains or Persian leather pattern.

A wide choice of table sizes makes it possible to select one that best fits your dining room and seating needs. For example, there are compact round pedestal models that take up little floor space, and for larger rooms there are banquet-size rectangular models that accommodate 10 or more dinner guests when two leaves are added.

In addition to a choice of table shapes, sizes and table top materials, Woodard wrought iron furniture comes in a wide range of contemporary and classic styles in nine frame finishes.

Matching chairs for indoor dining are luxuriously cushioned in foam and upholstered in fine fabrics.

To help the homemaker with her room planning, Miss Woodard has prepared a handy "Casual Furniture Guide." In addition to style information and full color photographs, it contains a room planning guide complete with grid paper and templates of chairs and tables drawn to scale.

By using the guide, the homemaker can make sure that her space allocations are correct with a minimum of effort. To obtain a copy of the "Casual Furniture Guide," send $1 to Lee L. Woodard Sons, Inc., Owosso, Mich.

Standard Set For Installing Tile in Mortar

Installation of ceramic tile in Dry-Set mortar, a patented discovery of the Tile Council of America that has revolutionized tile-setting methods over the past decade, is covered by a newly published standard approved by the United States of America Standards Institute.

"USA Standard Specifications for Ceramic Tile Installed with Dry-Set Portland Cement Mortar, A108.5-1967" gives the minimum requirements for materials and workmanship in these installations.

Dry-Set mortar, produced under license from the Tile Council, can be applied in a much thinner layer than conventional portland cement mortar and makes pre-soaking of wall tiles before they are installed unnecessary.

By means of an additive, Dry-Set retains moisture in the mortar until it cures properly, thus insuring a strong bond between tile and mortar.

Published with the new installation standard is "USA Standard Specifications for Dry-Set Portland Cement Mortar, A118.1-1967," which gives requirements for the product.

Also included are explanatory notes to facilitate use of the standards by architects and specifiers, and a guide outline form to aid actual preparation of a specification.

Board Ceilings Now Have Washing Finish

Vinyls and other plastics are now being used as the finished surface for a wide variety of insulation board ceiling products, according to the Insulation Board Institute. The new finishes are fully scrubbable with most household cleaning products.

The new plastic finishes span the entire range of insulation board ceilings products. This includes plain, decorator and acoustical tile ceilings. Also 2x2 and 2x4 foot lay-in insulation board panels for suspended ceilings in plain, decorator and acoustical.

With the introduction of plastic-finished ceiling products, IBI suggests that insulation board ceilings are not suitable for rooms where frequent cleaning is usually necessary.

A kitchen, for example, can have a noise reducing acoustical ceiling with a plastic finish now easily kept clean of grease and other grime.

Divide and Live Better

CHICAGO (NFS) — Is your bedroom decorated and furnished for "total living?"

If it isn't you're not making the most of its potential as a comfortable private retreat by day as well as by night, according to interior design consultant Mary Ann Wills.

"Builders of new luxury homes are emphasizing well-designed master bedrooms as major selling points," said the decorator who advises the makers of Galway decorative room dividers.

"If your bedroom lacks some of the design features of the new homes, it's quite possible that you can achieve the same general effect by using handsome room dividers," she added.

"For example," she said, "you can set up a divider 'wall' to give the illusion of a separate living area within the bedroom while adding a distinctive decorative note at the same time."

You can choose a decorative panel and pole divider system to fit an existing decor or to create a new mood. There's one that looks like Bamboo; modern Vision panels simulate welded metal sculpture; and translucent Vintage panels give the effect of stained glass in amber or avocado green. If you're in a Mediterranean mood you can choose romantic Seville or Castille panels that simulate wrought iron grillwork. There are geometric patterns in both contemporary and traditional moods, and a perky new daisy pattern in a choice of natural colors or lustrous gold with pearlized petals.

You can choose from four pole styles in matching or complementary finishes.

The hallway itself should be carpeted and the ceiling should be acoustical insulation board to reduce noise. Walls of the hall must be constructed to contain noise.

2. Wall Test—Never buy or rent until you nave tested noise transmission through walls you will share with your neighbors. This so-called "common wall" now can be constructed to reduce noise using such products as sound deadening insulation board.

Have someone start a lively conversation in the next apartment to test the wall you might eventually share. Many experienced renters and buyers bring a transistor radio when they shop, using this for the noise source. The key question—does voice or radio penetrate enough to be annoying?

3. Floor Test—Carpeting overhead helps, but your builder should also have used a special floor-ceiling system now available to reduce noise. The test here is simple—have a friend walk around above your apartment—just listen. Is the impact of heels disturbing? Can you stand it day after day?

4. Nechanical Noise—The NAHB research illustrated widespread complaints on plumbing and appliance noise from 70 percent of the renters. Plumbing noise can easily be checked.

Try the plumbing in the next apartment, in the apartment overhead. And don't neglect the appliances. Quieter models and improved installation methods are available to your builder. Check the garbage disposal unit and the dishwasher. Both these appliances are often singled out as key noise offenders.

Textured Look Is Now in For Walls

Looking for a wall surface that will break the monotony in an otherwise interesting room?

One of 14 new textured hardboard panels with a washable plastic finish may fill your need, says Robert Huff, home improvement director for Marlite Paneling.

The Marlite line of textured panels features five woodgrains in textured oak and wormy chestnut patterns. Tapestry in green, antique white and gold combines the look and feel of expensive woven fabric.

Also new from Marlite are two satin-finished tones of travertine marble. If you are looking for something that's really different, there is an opportunity to select from four leather textured patterns, Huff adds.

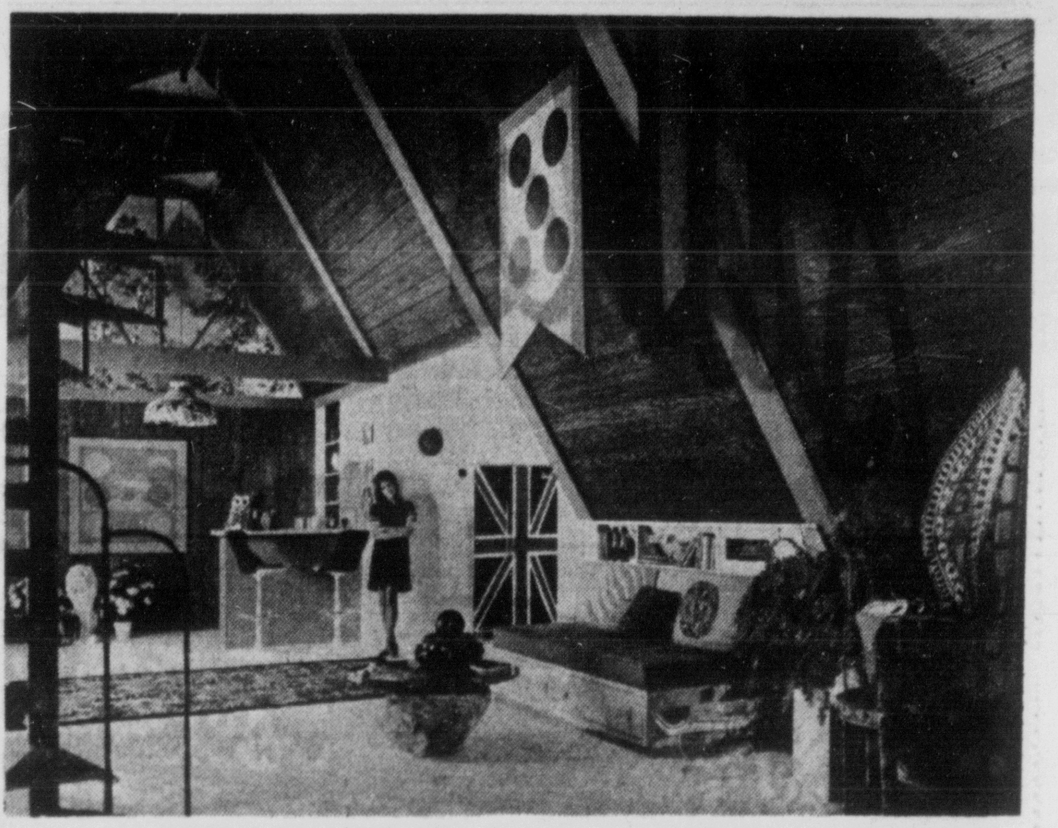
The paneling's rugged plastic finish is fused at high temperatures to a dense, splinterless base. Panels wipe clean with a damp cloth and retain a like-new finish for years. Local building material dealers have complete information on Marlite.



VACATION HOMES COME OF AGE — National building statistics reveal that more than 2 billion American today own vacation, or leisure, homes — and the number is growing every year. The rustic "A" frame vacation home design shown here features Marlite's new textured oak woodgrain planks in horizontal ceiling and vertical wall applications. The random-scored planks enhance a casual atmosphere and contribute to a feeling of spaciousness. The plastic-finished hardboard planks, in easy-to-handle 16"x8' size, can be installed easily by the home handyman using concealed clips and a special adhesive. Washable Marlite paneling, available at local lumber dealers, can be used in new construction and remodeling .

Wrought Iron Tables Sport Expansion Tops

Chicago (NFS)—If you long to entertain at festive formal dinners but feel that your dining room or area isn't spacious enough, there may be a simple solution to your problem.

"A handsome wrought iron dining table with a fine furniture top that expands when leaves are added can turn a small dining area into an accommodation for a larger number of diners than could ordinarily be seated comfortably," notes style consultant June Woodard.

Miss Woodward, style consultant to Lee L. Woodard Sons, Inc., Owosso, Mich., pointed out that a wrought iron extension table is a particularly good choice because wrought iron blends beautifully with other materials and is at home in almost any decor.

Because of its see-through design, wrought iron furniture is ideal for the small dining room. Even when fully extended, a wrought iron table doesn't overpower the room with massiveness, and yet provides comfortable seating for as many as 10 people.

"Replacing a regular table with the convenience of an expandable wrought iron model doesn't mean that you must discard all your dining room furnishings," Miss Woodard said. "You can keep your present buffet or china cabinet and choose a table top material, pattern, or finish to enhance your present decor."

Woodard offers a choice of expendable table tops in fine walnut wood in mellow finishes and plastic laminates in woodgrains or Persian leather pattern.

A wide choice of table sizes makes it possible to select one that best fits your dining room and seating needs. For example, there are compact round pedestal models that take up little floor space, and for larger rooms there are banquet-size rectangular models that accommodate 10 or more dinner guests when two leaves are added.

In addition to a choice of table shapes, sizes and table top materials, Woodard wrought iron furniture comes in a wide range of contemporary and classic styles in nine frame finishes.

Matching chairs for indoor dining are luxuriously cushioned in foam and upholstered in fine fabrics.

To help the homemaker with her room planning, Miss Woodard has prepared a handy "Casual Furniture Guide." In addition to style information and full color photographs, it contains a room planning guide complete with grid paper and templates of chairs and tables drawn to scale.

By using the guide, the homemaker can make sure that her space allocations are correct with a minimum of effort. To obtain a copy of the "Casual Furniture Guide," send $1 to Lee L. Woodard Sons, Inc., Owosso, Mich.

Standard Set For Installing Tile in Mortar

Installation of ceramic tile in Dry-Set mortar, a patented discovery of the Tile Council of America that has revolutionized tile-setting methods over the past decade, is covered by a newly published standard approved by the United States of America Standards Institute.

"USA Standard Specifications for Ceramic Tile Installed with Dry-Set Portland Cement Mortar, A108.5-1967" gives the minimum requirements for materials and workmanship in these installations.

Dry-Set mortar, produced under license from the Tile Council, can be applied in a much thinner layer than conventional portland cement mortar and makes pre-soaking of wall tiles before they are installed unnecessary.

By means of an additive, Dry-Set retains moisture in the mortar until it cures properly, thus insuring a strong bond between tile and mortar.

Published with the new installation standard is "USA Standard Specifications for Dry-Set Portland Cement Mortar, A118.1-1967," which gives requirements for the product.

Also included are explanatory notes to facilitate use of the standards by architects and specifiers, and a guide outline form to aid actual preparation of a specification.

Board Ceilings Now Have Washing Finish

Vinyls and other plastics are now being used as the finished surface for a wide variety of insulation board ceiling products, according to the Insulation Board Institute. The new finishes are fully scrubbable with most household cleaning products.

The new plastic finishes span the entire range of insulation board ceilings products. This includes plain, decorator and acoustical tile ceilings. Also 2x2 and 2x4 foot lay-in insulation board panels for suspended ceilings in plain, decorator and acoustical.

With the introduction of plastic-finished ceiling products, IBI suggests that insulation board ceilings are not suitable for rooms where frequent cleaning is usually necessary.

A kitchen, for example, can have a noise reducing acoustical ceiling with a plastic finish now easily kept clean of grease and other grime.

Divide and Live Better

CHICAGO (NFS) — Is your bedroom decorated and furnished for "total living?"

If it isn't you're not making the most of its potential as a comfortable private retreat by day as well as by night, according to interior design consultant Mary Ann Wills.

"Builders of new luxury homes are emphasizing well-designed master bedrooms as major selling points," said the decorator who advises the makers of Galway decorative room dividers.

"If your bedroom lacks some of the design features of the new homes, it's quite possible that you can achieve the same general effect by using handsome room dividers," she added.

"For example," she said, "you can set up a divider 'wall' to give the illusion of a separate living area within the bedroom while adding a distinctive decorative note at the same time."

You can choose a decorative panel and pole divider system to fit an existing decor or to create a new mood. There's one that looks like Bamboo; modern Vision panels simulate welded metal sculpture; and translucent Vintage panels give the effect of stained glass in amber or avocado green. If you're in a Mediterranean mood you can choose romantic Seville or Castille panels that simulate wrought iron grillwork. There are geometric patterns in both contemporary and traditional moods, and a perky new daisy pattern in a choice of natural colors or lustrous gold with pearlized petals.

Trudeau Says He Worries About U.S. Rebellion

KINGSTON, Ont. (AP) — Prime Minister Pierre Elliot Trudeau said Friday night he is more worried about the possibility of rebellion in the United States than about a confrontation with the Soviet Union at the Berlin Wall.

"In my scale of values, I am less worried about what will happen over the Berlin Wall than about what might happen in Chicago, New York or in our own great cities of Canada," he told applauding students at Queen's University.

He also said he does not want to take Canada into the Organization of American States "if it means we are to be just a replica of Washington."

Trudeau's foreign policy statements came after he told the youthful audience that meetings with students and other groups will be his chief forum outside Parliament for discussing government policies.

Asked whether Canada will cut its NATO commitments, Trudeau replied that civilization and culture in North America are menaced more by internal disorders than external pressure. He said he felt very strongly that disorder and racial strife in U.S. cities "may seriously lead to large rebellions," and that these might overflow to Canada and Mexico.

He said that because of "appalling" poverty, South America is a "time bomb on our doorstep."

RECOUNT BLUES

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (UPI)—Republican assemblyman Wilmer R. Waters demanded a recount after losing by three votes, 6,250 to 6,517 to Democrat Joseph Looby in Tuesday's election.

The recount was completed Friday. It showed Waters lost by one vote, 6,522 to 6,521.

Italian Wine Men Protest Label Decision

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOLZANO, Italy (AP) — A crowd of 2,000 demonstrators split open a cask of wine and let it flow on the street Friday to protest a decision by the Italian government that allows wine growers from a wider area to use a prestigious local label.

The demonstrators, 2,000 farmers and wine growers from Alto Adige, in Bolzano Province, are opposed to letting growers from three towns in the adjoining Trento Province use the Caldaro label for their wine.

Caldaro wine is named for Lake Caldaro five miles southwest of Bolzano. Letting more farmers use the Caldaro label is economically advantageous to them because the Cadaro label is the most respected in the region.

After-Hours Bottle Clubs Are Restricted

DENVER (AP)—A ruling by Dist. Judge Saul Pinchick Friday upholds the constitutionality of a 1967 statute sharply restricting activities of after-hours bottle clubs.

The ruling—in effect—prohibits private bottle clubs from operating during hours at which regular taverns are required to close.

The judge's decision climaxed a long series of legal moves in district court which started shortly after the bottle club ban went into effect.

Two clubs, the Protocrats, Inc., and the Clef Club, sought a judgement finding the statute constitutionally vague.

The statute prohibits persons from providing a premises together with soft drinks or other mix, ice, glasses or other containers "at a direct or indirect cost or charge to any person who brings alcoholic beverages upon such premises" for the purposes of consuming alcohol during restricted hours.

The statute also prohibits drinking liquor in a place that operate in this manner.

Bottle clubs normally open at 2 a.m., remaining open until 6 or 7 a.m. Liquor sales—either by bars or package stores—are prohibited between those hours. For a small door charge, patrons are admitted, and they bring their own liquor and mixes. Glass and ices are provided for a charge by the club.

San Francisco's Chinatown, home of 25,000 Chinese Americans, is the largest Chinese settlement outside the Orient.

Trudeau's foreign policy statements came after he told the youthful audience that meetings with students and other groups will be his chief forum outside Parliament for discussing government policies.

Asked whether Canada will cut its NATO commitments, Trudeau replied that civilization and culture in North America are menaced more by internal disorders than external pressure. He said he felt very strongly that disorder and racial strife in U.S. cities "may seriously lead to large rebellions," and that these might overflow to Canada and Mexico.

He said that because of "appalling" poverty, South America is a "time bomb on our doorstep."

RECOUNT BLUES

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (UPI)—Republican assemblyman Wilmer R. Waters demanded a recount after losing by three votes, 6,250 to 6,517 to Democrat Joseph Looby in Tuesday's election.

The recount was completed Friday. It showed Waters lost by one vote, 6,522 to 6,521.

Italian Wine Men Protest Label Decision

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BOLZANO, Italy (AP) — A crowd of 2,000 demonstrators split open a cask of wine and let it flow on the street Friday to protest a decision by the Italian government that allows wine growers from a wider area to use a prestigious local label.

The demonstrators, 2,000 farmers and wine growers from Alto Adige, in Bolzano Province, are opposed to letting growers from three towns in the adjoining Trento Province use the Caldaro label for their wine.

Caldaro wine is named for Lake Caldaro five miles southwest of Bolzano. Letting more farmers use the Caldaro label is economically advantageous to them because the Cadaro label is the most respected in the region.

After-Hours Bottle Clubs Are Restricted

DENVER (AP)—A ruling by Dist. Judge Saul Pinchick Friday upholds the constitutionality of a 1967 statute sharply restricting activities of after-hours bottle clubs.

The ruling—in effect—prohibits private bottle clubs from operating during hours at which regular taverns are required to close.

The judge's decision climaxed a long series of legal moves in district court which started shortly after the bottle club ban went into effect.

Two clubs, the Protocrats, Inc., and the Clef Club, sought a judgement finding the statute constitutionally vague.

The statute prohibits persons from providing a premises together with soft drinks or other mix, ice, glasses or other containers "at a direct or indirect cost or charge to any person who brings alcoholic beverages upon such premises" for the purposes of consuming alcohol during restricted hours.

The statute also prohibits drinking liquor in a place that operate in this manner.

Bottle clubs normally open at 2 a.m., remaining open until 6 or 7 a.m. Liquor sales—either by bars or package stores—are prohibited between those hours. For a small door charge, patrons are admitted, and they bring their own liquor and mixes. Glass and ices are provided for a charge by the club.

Let Peace Begin With Me

Many Have Self-Esteem

There's larcency in every heart, the cynics say. While we would question the assertion that everyone has something of the thief in their makeup, that some do is proven by the readiness with which people do unto corporations what they would never do to fellow individuals says Don Oakley of Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Take the matter of insurance fraud, which siphons off unknown amounts of insurers' incomes every year and helps keep everyone's premiums high and growing higher.

Every company suffers from this kind of theft-at-a-distance. But at least one of them—Nationwide—has a thick file of cases in which its patrons returned or refused claim payments they might easily, and sometimes legitimately, have pocketed with no one being the wiser.

A conscientious car owner in Massachusetts, for example, was sent a check for $88.38 under her $100 deductible policy after estimated repairs of $188.38 were approved. She didn't consider the case closed, however, until she sent back her personal check for $25—the difference between the estimate and the actual repair cost of $163.88.

A couple in Pennsylvania received a payment of $45 for their son's coat, which had been stolen at school. It was later recovered—and they returned the money.

An Ohio woman reimbursed the company for a claim paid more than 10 years before. She explained that she had been paid $150 for a fire in her car and confessed that she had it deliberately set because of financial difficulties at the time. It had taken her that long to save up enough money—and the courage—to make restitution and set her nagging conscience at ease.

Another policyholder was paid $10.40 for a radio antenna that had been broken by vandals. When the vandals were later apprehended and ordered by the court to pay for the damages, the policyholder endorsed the check and forwarded it to the company.

"Suckers," someone says. "What multi-million-dollar company would miss such measly amounts?"

Maybe so. Or maybe these people, and others like them, consider their own opinions of themselves more important than what anyone else might think.

And maybe, just maybe, it's this kind of basic integrity, multiplied by the millions and reflected in countless different ways, that has kept the world from going entirely to pot all these many years.

Theft in Postal System

"The extent of the crime wave which has swept over the Nation's Capital was dramatically pointed up last week when a Republican Congressman disclosed that one of the country's largest cathedrals has been the victim of mail thefts amounting to some $25,000."

The above is an exact quote from an article entitled "Brown Asks Congress to Investigate Charity Mail Theft Scandal in Capital" in the October 21, 1968 issue of the Republican Congressional Committee Newsletter. Intended, one must assume, to point up the disgraceful condition of the Post Office Department under a democratic administration and, thus, garner votes for the republicans in the recent election, the article, from which we shall quote at greater length, is especially appropriate now that the shoe is on the other foot and responsibility for the patronage ridden, deficit accumulating postal bureaucracy rests squarely in the republican lap.

"At the same time," the republican newsletter article continued, "a check disclosed that other churches and charitable institutions in the Washington area have been hit by thefts of contributions and other donations, mainly from the mails."

Thus, to the other ills plaguing the POD must be added stealing, apparently on a widespread and organized scale. We continue to quote from the article:

"Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, who blew the whistle on mail thefts. . .pledged an investigation after the 91st Congress convenes. . .which would give this matter the urgent attention it deserves.

"Other institutions hit by mail frauds in the Washington area," the newsletter continued, "include Missionhurst and the Holy Ghost Mission, both Catholic charities, and Korean Relief, Inc. None could give a precise estimate of the amounts stolen, although the Rev. Paul Melveren, director of Missionhurst, said there have been thefts every week for the past two or three years. . .Rev. Melveren said he believed that every charitable organization in Washington has the same problem.

"William Vita, managing director of Korean Relief, Inc., said his organization has been suffering losses from its mail for the past two years. He said one Main Post Office employee was caught with $139 on her person, all intended for Korean Relief. Cathedral officials said missing money was found in the locker of a postal employee, but that the employee has thus far never served a day in jail."

Pointing up the contemptuous attitude of bureaucrats intrenched in positions of power, the article said, "Congressman Brown said the Very Reverend Francis Sayre, Dean of the Cathedral, expressed his alarm in a letter to the postmaster general in 1967 but received no reply. Another letter, mailed in April of this year, received only a 'typical bureaucratic perfunctory reply,' Brown said."

Emphasizing the widespread prevalence of theft in the POD, the newsletter concluded, "On one occasion, postal inspectors 'seeded' the mail with 50 National Cathedral contribution envelopes in a single night. Only one came through to the Church. Meanwhile, the thefts continue."

As it seems to us, here is a good place for the victorious republicans to begin making good on some of their campaign promises to clean up the government. Nothing short of a total dismantling of the corruption riddled POD and turning over of the mail carrying function to consumer - oriented private enterprise will suffice.

The Local Scene

'Full Restitution'

By RUFUS L. PORTER

I received a letter from Hal Wriston, friend and GT reader, who, by the way, has met with a rather serious accident. He was working from a ladder 15 feet above a cement walk or driveway when the ladder slipped and he fell to the hard surfaced concrete, breaking his left heel and pulverizing his right ankle. I will drive by his home tomorrow and see how he is getting along with both legs in casts. It happened, of all days, on Labor Day, but he was two months telling me about it.

But what Hal was interested in was a clipping from the GT that he enclosed with his letter. The clipping was about a theft charge that had been dismissed because "full restitution had been made." It didn't say in the clipping, but I presume that the complainant didn't press charges since she had been reimbursed for her loss. That is usually the cause for dropping charges. If no one appears against the defendant, he is released. Of course, according to the legal aspects of such cases, the accused, if guilty, is supposed to be punished. A theft is a theft—and theft is a crime.

And that's what is bugging my pal, Hal Wriston. He says when they turn a known thief loose without punishment, they are practically telling him to go ahead and steal some more. And I have read of cases where the guilty was punished for the theft, even though he made full restitution and even when the one against whom the crime had been committed and asked the law not to prosecute. The law is the law and is supposed to punish a law breaker just for breaking the law.

This does not mean that I am in favor of laws and punishment, it is just the way it is, the rules we are living under. But the rules can be disregarded by those in charge, and they often are, as in the cases like the above.

I am a firm believer in order, but "law and order" is a catchphrase and a contradiction in terms, for the more law we have, the less order. Compared with what we have today, the Old West, without laws, was the most orderly time and place in our history.

THE ENTERING WEDGE

It was a "mild" gun control law that was sneaked through Congress and signed with a flourish, and about 40 pens, by a notorious outlaw—he stole an election to the Senate of these benighted states. But, weak and mild as it is, it is a mere puling infant to what is in store for us. This first mild law was the old entering wedge, the foot in the door, the camel's head under the tent, etc. As soon as we become accustomed to the present arms ban, we will be presented with a stiffer one again and again, until we will be allowed to have and hold no weapons of any kind, not even a hunting knife. We will be totally disarmed, then we will be herded into the big top of world government. Our draftees will be sent off to "keep the peace" in foreign lands and we will be policed by foreign soldiers. It is much easier for an army or a "police force" to shoot strangers than their own people.

And don't expect a new administration to recall any laws, especially ones that disarm the people. The establishment is in charge. The invisible government known as the CFR, tor Council on Foreign Relations, has been in charge of the US for some time now. And the CFR is and has been since its inception (it was fathered by Col. House in 1920) working for a world government. It cannot be attained until all the people of all the nations are disarmed.

The Russian citizens (subjects? slaves?) have no arms. Few common people in most of the so-called Western Free nations have arms, except in the United States, Canada and, perhaps, Australia and New Zealand. When we are disarmed we will be ushered into the police state and then into a world government. It is already later, much later, than we think. Look for activity in the next Congress for the registering of all hand guns and, later, their confiscation, and then next our rifles.

Honest people need guns to protect themselves, their families and property from the predatory crooks who will have guns come laws or no laws. And later on, we may need guns to protect ourselves from the politicians. Considering the rising crime rates, guns are a more important household item now than they have ever been before in our history.

Solution Sans Revolution

Whenever an existing establishment or a ruling hierarchy is confronted with open rebellion, there are only two ways in which that establishment or hierarchy has acted in the past. It has either acceded to the demands of the rebels and complied with their requests, or it has opposed them with armed might.

At the moment, certain rebellious forces in this country—including communists, socialists, anarchists, and black power advocates—are challenging the status quo. Their challenge has passed through the vocal stages and the exhortation stages to the point where mass demonstrations, marches, and riots are the order of the day. This is much the same route followed in Russia in the days immediately preceding the two revolutions in that country, both of which occurred in 1917.

In Russia, the czar listened. He did no more until open force confronted him. Then a state of martial law ensued, which finally reached such a height that the czar abdicated, the country was torn by revolution, and there emerged a new ruling power-group.

In prior centuries when mobs clamored for bread and circuses in Rome, and finally swarmed into the forum demanding more and more subsidy, the Roman senate tried placation. Larger and larger portions of grain and public goodies were handed to the masses. The ferment was not eliminated by this process, and the Roman culture was rent asunder, making it the pallid victim of invading barbarians.

History thus gives us two prime examples in which a challenge to the establishment and the ruling hierarchy were confronted unsuccessfully. Placation did not work. Neither did armed resistance.

In this country, we are apparently attempting to deal with the problem by employing both methods. We are meeting demands for bread and circuses with enormous outlays of tax money. And we are calling out the troops to stand guard when rioters appear and seek to gain the upper hand. It is predictable that both methods used in combination will have no better result than either, used singly. If present policies are continued, the government either will fall and a new power clique will emerge to rule, or, if sufficient power is evoked, the government may be able to retain its grip, but it will do so by the processes of total regimentation and the conversion of the existing state to one of total dictatorship. In either case, the fundamental ideas and ideals of human liberty and the dignity of individual men will be wrenched loose and we shall be a people with a smashed economy, a gutted culture, and the future will contain the economic and social factors both of fascism and feudalism.

Is there anything that can be done to prevent this dreadful denouement? Yes, there is. It is unlikely that there exists at the moment the will to change, but if we assume that the will to change could be formed, then it might be possible to avoid this complete devastation.

The basic change would consist of two parts. There must be an immediate repeal of all laws which seek to regulate the economy in favor of some to the detriment of others. In this category I place all tariffs, all economic subsidies, all taxes upon transportation, and all regulation of the means of production, distribution, and communication. If this major step were desired by the ruling hierarchy, it might indeed preserve its own claims to prestige and influence. The economy could be preserved; taxes as well as government spending could be reduced by as much as one-third, and this would comprise a "shot-in-the-arm" in the area of free decision-making and in favor of more production and higher standards of living for all.

The second step would be the simultaneous recognition that real and lasting changes can only occur through educational methods, and not through placation or force. This would mean a complete rejection of government-run or grovernment-supported educational institutions. The existing educational structure at all levels, primary, secondary, and higher, would have to move into the unsubsidized market, there to survive or fall on the basis of its own merit.

It is quite unlikely that the will exists for these drastic revisions. However, desperate times require radical changes in policy. And if there now emerged those individuals who could and would champion such alterations, this nation could yet avoid a blood bath.

To the Point

Nixon, the President

BY RUSSELL KIRK

Richard Nixon, triumphing over adversity, has made himself the 37th President of this republic. When Lyndon Johnson succeeded to that office, I wished him very well. Now let us all give Mr. Nixon our best wishes, and our prayers — for he will need them.

I write "made himself President" because Mr. Nixon's success is the result of his own perseverance and courage. Obligated to no powerful interest for his election, he is free to act decisively for our common good, and the good of the world.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the labor-union bosses, who worked hard but ineffectually to defeat him. He is free to restrain their attempts at labor monopoly.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the belligerent Negro organizations, which pretended that he was merely a more genteel George Wallace. He is free to work for racial reconciliation, unimpeded by fanatic ideology.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the Republican liberals, who bitterly opposed his nomination and contributed little to his election. He is free from their slogans of yesteryear.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the "radical right," who rallied behind Wallace. He is free to scorn their simplistic demands.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the "New Left," who were ineffectual against him only because they were obsessed with tormenting Hubert Humphrey. He is free to make them observe the law.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the intellectual ideologs, who vacillated between Eugene McCarthy and Edward Kennedy and then halfheartedly endorsed Humphrey. He is free to seek more practical advice.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the men of big business, who supported and cajoled President Johnson so long as that policy served their turn. He is free to act on behalf of the forgotten American.

If ever a President was free to lead the people, unfettered by promises to special interests, Richard Nixon is that man. It remains to be seen whether he possesses the strength and imagination and practical intelligence for his tremendous task, commencing on Jan. 20, in the fateful year of 1969.

Despite his long experience in practical politics, Nixon never has held exeutive office at any level—the Vice Presidency scarcely counting as an executive post. Though he has gathered some bright young men around him during his campaign, he has no such circle of aspiring talents to draw upon as had Franklin Roosevelt or John Kennedy. Some members of his Cabinet, presumably, will be Republican leaders hostile toward him until his nomination. He probably expects to be, in effect, his own real secretary of state. Practical politics having been his whole life, he is well prepared for the exhausting detail of the presidential office, at least.

Personally honest, diligent and earnestly patriotic, Nixon will give everything he has to this most powerful and exacting eminence in all the world. He is not vain, and he does not love power for its own sake; he is a shrewd judge of men and measures. He possesses the art of persuasion, whether he is concerned with the general public or with Congress. He is no fanatic and no political innocent. He knows something about Europe and Africa and Asia. All these are talents most urgently needed in the White House.

Conservative by inclination and principle, nevertheless Nixon is remarkably receptive to new ideas of every description. Almost to a fault, he is a votary of the modern god "awareness." He may be expected to experiment freely with novel measures in domestic and foreign policy: new approaches to racial questions, to urban problems, to the difficulties of rural America, to relations with Soviet Russia, to war in Asia. He is not bound by slogan and cliche, nor by the ritualistic liberal mentality which began to go bankrupt a generation ago.

Although not conspicuous as yet for creative imagination of his own, Nixon will seek to attract to himself the rising generation of original thinkers. Better prepared than was either Franklin Roosevelt or John Kennedy to assay the quality and practicability of ingenious advisers, Nixon is not liable to repose boundless confidence in some Republican equivalent of Harry Hopkins or Arthur Schlesinger, for all that.

Typically American in his optimism and in a certain boyishness, Richard Nixon confronts cheerfully a world of decay and violence. There is almost limitless power behind him—power for good, if he knows how to employ it. There must settle upon him, while he is in office, the tragic sense of life. May God grant that he be given also pagan fortitude and Christian hope.

Economic Freedom: Social Dynamite

By FRED G. CLARK and RICHARD S. RIMANOCZY
(Economic Facts of Life)

The Red rulers of the Iron Curtain nations have learned what they should have known before they started to dole out scraps of economic freedom to their unprosperous, unhappy subjects — a little freedom simply creates the demand for more.

The authors have been following this development in Communist countries for about five years, ever since the Kremlin gave its partial blessing to a movement in Russia known as Liebermanism, named after a professor of economics who pointed out that production of consumer goods would be more efficient if the retailers were allowed to find out what the customers wanted, and the factories were allowed to make it.

The results were so dramatic that the impact spread throughout the Communist empire. Freedom being contagious, it was not long before the enslaved peoples began to get delusions of liberty which began to spill over into the political and cultural areas. An ancient truth soon made itself obvious: in order to control peoples' POLITICS you must control their INCOME.

The Communist dictators faced a real problem. Like any other group of politicians they wanted to be as popular as possible (or at least as popular as practical). That's why they had approved a modest degree of economic freedom "within the framework of Marxism." But when the exercise of this freedom began to weaken the framework of Marxism (from which stemmed its political domination) the Kremlin decided that 1968 was the year to stomp it out, even at the expense of favorable public opinion.

The "stomping out" seems to be a very active program because the Soviet Union's growing slave-labor camps (now numbering 56) contain "many dissident workers (guilty of) taking seriously the talk of civil rights and freedom of action in the factories." (Victor Riesel, Aug. 17, 1968) But individual punishment could not stem the tide, so an entire nation, Czechoslovakia, had to be "made an example of."

There is no doubt that the hypocritical decision to "protect" the Czechs against the imaginary "revolutionary internal threat" of their own free thinkers was hotly debated in the Kremlin before the Red Star tanks were ordered to roll. For many years there has been two schools of thought in the high ranks of Communism, the heavy fisted policy of Stalin and the light handed policy most recently represented by Khrushchev. Nobody knows how close the vote was, but everybody knows that the "tough guys" won. The light of economic freedom behind the Iron Curtain is going out just as it began to shine brightly.

This might have happened in the American colonies, in 1776, had the forces of King George not been so many miles away and had there not been so much sympathy in Parliament for the "colonials."

One thing is certain, however: the inextinguishable desire for personal economic freedom will always force tyranny to be a brutal system of control.

YOU SMEARED BRADLEY

To the Editor:

Reading tonight's (Friday, Nov. 1) editorial "Tax Money Vote-Buying," I was interested in reading that the race for the 3rd Congressional District was termed "the last minute flurry of charge and counter-charge in the local mud slinging contest between Paul Whatsis and Frank Federalaid in their struggle for the 'representative' position aboard the groaning taxpayers' backs, . . ."

I noticed also, that the GAZETTE TELEGRAPH is listed as a Freedom Newspaper, and as such "dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom . . ."

The conflict between the term "mud slinging" and the furnishing of information claimed by your newspaper does not appear to be consistent. Is it possible that you missed Thursday's news conference where Paul Bradley notified the press that the charges made against Frank E. Evans were taken from Mr. Evans voting record as recorded in the Congressional Record, and thus completely accurate. Therefore, your generous charge of mud slinging, which you splattered over both contestants, is at least half wrong. Or is it that you are not interested in furnishing information to your readers, or at least factual information.

I'm sorry that I haven't seen the Thursday evening GAZETTE TELEGRAPH to examine your report of the Bradley press conference. My Thursday evening (as well as the Wednesday) paper never arrived. Your circulation desk assured me that it was on its way to my home, assured me several times, as a matter of fact. However, as of the present time (more than 24 hours later) I still have not received Thursday's paper. In any event, I am just a bit disappointed in a newspaper allegedly dedicated to the truth, which finds it impossible to differentiate between a hard-hitting campaign based upon the incumbent's voting record, and the shrill cry of SMEAR by the same incumbent who doesn't like to have his record in Congress exposed to the view of his constituents.

I would suggest that, at the very minimum, you owe Paul Bradley (this is his last name, you know) a public apology. Paul is a businessman, interested in keeping socialism out of the United States, as well as the 3rd Congressional District—I'm afraid that Mr. Evans voting record does not indicate that he is very interested in this philosophy of freedom; i.e. Frank's 22 percent ACA index or his 75 percent ADA index, together indicate his interest in a high degree of Federalism.

But, I guess that a Freedom Newspaper doesn't have the time to examine the facts—it is

Many Have Self-Esteem

There's larcency in every heart, the cynics say. While we would question the assertion that everyone has something of the thief in their makeup, that some do is proven by the readiness with which people do unto corporations what they would never do to fellow individuals says Don Oakley of Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Take the matter of insurance fraud, which siphons off unknown amounts of insurers' incomes every year and helps keep everyone's premiums high and growing higher.

Every company suffers from this kind of theft-at-a-distance. But at least one of them—Nationwide—has a thick file of cases in which its patrons returned or refused claim payments they might easily, and sometimes legitimately, have pocketed with no one being the wiser.

A conscientious car owner in Massachusetts, for example, was sent a check for $88.38 under her $100 deductible policy after estimated repairs of $188.38 were approved. She didn't consider the case closed, however, until she sent back her personal check for $25—the difference between the estimate and the actual repair cost of $163.88.

A couple in Pennsylvania received a payment of $45 for their son's coat, which had been stolen at school. It was later recovered—and they returned the money.

An Ohio woman reimbursed the company for a claim paid more than 10 years before. She explained that she had been paid $150 for a fire in her car and confessed that she had it deliberately set because of financial difficulties at the time. It had taken her that long to save up enough money—and the courage—to make restitution and set her nagging conscience at ease.

Another policyholder was paid $10.40 for a radio antenna that had been broken by vandals. When the vandals were later apprehended and ordered by the court to pay for the damages, the policyholder endorsed the check and forwarded it to the company.

"Suckers," someone says. "What multi-million-dollar company would miss such measly amounts?"

Maybe so. Or maybe these people, and others like them, consider their own opinions of themselves more important than what anyone else might think.

And maybe, just maybe, it's this kind of basic integrity, multiplied by the millions and reflected in countless different ways, that has kept the world from going entirely to pot all these many years.

Theft in Postal System

"The extent of the crime wave which has swept over the Nation's Capital was dramatically pointed up last week when a Republican Congressman disclosed that one of the country's largest cathedrals has been the victim of mail thefts amounting to some $25,000."

The above is an exact quote from an article entitled "Brown Asks Congress to Investigate Charity Mail Theft Scandal in Capital" in the October 21, 1968 issue of the Republican Congressional Committee Newsletter. Intended, one must assume, to point up the disgraceful condition of the Post Office Department under a democratic administration and, thus, garner votes for the republicans in the recent election, the article, from which we shall quote at greater length, is especially appropriate now that the shoe is on the other foot and responsibility for the patronage ridden, deficit accumulating postal bureaucracy rests squarely in the republican lap.

"At the same time," the republican newsletter article continued, "a check disclosed that other churches and charitable institutions in the Washington area have been hit by thefts of contributions and other donations, mainly from the mails."

Thus, to the other ills plaguing the POD must be added stealing, apparently on a widespread and organized scale. We continue to quote from the article:

"Rep. Clarence J. Brown of Ohio, who blew the whistle on mail thefts. . .pledged an investigation after the 91st Congress convenes. . .which would give this matter the urgent attention it deserves.

"Other institutions hit by mail frauds in the Washington area," the newsletter continued, "include Missionhurst and the Holy Ghost Mission, both Catholic charities, and Korean Relief, Inc. None could give a precise estimate of the amounts stolen, although the Rev. Paul Melveren, director of Missionhurst, said there have been thefts every week for the past two or three years. . .Rev. Melveren said he believed that every charitable organization in Washington has the same problem.

"William Vita, managing director of Korean Relief, Inc., said his organization has been suffering losses from its mail for the past two years. He said one Main Post Office employee was caught with $139 on her person, all intended for Korean Relief. Cathedral officials said missing money was found in the locker of a postal employee, but that the employee has thus far never served a day in jail."

Pointing up the contemptuous attitude of bureaucrats intrenched in positions of power, the article said, "Congressman Brown said the Very Reverend Francis Sayre, Dean of the Cathedral, expressed his alarm in a letter to the postmaster general in 1967 but received no reply. Another letter, mailed in April of this year, received only a 'typical bureaucratic perfunctory reply,' Brown said."

Emphasizing the widespread prevalence of theft in the POD, the newsletter concluded, "On one occasion, postal inspectors 'seeded' the mail with 50 National Cathedral contribution envelopes in a single night. Only one came through to the Church. Meanwhile, the thefts continue."

As it seems to us, here is a good place for the victorious republicans to begin making good on some of their campaign promises to clean up the government. Nothing short of a total dismantling of the corruption riddled POD and turning over of the mail carrying function to consumer - oriented private enterprise will suffice.

The Local Scene

'Full Restitution'

By RUFUS L. PORTER

I received a letter from Hal Wriston, friend and GT reader, who, by the way, has met with a rather serious accident. He was working from a ladder 15 feet above a cement walk or driveway when the ladder slipped and he fell to the hard surfaced concrete, breaking his left heel and pulverizing his right ankle. I will drive by his home tomorrow and see how he is getting along with both legs in casts. It happened, of all days, on Labor Day, but he was two months telling me about it.

But what Hal was interested in was a clipping from the GT that he enclosed with his letter. The clipping was about a theft charge that had been dismissed because "full restitution had been made." It didn't say in the clipping, but I presume that the complainant didn't press charges since she had been reimbursed for her loss. That is usually the cause for dropping charges. If no one appears against the defendant, he is released. Of course, according to the legal aspects of such cases, the accused, if guilty, is supposed to be punished. A theft is a theft—and theft is a crime.

And that's what is bugging my pal, Hal Wriston. He says when they turn a known thief loose without punishment, they are practically telling him to go ahead and steal some more. And I have read of cases where the guilty was punished for the theft, even though he made full restitution and even when the one against whom the crime had been committed and asked the law not to prosecute. The law is the law and is supposed to punish a law breaker just for breaking the law.

This does not mean that I am in favor of laws and punishment, it is just the way it is, the rules we are living under. But the rules can be disregarded by those in charge, and they often are, as in the cases like the above.

I am a firm believer in order, but "law and order" is a catchphrase and a contradiction in terms, for the more law we have, the less order. Compared with what we have today, the Old West, without laws, was the most orderly time and place in our history.

THE ENTERING WEDGE

It was a "mild" gun control law that was sneaked through Congress and signed with a flourish, and about 40 pens, by a notorious outlaw—he stole an election to the Senate of these benighted states. But, weak and mild as it is, it is a mere puling infant to what is in store for us. This first mild law was the old entering wedge, the foot in the door, the camel's head under the tent, etc. As soon as we become accustomed to the present arms ban, we will be presented with a stiffer one again and again, until we will be allowed to have and hold no weapons of any kind, not even a hunting knife. We will be totally disarmed, then we will be herded into the big top of world government. Our draftees will be sent off to "keep the peace" in foreign lands and we will be policed by foreign soldiers. It is much easier for an army or a "police force" to shoot strangers than their own people.

And don't expect a new administration to recall any laws, especially ones that disarm the people. The establishment is in charge. The invisible government known as the CFR, tor Council on Foreign Relations, has been in charge of the US for some time now. And the CFR is and has been since its inception (it was fathered by Col. House in 1920) working for a world government. It cannot be attained until all the people of all the nations are disarmed.

The Russian citizens (subjects? slaves?) have no arms. Few common people in most of the so-called Western Free nations have arms, except in the United States, Canada and, perhaps, Australia and New Zealand. When we are disarmed we will be ushered into the police state and then into a world government. It is already later, much later, than we think. Look for activity in the next Congress for the registering of all hand guns and, later, their confiscation, and then next our rifles.

Honest people need guns to protect themselves, their families and property from the predatory crooks who will have guns come laws or no laws. And later on, we may need guns to protect ourselves from the politicians. Considering the rising crime rates, guns are a more important household item now than they have ever been before in our history.

Solution Sans Revolution

Whenever an existing establishment or a ruling hierarchy is confronted with open rebellion, there are only two ways in which that establishment or hierarchy has acted in the past. It has either acceded to the demands of the rebels and complied with their requests, or it has opposed them with armed might.

At the moment, certain rebellious forces in this country—including communists, socialists, anarchists, and black power advocates—are challenging the status quo. Their challenge has passed through the vocal stages and the exhortation stages to the point where mass demonstrations, marches, and riots are the order of the day. This is much the same route followed in Russia in the days immediately preceding the two revolutions in that country, both of which occurred in 1917.

In Russia, the czar listened. He did no more until open force confronted him. Then a state of martial law ensued, which finally reached such a height that the czar abdicated, the country was torn by revolution, and there emerged a new ruling power-group.

In prior centuries when mobs clamored for bread and circuses in Rome, and finally swarmed into the forum demanding more and more subsidy, the Roman senate tried placation. Larger and larger portions of grain and public goodies were handed to the masses. The ferment was not eliminated by this process, and the Roman culture was rent asunder, making it the pallid victim of invading barbarians.

History thus gives us two prime examples in which a challenge to the establishment and the ruling hierarchy were confronted unsuccessfully. Placation did not work. Neither did armed resistance.

In this country, we are apparently attempting to deal with the problem by employing both methods. We are meeting demands for bread and circuses with enormous outlays of tax money. And we are calling out the troops to stand guard when rioters appear and seek to gain the upper hand. It is predictable that both methods used in combination will have no better result than either, used singly. If present policies are continued, the government either will fall and a new power clique will emerge to rule, or, if sufficient power is evoked, the government may be able to retain its grip, but it will do so by the processes of total regimentation and the conversion of the existing state to one of total dictatorship. In either case, the fundamental ideas and ideals of human liberty and the dignity of individual men will be wrenched loose and we shall be a people with a smashed economy, a gutted culture, and the future will contain the economic and social factors both of fascism and feudalism.

Is there anything that can be done to prevent this dreadful denouement? Yes, there is. It is unlikely that there exists at the moment the will to change, but if we assume that the will to change could be formed, then it might be possible to avoid this complete devastation.

The basic change would consist of two parts. There must be an immediate repeal of all laws which seek to regulate the economy in favor of some to the detriment of others. In this category I place all tariffs, all economic subsidies, all taxes upon transportation, and all regulation of the means of production, distribution, and communication. If this major step were desired by the ruling hierarchy, it might indeed preserve its own claims to prestige and influence. The economy could be preserved; taxes as well as government spending could be reduced by as much as one-third, and this would comprise a "shot-in-the-arm" in the area of free decision-making and in favor of more production and higher standards of living for all.

The second step would be the simultaneous recognition that real and lasting changes can only occur through educational methods, and not through placation or force. This would mean a complete rejection of government-run or grovernment-supported educational institutions. The existing educational structure at all levels, primary, secondary, and higher, would have to move into the unsubsidized market, there to survive or fall on the basis of its own merit.

It is quite unlikely that the will exists for these drastic revisions. However, desperate times require radical changes in policy. And if there now emerged those individuals who could and would champion such alterations, this nation could yet avoid a blood bath.

To the Point

Nixon, the President

BY RUSSELL KIRK

Richard Nixon, triumphing over adversity, has made himself the 37th President of this republic. When Lyndon Johnson succeeded to that office, I wished him very well. Now let us all give Mr. Nixon our best wishes, and our prayers — for he will need them.

I write "made himself President" because Mr. Nixon's success is the result of his own perseverance and courage. Obligated to no powerful interest for his election, he is free to act decisively for our common good, and the good of the world.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the labor-union bosses, who worked hard but ineffectually to defeat him. He is free to restrain their attempts at labor monopoly.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the belligerent Negro organizations, which pretended that he was merely a more genteel George Wallace. He is free to work for racial reconciliation, unimpeded by fanatic ideology.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the Republican liberals, who bitterly opposed his nomination and contributed little to his election. He is free from their slogans of yesteryear.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the "radical right," who rallied behind Wallace. He is free to scorn their simplistic demands.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the "New Left," who were ineffectual against him only because they were obsessed with tormenting Hubert Humphrey. He is free to make them observe the law.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the intellectual ideologs, who vacillated between Eugene McCarthy and Edward Kennedy and then halfheartedly endorsed Humphrey. He is free to seek more practical advice.

Mr. Nixon owes nothing to the men of big business, who supported and cajoled President Johnson so long as that policy served their turn. He is free to act on behalf of the forgotten American.

If ever a President was free to lead the people, unfettered by promises to special interests, Richard Nixon is that man. It remains to be seen whether he possesses the strength and imagination and practical intelligence for his tremendous task, commencing on Jan. 20, in the fateful year of 1969.

Despite his long experience in practical politics, Nixon never has held executive office at any level—the Vice Presidency scarcely counting as an executive post. Though he has gathered some bright young men around him during his campaign, he has no such circle of aspiring talents to draw upon as had Franklin Roosevelt or John Kennedy. Some members of his Cabinet, presumably, will be Republican leaders hostile toward him until his nomination. He probably expects to be, in effect, his own real secretary of state. Practical politics having been his whole life, he is well prepared for the exhausting detail of the presidential office, at least.

Personally honest, diligent and earnestly patriotic, Nixon will give everything he has to this most powerful and exacting eminence in all the world. He is not vain, and he does not love power for its own sake; he is a shrewd judge of men and measures. He possesses the art of persuasion, whether he is concerned with the general public or with Congress. He is no fanatic and no political innocent. He knows something about Europe and Africa and Asia. All these are talents most urgently needed in the White House.

Conservative by inclination and principle, nevertheless Nixon is remarkably receptive to new ideas of every description. Almost to a fault, he is a votary of the modern god "awareness." He may be expected to experiment freely with novel measures in domestic and foreign policy: new approaches to racial questions, to urban problems, to the difficulties of rural America, to relations with Soviet Russia, to war in Asia. He is not bound by slogan and cliche, nor by the ritualistic liberal mentality which began to go bankrupt a generation ago.

Although not conspicuous as yet for creative imagination of his own, Nixon will seek to attract to himself the rising generation of original thinkers. Better prepared than was either Franklin Roosevelt or John Kennedy to assay the quality and practicability of ingenious advisers, Nixon is not liable to repose boundless confidence in some Republican equivalent of Harry Hopkins or Arthur Schlesinger, for all that.

Typically American in his optimism and in a certain boyishness, Richard Nixon confronts cheerfully a world of decay and violence. There is almost limitless power behind him—power for good, if he knows how to employ it. There must settle upon him, while he is in office, the tragic sense of life. May God grant that he be given also pagan fortitude and Christian hope.

Economic Freedom: Social Dynamite

By FRED G. CLARK and RICHARD S. RIMANOCZY
(Economic Facts of Life)

The Red rulers of the Iron Curtain nations have learned what they should have known before they started to dole out scraps of economic freedom to their unprosperous, unhappy subjects — a little freedom simply creates the demand for more.

The authors have been following this development in Communist countries for about five years, ever since the Kremlin gave its partial blessing to a movement in Russia known as Liebermanism, named after a professor of economics who pointed out that production of consumer goods would be more efficient if the retailers were allowed to find out what the customers wanted, and the factories were allowed to make it.

The results were so dramatic that the impact spread throughout the Communist empire. Freedom being contagious, it was not long before the enslaved peoples began to get delusions of liberty which began to spill over into the political and cultural areas. An ancient truth soon made itself obvious: in order to control peoples' POLITICS you must control their INCOME.

The Communist dictators faced a real problem. Like any other group of politicians they wanted to be as popular as possible (or at least as popular as practical). That's why they had approved a modest degree of economic freedom "within the framework of Marxism." But when the exercise of this freedom began to weaken the framework of Marxism (from which stemmed its political domination) the Kremlin decided that 1968 was the year to stomp it out, even at the expense of favorable public opinion.

The "stomping out" seems to be a very active program because the Soviet Union's growing slave-labor camps (now numbering 56) contain "many dissident workers (guilty of) taking seriously the talk of civil rights and freedom of action in the factories." (Victor Riesel, Aug. 17, 1968) But individual punishment could not stem the tide, so an entire nation, Czechoslovakia, had to be "made an example of."

There is no doubt that the hypocritical decision to "protect" the Czechs against the imaginary "revolutionary internal threat" of their own free thinkers was hotly debated in the Kremlin before the Red Star tanks were ordered to roll. For many years there has been two schools of thought in the high ranks of Communism, the heavy fisted policy of Stalin and the light handed policy most recently represented by Khrushchev. Nobody knows how close the vote was, but everybody knows that the "tough guys" won. The light of economic freedom behind the Iron Curtain is going out just as it began to shine brightly.

This might have happened in the American colonies, in 1776, had the forces of King George not been so many miles away and had there not been so much sympathy in Parliament for the "colonials."

One thing is certain, however: the inextinguishable desire for personal economic freedom will always force tyranny to be a brutal system of control.

YOU SMEARED BRADLEY

To the Editor:

Reading tonight's (Friday, Nov. 1) editorial "Tax Money Vote-Buying," I was interested in reading that the race for the 3rd Congressional District was termed "the last minute flurry of charge and counter-charge in the local mud slinging contest between Paul Whatsis and Frank Federalaid in their struggle for the 'representative' position aboard the groaning taxpayers' backs, . . ."

I noticed also, that the GAZETTE TELEGRAPH is listed as a Freedom Newspaper, and as such "dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom . . ."

The conflict between the term "mud slinging" and the furnishing of information claimed by your newspaper does not appear to be consistent. Is it possible that you missed Thursday's news conference where Paul Bradley notified the press that the charges made against Frank E. Evans were taken from Mr. Evans voting record as recorded in the Congressional Record, and thus completely accurate. Therefore, your generous charge of mud slinging, which you splattered over both contestants, is at least half wrong. Or is it that you are not interested in furnishing information to your readers, or at least factual information.

I'm sorry that I haven't seen the Thursday evening GAZETTE TELEGRAPH to examine your report of the Bradley press conference. My Thursday evening (as well as the Wednesday) paper never arrived. Your circulation desk assured me that it was on its way to my home, assured me several times, as a matter of fact. However, as of the present time (more than 24 hours later) I still have not received Thursday's paper. In any event, I am just a bit disappointed in a newspaper allegedly dedicated to the truth, which finds it impossible to differentiate between a hard-hitting campaign based upon the incumbent's voting record, and the shrill cry of SMEAR by the same incumbent who doesn't like to have his record in Congress exposed to the view of his constituents.

I would suggest that, at the very minimum, you owe Paul Bradley (this is his last name, you know) a public apology. Paul is a businessman, interested in keeping socialism out of the United States, as well as the 3rd Congressional District—I'm afraid that Mr. Evans voting record does not indicate that he is very interested in this philosophy of freedom; i.e. Frank's 22 percent ACA index or his 75 percent ADA index, together indicate his interest in a high degree of Federalism.

But, I guess that a Freedom Newspaper doesn't have the time to examine the facts—it is too much fun to shout mud slinging. This is the tactic employed by Frank E. Evans to conceal his voting record, but I hardly thought that the GAZETTE TELEGRAPH would act in a similar fashion. What do you have to conceal.

D. W. SENCENBAUGH
7413 Tudor Road

Editor's note: First, we are sorry and apologize to Mr. Sencenbaugh for the fact that the October 30 and 31 issues of the Gazette Telegraph were not delivered to his home as they should have been. And, although this is in the nature of locking the barn door after the horse departed, we are sure that long before Mr. Sencenbaugh reads this someone from our Circulation Department will have been out to see him about the matter and that steps have been taken to improve future service. Again, our apologies.

As for the Bradley-Evans subject, we reported both the news of the bare facts (the report of the Bradley news conference was carried on the front page of our October 31 issue under the caption "Bradley Files Counter-Claim In Dispute") and our editorial opinion (on the editorial page) of the charges and counter-charges in general. While it is possible that the phrase "mud-slinging" may have been a poor choice of words, from Mr. Sencenbaugh's point of view, it is undeniably true that the charges of both Bradley and Evans, as with most if not all political pronouncements, were heavily larded with subtle innuendo, insinuation and veiled implications.

As a matter of fact, in the same editorial, we pointed out two local areas where Bradley, had he chosen to stand solidly on principle, could have faulted Evans on the obvious efforts of the Democratic Administration to buy local votes with "federal aid" tax money. However, hoping to win and, no doubt, looking ahead to the time when he might wish to do the same thing, Bradley chose not to make a principled stand on the immorality and corruption of "federal aid." It was much easier and, probably, more politically effective to imply that Evans was in conscious league with communism. What Evans is in conscious league with is, of course, vested-interest bureaucracy; just as Bradley would have been had he won the coveted position.

Quite frankly, we think that Businessman Paul Bradley is better off to have lost the election. He is far too good and principled a man to be corrupted by the immoral game of politics which dirties everyone and every thing it touches.

We thank Mr. Sencenbaugh for his letter and interest.

BECAUSE OF HIM

To the Editor:

A "freedom" which is not based upon the Living and written Word of God is an illusion, for, "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." 1 Cor. 3:11.

Only the individual and nation is "free indeed" whom the Son of God "sets free" and where the Word of God has free course, and is studied, loved, and obeyed. And, of course, only those who know and love the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour have the understanding and will to do this.

Disobedience and resistance to the Sovereignty and will of God—with its resultant lawlessness and confusion and sorrow—is no new thing. Satan and his angels fought against God in Heaven and were cast out. Now he, and his dupes, are trying the same thing on earth. "Hath God said . . .?" and "posing as angels of light," the unholy and profane undermine faith in Him and His Word, and where they have managed to gain control, they forbid men to own, or read, or preach, or teach the Bible, and honour the Lord Jesus Christ as the Saviour of mankind, and man's only hope of salvation.

God has been infinitely patient in His dealing with humanity but, just as surely as He dealt with the wicked in Noah's day, so He is going to deal with those who are destroying and corrupting the earth. Those who are not with Him are against Him. He is not asking for admiration, but obedience unto salvation. Jesus Christ is worthy of unfeigned love!

All because of Him.

WRITTEN IN SORROW

To the Editor:

Well now that the Humane Society and some few people of this region evidently are so very happy that they could come to my kennel without a court order, break two locks, one on gate and one on a door and take my little dogs, slam them into an old wet place, much smaller than the house they were in, slander my name, break one of the little dogs legs, break little Honey Bear's jaw. Little Honey Bear was a little 12 year-old long coat Chihauhua. I paid $150 for him and he came from one of the best Chi Kennels in this country. This broken bone was confirmed by Dr. Egglestonn my vet. Then my little registered Peke female gave birth to her puppies before they would return her to me and the pup that was born in the Humane Society was chilled and I have a vet bill over this. The vet can also answer. I am sure he would.

Now, dear reader, can you answer a few questions or put yourself in my place a few moments? How would you like for someone to come to your place of business, break your locks, take your stuff or property, keep it, sell it, keep the money from it and leave you without anything to make money to help you live and try to keep going? And can you answer the question of what sort of a set up we are living under? I would just like to know, because in my mind I can't figure it out. Think it over reader. I can't believe that good thinking people of this country can believe in this. No one appreciates having their name slandered and misused through the newspapers, radio and news media; think this over please.

Now then John and I have lived in your lovely city 15 years. We were sent here by the very best doctors in Oklahoma City on account of his health. No it looks as if we will have to go, since some people must be very content by slandering our name all over. You pray for us that God will lead us to the place he would be most pleased for us to be.

I am wondering how my little animals lived to be 8, 9, and 10 even 13 years old without food, water , and care and most of all loved by someone who really cared for them. Bless their little hearts, they will never adjust to strangers. But my tears never brought them back to us. But some are in their place of rest now as I requested Dr. Eggleston to put them to sleep. No one will ever know the joyful hours we spent with them and when I went to see them at the Humane Society they cried to come to me, them and myself were helpless. It can be compared in a small way to the dear mothers in this country parting with their lovely sons to go off to fight in the Vietnam war. Someday, dear mothers, we will understand why—now we see through a glass darkly. Then we shall see face to face.

My husband and John's Dad went home to his beautiful heaven from this lovely place with all God's beautiful nature around him thinking he was leaving us in a community that we would enjoy and be treated fair. But it hasn't worked out like we thought and I hope he never knows, not even on Judgement Day. But if he does, then God will wipe away all tears and we will have forgotten all our sorrows here.

I am sure my feelings and my attitude towards some people has not been Christlike but I also know that I will have to pray and ask God to forgive because His grace is sufficient for all things. Even the death of our loved ones, when all think sometimes these are unfair though yet, he knows best.

Through these means I want to thank my attorney, Mr. Dick Webster, his lovely secretary who always answered the telephone so sweet and who was kind in every way, all of my dear friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Vickers, Mr. and Mrs. George Robbins, Galen and Sharon, Alice Hillyer, Mrs. Brassee, Joe and Reese, God Bless them, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Anderson and girls who are my very closest neighbors who were here to help us in many ways, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davis from Canon City who came all the way here to offer their help, my many kind friends at the church and many others who were very kind and sweet and I hope, while some who claimed to be my friends never showed up, they can help someone else in some other way sometime.

I want to thank the Open Parliament for this space and their time and for the privilege of being able to express my feelings. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of a just and living God. I am sure we are all going to fall into his hands in due time, and his word says "Vengeance is mine, I will repay thus saith the Lord."

'Smiling Bowl' Still Observed In Pittsburgh

By DOUG BAILEY

PITTSBURGH (AP) — In 1917, fifteen struggling young bachelor apprentices at an aluminum company got caught up in the war fever and enlisted. Before leaving they decided to hold one last dinner.

Because they were poor, it was called "the Buzzard's Feed" and featured such delicacies as bread chips, pineapple salad, soda crackers and a steak. The punch was concocted from the leftovers of bottles of gin, rye, bourbon, rum, brandy and wine and given a brave name—"The Smiling Bowl."

Friday night the group—thinned by time to only five—got together for their 50th reunion.

The menu was the same and the punch was the same. But the men are no longer struggling.

One of the five, Frank L. Macgee, is former president and board chairman of Alcoa, the world's biggest aluminum company.

J. Guy Griffith, who cooked the first dinner Sept. 11, 1917, at Clara Graham's boarding house in New Kensington, Pa., and has cooked every one since, owns his own engineering company. The three others all retired as Alcoa executives.

All 15 came home from the war and returned to their jobs. There was no dinner in 1918 but they've been meeting every November since, usually on the eve of Armistice Day. No women are allowed.

Hair Removal by Electrolysis Approved by Physicians

All-over beauty requires a hair-free skin. Even the most expensive cosmetics will not conceal superfluous hair. On the contrary creams and powders emphasize hair—cling to individual hairs and make them more conspicuous!

There's one sure, easy way to take care of excess hair. Have it removed by the only PERMANENT method approved by the medical profession — Electrolysis. Modern science and specialization have been applied to Electrolysis so that now the social and business handicap of unwanted hair can be eliminated. Remember no matter how heavy the growth it can be removed permanently.

There is very little sensation involved — no more than when you pluck your brows and far LESS than the mental anguish superfluous hair causes. The cost of treatment is within the range of your beauty budget.

If you would like information concerning a particular problem, call Mr. G. E. Williams Electrologist. His office is in the Burns Building, Room 416. Phone 635-4540. Mr. Williams' office, now in its tenth year in Colorado Springs, is devoted exclusively to Electrolysis. Mr. Williams is a member of The American Electrolysis Association and has 16 years of experience in treating problem hair. Private consultation is without charge.

OPEN PARLIAMENT

The statements and opinions expressed in this column are those of the contributors and do not necessarily express opinions or convictions held by this newspaper.

Letters will not be published without the name and address of the writer. Letters must be received at least two days before publication.

Editor's note: First, we are sorry and apologize to Mr. Sencenbaugh for the fact that the October 30 and 31 issues of the Gazette Telegraph were not delivered to his home as they should have been. And, although this is in the nature of locking the barn door after the horse departed, we are sure that long before Mr. Sencenbaugh reads this someone from our Circulation Department will have been out to see him about the matter and that steps have been taken to improve future service. Again, our apologies.

As for the Bradley-Evans subject, we reported both the news of the bare facts (the report of the Bradley news conference was carried on the front page of our October 31 issue under the caption "Bradley Files Counter-Claim In Dispute") and our editorial opinion (on the editorial page) of the charges and counter-charges in general. While it is possible that the phrase "mud-slinging" may have been a poor choice of words, from Mr. Sencenbaugh's point of view, it is undeniably true that the charges of both Bradley and Evans, as with most if not all political pronouncements, were heavily larded with subtle innuendo, insinuation and veiled implications.

As a matter of fact, in the same editorial, we pointed out two local areas where Bradley, had he chosen to stand solidly on principle, could have faulted Evans on the obvious efforts of the Democratic Administration to buy local votes with "federal aid" tax money. However, hoping to win and, no doubt, looking ahead to the time when he might wish to do the same thing, Bradley chose not to make a principled stand on the immorality and corruption of "federal aid." It was much easier and, probably, more politically effective to imply that Evans was in conscious league with communism. What Evans is in conscious league with is, of course, vested-interest bureaucracy; just as Bradley would have been had he won the coveted position.

Quite frankly, we think that Businessman Paul Bradley is better off to have lost the election. He is far too good and principled a man to be corrupted by the immoral game of politics which dirties everyone and every thing it touches.

We thank Mr. Sencenbaugh for his letter and interest.

BECAUSE OF HIM

To the Editor:

A "freedom" which is not based upon the Living and written Word of God is an illusion, for, "Other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." 1 Cor. 3:11.

Only the individual and nation is "free indeed" whom the Son of God "sets free" and where the Word of God has free course, and is studied, loved, and obeyed. And, of course, only those who know and love the Lord Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour have the understanding and will to do this.

Disobedience and resistance to the Sovereignty and will of God—with its resultant lawlessness and confusion and sorrow—is no new thing. Satan and his angels fought against God in Heaven and were cast out. Now he, and his dupes, are trying the same thing on earth. "Hath God said . . .?" and "posing as angels of light," the unholy and profane undermine faith in Him and His Word, and where they have managed to gain control, they forbid men to own, or read, or preach, or teach the Bible, and honour the Lord Jesus Christ as the Saviour of mankind, and man's only hope of salvation.

God has been infinitely patient in His dealing with humanity but, just as surely as He dealt with the wicked in Noah's day, so He is going to deal with those who are destroying and corrupting the earth. Those who are not with Him are against Him. He is not asking for admiration, but obedience unto salvation. Jesus Christ is worthy of unfeigned love!

All because of Him.

WRITTEN IN SORROW

To the Editor:

Well now that the Humane Society and some few people of this region evidently are so very happy that they could come to my kennel without a court order, break two locks, one on gate and one on a door and take my little dogs, slam them into an old wet place, much smaller than the house they were in, slander my name, break one of the little dogs legs, break little Honey Bear's jaw. Little Honey Bear was a little 12 year-old long coat Chihauhua. I paid $150 for him and he came from one of the best Chi Kennels in this country. This broken bone was confirmed by Dr. Egglestonn my vet. Then my little registered Peke female gave birth to her puppies before they would return her to me and the pup that was born in the Humane Society was chilled and I have a vet bill over this. The vet can also answer. I am sure he would.

Now, dear reader, can you answer a few questions or put yourself in my place a few moments? How would you like for someone to come to your place of business, break your locks, take your stuff or property, keep it, sell it, keep the money from it and leave you without anything to make money to help you live and try to keep going? And can you answer the question of what sort of a set up we are living under? I would just like to know, because in my mind I can't figure it out. Think it over reader. I can't believe that good thinking people of this country can believe in this. No one appreciates having their name slandered and misused through the newspapers, radio and news media; think this over please.

Now then John and I have lived in your lovely city 15 years. We were sent here by the very best doctors in Oklahoma City on account of his health. No it looks as if we will have to go, since some people must be very content by slandering our name all over. You pray for us that God will lead us to the place he would be most pleased for us to be.

I am wondering how my little animals lived to be 8, 9, and 10 even 13 years old without food, water , and care and most of all loved by someone who really cared for them. Bless their little hearts, they will never adjust to strangers. But my tears never brought them back to us. But some are in their place of rest now as I requested Dr. Eggleston to put them to sleep. No one will ever know the joyful hours we spent with them and when I went to see them at the Humane Society they cried to come to me, them and myself were helpless. It can be compared in a small way to the dear mothers in this country parting with their lovely sons to go off to fight in the Vietnam war. Someday, dear mothers, we will understand why—now we see through a glass darkly. Then we shall see face to face.

My husband and John's Dad went home to his beautiful heaven from this lovely place with all God's beautiful nature around him thinking he was leaving us in a community that we would enjoy and be treated fair. But it hasn't worked out like we thought and I hope he never knows, not even on Judgement Day. But if he does, then God will wipe away all tears and we will have forgotten all our sorrows here.

I am sure my feelings and my attitude towards some people has not been Christlike but I also know that I will have to pray and ask God to forgive because His grace is sufficient for all things. Even the death of our loved ones, when all think sometimes these are unfair though yet, he knows best.

Through these means I want to thank my attorney, Mr. Dick Webster, his lovely secretary who always answered the telephone so sweet and who was kind in every way, all of my dear friends, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Vickers, Mr. and Mrs. George Robbins, Galen and Sharon, Alice Hillyer, Mrs. Brassee, Joe and Reese, God Bless them, Mr. and Mrs. Ken Anderson and girls who are my very closest neighbors who were here to help us in many ways, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Davis from Canon City who came all the way here to offer their help, my many kind friends at the church and many others who were very kind and sweet and I hope, while some who claimed to be my friends never showed up, they can help someone else in some other way sometime.

I want to thank the Open Parliament for this space and their time and for the privilege of being able to express my feelings. It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of a just and living God. Wendell Corey, Noted Movie Actor, Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Wendell Corey, who was adept at playing the good guy as well as the villain in his 30-year acting career, is dead at the age of 54.

Corey died of a liver ailment Friday in the Motion Picture Hospital in suburban Woodland Hills.

Friends said he had been ill since returning two weeks ago from making a movie in Europe.

Corey's versatility marked his career on the stage, in films and on television. He played the tough detective or the sympatetic psychiatrist, the crazed killer or the devoted husband, the cynical newsman, the brutal gangster.

The actor began acting in 1938 with the depression-spawned Federal Theater Project but it was not until 1945 that he clicked, in Elmer Rice's "Dream Girl' on Broadway.

Corey came to Hollywood in the late 1940s and piled up motion picture credits, including "The Rainmaker," "Rear Window," "Sorry, Wrong Number" and "The Search."

He had major roles in three television series, "Harbor Command," "Peck's Bad Girl" and "The 11th Hour," "Climax" and "Alfred Hitchcock Presents."

Corey became an active campaigner in national politics in the 1950s and was master of ceremonies at the 1956 and 1960 Republican National conventions.

In 1965 he was elected to the Santa Monica City Council and was a councilman until his death. He ran for Congress in 1966 but was defeated in a primary.

He had served as president of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences and was a member of its board of governors.

Corey was born in Dracut, Mass., son of a Congregational minister. He sold washing machines in a department store before becoming an actor.

Corey is survived by his widow, Alice, three daughters and a son.

New Curbs Denied in Kidnaping Case

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — Judge Daniel D. Dwyer refused Thursday to approve an order to prohibit "prejudicial pretrial publicity" in a case involving nine men charged last week with kidnaping, extortion and assault of two Model Cities employes in Wichita.

Judge Dwyer of the Sedgwick County Court of Common Pleas, also overruled a second motion by County Attorney Keith Sanborn to prohibit all attorneys, defendants or witnesses in the case from making any statements out of court on the merits or the evidence in the case.

Judge Dwyer stated that "it's an awful touchy business when courts try to restrict persons in our society from discussing matters of this kind. I'm not encouraging the news media to interrogate witnesses or counsel," he said.

"There's no reason why the news media couldn't get information from sources a lot less reliable than counsel if I make this order," the judge continued. "I think it would be in the best interests of society if the news media go to the sources most reliable rather than getting their information from the grapevine.

Bemis Taylor Art School Students Schedule Show

A group of students at the Bemis Taylor Art School for Children will show their work this week and next at the Penrose Public Library and the Colorado Springs National Bank.

Sponsored by the Family Counseling Service, the show consists of about 30 paintings and drawings with the theme "The Family." The young artists range in age from five to 11 and their teacher is Miss Helen Owen, director of the Bemis Art School and elementary art supervisor for District 11.

The school is free and open to all children through their teens. It is a part of the Colorado Springs Fine Arts Center. The new building, finished in 1968, presently accommodates 214 children in the after-school and Saturday classes which are limited to 36 students in each class.

The Family Counseling Service was founded in 1899 when it was known as the Associated Charities, which gave food, clothing and shelter to indigents. Both the name and the purpose have changed. FCS is now in the marital counseling and mental health field with a trained staff reinforced by psychiatric and psychological consultants. The organization is a member of the Family Service Association of America and the local United Fund.

Catholic War Protesters Are Sentenced

BALTIMORE, Md., (AP) — Nine Roman Catholic war protesters, including two priests have been sentenced to 2 to 3½ years in prison on convictions of burning draft board records.

Judge Roszel C. Thomsen told them: "Liberty cannot exist unless it is restrained and restricted."

The clergy and laymen, who said in their trial they acted to protest the war in Vietnam, all indicated they would file appeals. They had pleaded innocent to charges that stemmed, prosecutors said, from the storming of a draft board office in Catonsville last May, seizing records and burning them with homemade napalm.

"None of you has shown any remorse for your illegal acts. You have repeated your previous statements.

"None of us can have the freedom guaranteed to us by the constitution unless people who disagree with the policy of the government express their disagreement by legal means rather than by violation of the law," the judge said in handing down the sentences.

Defense attorney William M. Kunstler pleaded the juries should have the right to "nullify those laws that affront their consciences" and protested that he was not allowed to argue that point during the trial.

The defendants were convicted Oct. 10 by a federal grand jury.

At the hearing Friday, Thomsen said those on bail shall not leave their home areas, make speeches, preach or advocate violation of laws.

Two of the defendants, the Rev. Philip F. Berrigan, 44, Baltimore Jesuit priest, and Thomas P. Lewis, 27, a Baltimore artist, were returned to federal prison.

They were sentenced to 3½ years apiece to run concurrently with earlier six-year sentences for pouring blood on draft records in October 1967.

Sentenced to three years were: the Rev. Daniel Berrigan, brother of Philip and a Jesuit who formerly taught at Cornell University; Thomas Melville, 38, former Maryknoll priest; and George Mische, 31, a peace demonstration organizer from Washington, D.C.

Sentenced to two years were: David Darst, 27, a Christian brother who taught in a St. Louis, Mo., high school; John Hogan, a former Maryknoll brother; Melville's wire, Marjorie, 38, former Maryknoll nun, and Miss Mary Moylan, 32, a Baltimore nurse.

Some 100 sympathizers of the defendants quietly watched the proceedings inside the courtroom while outside about 50 antiwar demonstrators walked with signs, one reading: "Free the 9."

Child Survives Fall Onto Concrete Path

MAIDENHEAD, England (AP) —Michael Turner fell 18 feet Friday from his bedroom window onto a concrete path. The 20-month-old boy bounced up with only a bruise on his forehead.

His father, James Turner 32, said, "The first thing I knew was seeing something go past the kitchen window. It's an absolute miracle that he didn't break every bone in his body."

There is no longer any legal restriction to bar women in Air Force blue from general officer rank.

Shooting Death of Truck Driver Probed

DENVER (AP) — Police officers are investigating the shooting death of a Fort Collins truck driver, identified as Ronald Eugene Schlatter, 36, during an altercation in a tavern here Friday.

Police said the victim was apparently shot by an unidentified Negro woman in her 20s, who fled the tavern after the incident.

Officers quoted witnesses as saying Schlatter was playing pool in the bar when four young women sat down in a booth next to the pool table. Police said they were told the Negro woman placed her arm over the back of the booth, interfering with Schlatter's attempt to make pool shots.

Schlatter apparently shoved her arm out of the way after asking her several times to move it, and a struggle ensued. Witnesses said the woman pulled a gun and Schlatter attempted to take it, but the woman fired twice.

Police said Schlatter managed to get the gun away, staggered, fired three shots through the window, and died.

The four young women fled. Authorities said the weapon, a .22-caliber revolver, was found near Schlatter's body, and is being analyzed in the police crime laboratory.

Gun Dealers Facing More Paperwork

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's gun dealers face even more paperwork when selling firearms and ammunition after Dec. 16 than Congress called for in the Gun Control Act of 1968.

The statute as it passed Congress requires that dealers record the name, age and address of every purchaser of a gun or ammunition.

The Internal Revenue Service charged with enforcing the law, says in proposed regulations issued this week that the information is enough for ammunition purchasers, but not for buyers of weapons.

When selling a gun, storekeepers must also record place of birth, height, weight and race.

The proposed regulations will go into effect with the law Dec. 16 unless the IRS changes them.

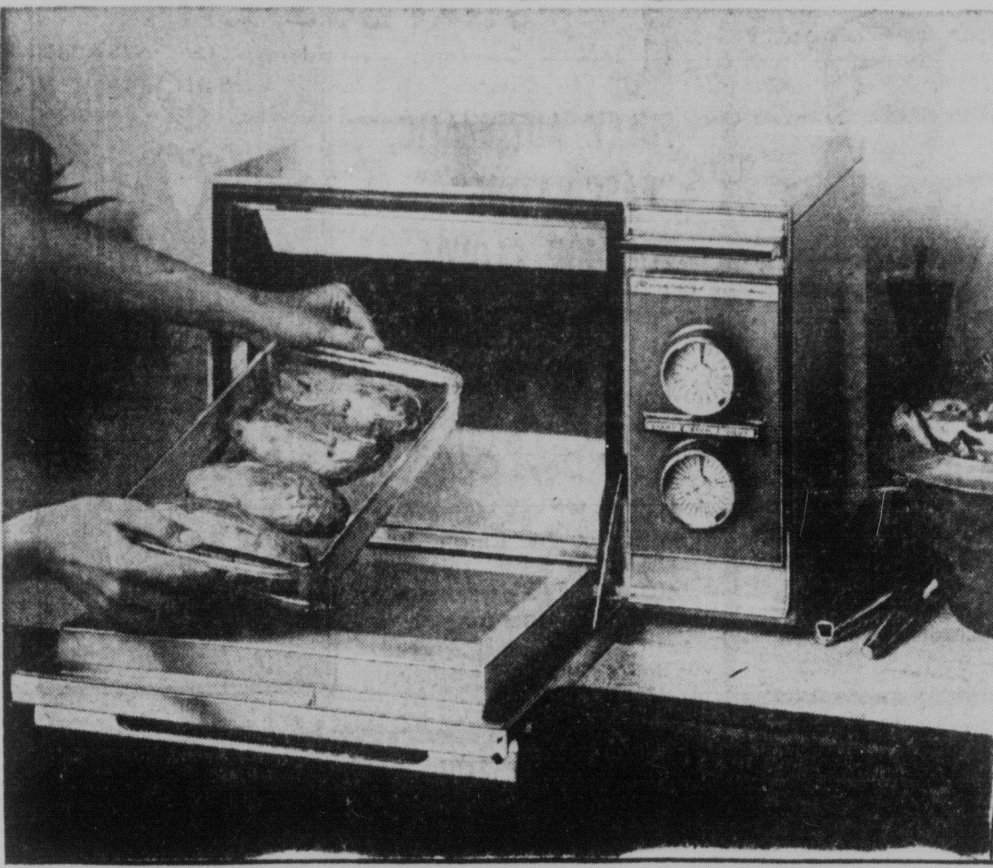
The dealers also will occasionally have to do a little over-the-counter lawyering.

The new law prohibits selling a weapon to a person from another state, unless it's an adjoining state.

Even then the sale is permissible only if the dealer knows a similar sale back in the buyer's home town would not be against the laws of his state or a county or municipal ordinance.

To guide them through this legal thicket, IRS will furnish every licensed dealer with an IRS-produced book that is touted as an encyclopaedia of every weapons law and ordinance in the country. Esitmated thickness: 200 pages.

Women in Air Force blue, serving as nurses, WAF and Biomedical Sciences Corps officers, have been assigned to jobs throughout Southeast Asia.



Speed Demon.

Push a button and you get a 4-minute baked potato. A 60-second hamburger. A well-done 5-lb. roast in 37½ minutes. And once you've cooked these speed miracles in the Amana Radarange Microwave Oven there's just no going back to long hours over a hot stove.

Amana microwave cooking means no more hot kitchen. No more impatience over thawing frozen foods. Easy after-dinner clean-ups. And no grease film on kitchen walls. The oven is compact enough (22¾" wide, 15" high, and 17¼" deep) to fit anyplace. Plugs into any 115-volt electrical outlet. And cleans with a damp cloth.

ALLEN-GOLDSMITH REPORT

Robert S. Allen

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Sen. Eugene McCarthy is extending his anti-establishment crusading to his church.

The Minnesota "peacenik," born a Roman Catholic, educated in parochial schools, including college, and a practicing member of his faith, is "actively participating" in an outdoor rally organized by the 54 dissenting ("freedom of conscience") priests of the Washington diocese.

That is the description of McCarthy's role by the Rev. John Corrigan, leader of the "54" who are challenging Patrick Cardinal O'Boyle's demand for complete obedience to Pope Paul's recent encyclical condemning birth control.

"Senator McCarthy has expressed sympathy with us," said Father Corrigan, "and we are deeply grateful to him. His support and encouragement are a great comfort and inspiration to us."

Listed as speakers at the rally are McCarthy, Father Corrigan and Mrs. Philip Hart, wife of Michigan's Democratic senator, a fervent McCarthy supporter for the Democratic presidential nomination, and chairman of the Center for Christian Renewal that is vigorously backing the dissenting priests.

McCarthy's public participation in the opposition to Cardinal O'Boyle breaks new ground for him.

While highly vocal on the Vietnam war and other foreign and domestic issues, he carefully avoided involvement in the torrid birth and population control controversy. Repeated efforts by newsmen to get a statement from him on this question in general and the Papal encyclical in particular were unavailing. He dodged all inquiries.

McCarthy's announced appearance and talk at the rally of the dissenting priests is therefore being closely watched by politicos — especially in the light of his declaration that he will not again seek office as a Democrat.

UNITY DAY — The priests' afternoon rally takes place the day before the convening in the capital of the semi-annual meeting of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops.

The gathering, designated Unity Day by its sponsors, will be held either at the Sylvan Theater on the Washington Monument grounds or at Lafayette Square, directly opposite the White House.

"The rally will be a dignified but intense paraliturgical service," said Father Corrigan. "Placards, signs and other such paraphernalia will not be permitted. Fifty-four priests in the archdiocese of Washington, in their continuing liturgy of conscience, are doing something valuable for the church in the United States and in the world."

Strenuous efforts are being made to have priests from the 28 Roman Catholic archdioceses and 122 dioceses attend both the open-air rally and an "important clergy meeting" the next afternoon and evening. Representatives of priests' councils in the diocese are urging priests in all parts of the country to come to Washington to take part in these gatherings.

While the rally is open to all creeds, the clerical sessions will be restricted to priests for the purpose of discussing the Washington dissenters' turbulent clash with Cardinal O'Boyle, which resulted in his disciplining 39 of them in varying degrees.

FAR-FLUNG PLEA — Sponsors of the Unity Day rally are the Committee for Freedom of the Church, the Washington Lay Association and the Center for Christian Renewal. Listed as "supporting organizations" are the National Association of Laymen and the National Liturgical Conference.

Primary purpose of both the rally and the clerical sessions is to prevail on the National Conference of Catholic Bishops to mediate the clash between Cardinal O'Boyle and the 54 dissenting priests who signed the "Statement of Conscience."

So far, no U.S. bishop has expressed support for the dissenters.

The only prelate who has taken a public stand, James Francis Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles, heartily approved Cardinal O'Boyle's stern crackdown on the dissenters.

Father Corrigan is hopeful the Bishops Conference will intervene.

"I can't believe that they will ignore this grievous situation and do nothing," he declared. "If they don't act, the '54' will then appeal to the Vatican."

The five Catholic organizations supporting the dissenting priests have issued a joint plea for "witness" and contributions. The four-page appeal has gone to 40,000 of the 60,000 U.S. priests and to some 90,000 Catholic laymen throughout the country.

Urging "take your place with us in a manifestation of love for and dedication to the authentic mission of Jesus Christ," the message makes "three requests of each of you and of your organizations":

"(1) Write letters of conscience yourself, supporting those who now suffer these injustices; letters to your own ordinary, the archbishop or cardinal of your province, Archbishop Dearden (president of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops), Cardinal Shehan (chairman of the bishops' committee on arbitration and mediation), and Cardinal O'Boyle.

"(2) Send contributions of money for the support of a continuing campaign of conscience, publicity, letter writing, and meetings, as well as to help suspended and evicted priests.

"(3) Come or send representatives to a mass rally in Washington, D.C., November 10, the day before the National Bishops meeting begins.

"Christian peace is not necessarily found in the absence of conflict or of tension, for these are part of the ways of progress, but rather the spirit of love in which we engage in conflict and the attitude of reconciliation with which we bear tension.

"So we ask you to make yourselves known as persons determined (in the words of the Second Vatican Council) to 'possess a lawful freedom of inquiry and thought, and the freedom to express their minds humbly and courageously about those matters in which they enjoy competence' (constitution on the church in the modern world, no. 62)."

Cardinal O'Boyle is unmoved by the dissenters' militant plans and activities. He is standing firm in his adamant insistence on complete obedience.

Following the distribution last Sunday at a number of churches in the capital of leaflets and petitions supporting the dissenting priests, some laymen were dismissed as Confraternity of Christian Doctrine teachers. A number of others have been warned of similar disciplining if they continue supporting the dissenters.

FAMILY FLASHES — Mrs. McCarthy is avoiding involvement in the tense church dispute. She will not attend the rally, and politely but firmly refuses to make any comment about the dissenting priests, the Pope's encyclical, or the question of birth control. Mrs. McCarthy explains her silence as due to her desire not to "reflect" on the church boards and organizations of which she is a member. She is one of two Catholic laywomen on the Board of Managers of the Church Women United, which is associated with the National Council of Churches.

Mrs. McCarthy has written a book on church ecumenism, and is writing another.

Senator McCarthy is also writing a book — about the U.S. political system and his recent campaign experiences. Friends say he got a $25,000 advance from the publisher. Also that the book is to be used by McCarthy's New Left backers to further their aim of launching a new party, as the standard-bearer of which, presumably, he will make another try for the White House in 1972. They are vague as to whether he will run for re-election to the Senate in 1970 under the aegis of this new party.

Income Tax Claim Against Coors Dismissed

WASHINGTON (AP) — An income tax claim against the Adolph Coors Co., for more than $6 million, has been dismissed by U.S. tax Judge J. Edgar Murdock, along with lesser Internal Revenue Service claims against Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Coors Jr., and Mrs. Joseph Coors, stockholders.

The case involved tax filings for the years 1962 through 1964.

An IRS commissioner had claimed deficiencies of $1,515,137 in 1962, $873,545 in 1963 and $4,213,516 in 1964.

Deficiencies were claimed on the joint returns of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Coors, Jr., of $7,650, $7,650 and $6,705, and by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coors of $4,939, $5,933 and $6,334 for those years.

The judge said assertions in the case were that the company earnings were accumulated in each year beyond its reasonable needs to avoid tax on its shareholders; that two beer cellars and four barley receiving stations did not qualify properly for investment credit purposes, and that costs of repairs, utilities and depreciation on a company-owned house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Coors, Jr., and depreciation on a similar house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coors were not deductible.

The judge, in rejecting all three IRS assertions, said the demand for Coors beer has exceeded production, calling for an expansion of facilities, productions and sales, and that the corporation does not borrow money. He pointed out the corporation paid $119 million in federal and state taxes during the three year period.

He said on this basis, it had no accumulated earnings beyong the reasonable needs of its business at the end of any of the years. He rejected the claims on the houses, saying occupancy by the families was important because of their active role in running the family owned business.

70 Officers at Penitentiary to Receive Honors

DENVER (AP)—Seventy correctional officers at the Colorado State Penitentiary at Canon City will be honored at the institution Wednesday for giving up days off to escort inmates participating in the 'teen crime prevention program.

Institutions Director David A. Hami will present each officer a certificate of appreciation for his volunteer efforts on behalf of the program.

Under it, inmates trained in public speaking appear before civic groups, church organizations, students and others in various communities stressing the theme, "Don't Follow Me."

Various inmate teams have traveled 200,000 miles to conduct the programs since their inception two and a half years ago. Penitentiary officials say there never has been a case of unbecoming conduct by any convict in the program.

About 29 of the officers currently are active in the activity.

Those once pretty waxed flowers can be freshened and their dirt and dust removed by dipping them up and down several times in any good dry cleaning fluid.

ARADCOM Man Gets Promotion in Rank

Edward E. Siler Jr. was promoted to the rank of Chief Warrant Officer W-4 at ceremonies presided over by Maj. Gen. Raymond L. Shoemaker, deputy commanding general, Army Air Defense Command (ARADCOM).

Siler, a veteran of World War II and Korea, came to ARADCOM last February. He is an air defense missile assembly technician in a Fire Unit Evaluation Team, Directorate of Evaluations. He has the Army Commendation Medal for duty with Hq. 6th Region ARADCOM, from October 1958 to June 1963.

The warrant officer entered the Army in 1943 and served as an enlisted man until 1957, when he was appointed a warrant officer.

Siler, his wife, and their two children live at 2008 Kodiak Drive. His mother-in-law, Mrs. Eleanor A. Springer, lives with them also.

All police agencies in Great Britain except the Metropolitan Police of London are locally controlled.

Tony Curtis Agrees To Pay Settlement

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Tony Curtis agreed to pay $8,700 as settlement of a paternity suit, court records showed Friday. Anna Margaret Menter, 18, filed the suit for support of twin sons, Jason and Justin, born Aug. 21.

Superior Court Judge Marvin A. Freeman approved the settlement at a hearing at which Curtis was neither present nor represented. An attorney for Miss Menter informed the court that Curtis had signed the agreement, and Freeman said an attorney for Curtis had called requesting that the court records on the case be sealed. Freeman denied the request.

Curtis was not available for comment.

Income Tax Claim Against Coors Dismissed

WASHINGTON (AP) — An income tax claim against the Adolph Coors Co., for more than $6 million, has been dismissed by U.S. tax Judge J. Edgar Murdock, along with lesser Internal Revenue Service claims against Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Coors Jr., and Mrs. Joseph Coors, stockholders.

The case involved tax filings for the years 1962 through 1964.

An IRS commissioner had claimed deficiencies of $1,515,137 in 1962, $873,545 in 1963 and $4,213,516 in 1964.

Deficiencies were claimed on the joint returns of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Coors, Jr., of $7,650, $7,650 and $6,705, and by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coors of $4,939, $5,933 and $6,334 for those years.

The judge said assertions in the case were that the company earnings were accumulated in each year beyond its reasonable needs to avoid tax on its shareholders; that two beer cellars and four barley receiving stations did not qualify properly for investment credit purposes, and that costs of repairs, utilities and depreciation on a company-owned house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Coors, Jr., and depreciation on a similar house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coors were not deductible.

The judge, in rejecting all three IRS assertions, said the demand for Coors beer has exceeded production, calling for an expansion of facilities, productions and sales, and that the corporation does not borrow money. He pointed out the corporation paid $119 million in federal and state taxes during the three year period.

He said on this basis, it had no accumulated earnings beyong the reasonable needs of its business at the end of any of the years. He rejected the claims on the houses, saying occupancy by the families was important because of their active role in running the family owned business.

Denverite Heads State Association

DENVER (AP) — The presidet of the First National Bank named Friday to a one-year term as president of the Colorado Association of Commerce and Industry.

He succeeds G. B. Aydelott, president of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad.

At the same time, D. H. Mathiesen, owner of the Ranch & Wholesale Supply Co., in Sterling was named president of the Colorado Retail Council (CRC), a major division of CACI.

President-elect is King D. Schwayder, president of the Samsonite Corp.

The officers were announced during the one-day joint meeting of the two organizations in Denver. They will take office Jan. 1.

Democrats Must Be Astute to Regain Power

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democratic party must fumble its way into the future by trying to make astute use of the power it kept in last week's election.

Democrats need look only at the GOP to see how far and how fast a political party can rebound from disaster. It was four years from a Democratic landslide in one presidential election to a narrow Republican victory in the next.

Premature obituaries were written for the GOP after its defeat in 1946. None has been written for the Democrats this year because Hubert H. Humphrey came closer than expected to winning the presidency and his party retained control of Congress.

Congress should provide the Democrats with their true center of power. But the Democratic leadership in Congress has become weak in the past two years, following a play-it-by-ear course and unsure what it could deliver for a Democratic administration.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield is a loyal Democrat without partisan fervor. He has never shown the tireless energy of his predecessor, Lyndon B. Johnson, who is now the retiring President. In the House, Speaker John W. McCormack, at 75, has never acquired the power and respect enjoyed by his predecessor, the late Sam Rayburn.

Even the most powerful leaders in Congress often have trouble with balky committee chairmen, who cannot be dislodged once they have been carried into their jobs by seniority.

It is an old axiom in politics that nothing promotes party unity like an election defeat.

Yet the Democrats still hear noises from disgruntled followers of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy about taking over and reshaping the party machinery. Conservative southern Democrats have been restless in the party for 30 years even while gaining and wielding power in Congress.

In planning for the future, Democrats must recognize that their old power bases have crumbled—among brass collar Democrats in the South, in the labor movement and among minority groups in the cities.

Humphrey emerges from the 1968 election as "titular leader" of his party, a title that gives him free meals at party fund-raising functions where he is expected to speak.

Those Democrats looking ahead to 1972 will keep a close watch on Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and the lately discovered Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Humphrey's running mate.

WORLDWIDE GHETTO INTEREST URGED

DETROIT (UPI) — Ghettos all over the world should get as much active Christian interest as ghettos in the United States, according to the Rev. Dr. Ben Mohr Herbster, president of the United Church of Christ.

"What we do within the ghettos here we need to do in the ghettos of Calcutta and Bombay, Tokyo and Johannesburg, Hong Kong and Buenos Aires," the Rev. Dr. Herbster told a meeting of the denomination's Executive Council. "If any one thing has become clear, it is that we are one community, and what affects people half-way around the world makes our life here better or worse."

Utah has one of the best school systems in the United States, according to the Encylclopaedia Britannica.

Stop Demanded to Begin the Beguine

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A federal suit was filed Friday in an effort to block owner-performer Frank Paban from playing "Begin the Beguine" and "Summertime" at his New Orleans nightclub.

Warner Brothers-Seven Arts, Inc. of Delaware and New Dawn Music Corp. of New York charged they were suffering "irreparable" harm because Paban plays the two songs at his "La Luna" club on Constance Street.

Warner said in the suit it owned the copyright to "Begin the Beguine" created in 1935 by Cole Porter. New Dawn said it controlled the copyright to George Gershwin's "Summertime," also written in 1935.

The suit asked that the federal district court enjoin Paban from using the songs to entertain his patrons and asked for damages of at least $250, court costs and attorneys fees.

Pipeline Gas Rate Reduction Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission announced Friday the first major pipeline natural gas rate reduction to result from its producers rate setting in the Permian Basin production area.

The FPC accepted a filing by El Paso Natural Gas Co. of El-Paso, Tex., reducing its rates to utility customers in California, Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico and Texas by a total of $7,949,177 a year.

The reduction is effective as of last Oct 31.

The El Paso reduction, however, may be wiped out next March 7 when an El Paso rate increase of some $29,7 million takes effect, unless the FPC acts against it.

Last May 1, the Supreme Court upheld the FPC's decision to fix prices on natural gas sold by producers to interstate pipelines, on a uniform basis throughout an entire producing area—in this case the Permian Basin of Texas and New Mexico.

A 1967 settlement had required El Paso to pass on to its customers any rate reductions imposed by the FPC upon its suppliers.

Denver Air Pollution Boundaries Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed boundaries that would make up the Denver region for control of air pollution were announced Friday by the National Air Pollution Control Administration.

The region would include Denver, Boulder and Jefferson counties and parts of Adams, Arapahoe and Douglas counties.

The boundaries are the same as those established by Colorado for the Denver metropolitan air basin.

A public discussion on the proposal will be held Nov 26 in the house chamber of the Capitol in Denver.

The designation of air-quality-control regions is one of the first major steps toward establishment of regional programs for control of air pollution throughout the country.

The Denver area is the fifth to be designated.

South Koreans Kill More Red Guerrillas

SEOUL (AP) —South Korean troops killed four North Korean guerrilas Saturday, bringing to 13 the number killed since a group of commandos landed on the east coast of South Korea Nov. 2, the army reported.

Another 17 members of the band are still being sought.

South Korean special forces troops in helicopters have been thrown into the search 130 miles southeast of Seoul, the army said.

The South Koreans have suffered eight killed, three of them civilians. They have captured seven submachine guns, a pistol, a camera, a pair of binoculars, 28 hand grenades and some 12,000 rounds of ammunition.

Denverite Heads State Association

DENVER (AP) — The president of the First National Bank named Friday to a one-year term as president of the Colorado Association of Commerce and Industry.

He succeeds G. B. Aydelott, president of the Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad.

At the same time, D. H. Mathiesen, owner of the Ranch & Wholesale Supply Co., in Sterling was named president of the Colorado Retail Council (CRC), a major division of CACI.

President-elect is King D. Schwayder, president of the Samsonite Corp.

The officers were announced during the one-day joint meeting of the two organizations in Denver. They will take office Jan. 1.

Democrats Must Be Astute to Regain Power

By RAYMOND LAHR

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democratic party must fumble its way into the future by trying to make astute use of the power it kept in last week's election.

Democrats need look only at the GOP to see how far and how fast a political party can rebound from disaster. It was four years from a Democratic landslide in one presidential election to a narrow Republican victory in the next.

Premature obituaries were written for the GOP after its defeat in 1946. None has been written for the Democrats this year because Hubert H. Humphrey came closer than expected to winning the presidency and his party retained control of Congress.

Congress should provide the Democrats with their true center of power. But the Democratic leadership in Congress has become weak in the past two years, following a play-it-by-ear course and unsure what it could deliver for a Democratic administration.

Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield is a loyal Democrat without partisan fervor. He has never shown the tireless energy of his predecessor, Lyndon B. Johnson, who is now the retiring President. In the House, Speaker John W. McCormack, at 75, has never acquired the power and respect enjoyed by his predecessor, the late Sam Rayburn.

Even the most powerful leaders in Congress often have trouble with balky committee chairmen, who cannot be dislodged once they have been carried into their jobs by seniority.

It is an old axiom in politics that nothing promotes party unity like an election defeat.

Yet the Democrats still hear noises from disgruntled followers of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy about taking over and reshaping the party machinery. Conservative southern Democrats have been restless in the party for 30 years even while gaining and wielding power in Congress.

In planning for the future, Democrats must recognize that their old power bases have crumbled—among brass collar Democrats in the South, in the labor movement and among minority groups in the cities.

Humphrey emerges from the 1968 election as "titular leader" of his party, a title that gives him free meals at party fund-raising functions where he is expected to speak.

Those Democrats looking ahead to 1972 will keep a close watch on Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts and the lately discovered Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, Humphrey's running mate.

WORLDWIDE GHETTO INTEREST URGED

DETROIT (UPI) — Ghettos all over the world should get as much active Christian interest as ghettos in the United States, according to the Rev. Dr. Ben Mohr Herbster, president of the United Church of Christ.

"What we do within the ghettos here we need to do in the ghettos of Calcutta and Bombay, Tokyo and Johannesburg, Hong Kong and Buenos Aires," the Rev. Dr. Herbster told a meeting of the denomination's Executive Council. "If any one thing has become clear, it is that we are one community, and what affects people half-way around the world makes our life here better or worse."

Utah has one of the best school systems in the United States, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Stop Demanded to Begin the Beguine

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — A federal suit was filed Friday in an effort to block owner-performer Frank Paban from playing "Begin the Beguine" and "Summertime" at his New Orleans nightclub.

Warner Brothers-Seven Arts, Inc. of Delaware and New Dawn Music Corp. of New York charged they were suffering "irreparable" harm because Paban plays the two songs at his "La Luna" club on Constance Street.

Warner said in the suit it owned the copyright to "Begin the Beguine" created in 1935 by Cole Porter. New Dawn said it controlled the copyright to George Gershwin's "Summertime," also written in 1935.

The suit asked that the federal district court enjoin Paban from using the songs to entertain his patrons and asked for damages of at least $250, court costs and attorneys fees.

Pipeline Gas Rate Reduction Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission announced Friday the first major pipeline natural gas rate reduction to result from its producers rate setting in the Permian Basin production area.

The FPC accepted a filing by El Paso Natural Gas Co. of El-Paso, Tex., reducing its rates to utility customers in California, Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico and Texas by a total of $7,949,177 a year.

The reduction is effective as of last Oct 31.

The El Paso reduction, however, may be wiped out next March 7 when an El Paso rate increase of some $29,7 million takes effect, unless the FPC acts against it.

Last May 1, the Supreme Court upheld the FPC's decision to fix prices on natural gas sold by producers to interstate pipelines, on a uniform basis throughout an entire producing area—in this case the Permian Basin of Texas and New Mexico.

A 1967 settlement had required El Paso to pass on to its customers any rate reductions imposed by the FPC upon its suppliers.

Denver Air Pollution Boundaries Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed boundaries that would make up the Denver region for control of air pollution were announced Friday by the National Air Pollution Control Administration.

The region would include Denver, Boulder and Jefferson counties and parts of Adams, Arapahoe and Douglas counties.

The boundaries are the same as those established by Colorado for the Denver metropolitan air basin.

A public discussion on the proposal will be held Nov 26 in the house chamber of the Capitol in Denver.

The designation of air-quality-control regions is one of the first major steps toward establishment of regional programs for control of air pollution throughout the country.

The Denver area is the fifth to be designated.

South Koreans Kill More Red Guerrillas

SEOUL (AP) —South Korean troops killed four North Korean guerrilas Saturday, bringing to 13 the number killed since a group of commandos landed on the east coast of South Korea Nov. 2, the army reported.

Another 17 members of the band are still being sought.

South Korean special forces troops in helicopters have been thrown into the search 130 miles southeast of Seoul, the army said.

The South Koreans have suffered eight killed, three of them civilians. They have captured seven submachine guns, a pistol, a camera, a pair of binoculars, 28 hand grenades and some 12,000 rounds of ammunition.

Robert Packwood Known Better Now in Oregon

By FRANK WETZEL
Associated Press Writer

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "When I announced I was running in February, 10 per cent of the people in Oregon knew me by name," says Robert Packwood.

Today he's better known. He received 405,573 votes to 402,35 for the Democratic incumbent, Wayne Morse, in Tuesday's election and in January Packwood will take office as the youngest U.S. senator.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass, also is 36, but he was born Feb. 22, 1932, and Packwood wasn't born until Sept. 11 of that year.

Packwood comes from the same Kennedy-Charles Percy-Mark Hatfield mold. He looks like the All-American boy: slender, regular features, creased brow.

The dark-haired Republican also is articulate, highly organized, and a completely political man.

"You comment to him or his wife that it's a nice day," said someone not friendly to Packwood, "and they will say, 'Yes, it would be a good day to hold the election'."

But Packwood had never run a statewide campaign until the May primary, in which he was unopposed. Most people thought he was running to gain name familiarity.

"The primary didn't solve the name familiarity problem," says Packwood. "I don't think we really turned the corner until about August. It's something you sense. After that, I could talk more about issues, and people would connect me and the issues."

Most observers thought Morse would beat Packwood, until their televised debate before the City Club in Portland on October 25.

At that time Packwood used the classic tactic of turning his opponent's words on him.

Morse opened his remarks by saying he could exert great influence and power for Oregon because of his 24 years of Senate seniority.

Said Packwood later in the debate:

"Let me take you back about 14 years to a quote from Sen. Morse: 'Never confuse seniority with ability because when you go to the mat, ability will win every time. When you've got a chance to replace an incumbent U.S. senator, even if he is a committee chairman, with a dynamic young legislative leader, take that opportunity.

"That's when he was supporting Dick Neuberger against Guy Cordon."

Czech Newsmen Indignant About Censors

By JAMES O. JACKSON

PRAGUE (UPI)—Czechoslovakia's journalists, restless under the limitations of a new censorship law, reacted with indignation today over the suspension of a magazine.

The suspension of the magazine "Reporter" was the first publicly announced use of the laws penalty provisions.

Newsmen in most of Prague's publishing houses and broadcast studios protesting the government's action in banning for one month publication of "Reporter", which often has printed reformist views and indicted criticism of the Aug. 21 Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Some journalists said the decision to ban the journal instead of merely reprimanding its editors was made partly because of nationwide anti-soviet protests on the anniversary of the Russian revolution Thursday. Red Hammer and Sickle flags were burned during disturbances in at least four major cities.

An interior ministry report on the disturbances listed 167 arrests in Prague alone. It acknowledged that "irresponsible groups" tore and burned Soviet flags and chanted and wrote anti-Soviet slogans.

Journalism sources said the office of press and information decided on a reprimand of "Reporter's" editors before the disturbances but switched to the suspension action early Friday. A council that includes senior editors of the major news outlets has the responsibility for setting punishments.

In a balancing action the public prosecutor in Prague declared that the pro-Soviet newspaper "Zpravy," published in Czech and distributed by Soviet troops, may no longer be passed out in Czechoslovakia. The office of information could not ban the publication of "Zapravy" because it is published in East Germany.

The suspension of "Reporter" was the first publicly announced punishment under a censorship law approved in September as part of a Soviet-dictated agreement. But authorities have quietly confiscated at least two issues of the magazine "Politika" for removal of offending articles, and at least one journalist, "Politika's" editor, has been called in for a reprimand.

Other penalties available to the office include fines and permanent closing down of publications.

Russian Desertions Labeled as Hoax

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Police said today information received "from a reliable source" that five Soviet soldiers had deserted to Sweden was a hoax.

There are no Soviet deserters in Sweden, a police spokesman said.

On Friday an informant told police he knew of five Soviet soldiers who arrived in Sweden after deserting from their unit in Czechoslovakia. The informant said he was a Soviet citizen who defected to Sweden some years go.

Criminal Assistant Hans Olsen reported: "We have been told by our informant today that he had become the victim of a hoax."

Cuban Poet Accused Of Anti-Castro Move

HAVANA (AP) — A Cuban poet has been accused of turning out antigovernment poems that helped the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. The attack was part of Fidel Castro's campaign against dissident intellectuals.

Poet Herbert Padilla, who won this year's national poetry prize from the Union of Cuban Artists and Writers, was denounced along with a "handful of discontented" writers by the official military journal Verde Olivo—Olive Green.

Changing Guard Beginning in Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The changing of the guard has begun.

During the same week in which his successor was elected, President Johnson has accepted resignations from the first top-level men in his administration.

More are expected, the White House indicated today, as Johnson begins the transition from his government to that of Republican President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler and Nicholas Deb. Katzenbach, undersecretary of state, resigned Friday.

Fowler, in a letter of resignation to the president, said he would be available to Johnson and any officials of his administration to help with the transition to the Nixon administration. But he said he wants to leave before Christmas so he can "make some definite personal decisions for private life."

Katzenbach, in a similar letter, said he would resign at Johnson's pleasure, but that he wanted his intentions made public so he, too, could make plans for his future.

State Department officials disclosed that Katzenbach plans to take a position with International Business Machines (IBM) as vice president and general counsel. The officials said the date of Katzenbach's new job had not yet been set.

Katzenbach was assistant and deputy attorney general under Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, and was named Attorney General by President Johnson in 1965. He subsequently was shifted to the state department as undersecretary of state when George Ball quit to return to his private law practice.

MISTAKEN

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — When it appeared a man was about to jump from atop the 14-story Fort Worth National Bank Building Friday, 15 police units, a fire department hook-and-ladder unit and a chaplain roared to the scene.

Police Capt. L. E. Woods, a specialist in talking persons out of jumping off buildings, was summoned. Police learned the man was a workman waving to a police cadet not to put a ticket on his auto's windshield.

Robert Packwood Known Better Now in Oregon

By FRANK WETZEL
Associated Press Writer

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "When I announced I was running in February, 10 per cent of the people in Oregon knew me by name," says Robert Packwood.

Today he's better known. He received 405,573 votes to 402,35 for the Democratic incumbent, Wayne Morse, in Tuesday's election and in January Packwood will take office as the youngest U.S. senator.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass, also is 36, but he was born Feb. 22, 1932, and Packwood wasn't born until Sept. 11 of that year.

Packwood comes from the same Kennedy-Charles Percy-Mark Hatfield mold. He looks like the All-American boy: slender, regular features, creased brow.

The dark-haired Republican also is articulate, highly organized, and a completely political man.

"You comment to him or his wife that it's a nice day," said someone not friendly to Packwood, "and they will say, 'Yes, it would be a good day to hold the election'."

But Packwood had never run a statewide campaign until the May primary, in which he was unopposed. Most people thought he was running to gain name familiarity.

"The primary didn't solve the name familiarity problem," says Packwood. "I don't think we really turned the corner until about August. It's something you sense. After that, I could talk more about issues, and people would connect me and the issues."

Most observers thought Morse would beat Packwood, until their televised debate before the City Club in Portland on October 25.

At that time Packwood used the classic tactic of turning his opponent's words on him.

Morse opened his remarks by saying he could exert great influence and power for Oregon because of his 24 years of Senate seniority.

Said Packwood later in the debate:

"Let me take you back about 14 years to a quote from Sen. Morse: 'Never confuse seniority with ability because when you go to the mat, ability will win every time. When you've got a chance to replace an incumbent U.S. senator, even if he is a committee chairman, with a dynamic young legislative leader, take that opportunity.

Cuban Poet Accused Of Anti-Castro Move

HAVANA (AP) — A Cuban poet has been accused of turning out antigovernment poems that helped the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency. The attack was part of Fidel Castro's campaign against dissident intellectuals.

Poet Herbert Padilla, who won this year's national poetry prize from the Union of Cuban Artists and Writers, was denounced along with a "handful of discontented" writers by the official military journal Verde Olivo—Olive Green.

Changing Guard Beginning in Washington, D.C.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The changing of the guard has begun.

During the same week in which his successor was elected, President Johnson has accepted resignations from the first top-level men in his administration.

More are expected, the White House indicated today, as Johnson begins the transition from his government to that of Republican President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

Treasury Secretary Henry H. Fowler and Nicholas Deb. Katzenbach, undersecretary of state, resigned Friday.

Fowler, in a letter of resignation to the president, said he would be available to Johnson and any officials of his administration to help with the transition to the Nixon administration. But he said he wants to leave before Christmas so he can "make some definite personal decisions for private life."

Katzenbach, in a similar letter, said he would resign at Johnson's pleasure, but that he wanted his intentions made public so he, too, could make plans for his future.

State Department officials disclosed that Katzenbach plans to take a position with International Business Machines (IBM) as vice president and general counsel. The officials said the date of Katzenbach's new job had not yet been set.

Katzenbach was assistant and deputy attorney general under Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, and was named Attorney General by President Johnson in 1965. He subsequently was shifted to the state department as undersecretary of state when George Ball quit to return to his private law practice.

MISTAKEN

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — When it appeared a man was about to jump from atop the 14-story Fort Worth National Bank Building Friday, 15 police units, a fire department hook-and-ladder unit and a chaplain roared to the scene.

Police Capt. L. E. Woods, a specialist in talking persons out of jumping off buildings, was summoned. Police learned the man was a workman waving to a police cadet not to put a ticket on his auto's windshield.

Czech Newsmen Indignant About Censors

By JAMES O. JACKSON

PRAGUE (UPI)—Czechoslovakia's journalists, restless under the limitations of a new censorship law, reacted with indignation today over the suspension of a magazine.

The suspension of the magazine "Reporter" was the first publicly announced use of the laws penalty provisions.

Newsmen in most of Prague's publishing houses and broadcast studios protesting the government's action in banning for one month publication of "Reporter", which often has printed reformist views and indicted criticism of the Aug. 21 Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Some journalists said the decision to ban the journal instead of merely reprimanding its editors was made partly because of nationwide anti-soviet protests on the anniversary of the Russian revolution Thursday. Red Hammer and Sickle flags were burned during disturbances in at least four major cities.

An interior ministry report on the disturbances listed 167 arrests in Prague alone. It acknowledged that "irresponsible groups" tore and burned Soviet flags and chanted and wrote anti-Soviet slogans.

Journalism sources said the office of press and information decided on a reprimand of "Reporter's" editors before the disturbances but switched to the suspension action early Friday. A council that includes senior editors of the major news outlets has the responsibility for setting punishments.

In a balancing action the public prosecutor in Prague declared that the pro-Soviet newspaper "Zpravy," published in Czech and distributed by Soviet troops, may no longer be passed out in Czechoslovakia. The office of information could not ban the publication of "Zapravy" because it is published in East Germany.

The suspension of "Reporter" was the first publicly announced punishment under a censorship law approved in September as part of a Soviet-dictated agreement. But authorities have quietly confiscated at least two issues of the magazine "Politika" for removal of offending articles, and at least one journalist, "Politika's" editor, has been called in for a reprimand.

Other penalties available to the office include fines and permanent closing down of publications.

Russian Desertions Labeled as Hoax

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Police said today information received "from a reliable source" that five Soviet soldiers had deserted to Sweden was a hoax.

There are no Soviet deserters in Sweden, a police spokesman said.

On Friday an informant told police he knew of five Soviet soldiers who arrived in Sweden after deserting from their unit in Czechoslovakia. The informant said he was a Soviet citizen who defected to Sweden some years go.

Criminal Assistant Hans Olsen reported: "We have been told by our informant today that he had become the victim of a hoax."

French Bishops Okay Birth Control Plan

LOURDES, France (AP) — French Roman Catholic couples will be able to make their own decisions on birth control, the French Assembly of Bishops ruled Friday in a 10-page pastoral letter.

The statement said contraception is "always a disorder, but this disorder is not always sinful."

School Officials See Slow Court Suits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of the federal school desegregation program argue its transfer to the Justice Department could subordinate the federal-money-cutoff tool to slow court suits.

"This would put us right back where we were in 1964," one source said Friday. He referred to the Civil Rights Act under which school systems are threatened with loss of federal funds if they do not comply with federal desegregation guidelines.

Wilbur J. Cohen, secretary of health, education and welfare, confirmed at a press conference earlier in the day he is considering transfer of the program to the Justice Department but did not elaborate.

Cohen reportedly proposed in a report to the Budget Bureau last week that all HEW civil rights compliance activities be coordinated by Justice officials because they have become a matter of law enforcement.

Officials of HEW's Office for Civil Rights refused to comment. But sources said they believed the move would hurt the federal effort to end school discrimination in both the North and South.

They said they think Cohen wants to get rid of the controversial program because it has often endangered congressional approval of funds for other HEW programs.

Pueblo Man's Death Ruled Non-Felonious

PUEBLO (AP) — A coroner's jury Friday ruled there was no felonious intent in the death of a 37-year old Pueblo man, Manuel Eugene Alverson, Nov. 1

Officers said Alverson was found shot to death in a south Pueblo motel after he and his 31-year old wife, Frances, had argued.

Mrs. Alverson testified Friday she and her husband had struggled for possession of a gun, and the weapon discharged, striking her husband.

Candidate Says He Didn't Lose All

BUTLER, Mo. (AP) — Floyd Dunham, unsuccessful candidate for election as Bates County sheriff, didn't lose everything.

He heard about an offer made before the election by Bob Gunn, Adrian, Mo., publisher and printer. Gunn offered to refund a portion of campaign printing costs to unsuccessful political candidates.

Dunham applied for a refund and got it—$3.50.

Terms Are Not Clearly Shown In Paris Meet

By K.C. THALER

PARIS (UPI)—The serious deadlock in the Vietnam talks has been caused by the failure to spell out clearly in advance the terms for the projected peace negotiations.

The understanding reached between President Johnson and Hanoi last month has, it emerges, been couched in vague and imprecise terms.

The agreement laid down the basic rules for turning the nearly six-month-old stalled Paris conference into a definitive peace parley. Its details have not been released to date.

But diplomats close to the conference claim it is the lack of precision of this accord which has enabled Hanoi, for instance, to insist now that the National Liberation Front of South Vitnam (NLF), the Viet Cong's political arm, would participate in the Paris negotiations as a seperate entity and a full partner. Hanoi thereby tries to read into the agreement the implicit de facto American recognition of the NLF.

The United States says it did not intend to allow the Viet Cong this role especially in the light of the known opposition of the Saigon government to such course.

At the same time, the vagueness of the agreement has been reflected by the apparently unexpected reservations of the Saigon regime which have since emerged, blocking the conference, with no immediate solution in sight.

The fact is that there is no written agreement on the terms approved between the United States and Hanoi for getting the Paris conference going. These conditions were hammered out in long exchanges and in a variety of contacts, during which "some pieces of paper" outlining draft suggestions have been passed without finally being formulated in a written agreement.

The Saigon veto which currently blocks the Paris conference is in it's turn being blamed on alleged American failure to get a solid advance commitment on South Vietnamese government participation in the expanded conference.

Some blame it on haste, some on an unexpected change of heart on the part of President Nuyen Van Thieu, some on a misunderstanding and some finally on wishfuul thinking of Americans who had expected Saigon to accept after initially playing hard to get.

Two Commandos Pose French Legal Problem

PARIS (UPI)—Two "commandos for Greece" who turned an Athens-bound jetliner back to anti-Greek regime pamphlets among its 130 passengers, posed legal problems today for France.

Umbrto Giovine, 27, and Maurizio Painichi, 24, both Italians, were arrested immediately as they stepped off the commandeered Olympic Airlines 707 at Orly Airport.

The problem was that France did not know exactly what charges to file against the men. Their caper was not technically a hijack, and the guns and handgrenades they brandished were duds.

But French legal sources said they would most likely face charges of armed assault, even though their pistols were not loaded.

The two men waved the pistols and grenades shortly after the plane took off from Orly for Athens, and ordered the pilot to fly back to Paris. As he did, they passed out pamphlets saying their mission "Is part of a program of sabotage against the Fascist regime which serves in Greece."

Giovine and Panichi told the passengers they were "commandos for Greece." One of the passengers was Alexander Onassis, son of Aristotle Onassis, owner of the airline and husband of former Jacqueline Kennedy.

New Trial Asked by Chief of Minutemen

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A motion asking a new trial for Robert Bolivar DePugh, national coordinator of the minutemen organization, and for one of his aides, has been filed in U.S. District Court.

Calvin K. Hamilton, U.S. attorney, asked the court to try DePugh and Walter P. Peyson on a charge that they illegally possessed an unlawfully manufactured .50 caliber submachine gun.

Both DePugh and Peyson are fugitives. In September, the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis reversed their convictions of conspiracy to violate the firearms act by transferring and making firearms without paying federal tax. Also reversed were convictions of possession of unregistered firearms.

The appeals court ordered a new trial on a count charging DePugh and Peyson with possession of a machine gun.

DePugh and Peyson are being sought in connection with an indictment returned in Seattle charging them with conspiring to rob banks in that area.

Runaway Boy's Life Is in Balance

Police have been searching for 18-year-old William P. Kakstys of Linden, since he and Jean Sahagan, 15, of Cranford left home July 10 without telling their parents.

However, their efforts were intensified after receiving a letter Friday from Dr. William O. Wuester, a specialist from the Wuester Tumor Clinic in Elizabeth, N.J. He said the boy "has a low-grade tumor in his left hand which is malignant." Wuester said in his letter to the Union County prosecutor's office and the boy's parents that unless the hand is treated William's life "is in great jeopardy" because the malignancy will spread throughout the body.

School Officials See Slow Court Suits

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of the federal school desegregation program argue its transfer to the Justice Department could subordinate the federal-money-cutoff tool to slow court suits.

"This would put us right back where we were in 1964," one source said Friday. He referred to the Civil Rights Act under which school systems are threatened with loss of federal funds if they do not comply with federal desegregation guidelines.

Wilbur J. Cohen, secretary of health, education and welfare, confirmed at a press conference earlier in the day he is considering transfer of the program to the Justice Department but did not elaborate.

Cohen reportedly proposed in a report to the Budget Bureau last week that all HEW civil rights compliance activities be coordinated by Justice officials because they have become a matter of law enforcement.

Officials of HEW's Office for Civil Rights refused to comment. But sources said they believed the move would hurt the federal effort to end school discrimination in both the North and South.

They said they think Cohen wants to get rid of the controversial program because it has often endangered congressional approval of funds for other HEW programs.

Pueblo Man's Death Ruled Non-Felonious

PUEBLO (AP) — A coroner's jury Friday ruled there was no felonious intent in the death of a 37-year old Pueblo man, Manuel Eugene Alverson, Nov. 1

Officers said Alverson was found shot to death in a south Pueblo motel after he and his 31-year old wife, Frances, had argued.

Mrs. Alverson testified Friday she and her husband had struggled for possession of a gun, and the weapon discharged, striking her husband.

Candidate Says He Didn't Lose All

BUTLER, Mo. (AP) — Floyd Dunham, unsuccessful candidate for election as Bates County sheriff, didn't lose everything.

He heard about an offer made before the election by Bob Gunn, Adrian, Mo., publisher and printer. Gunn offered to refund a portion of campaign printing costs to unsuccessful political candidates.

Dunham applied for a refund and got it—$3.50.

Terms Are Not Clearly Shown In Paris Meet

By K.C. THALER

PARIS (UPI)—The serious deadlock in the Vietnam talks has been caused by the failure to spell out clearly in advance the terms for the projected peace negotiations.

The understanding reached between President Johnson and Hanoi last month has, it emerges, been couched in vague and imprecise terms.

The agreement laid down the basic rules for turning the nearly six-month-old stalled Paris conference into a definitive peace parley. Its details have not been released to date.

But diplomats close to the conference claim it is the lack of precision of this accord which has enabled Hanoi, for instance, to insist now that the National Liberation Front of South Vitnam (NLF), the Viet Cong's political arm, would participate in the Paris negotiations as a seperate entity and a full partner. Hanoi thereby tries to read into the agreement the implicit de facto American recognition of the NLF.

The United States says it did not intend to allow the Viet Cong this role especially in the light of the known opposition of the Saigon government to such course.

At the same time, the vagueness of the agreement has been reflected by the apparently unexpected reservations of the Saigon regime which have since emerged, blocking the conference, with no immediate solution in sight.

The fact is that there is no written agreement on the terms approved between the United States and Hanoi for getting the Paris conference going. These conditions were hammered out in long exchanges and in a variety of contacts, during which "some pieces of paper" outlining draft suggestions have been passed without finally being formulated in a written agreement.

The Saigon veto which currently blocks the Paris conference is in it's turn being blamed on alleged American failure to get a solid advance commitment on South Vietnamese government participation in the expanded conference.

Some blame it on haste, some on an unexpected change of heart on the part of President Nuyen Van Thieu, some on a misunderstanding and some finally on wishfuul thinking of Americans who had expected Saigon to accept after initially playing hard to get.

Two Commandos Pose French Legal Problem

PARIS (UPI)—Two "commandos for Greece" who turned an Athens-bound jetliner back to anti-Greek regime pamphlets among its 130 passengers, posed legal problems today for France.

Umbrto Giovine, 27, and Maurizio Painichi, 24, both Italians, were arrested immediately as they stepped off the commandeered Olympic Airlines 707 at Orly Airport.

The problem was that France did not know exactly what charges to file against the men. Their caper was not technically a hijack, and the guns and handgrenades they brandished were duds.

But French legal sources said they would most likely face charges of armed assault, even though their pistols were not loaded.

The two men waved the pistols and grenades shortly after the plane took off from Orly for Athens, and ordered the pilot to fly back to Paris. As he did, they passed out pamphlets saying their mission "Is part of a program of sabotage against the Fascist regime which serves in Greece."

Giovine and Panichi told the passengers they were "commandos for Greece." One of the passengers was Alexander Onassis, son of Aristotle Onassis, owner of the airline and husband of former Jacqueline Kennedy.

New Trial Asked by Chief of Minutemen

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A motion asking a new trial for Robert Bolivar DePugh, national coordinator of the minutemen organization, and for one of his aides, has been filed in U.S. District Court.

Calvin K. Hamilton, U.S. attorney, asked the court to try DePugh and Walter P. Peyson on a charge that they illegally possessed an unlawfully manufactured .50 caliber submachine gun.

Both DePugh and Peyson are fugitives. In September, the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals in St. Louis reversed their convictions of conspiracy to violate the firearms act by transferring and making firearms without paying federal tax. Also reversed were convictions of possession of unregistered firearms.

The appeals court ordered a new trial on a count charging DePugh and Peyson with possession of a machine gun.

DePugh and Peyson are being sought in connection with an indictment returned in Seattle charging them with conspiring to rob banks in that area.

Runaway Boy's Life Is in Balance

Police have been searching for 18-year-old William P. Kakstys of Linden, since he and Jean Sahagan, 15, of Cranford left home July 10 without telling their parents.

However, their efforts were intensified after receiving a letter Friday from Dr. William O. Wuester, a specialist from the Wuester Tumor Clinic in Elizabeth, N.J. He said the boy "has a low-grade tumor in his left hand which is malignant." Wuester said in his letter to the Union County prosecutor's office and the boy's parents that unless the hand is treated William's life "is in great jeopardy" because the malignancy will spread throughout the body.

'Most Veteran Veterans' In Carson Civil Service

On this Veterans' Day, four of the region's most veteran veterans are employed in Civil Service at Ft. Carson. Each has more than 40 years in federal service.

Of the four, who have an aggregate total of 103 years in the military, George Cardwell, coal yard superintendent, has perhaps had the most colorful career.

Cardwell was a member of the U. S. force which helped to rescue the Czech regiment engaged in aiding the White Russians during the Russian Revolution, 1917-1920. Allied forces from the U. S. England and Japan cooperated in this venture.

Cardwell, who is a native Coloradoan, enlisted in 1919 at the age of 17. There were approximately 6,000 American troops in the 60,000-man force which massed along a 2,000-mile span of the Trans-Siberian Railroad, the only supply line into Siberia from Vladivostok. The U. S. units involved were the 27th and 31st Infantry Regiments.

A thousand miles inside Siberia, the mercury sometimes dropped as low as 50 degrees below zero, and the high reached was minus 20.

Other military assignments for Cardwell included a tour in the Philippines, varied Stateside tours, and duty in Europe in World War II. He holds the Bronze Star Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster, and retired at Fort Carson in February 1950 as a master sergeant in the 14th Infantry.

William G. Castle, a warehouseman in Adjutant General Publications Section, entered the Army in 1927. He was assigned to the 76th Field Artillery in Wyoming, and later saw action with the 3d Division in Tunisia, Sicily, Italy and Southern France. He was with the First Army in Holland, Belgium and Germany.

Castle retired at Ft. Carson in 1948 and worked in Civil Service at Fort Riley, Kans, until 1955. He was recalled to active duty in May 1955 and released at Ft. Carson in May 1957. He has worked at AG Publications since September 1960.

William C. Shrewsbury, a warehouseman for Installation Supply, enlisted in the Army in 1927 and was assigned to the 4th Infantry Division. He served during World War II with the 2d and 9th Armored Divisions in Europe, participating in the Normandy invasion and the Northern France, Ardennes, Rhineland and Central Europe campaigns. He received a citation from the Belgian government for action during the V-bomb warfare.

Stationed at Ft. Carson from 1946 to 1952, he went to Korea with the 59th Ordinance and returned for Ft. Carson for retirement in April 1953.

He entered Civil Service the following January and was a supervisor in the Ordnance Automotive and Weapons Storage Division from 1955 to 1965.

Fourth member of the quartet is Floyd Perkins, a fitter at the Clothing Sales Store in Installation Supply. He joined the Army in 1920 and entered Civil Service 30 years later.

After various Stateside assignments, he went overseas in time for the North African campaign. He retired in 1944, worked in Civil Service at several Army installations and transferred to Ft. Carson in 1962.

All four of these 40-year veterans are married, and all live in Colorado Springs. Among their listed hobbies are hunting, fishing and gardening, which may account for their choice of retirement homes.

Tax on Commuters 'Unconstitutional'

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — The City of San Francisco's proposed 1 per cent income tax on commuters is unconstitutional, Judge Lincoln F. Mahan ruled Friday. Mayor Joseph Alioto said in San Francisco the decision may be appealed or the ordinance revised to tax all persons working in that city, residents as well as commuters.

Mahan held that an income tax on commuters was discriminatory and that the state had pre-empted the income tax field. Alioto did not comment on the pre-emption ruling.

Police Holding Springs Man in Shooting Probe

A 27-year-old Colorado Springs man was being held in the city jail for investigation of assault with a deadly weapon Saturday as the result of a shooting scrape which occurred after an argument over a stereo tape deck for an automobile.

The shot which was reported to have been fired missed the intended victim and he fled in his automobile later turning up in Pueblo. He returned to Colorado Springs Saturday and gave officers his side of the story.

The altercation occurred Friday afternoon in a storage parking lot of the Daniels Motor Co., 105 N. Weber St. The man being held worked at the firm as a used car reconditioning man while the other was a car washer.

The man under arrest denied firing at the car washer but other employes said they heard a shot, looked out to see him waving a .32 calibre pistol while the other, the car washer, had ducked behind an automobile.

The man with the gun allegedly returned to the garage and was working on a car when he was arrested by Officer D. M. Riley. Riley and Officers Tomothy Alvine and Ernest Adams later found a .32 calibre revolver in a barrel in the garage which was filled with sawdust, used to absorb grease on the floor.

When he returned to Colorado Springs Saturday, the intended victim said he fled the scene in fear of his life. He said he and the other worker had argued over the tape deck and twice went into the lot to fight one another. In between the fights, the man being held allegedly went to his home to pick up the revolver.

Nat'l Guard Units Meeting At ARADCOM

Army National Guard units are a vital part of the inner ring of air defense provided by the Army Air Defense Command (ARADCOM).

Representatives from 17 states providing National Guard missile units to ARADCOM are meeting in Colorado Springs through Friday to discuss their role in defense of major U. S. centers of population and industry.

The conference provides a means for exchanging opinions, developing ideas, and advising Guard personnel of ARADCOM's current and future plans on air defense.

States represented include Rhode Island, Connecticut, Texas, Ohio, New Jersey, Virginia, Washington, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Missouri, Calfoirnia, Massachusetts, Maryland, Hawaii, and New York.

Attending from the National Guard Bureau in Washington is Brig. Gen. L. C. Ward, assistant chief, National Guard Bureau, Army.

Army National Guard units were the first U.S. reserve forces equipped with modern surface-to-air guided missiles. Conversion from conventional antiaircraft weapons to missiles began in 1957 and by September 1958 the first Guard missile battalion was integrated into the active air defense mission.

Guardsmen assume full operational responsibility for manning their sites around the clock. Full-time technicians man the equipment 24 hours a day. This cadre is capable of initiating effective fire without additional help. Remaining unit members are citizens of the communtiy who keep up their military skills by attending regular drills. In event of an air attack, they would report immediately to their Nike sites.

Police Continue Robbery Probe

Police Saturday were continuing their search for a youthful gunman who Friday held up the Miller's Supermarket at 501 E. Pikes Peak Ave., and fled with a reported $500 to $600.

The gunman was estimated to be about 18 years of age, black hair, about five feet eight inches tall and wearing a black jacket.

The bandit approached the check cashing counter where Marjorie Stansbury was on duty about noon, handed her a brown paper bag on which was written "this is a stickup; put all the bills in the bag."

She did as she was told and was then ordered to lie on the floor while the young gunman fled.

Can A Newspaper Be Beneficial Or Harmful To The Subscriber?

Can and should a newspaper do more to promote your peace, happiness, and prosperity than any other thing that comes into your home?

IF SO, HOW?

THERE ARE MANY WAYS!

1. By the editor or publisher not hiding behind the editorial chair, but inviting questions on his convictions, thus setting a good example of wanting his ideas tested so he can correct his errors. He thus can learn how to better serve the community and the nation.

2. By the editors and publishers making known their convictions on what is right and just.

3. By furnishing a medium for examining convictions on man's relation to man.

4. By pointing out that initiated force by individuals, groups, or governments always results in less production and thus a lower standard of living, more crime, and almost constant wars.

THE POSITIVE APPROACH

5. By the Newspaper always advocating that all individuals, groups, or governments should get what they want only on a voluntary basis where all make a profit — spiritual, intellectual or material.

   Put another way: all individuals throughout the world should have an equal opportunity to help peacefully to establish values.

6. By pointing out individual beliefs that lead to depriving other individuals of the right to plan their own lives. Each individual must be able to plan and control his own life since all persons generate their own energy and will most effectively do so only in their own self best interest. Anything which interferes with the individual's right to carry out peaceful plans for his own life is detrimental to everyone.

   We know of no other medium in the United States that is as free of government control as the press. Radio and TV are required to have their licenses renewed by government periodically, and are thus subject to some direct controls and a great deal of indirect pressure. The press, being free, is able to point out harmful, though usually popular, beliefs advocated by government that other organizations will hesitate even to discuss.

7. By reporting the local, state, national and international news as accurately as it can be obtained.

8. When a book comes into your home, if you have a question about what it advocates or reports, you can seldom get an answer from the author.

   A magazine will seldom run letters to the magazine, especially on controversial moral questions.

   We know of not more than a few newspapers which advocate a single standard of right. And we know of even fewer which refuse to run columnists who do not know enough about their subjects to answer questions without evasion or contradiction.

   Too few newspapers make use of their opportunity to serve their community, nation and mankind. Too many are only interested in money and power over others.

9. By carrying all the merchandise advertising it can obtain, thus giving the reader a report on the market place that saves him time and money.

10. By helping match up employes and jobs by carrying all jobs-wanted ads obtainable and by never refusing to take a help-wanted ad. To refuse ads would protect employers from competition in getting their employes.

11. By helping householders reach as many buyers as possible for anything they have to sell, through use of the For Sale ads.

    We can think of no business in which quality of service to the buyer differs so much as daily newspapers differ.

HOW CAN YOU HELP PROMOTE PEACE AND PROSPERITY

Persons anxious to help promote peace, prosperity and happiness, if they have not the time or inclination to study out what will best achieve their objectives, can help by taking a newspaper that does its best to do so, which stands for a single standard of morality, and will answer all questions about its convictions without evasion or contradiction.

If all newspapers would carry a Question Box, and would agree to attempt to answer all questions, signed or unsigned, on what will benefit mankind on this earth, they would be helping improve their own understanding and crime and wars would gradually be reduced.

A friendly, watchful, intellectually fearless newspaper, putting a single standard of justice before dollars or power, if you can get one, is the most important buy you can make.

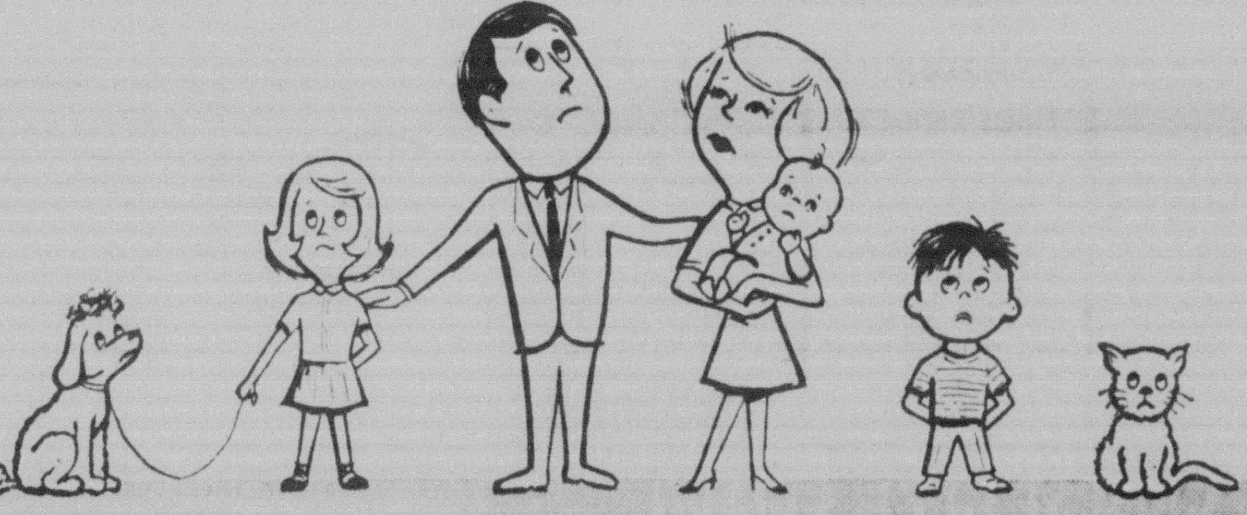
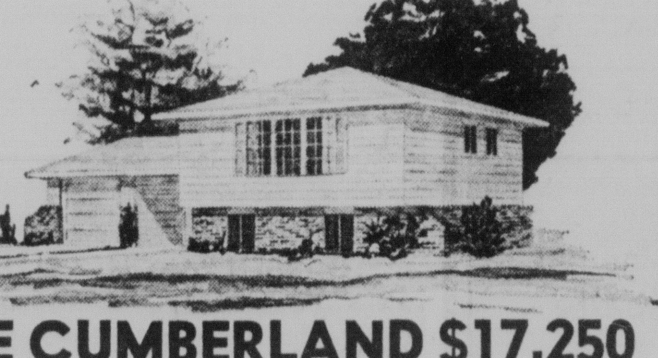
WHY JUST DREAM?



We seem to have a knack for making home owning dreams come true



THE CUMBERLAND $17,250

Here is an entirely new design in bi-level homes. From the moment you enter the CUMBERLAND through double doors from a gracious atrium, you will realize the extra "livibility" built into this home. From the entrance hall a short staircase leads to the upper level, containing three bedrooms, two ceramic tile baths, living room, kitchen and dining room. The floor plan here makes best use of all the living area, and closet space is in abundance. On the lower level may be found ample space for additional bedrooms, baths and living areas. Attached garage with cement driveway of course. Plan for today and for the future in a Widefield home.

Here is a home designed with the large or expanding family in mind, and includes over 1750 square feet of living area. The ELMHURST is a spacious tri-level design with three bedrooms and 2 ceramic tile baths on the upper level. Downstairs may be found the large living areas, with living room adjacent to kitchen and dining areas, both overlooking the patio and back yard through sliding glass doors. From the living room a short stairway leads further down to the lower garden level, semi-finished with room for additional bedrooms, baths, and or family area. As an optional fourth level is available. Brick construction and attached garage at no extra charge. Plan for today and for the future in a WIDEFIELD home.

Here is an entirely new design in bi-level homes. From the moment you enter the CUMBERLAND through double doors from a gracious atrium, you will realize the extra "livibility" built into this home. From the entrance hall a short staircase leads to the upper level, containing three bedrooms, two ceramic tile baths, living room, kitchen and dining room. The floor plan here makes best use of all the living area, and closet space is in abundance. On the lower level may be found ample space for additional bedrooms, baths and living areas. Attached garage with cement driveway of course. Plan for today and for the future in a Widefield home.

Here is a home designed with the large or expanding family in mind, and includes over 1750 square feet of living area. The ELMHURST is a spacious tri-level design with three bedrooms and 2 ceramic tile baths on the upper level. Downstairs may be found the large living areas, with living room adjacent to kitchen and dining areas, both overlooking the patio and back yard through sliding glass doors. From the living room a short stairway leads further down to the lower garden level, semi-finished with room for additional bedrooms, baths, and or family area. As an optional fourth level is available. Brick construction and attached garage at no extra charge. Plan for today and for the future in a WIDEFIELD home.

A CHOICE, VARIED SELECTION OF LISTINGS

FIRST TIME ON MARKET — NORTH END

EXCEPTIONALLY LOVELY OLDER HOME in a top location near the College and Penrose Hospital. Light, bright rooms. Gracious, elegant atmosphere. Delightful, big heated front porch makes a wonderful winter sun room; entry foyer. Living room and separate family room or den. Bedroom and bath on main floor, and three bedrooms and two baths upstairs. Separate dining room. Spacious, light kitchen with birch counters, and separate breakfast area. Lots of cabinets and storage. Pantry and laundry room off kitchen. Full basement with various store and work rooms and semi-finished rec. room. Hot water heat. Storm windows. Double garage. Full sprinkler system. Cable vision. Distinctive architecturally. This beautiful old house has been in the family for 50 years and has had lots of TLC lavished on it. $45,000.00.

BUNGALOW NEAR PENROSE HOSPITAL AND COLLEGE

WELL BUILT, COMFORTABLE, NICELY KEPT. Most of it is carpeted. Much of it just recently repainted. Fireplace in living room, and the living room opens to the separate dining room by a wide opening which gives the effect of lots of space if you need it when you have friends over to visit. Good kitchen, plenty of room, plenty of counter and cabinet space. Two or three bedrooms. Part basement with shop and storage room, and good high ceilings for head room. Covered front porch; back yard fenced, and just the right size for a bungalow like this. One-car garage. $15,250.00.

GARDEN RANCH — BI-LEVEL

A NICE, CLEAN, ROOMY HOUSE excellently located with a view, and scrub oak in the back yard, and the bluffs making a handsome scenic backdrop. Spacious living room open to a dining el that looks out over the back yard and the bluffs. Large kitchen with extra cabinets and counters. Plenty of room for breakfast table. Three bedrooms, two baths, (one private to the master bedroom). Full basement unfinished, with rough-in for a 3rd bath, and enough room for recreation room and bedroom and shop, or two bedrooms. Big double drive-under garage with plenty of storage and shop area. Two fireplaces. $25,950.00.

80 ACRES AND CABIN NEAR LAKE GEORGE

ONLY 2½ MILES OFF MAIN HIGHWAY on all-weather road. Land lies beautifully, south-facing slope gets winter sun. Mixture of open grassy meadow and ridges with trees and outcrops of several different kinds of rock. Spring-fed pond, aspen grove. Well. Rustic cabin. $25,000.00.

CRESTA VISTA — DUPLEX OR LARGE HOME.

MOST CONVENIENT LOCATION for all schools that could find. Big apartment and small apartment. Big apartment has lots of room on main level, plus three small bedrooms, rec. room, and bath in basement. Small apartment has bedroom and sewing room, or baby's crib room, and a fireplace in the living room. Good arrangement to help make the mortgage payments, or for a mother-in-law arrangement, or separate apartment for a grown boy who doesn't want you to know how late he's getting home. Each apartment has its own covered front porch. Yard big enough to make separate yard for each apartment. Simply cutting one doorway would make a big one-family house with master suite on one side of house and other bedrooms and bath on opposite side of house. $29,750.00.

FULL BRICK, NORTHEAST

2 BLOCKS TO GRADE SCHOOL. 3 bedrooms up, and one or two bedrooms down plus a rec room with new floor. Laundry room. Living room fireplace. Kitchen has formica counters, lots of cabinet space, electric range, vent fan, disposal, and dishwasher. Humidifier on Chrysler Airtemp furnace. Yard has mature landscaping, lots of nice bushes, trees big enough to be of some use now, and a fence, and big deck. One-car garage, wide enough for work bench or storage. $20,800.00.

WOODMEN VALLEY CONTEMPORARY

MAGNIFICENT big house with 20 acres of extremely choice land with view in all directions, and complete privacy. The house has six bedrooms, (or five and an office); baths each of which has separate tub and separate shower, also powder room. Thermopane glass; Slate and terrazzo floors in living room and dining room; 3 fireplaces, (one in master bedroom); all sorts of storage. Attached greenhouse or solarium. A handsome sculptured mural on outside of garage is also part of the house. This is for the large family who wants a spacious, luxury, contemporary home with plenty of land. $92,500.00.

A CHOICE, VARIED SELECTION OF LISTINGS

FIRST TIME ON MARKET — NORTH END

EXCEPTIONALLY LOVELY OLDER HOME in a top location near the College and Penrose Hospital. Light, bright rooms. Gracious, elegant atmosphere. Delightful, big heated front porch makes a wonderful winter sun room; entry foyer. Living room and separate family room or den. Bedroom and bath on main floor, and three bedrooms and two baths upstairs. Separate dining room. Spacious, light kitchen with birch counters, and separate breakfast area. Lots of cabinets and storage. Pantry and laundry room off kitchen. Full basement with various store and work rooms and semi-finished rec. room. Hot water heat. Storm windows. Double garage. Full sprinkler system. Cable vision. Distinctive architecturally. This beautiful old house has been in the family for 50 years and has had lots of TLC lavished on it. $45,000.00.

BUNGALOW NEAR PENROSE HOSPITAL AND COLLEGE

WELL BUILT, COMFORTABLE, NICELY KEPT. Most of it is carpeted. Much of it just recently repainted. Fireplace in living room, and the living room opens to the separate dining room by a wide opening which gives the effect of lots of space if you need it when you have friends over to visit. Good kitchen, plenty of room, plenty of counter and cabinet space. Two or three bedrooms. Part basement with shop and storage room, and good high ceilings for head room. Covered front porch; back yard fenced, and just the right size for a bungalow like this. One-car garage. $15,250.00.

GARDEN RANCH — BI-LEVEL

A NICE, CLEAN, ROOMY HOUSE excellently located with a view, and scrub oak in the back yard, and the bluffs making a handsome scenic backdrop. Spacious living room open to a dining el that looks out over the back yard and the bluffs. Large kitchen with extra cabinets and counters. Plenty of room for breakfast table. Three bedrooms, two baths, (one private to the master bedroom). Full basement unfinished, with rough-in for a 3rd bath, and enough room for recreation room and bedroom and shop, or two bedrooms. Big double drive-under garage with plenty of storage and shop area. Two fireplaces. $25,950.00.

80 ACRES AND CABIN NEAR LAKE GEORGE

ONLY 2½ MILES OFF MAIN HIGHWAY on all-weather road. Land lies beautifully, south-facing slope gets winter sun. Mixture of open grassy meadow and ridges with trees and outcrops of several different kinds of rock. Spring-fed pond, aspen grove. Well. Rustic cabin. $25,000.00.

CRESTA VISTA — DUPLEX OR LARGE HOME.

MOST CONVENIENT LOCATION for all schools that could find. Big apartment and small apartment. Big apartment has lots of room on main level, plus three small bedrooms, rec. room, and bath in basement. Small apartment has bedroom and sewing room, or baby's crib room, and a fireplace in the living room. Good arrangement to help make the mortgage payments, or for a mother-in-law arrangement, or separate apartment for a grown boy who doesn't want you to know how late he's getting home. Each apartment has its own covered front porch. Yard big enough to make separate yard for each apartment. Simply cutting one doorway would make a big one-family house with master suite on one side of house and other bedrooms and bath on opposite side of house. $29,750.00.

FULL BRICK, NORTHEAST

2 BLOCKS TO GRADE SCHOOL. 3 bedrooms up, and one or two bedrooms down plus a rec room with new floor. Laundry room. Living room fireplace. Kitchen has formica counters, lots of cabinet space, electric range, vent fan, disposal, and dishwasher. Humidifier on Chrysler Airtemp furnace. Yard has mature landscaping, lots of nice bushes, trees big enough to be of some use now, and a fence, and big deck. One-car garage, wide enough for work bench or storage. $20,800.00.

WOODMEN VALLEY CONTEMPORARY

MAGNIFICENT big house with 20 acres of extremely choice land with view in all directions, and complete privacy. The house has six bedrooms, (or five and an office); baths each of which has separate tub and separate shower, also powder room. Thermopane glass; Slate and terrazzo floors in living room and dining room; 3 fireplaces, (one in master bedroom); all sorts of storage. Attached greenhouse or solarium. A handsome sculptured mural on outside of garage is also part of the house. This is for the large family who wants a spacious, luxury, contemporary home with plenty of land. $92,500.00.

MINI

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Maj. James J. Kelly of Lackland Air Force Base, soon to assume command of Saglek Air Station, Labrador, in January, says he will support the Saglek non-commissioned officers club's liberal ruling on miniskirts.

Officials of the tiny station's club voted to make miniskirts—and even "micro, micro" miniskirts—legal for women visitors after learning that enlisted men's clubs at Wethersfield Air Base, England, had banned them.

"Let style set the pace," said Kelly.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — What Richard M. Nixon is going to do with Spiro Agnew for the next four years isn't one-two in political importance with what Agnew has done for Nixon already — got him elected President.

With Agnew on the ticket, the South would have been lost and the election would have been lost. Either Hubert Humphrey would be President-elect today or the results would have involved a three-way split of the electoral vote because of George Wallace, and we wouldn't know for weeks or months who would take LBJ's place in the White House.

It is as simple as that. Not even a pseudo-intellectual could imagine Nixon having a prayer in Wallace country with Mayor Lindsay as Nixon's running mate —or Gov. Volpe of Massachusetts or Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois.

But with Agnew how different! And as a result Nixon carried six Southern and border states with a combined electoral count of 67. Without those votes there would have been no over-the-top victory today above and beyond the magic 270 number required to elect.

Now Agnew only deserves credit for the GOP presidential victory because he "was there." But if he hadn't been there for Nixon to pick as the proper political running mate, the GOP bands wouldn't be playing from coast to coast today. So let's give Spiro his due at least.

Moreover, he has suffered more in helping Nixon than any other vice president-elect in history. He was first accused of being a sort of pliable stand-in for South Carolina's Strom Thurmond, reflecting in a decent way the southern conservative attitude toward law and order, civil and racial rights. And Nixon was supposed to have picked him in the first place only after "clearing with Strom," who felt that kind of a gesture to Dixie Republicans was essential because of the Wallace third party threat.

As the Maryland governor well knew, such considerations figured in Nixon's decision to tap him at the Miami Beach convention in August. It was evident he was on the national ticket strictly to help it in the South, but he was a good political soldier and he was willing to be used.

On Nixon's part the Agnew decision was politically calculating, cynical and callous, period. But it firmed up the way Nixon had decided he could win the election — concentrating on the South, Midwest and West and not much more than hoping he could pick up a few Eastern states where the Democrats traditionally were strongest.

And that of course was exactly the way the election was won. And it is no insult to say that Nixon acted in the Agnew decision like a shrewd, tough, realistic political tactician. The same cynical and calculating description applies to all the master politicians of our time — from Lyndon Johnson to Franklin Roosevelt. And to John F. Kennedy for that matter.

Kennedy took LBJ to run with him in 1960 because only Johnson of Texas could help Kennedy carry the Southern states considered essential for victory. It was not that Kennedy liked LBJ more, but the prospect of defeat less, so he could forget for political expediency's sake Johnson's convention cracks about his callous youth and about how his father, the ambassador, was a Nazi lover.

In 1960 Johnson couldn't help Kennedy much if at all outside the South. That was a risk that had to be taken. It was worth it. Six Southern states went for Kennedy. He couldn't have won the election without them.

That was exactly the way it was this time with Nixon. Outside of the border states and the South, Agnew did not strengthen the ticket but if anything weakened it. But there was not one single state west of the Alleghenies that Nixon had counted on definitely carrying that he did not win in the Tuesday election — despite Agnew, in some instances perhaps because of him.

But down South the Agnew gamble really paid off. It prevented Wallace victories and brought GOP triumphs in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Tennessee and Kentucky. In some instances the state votes were so split among Nixon, Wallace and Humphrey that the latter could have won some if Wallace didn't — had the GOP ticket been Nixon-Lindsay instead of Nixon-Agnew.

To be sure, Agnew couldn't carry his own state of Maryland for the party, but a Democratic win there was considered probably in the cards with or without Agnew. So in Nixon's strategy for winning the South, Maryland was more of an Eastern fringe problem, and that was the way it turned out too.

What a tremendous, stunning election victory Agnew helped so much to fashion for Nixon! And how very little homage he has received in these climactic hours, which should have been his finest, as well as Nixon's!

He needs a helping hand, Spiro does. His easy, informal and frank method of campaigning was ridiculed by political critics. It was even suggested that while he was a Greek he had no understanding of the sensitivity of ethnic blocs, for he referred to Poles as Pollacks and at least once insulted every Japanese voter by referring to one as a "fat Jap." And he was snarled at venomously in print and otherwise for saying "when you've seen one slum you've seen them all,' just as if that statement wasn't absolutely true.

Worst of all, he wasn't supposed to have the stature or the character to be vice president, just a heartbeat away from 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. It was all mighty smelly, in retrospect, the way Humphrey pushers picked on Spiro.

It was as if the politicians were convinced the voters had never been informed about past vice presidents, particularly that every one was chosen to be on a party ticket not for his statesman qualities but for how much he could contribute to a political victory.

On that realistic basis Agnew's contribution has been immense. His place in the footnotes of political history is secure. For all we care, he can twiddle his fingers for four years, doing nothing more than preside over the Senate — the only official job anyway required of a vice president. That was, incidentally, about all that Harry Truman did when he had the same job and FDR was in the White House, except on occasion Harry did play the piano, once with Lauren Bacall perched on top.

HEAR Ye! with Larry Buck

One of the hardest things a youngster faces these days is learning good manners—without seeing any.

The loudness of a sound is measured in decibels. This term was named after Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, who regarded himself primarily as a teacher of the deaf.

Weather forecasters used to say the day would be partly cloudy. They use percentages now, and even the forecasts are partly cloudy.

The remarkable MAICO "PrecisionEar" is a master hearing aid fitting instrument which guides the MAICO consultant in choosing the hearing aid that will offer maximum help for your hearing loss. The complicated circuits of the "PrecisionEar" use actual bearing aid components to duplicate the performance of almost any hearing aid, enabling your MAICO consultant to determine precisely which aid and which tonal adjustments provide the best possible help for your problem.

A good scare will often get to those who disregard good advice.

Mrs. Pauline Clement Died Here Saturday

Mrs. Pauline J. Clement, 1915 S. Franklin Ave., died Saturday in a local hospital. She was 52 years old.

Born Oct. 27, 1916 in Tuscola, Ill., Mrs. Clement was a local resident since 1964. She previously lived in Jacksonville, Ill. Mrs. Clement was married September, 1939 in Bowling Green, Mo. She was a member of the First Baptist Church of Jacksonville.

Concluding services will be in Jacksonville with C. E. Williamson and Son handling arrangements. Burial will be in Memorial Lawn Cemetery of Jacksonville.

Survivors include two sons, Robert Clement, Salem, Ore.; Harry R. Clement, Colorado Springs; her mother, Mrs. Marie DeWitt, Colorado Springs as well as four grandchildren.

Don't be the kind of cook who associates caraway seed only with rye bread and sauerkraut. They are especially good with egg as well as cheese dishes. For a real treat, try caraway cheese omelet. To make, just add one-half teaspoon caraway seed to your favorite cheese omelet recipe.

MINI

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Maj. James J. Kelly of Lackland Air Force Base, soon to assume command of Saglek Air Station, Labrador, in January, says he will support the Saglek non-commissioned officers club's liberal ruling on miniskirts.

Officials of the tiny station's club voted to make miniskirts—and even "micro, micro" miniskirts—legal for women visitors after learning that enlisted men's clubs at Wethersfield Air Base, England, had banned them.

"Let style set the pace," said Kelly.

WASHINGTON — What Richard M. Nixon is going to do with Spiro Agnew for the next four years isn't one-two in political importance with what Agnew has done for Nixon already — got him elected President.

With Agnew on the ticket, the South would have been lost and the election would have been lost. Either Hubert Humphrey would be President-elect today or the results would have involved a three-way split of the electoral vote because of George Wallace, and we wouldn't know for weeks or months who would take LBJ's place in the White House.

It is as simple as that. Not even a pseudo-intellectual could imagine Nixon having a prayer in Wallace country with Mayor Lindsay as Nixon's running mate —or Gov. Volpe of Massachusetts or Sen. Charles Percy of Illinois.

But with Agnew how different! And as a result Nixon carried six Southern and border states with a combined electoral count of 67. Without those votes there would have been no over-the-top victory today above and beyond the magic 270 number required to elect.

Now Agnew only deserves credit for the GOP presidential victory because he "was there." But if he hadn't been there for Nixon to pick as the proper political running mate, the GOP bands wouldn't be playing from coast to coast today. So let's give Spiro his due at least.

Moreover, he has suffered more in helping Nixon than any other vice president-elect in history. He was first accused of being a sort of pliable stand-in for South Carolina's Strom Thurmond, reflecting in a decent way the southern conservative attitude toward law and order, civil and racial rights. And Nixon was supposed to have picked him in the first place only after "clearing with Strom," who felt that kind of a gesture to Dixie Republicans was essential because of the Wallace third party threat.

As the Maryland governor well knew, such considerations figured in Nixon's decision to tap him at the Miami Beach convention in August. It was evident he was on the national ticket strictly to help it in the South, but he was a good political soldier and he was willing to be used.

On Nixon's part the Agnew decision was politically calculating, cynical and callous, period. But it firmed up the way Nixon had decided he could win the election — concentrating on the South, Midwest and West and not much more than hoping he could pick up a few Eastern states where the Democrats traditionally were strongest.

And that of course was exactly the way the election was won. And it is no insult to say that Nixon acted in the Agnew decision like a shrewd, tough, realistic political tactician. The same cynical and calculating description applies to all the master politicians of our time — from Lyndon Johnson to Franklin Roosevelt. And to John F. Kennedy for that matter.

Kennedy took LBJ to run with him in 1960 because only Johnson of Texas could help Kennedy carry the Southern states considered essential for victory. It was not that Kennedy liked LBJ more, but the prospect of defeat less, so he could forget for political expediency's sake Johnson's convention cracks about his callous youth and about how his father, the ambassador, was a Nazi lover.

In 1960 Johnson couldn't help Kennedy much if at all outside the South. That was a risk that had to be taken. It was worth it. Six Southern states went for Kennedy. He couldn't have won the election without them.

That was exactly the way it was this time with Nixon. Outside of the border states and the South, Agnew did not strengthen the ticket but if anything weakened it. But there was not one single state west of the Alleghenies that Nixon had counted on definitely carrying that he did not win in the Tuesday election — despite Agnew, in some instances perhaps because of him.

But down South the Agnew gamble really paid off. It prevented Wallace victories and brought GOP triumphs in Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Florida, Tennessee and Kentucky. In some instances the state votes were so split among Nixon, Wallace and Humphrey that the latter could have won some if Wallace didn't — had the GOP ticket been Nixon-Lindsay instead of Nixon-Agnew.

To be sure, Agnew couldn't carry his own state of Maryland for the party, but a Democratic win there was considered probably in the cards with or without Agnew. So in Nixon's strategy for winning the South, Maryland was more of an Eastern fringe problem, and that was the way it turned out too.

What a tremendous, stunning election victory Agnew helped so much to fashion for Nixon! And how very little homage he has received in these climactic hours, which should have been his finest, as well as Nixon's!

He needs a helping hand, Spiro does. His easy, informal and frank method of campaigning was ridiculed by political critics. It was even suggested that while he was a Greek he had no understanding of the sensitivity of ethnic blocs, for he referred to Poles as Pollacks and at least once insulted every Japanese voter by referring to one as a "fat Jap." And he was snarled at venomously in print and otherwise for saying "when you've seen one slum you've seen them all,' just as if that statement wasn't absolutely true.

Worst of all, he wasn't supposed to have the stature or the character to be vice president, just a heartbeat away from 1600 Pennsylvania Ave. It was all mighty smelly, in retrospect, the way Humphrey pushers picked on Spiro.

It was as if the politicians were convinced the voters had never been informed about past vice presidents, particularly that every one was chosen to be on a party ticket not for his statesman qualities but for how much he could contribute to a political victory.

On that realistic basis Agnew's contribution has been immense. His place in the footnotes of political history is secure. For all we care, he can twiddle his fingers for four years, doing nothing more than preside over the Senate — the only official job anyway required of a vice president. That was, incidentally, about all that Harry Truman did when he had the same job and FDR was in the White House, except on occasion Harry did play the piano, once with Lauren Bacall perched on top.

HEAR Ye! with Larry Buck

One of the hardest things a youngster faces these days is learning good manners—without seeing any.

The loudness of a sound is measured in decibels. This term was named after Alexander Graham Bell, inventor of the telephone, who regarded himself primarily as a teacher of the deaf.

Weather forecasters used to say the day would be partly cloudy. They use percentages now, and even the forecasts are partly cloudy.

The remarkable MAICO "PrecisionEar" is a master hearing aid fitting instrument which guides the MAICO consultant in choosing the hearing aid that will offer maximum help for your hearing loss. The complicated circuits of the "PrecisionEar" use actual hearing aid components to duplicate the performance of almost any hearing aid, enabling your MAICO consultant to determine precisely which aid and which tonal adjustments provide the best possible help for your problem.

A good scare will often get to those who disregard good advice.

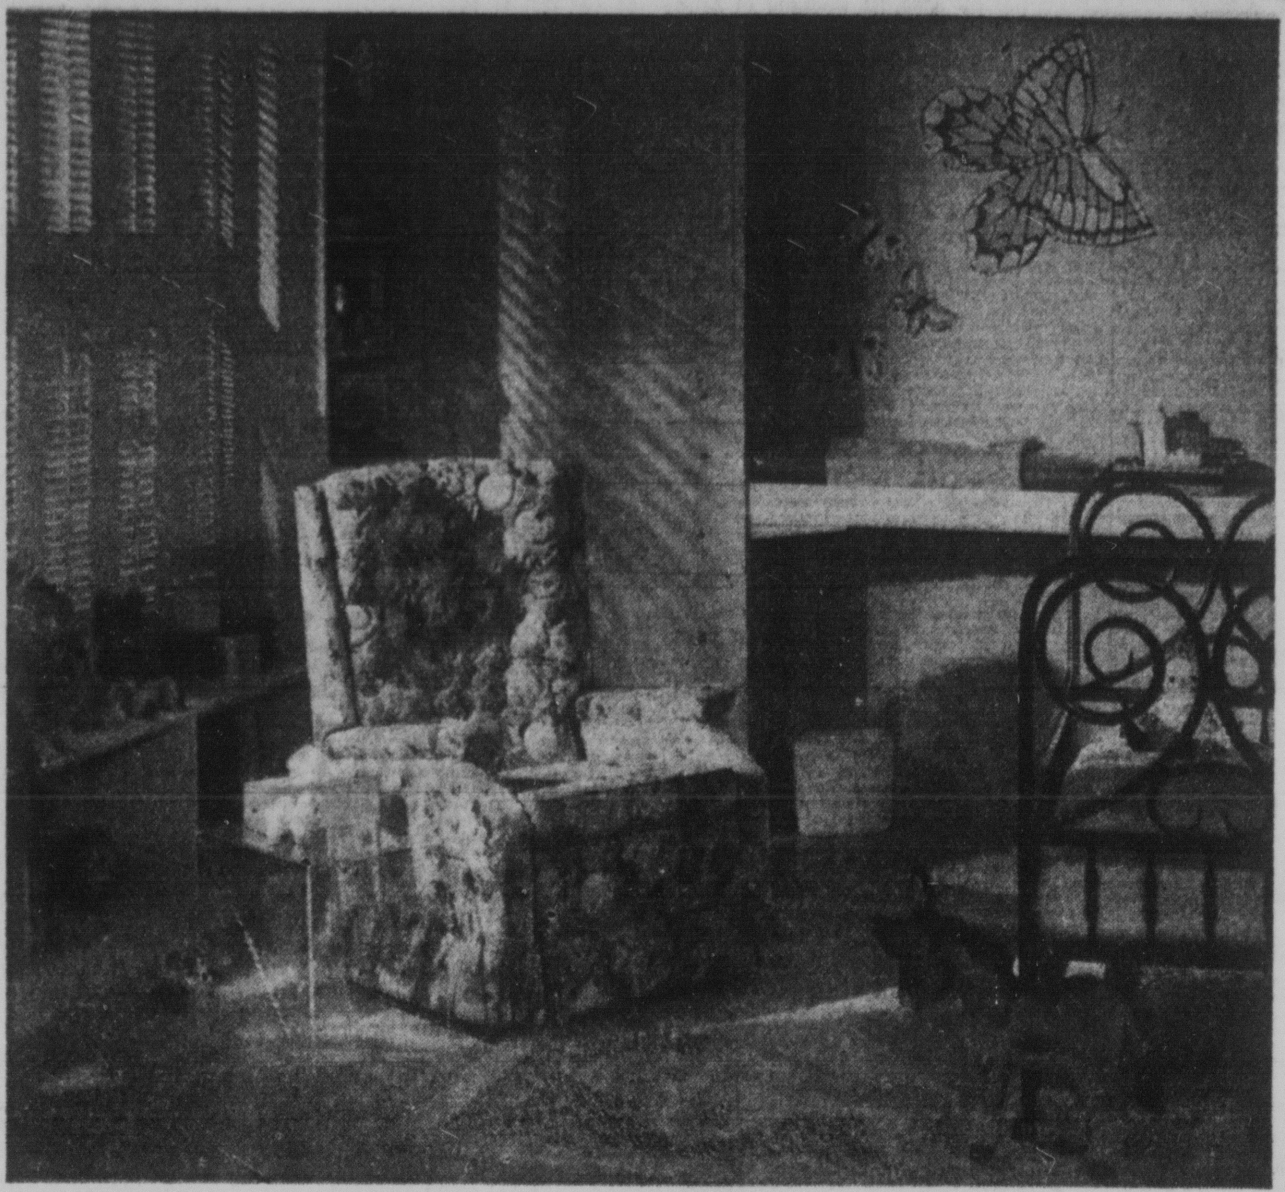
Brighten the Nursery Scene



By AILEEN SNODDY
NEA Home Editor

New parents, still relatively bewitched and bewildered by a baby, appreciate a more sophisticated approach to decorating an infant's room. A primary reason may be that an adult-oriented setting makes mom or dad feel more comfortable while tending the tad.

Whatever the reason, the icky-poo nursery decor, as a leading interior decorator described the bunnies, Bopeep and accompanying Mother Goose ilk, is losing favor.

Taking their place is subtle use of high fashion color, comfort items for parent, nurse or baby sitter, and use of furniture and built-in items that grow with the child.

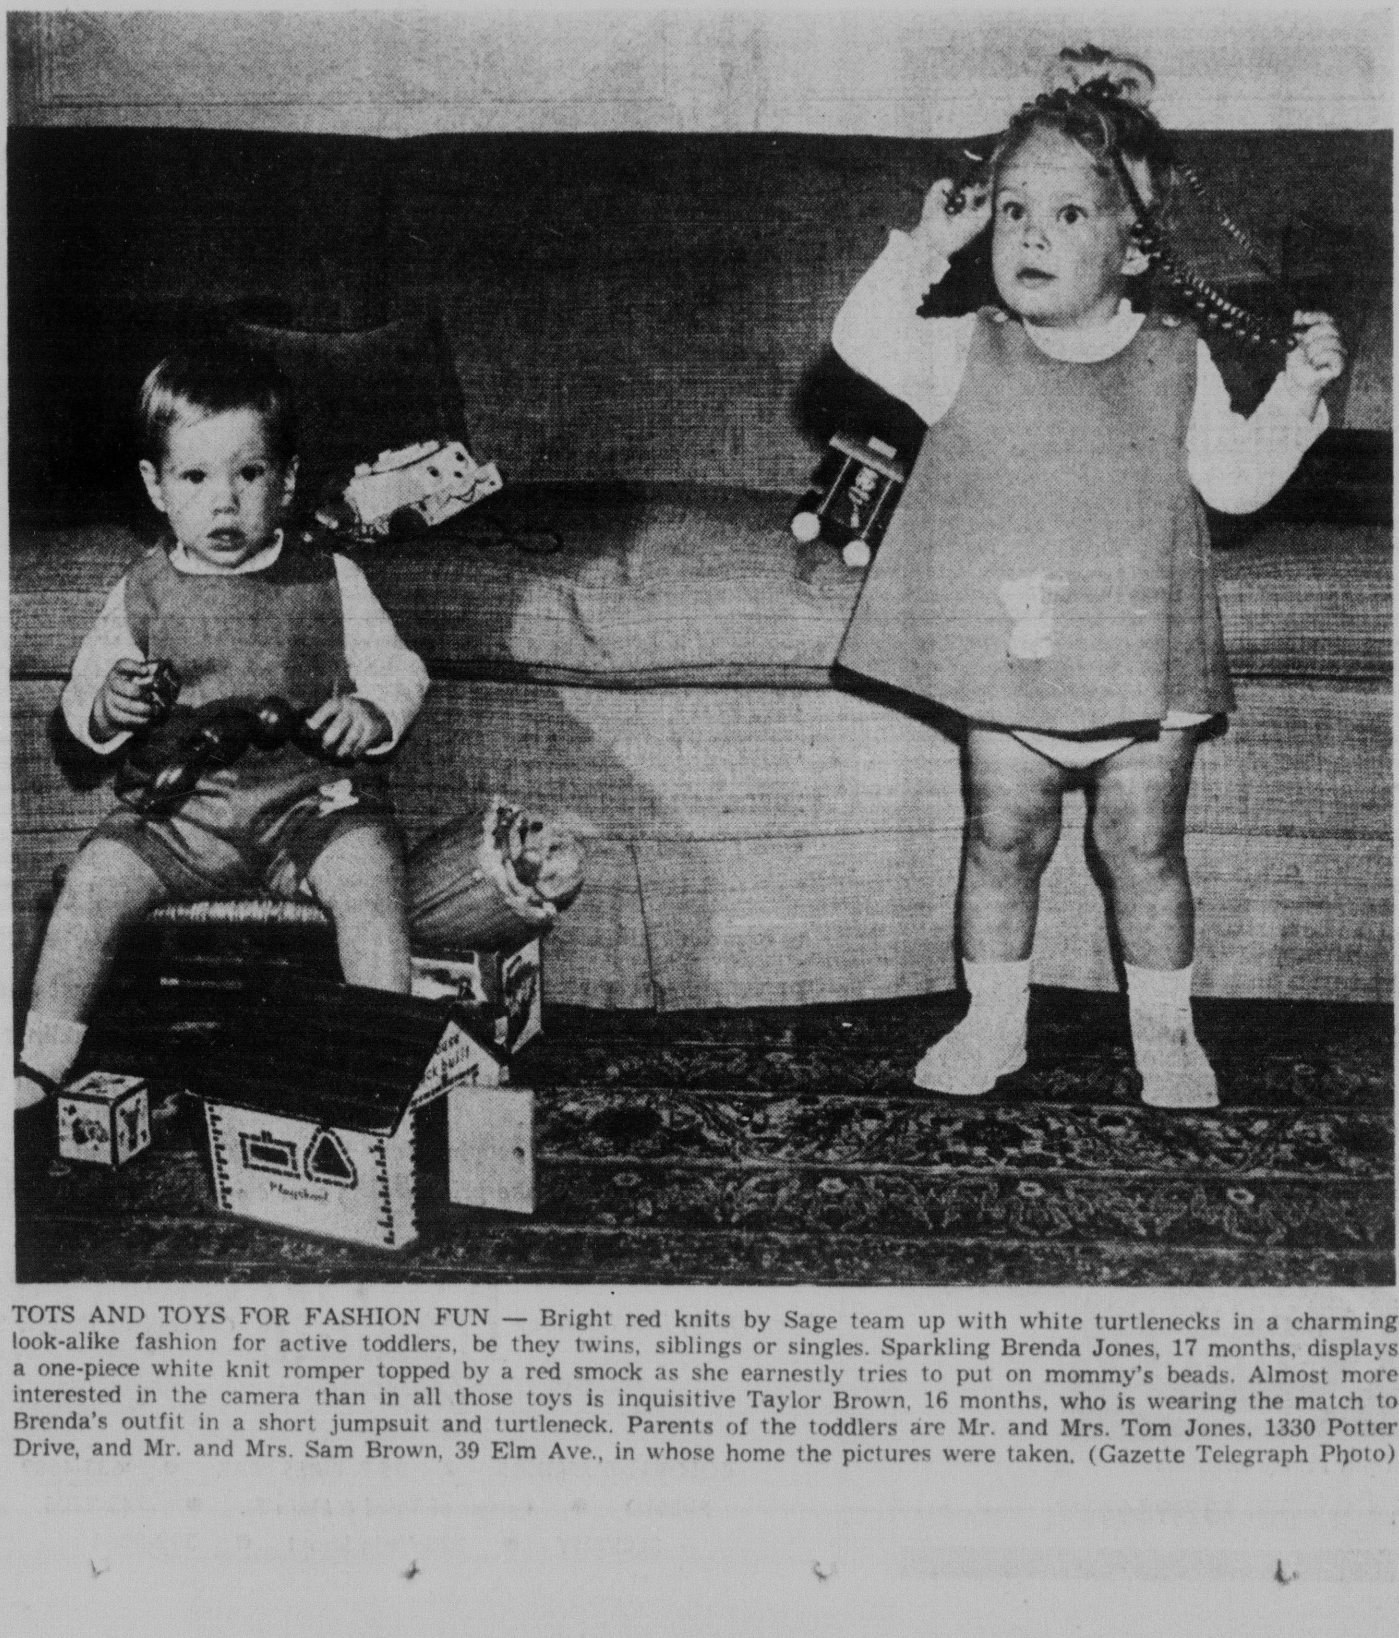
The decoration of a child's room, however, continues to reflect the innocence and whimsey attributed to its occupant. So don't forget the animals that children favor to populate their early world.

What goes into such a nursery? Lots of conveniences, according to Edmund Motyka, AID. These include an adjustable shelf (right) set at the proper height for diaper changing which later allows for installation of other work and storage units; a floor-to-ceiling wall unit with numerous drawers; under-the-window storage for clothing and toys reminiscent of the commodious window seat of Victorian days.

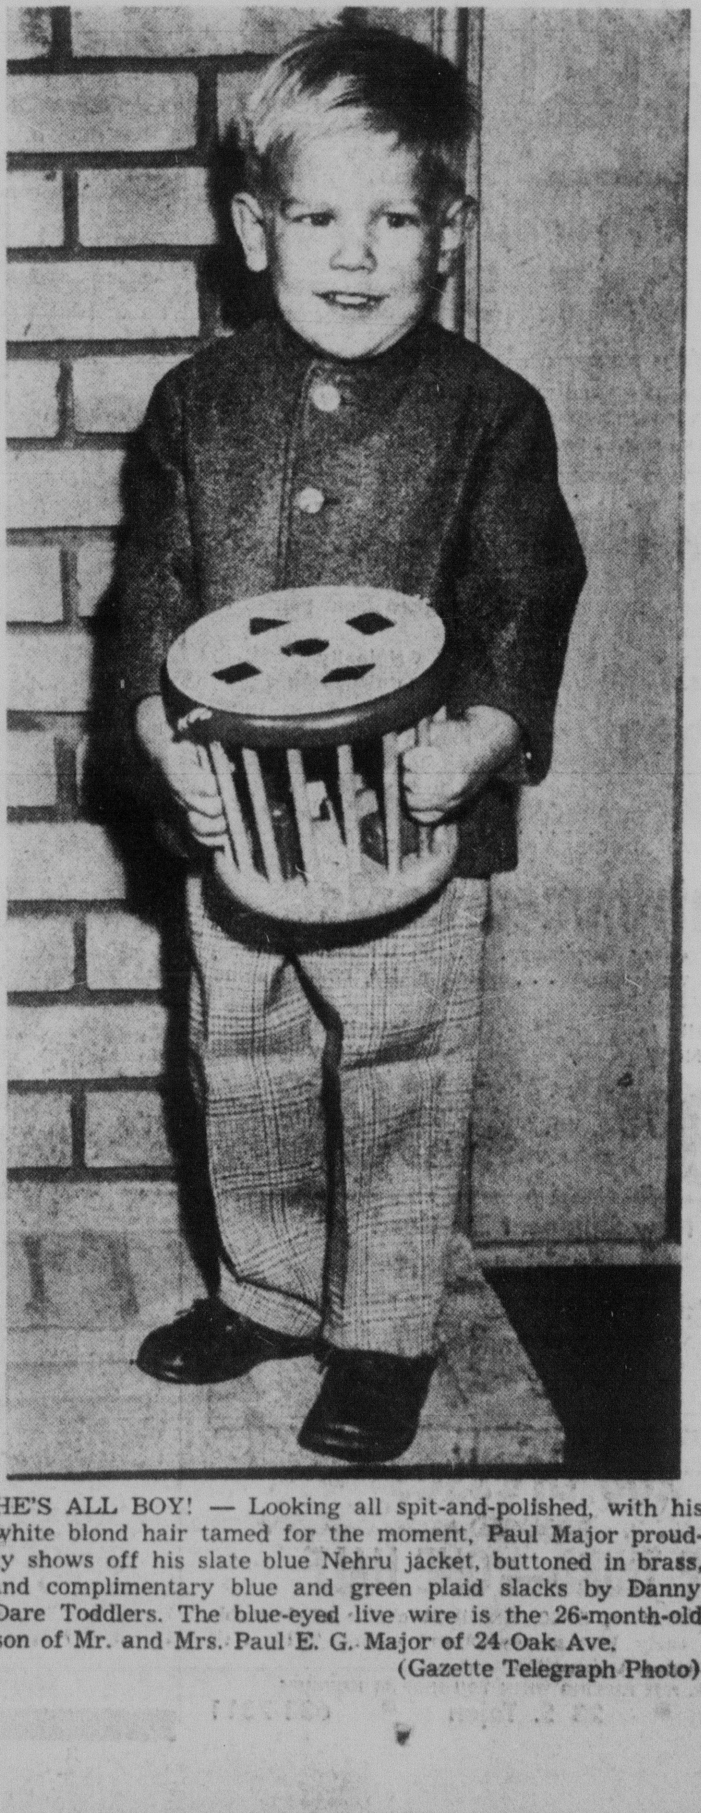
All shelf and storage bin units are designed for easy addition of partitions for books, records, pegboard or desk surface that allows the room dimensions even a teen-ager couldn't reject.

Easy-care-and comfort aspects include the rock-a-lounger (Berkline), peel and stick vinyl tiles set in a nondirectional chip pattern and a plexiglass table.

Bentwood crib is very en time and this time don't toss it out once baby outgrows it. Just think how many classic furniture pieces parents and grandparents are rebuying because they were once the junk of the '30s and '40s.



TOTS AND TOYS FOR FASHION FUN — Bright red knits by Sage team up with white turtlenecks in a charming look-alike fashion for active toddlers, be they twins, siblings or singles. Sparkling Brenda Jones, 17 months, displays a one-piece white knit romper topped by a red smock as she earnestly tries to put on mommy's beads. Almost more interested in the camera than in all those toys is inquisitive Taylor Brown, 16 months, who is wearing the match to Brenda's outfit in a short jumpsuit and turtleneck. Parents of the toddlers are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Jones, 1330 Potter Drive, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Brown, 39 Elm Ave., in whose home the pictures were taken. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)



HE'S ALL BOY! — Looking all spit-and-polished, with his white blond hair tamed for the moment, Paul Major proudly shows off his slate blue Nehru jacket, buttoned in brass, and complimentary blue and green plaid slacks by Danny Dare Toddlers. The blue-eyed live wire is the 26-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. G. Major of 24 Oak Ave. (Gazette Telegraph Photo)

It's a 'Holiday Happening' at Ent Officers' Wives Bazaar

It's that time of year again—time for the Ent Officers' Wives charity bazaar entitled this year "Holiday Happening." It will all take place from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Nov. 18. The public is invited.

It will be held in the Skyline Officer's Club at Ent Air Force Base. Parking will be available in the parking lot directly across from the Officers' Club.

At 11 a.m. Gen. Raymond J Reeves, NORAD commander-in-chief, and Col. James W Landcaster, Ent base commander, will cut the ribbon officially opening this annual event.

This year's bazaar promises to be spectacular as the Ent Officers' Wives have been working diligently for months making so many of the items which will be on sale at the following booths:

ANTIQUE BOUTIQUE — a new both at the bazaar and an interesting collection of antiques.

FOOD AND BAKE BOOTH—a variety of delicious homemade baked goods and casserole dishes.

FLOWER BOOTHS—one booth features paper flowers; the other, burlap and creative forma film flowers.

TEA ROOM—a place to snack and all you can eat for a nominal fee.

FELT BOOTH—felt items, such as tree skirts, tote bags, card boxes etc.

CANDY BOOTH—assorted homemade candies, many of which will be in brightly decorated boxes.

FLEA MARKET and the OLD BOOKS, RECORDS AND PATTERNS BOOTH—just as their names imply.

ANGEL BOOTH—an exquisite selection of angels, made of gold felt or aluminum.

APRON BOOTH—a variety of lovely aprons.

CHRISTMAS TREES AND WREATHS BOOTH—many different kinds of trees and wreaths to brighten the holiday home.

DECOUPAGE—beautiful wall plaques and card boxes.

GOURMET BOOTH — specialty items such as salad dressings, spiced tea, seafood sauce and cheese balls.

GIFT BOUTIQUE—many gift ideas— from satin pillow cases, frog bean bags, covered hangers and totebags to flower pots and papier mache candle holders.

CHILDREN AND TEENS BOOTH—a variety of things such as bibs, baby books, resin animals, stuffed toys, baby blankets and mini-skirted dresses for teens with matching hair bands and tote bags.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS BOOTH — assorted decorations—kissing rings, boxes, candles and center pieces.

An added attraction this year will be the Ent Star Recipe Table. At this table will be sold the "Gold Star Cook Book," a collection of 43 recipes from the Ent general officers' wives.

It's a 'Holiday Happening' at Ent Officers' Wives Bazaar

It's that time of year again—time for the Ent Officers' Wives charity bazaar entitled this year "Holiday Happening." It will all take place from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Nov. 18. The public is invited.

It will be held in the Skyline Officer's Club at Ent Air Force Base. Parking will be available in the parking lot directly across from the Officers' Club.

At 11 a.m. Gen. Raymond J Reeves, NORAD commander-in-chief, and Col. James W Landcaster, Ent base commander, will cut the ribbon officially opening this annual event.

This year's bazaar promises to be spectacular as the Ent Officers' Wives have been working diligently for months making so many of the items which will be on sale at the following booths:

ANTIQUE BOUTIQUE — a new both at the bazaar and an interesting collection of antiques.

FOOD AND BAKE BOOTH—a variety of delicious homemade baked goods and casserole dishes.

FLOWER BOOTHS—one booth features paper flowers; the other, burlap and creative forma film flowers.

TEA ROOM—a place to snack and all you can eat for a nominal fee.

FELT BOOTH—felt items, such as tree skirts, tote bags, card boxes etc.

CANDY BOOTH—assorted homemade candies, many of which will be in brightly decorated boxes.

FLEA MARKET and the OLD BOOKS, RECORDS AND PATTERNS BOOTH—just as their names imply.

ANGEL BOOTH—an exquisite selection of angels, made of gold felt or aluminum.

APRON BOOTH—a variety of lovely aprons.

DECOUPAGE—beautiful wall plaques and card boxes.

GOURMET BOOTH — specialty items such as salad dressings, spiced tea, seafood sauce and cheese balls.

GIFT BOUTIQUE—many gift ideas— from satin pillow cases, frog bean bags, covered hangers and totebags to flower pots and papier mache candle holders.

CHILDREN AND TEENS BOOTH—a variety of things such as bibs, baby books, resin animals, stuffed toys, baby blankets and mini-skirted dresses for teens with matching hair bands and tote bags.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS BOOTH — assorted decorations—kissing rings, boxes, candles and center pieces.

An added attraction this year will be the Ent Star Recipe Table. At this table will be sold the "Gold Star Cook Book," a collection of 43 recipes from the Ent general officers' wives.

First Christian Scene Of Whitman-Klapal Rites

Miss Sharon Louise Klapal and James L. Whiteman were married in an afternoon ceremony on Oct. 12 at the First Christian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Klapal, 617 W. Bijou St. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Whiteman, 2422 Lafayette Road.

The Rev. Donald Buck officiatd at the ceremony before the altar graced with baskets of gold carnations and white gladioli. Traditional nuptial music was played.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of chantillace fashioned with a bouffant tiered skirt highlighted with sequins and terminating in a full circular train. The fitted bodice was designed with a scalloped sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. An elbow-length veil of English silk illusion was caught to a queen's crown of lace edged with pearls. She carried a bouquet of gold carnations centered with white orchid.

Mrs. Marylene Melius, matron of honor, wore an A - line empire gown of olive green silk saki fashioned with a back panel trimmed with white Venise lace appliques and topped with a bow. It was designed with a raised waistline circled with lace, a scoop neckline and elbow-length sleeves. Her headpiece was a double bow of matching fabric and a bustle veil of maline. She carried a bouquet of gold carnations.

George Stanley was best man and Tim Coniff was groomsman. Michael Nestor and Hugh E. Whiteman were ushers.

The mother of the bride chose a matching ensemble of gold brocade. The bridegroom's mother selected an avocado coat and dress ensemble.

A reception was held in the church parlor following the ceremony with members of the women's church group assisting.

For a short wedding trip, the bride wore a gray and white stripe knit dress with white accessories and a corsage of gold carnations. The newlyweds plan to reside on 1130 N. Walnut St.

The couple both attended Palmer High School.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Urban and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Klapal, all of Comstock, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stone and family, Gordon Neb., and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jarman, Denver.

Gale Derrick, D. Norris Married by Brother-in-Law

The marriage of Miss Gale Derrick and Darrel Norris took place at 3 p.m. Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Ronald C. White, brother-in-law of the bride, officiating.

Church decorations for the double - ring ceremony included yellow and bronze mums and candelabra. Mrs. Dorothy Schlegel, organist, provided nuptial slections and accompanied De Ros Hague as he sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbrun T. Derrick, 2013 Collier Ave., was given in marriage by her father. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Thaine Norris of Boulder.

Sherrie White, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Jan Pierce and Judy Janda. All wore long empire sheaths of willow green satin and velvet fashioned with raised waistlines encircled by narrow bands ending in bows and streamers at the back. The bodices had scoop necklines and short, puff sleeves.

Matching headpieces with bustle veils of maline completed their ensembles and each carried a pendant of yellow gladioli.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride chose a beige and green brocade sheath with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother selected a mist green sheath with matching accessories and each wore corsages of yellow sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Honnen parlor. Assisting were Mrs. Margaret Liverant, Mrs. Jim Brown, Mrs. Grace Wilson, Mrs. George Reed and Mrs. Henry Krueger, in charge of the guest book.

For her going - away outfit, the bride chose a navy and white sheath with navy blue accessories, complimented by a corsage of white gladioli. The newlyweds will resume their studies at Colorado State University, Ft. Collins.

Three to Get CPS Awards At Secretaries' Meeting

Presentation of a Certified Professional Secretary (CPS) certificates and pins to Mrs. Esther H. Ingram, Mrs. Marta Landgreen and Mrs. Eleanor Berthelot will highlight a dinner meeting of the Pikes Peak Chapter of the National Secretaries Association at the Candlelight Inn at 7 p.m. Tuesday. The secretaries will be presented with their awards by Mrs. Muriel Swayze, CPS, administrative assistant to Gerri Von Frellick, real estate developer, of Denver.

The status of CPS was gained after the three secretaries passed the two day examination administered by the Institute for Certifying Secretaries at the University of Denver. Mmes: Ingram, Landgreen and Berthelot were three of 351 secretaries throughout the country who completed successfully the six-part examination covering these subjects: personal adjustment and human relations, business law, business administration, secretarial accounting, secretarial skills and secretarial procedures.

The complete roster of CPS's in the United States, Puerto Rico and Canada now totals 4,-252.

Mrs. Ingram has been employed since 1966 as secretary to Bruce L. Craig and Morton McGinley, attorneys at law. Mrs. Landgreen has been employed for the past two years at Holly Sugar Corporation and is secretary to Willard F. Cheley, vice president of finance. Mrs. Berthelot is secretary to Donald LaMora, of the LaMora and Mize law firm.

Mrs. Swayze, the speaker for the meeting, was a member of the Institute for Certifying Secretaries from 1963 to 1966, and received her CPS certificate and pin in 1956. A Beauty Hint

Margaret Merril advises that it is quite simple for every woman to promote an English countryside complexion. Her hint to gain a peaches-and-cream loveliness is to damp a cloth with cold water from your refrigerator and press it over your face for a few minutes once or twice a day. Then, to hold the good of the complexion-beautifying cold water, smooth on tropical oil of Olay. This oil is rather scarce and expensive, but your drug store should be able to get you a supply.

THE SHAPED BOOT

for the long leggy look you like

We designed a boot to follow the pretty curves of your leg. (The long zipper makes it an easy put-on.) We added this season's baby-doll toe. The sole is a grabber. Keeps you an upright citizen . . . grabs the ground when the ground gets glassy. Result: you get a sure-footed leggy look. You're even prettier when you're cozy so we added a bunny-soft lining that'll warm your feet quicker than a kiss. Good shape to be in.

First Christian Scene Of Whitman-Klapal Rites

Miss Sharon Louise Klapal and James L. Whiteman were married in an afternoon ceremony on Oct. 12 at the First Christian Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor Klapal, 617 W. Bijou St. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Whiteman, 2422 Lafayette Road.

The Rev. Donald Buck officiatd at the ceremony before the altar graced with baskets of gold carnations and white gladioli. Traditional nuptial music was played.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of chantillace fashioned with a bouffant tiered skirt highlighted with sequins and terminating in a full circular train. The fitted bodice was designed with a scalloped sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. An elbow-length veil of English silk illusion was caught to a queen's crown of lace edged with pearls. She carried a bouquet of gold carnations centered with white orchid.

Mrs. Marylene Melius, matron of honor, wore an A - line empire gown of olive green silk saki fashioned with a back panel trimmed with white Venise lace appliques and topped with a bow. It was designed with a raised waistline circled with lace, a scoop neckline and elbow-length sleeves. Her headpiece was a double bow of matching fabric and a bustle veil of maline. She carried a bouquet of gold carnations.

George Stanley was best man and Tim Coniff was groomsman. Michael Nestor and Hugh E. Whiteman were ushers.

The mother of the bride chose a matching ensemble of gold brocade. The bridegroom's mother selected an avocado coat and dress ensemble.

A reception was held in the church parlor following the ceremony with members of the women's church group assisting.

For a short wedding trip, the bride wore a gray and white stripe knit dress with white accessories and a corsage of gold carnations. The newlyweds plan to reside on 1130 N. Walnut St.

The couple both attended Palmer High School.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Will Urban and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Klapal, all of Comstock, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stone and family, Gordon Neb., and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Jarman, Denver.

Gale Derrick, D. Norris Married by Brother-in-Law

The marriage of Miss Gale Derrick and Darrel Norris took place at 3 p.m. Sunday at the First Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. Ronald C. White, brother-in-law of the bride, officiating.

Church decorations for the double - ring ceremony included yellow and bronze mums and candelabra. Mrs. Dorothy Schlegel, organist, provided nuptial slections and accompanied De Ros Hague as he sang "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbrun T. Derrick, 2013 Collier Ave., was given in marriage by her father. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Thaine Norris of Boulder.

Sherrie White, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Jan Pierce and Judy Janda. All wore long empire sheaths of willow green satin and velvet fashioned with raised waistlines encircled by narrow bands ending in bows and streamers at the back. The bodices had scoop necklines and short, puff sleeves.

Matching headpieces with bustle veils of maline completed their ensembles and each carried a pendant of yellow gladioli.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride chose a beige and green brocade sheath with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother selected a mist green sheath with matching accessories and each wore corsages of yellow sweetheart roses.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held in the Honnen parlor. Assisting were Mrs. Margaret Liverant, Mrs. Jim Brown, Mrs. Grace Wilson, Mrs. George Reed and Mrs. Henry Krueger, in charge of the guest book.

For her going - away outfit, the bride chose a navy and white sheath with navy blue accessories, complimented by a corsage of white gladioli. The newlyweds will resume their studies at Colorado State University, Ft. Collins.

Three to Get CPS Awards At Secretaries' Meeting

Presentation of a Certified Professional Secretary (CPS) certificates and pins to Mrs. Esther H. Ingram, Mrs. Marta Landgreen and Mrs. Eleanor Berthelot will highlight a dinner meeting of the Pikes Peak Chapter of the National Secretaries Association at the Candlelight Inn at 7 p.m. Tuesday. The secretaries will be presented with their awards by Mrs. Muriel Swayze, CPS, administrative assistant to Gerri Von Frellick, real estate developer, of Denver.

The status of CPS was gained after the three secretaries passed the two day examination administered by the Institute for Certifying Secretaries at the University of Denver. Mmes: Ingram, Landgreen and Berthelot were three of 351 secretaries throughout the country who completed successfully the six-part examination covering these subjects: personal adjustment and human relations, business law, business administration, secretarial accounting, secretarial skills and secretarial procedures.

The complete roster of CPS's in the United States, Puerto Rico and Canada now totals 4,252.

Mrs. Ingram has been employed since 1966 as secretary to Bruce L. Craig and Morton McGinley, attorneys at law. Mrs. Landgreen has been employed for the past two years at Holly Sugar Corporation and is secretary to Willard F. Cheley, vice president of finance. Mrs. Berthelot is secretary to Donald LaMora, of the LaMora and Mize law firm.

Mrs. Swayze, the speaker for the meeting, was a member of the Institute for Certifying Secretaries from 1963 to 1966, and received her CPS certificate and pin in 1956. She is a past president of the Denver Chapter and the Colorado-Wyoming-Montana Division of the National Secretaries Association and was coordinator for the International Convention held in Denver in 1963.

Rominger-Stone Rites Solemnized at Academy

With baskets of fall mums decorating the AF Academy "Our Lady of the Skies" Chapel, Miss Barbara Lynn Stone and 2nd Lt. John Denny Rominger, were united in holy matrimony.

Chaplain (Maj.) Robert F. Auer performed the Nuptial Mass at 2 p.m. Oct. 19, with Edward Ladoucoeur providing nuptial music. Selections included "Ave Maria" and "Panis Angelicus," sung by Susan Sween.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth D. Stone, Sarasota, Fla. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert R. Rominger, Indianapolis, Ind.

For her wedding, the bride chose a long A-line of velvet with sabrina neckline and traditional long, pointed sleeves. The empire bodice was circled with Venise lace and Dior bows caught the chapel-length train at the waistline. Her elbow-length veil of silk illusion fell from a velvet crown trimmed with Venise lace and she carried a cascade of gardenias.

As maid of honor, Linda Petty was frocked in a long gown with apricot crepe slim skirt and fitted bodice of persimmon velvet featuring a scoop neckline and elbow-length sleeves. A bustle veil of apricot maline was caught to a persimmon velvet bow and she carried cascading pale green spider mums.

Bridesmaids, who wore attire identical to that of the honor attendant, were Suzanne Stone, sister of the bride, Jane Rominger, sister of the bridegroom, and Ardella Mauritz. Michelle Kuffler, as flowergirl, was costumed in white dotted swiss trimmed with persimmon velvet.

Michael Rominger was best man for his brother. Ushers were Cadets Robert Cornella, Kent Byington and Thomas Stein. Sabre bearers were other cadets.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride chose a teal blue knit ensemble with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother selected pale turquoise in a silk sheath with matching accessories and each wore a white feathered mum corsage.

A reception followed at the Dublin House. Miss Toni Spargen was in charge of the guest book.

The new Mrs. Rominger chose a kelly green wool sheath dress with matching cape of kelly green and royal blue plaid, black accessories and a corsage of yellow roses for her traveling costume to the Grand Canyon and Lake Tahoe, enroute to Los Angeles. The newlyweds will be at home at Inglewood, Calif., while the bridegroom is stationed at SAMSO.

The bride graduated from Wasson High School. Rominger was graduated from Broad Ripple High School in Indianapolis and the AF Academy, with the class of 1968.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. Billy Daniels, Indianapolis; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Deline, Mrs. Vernon Hudson and daughters of Denver.

Miss Beyer Marries at St. Michael Archangel

The Church of St. Michael the Archangel was the scene of the wedding vows of Miss Jeanne Lynn Beyer and Jack Stanion Cummings Jr. at 2 p.m. Nov. 3. Chaplain (Maj.) Alston R. Chace officiated before an altar adorned with bronze mums and yellow carnations in silver urns and lighted by candles in silver candelabra. Nuptial music was the traditional wedding and recessional.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred E. Beyer, 2108 Eagle View Drive. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stanion Cummings Sr. of Stamford, Conn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white moss crepe with an A-line skirt and empire bodice featuring a semi-scooped neckline and elbow-length sleeves. Venise lace accented the gown and chapel-length train. Her fingertip veil of silk illusion flowed from a headpiece of silk, lace and seed pearl rose petals. She carried a cascade of yellow roses.

Linda Lee Beyer was her sister's maid of honor. She was gowned in a floor-length, A-line pale yellow brocade which featured a scooped neckline and elbow-length sleeves. Her headpiece was yellow tulle and she carried a nosegay of bronze pompons tied with green ribbon.

Other attendants, Jo Holtgrewe, Peggy Peele and Marilyn Marander, wore attire identical to that of the maid of honor.

Lt. Danny W. Hamilton was best man. Groomsmen and ushers were Lt. Gary R. Vasek, Cadet Lawrence .P Wiseburn and Cadet Bartow C. Tucker.

Mrs. Beyer chose a three-piece suit of aqua silk shantung for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother wore an ensemble of turquoise linen. Both wore cymbidium orchid corsages.

Assisting at a reception at the Medalion room, Medalion Apartment-Hotel were Jill McGilvra, Carrie Florom, Ann Jenkins, Carol Carpenter and Carol Rottman at the guest book.

For a wedding trip to San Francisco, the new Mrs. Cummings wore an off-white, double-knit, A-line dress with black accessories and a yellow rose corsage. The couple will make their home at Travis Air Force Base, Calif.

Guests attended from Stamford, Conn.; Lubbock, Tex.; Phoenix, Ariz.; Holstein, Iowa; Denver; Fort Collins; and Greeley.

The bride is a 1966 graduate of Wasson High School and attended Colorado State College, Greeley. The bridegroom graduated in 1964 from Rippowan High School in Stamford, Conn. and the Air Force Academy.

WEST'S DECEPTION IS BOOMERANG

East's two heart call was one of those weak two bids that are almost standard equipment for our modern experts. The bid shows a good six-card suit but not enough high card strength to open with a bid of one.

South's two spade bid was a normal and very sound overcall. West's two no - trump call was a forcing bid. He was trying to discourage further spade bids by North and South but he did not succeed. North raised to three spades anyway and South continued to four.

West continued to four no-trump as a further effort to confuse matters. He succeded admirably in his purpose, but unfortunately it turned out that his partner was confused, not North and South. East decided that his partner was bidding an unusual type of no-trump to ask for any sort of minor suit holding so East tried five clubs. South went on to five spades and West passed this around to his partner who doubled.

If West had just opened a heart against the spade contract, he would have been very happy with the result. South would surely have gone down and probably at least two tricks, but West had fallen for his own deception. He led the ace of clubs and continued. Dummy's 10 knocked out East's king. South ruffed, drew trumps, discarded his three hearts on dummy's good clubs, lost the diamond finesse and claimed the rest of the tricks and his contract.

"Well," said East to West, "you certainly played brilliantly but with conspicuous lack of success."

Junior Music Club Meets Wednesday at FAC

The Junior Music Club of Colorado Springs will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Music Room of the Fine Arts Center. All interested young musicians of High School age are invited. All meetings are open to the public. Anyone wishing further information may call Anda Zirnitis, 634-7383 or Mrs. James Yohn, 633-2921. Refreshments will be served following the program.

The guest for this month's meeting will be the Palmer High School Orchestra under the direction of Dean Delaney. Delaney is a graduate of Indiana University and is presently studying at Colorado College for his masters's degree. He conducts the orchestras at Mitchell, Palmer, and Wasson High Schools.

The orchestra will perform the First Movement of the Brandenburg Concerto 5 by J. S. Bach (1685-1750). This concerto is one of six concertos completed in 1721. The concertos were commissioned by the Margrave of Brandenburg and are written for a full string orchestra with solo violin, flute, and piano. They are modeled after the concerto grosso from which Bach inherited from Corelli.

Performing the solo parts will be Martha Muller on the violin, Ann Rasor on the flute, and Anda Zirnitis on the piano.

The program is as follows:

Erotik .... Greig
Betty Viola, piano
Love Is Blue
Andre Popp, music
Bryan Blackburn, English lyrics
Chris Mitchell
Candi Manchester

WEST'S DECEPTION IS BOOMERANG

East's two heart call was one of those weak two bids that are almost standard equipment for our modern experts. The bid shows a good six-card suit but not enough high card strength to open with a bid of one.

South's two spade bid was a normal and very sound overcall. West's two no - trump call was a forcing bid. He was trying to discourage further spade bids by North and South but he did not succeed. North raised to three spades anyway and South continued to four.

West continued to four no-trump as a further effort to confuse matters. He succeded admirably in his purpose, but unfortunately it turned out that his partner was confused, not North and South. East decided that his partner was bidding an unusual type of no-trump to ask for any sort of minor suit holding so East tried five clubs. South went on to five spades and West passed this around to his partner who doubled.

If West had just opened a heart against the spade contract, he would have been very happy with the result. South would surely have gone down and probably at least two tricks, but West had fallen for his own deception. He led the ace of clubs and continued. Dummy's 10 knocked out East's king. South ruffed, drew trumps, discarded his three hearts on dummy's good clubs, lost the diamond finesse and claimed the rest of the tricks and his contract.

"Well," said East to West, "you certainly played brilliantly but with conspicuous lack of success."

Junior Music Club Meets Wednesday at FAC

The Junior Music Club of Colorado Springs will hold its monthly meeting Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Music Room of the Fine Arts Center. All interested young musicians of High School age are invited. All meetings are open to the public. Anyone wishing further information may call Anda Zirnitis, 634-7383 or Mrs. James Yohn, 633-2921. Refreshments will be served following the program.

The guest for this month's meeting will be the Palmer High School Orchestra under the direction of Dean Delaney. Delaney is a graduate of Indiana University and is presently studying at Colorado College for his masters's degree. He conducts the orchestras at Mitchell, Palmer, and Wasson High Schools.

The orchestra will perform the First Movement of the Brandenburg Concerto 5 by J. S. Bach (1685-1750). This concerto is one of six concertos completed in 1721. The concertos were commissioned by the Margrave of Brandenburg and are written for a full string orchestra with solo violin, flute, and piano. They are modeled after the concerto grosso from which Bach inherited from Corelli.

Performing the solo parts will be Martha Muller on the violin, Ann Rasor on the flute, and Anda Zirnitis on the piano.

The program is as follows:

Erotik .... Greig
Betty Viola, piano
Love Is Blue
Andre Popp, music
Bryan Blackburn, English lyrics
Chris Mitchell
Candi Manchester
Sue Londagin
David Griesemer
Nick Rossi
Prelude, op. 28 No. 15 .... Chopin
Janice Hardgrove, piano

Doll Study Club Meets Friday At YWCA

Doll Study Club will meet Friday at 1:30 p.m. in the Craft room of the YWCA. German and American dolls will be discussed by Mrs. Dan Cameron and Mrs. James Ferris. There will be a display and slide program.

The president has asked all members to bring slides they have made to be entered into the new slide program. Also in this meeting all dolls and toys are to be brought for Christmas Unlimited, as Mrs. Zimmerman will be present to take the contribution.

The local club enjoyed a recent visit, display and talk by some of the members of the Doll'ers Club of Denver. It represented dressed dolls in costume, and the history of all the president's wives as in the Smithsonian Institute.

Members are asked to bring packages pertaining to Christmas to be sold for an addition to our treasury. Members may also bring a sack lunch.

FETED ON ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. Smith, 3 Sunshine Trail, Manitou Springs, were honored at a golden wedding anniversary reception given by their daughters, Mrs. Dean Hendricks of Manitou Springs and Mrs. Richard Ayer of Black Forest on Oct. 6. The open house was held in the Hendricks' new home at 208 Oak Place, Manitou Springs. Out-of-town guests were the David Hartman family, Dr. and Mrs. Marion Carnes and Don. Col. and Mrs. Lacey Martin, Winfred McAnally, Mr. and Mrs. Harley R. Jones and Kenneth, Mrs. Linda Miller, Denver; Mrs. Ione B. Jones, the James Ghist family, the Bill Hullett family, Florisant; and Mr. and Mrs. Bill McGuire, Woodland Park. Mr. and Mrs. Smith were married October 6, 1918 in Kansas City, Mo., and are long time residents of Manitou Springs.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Deadbeat Burns Her Up

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who is an honest, hard-working man, lent a man $200. My husband was so sure of this man's character that he didn't ask him to sign a note or anything. He didn't even charge him the regular interest.

This man has made no effort to pay back a dime of it, and it's been nearly 3 YEARS! Now listen to this. This deadbeat's sister is married to one of the richest men in this town. Everyone knows him. He has given away MILLIONS!

I told my husband to get in touch with this millionarie brother-in-law and ask him for the money, or I'd do it. Two hundred dollars doesn't mean any more to a millionaire than 25 cents. My husband refuses to do it. Should I?

BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: No. No man (regardless of how "rich" he is), is responsible for his brother-in-law's debts. It is a good bet that this "rich" brother-in-law has already given his deadbeat relative all the financial help he intends to, and has washed his hands of him, which is his privilege. Stay out of it.

DEAR ABBY I: am a girl, 14, who sits for a lady who has twin boys, 2, and a girl, 6. She also has a son, 15. When I sit there, I have more trouble with the 15-year-old boy than I do with the other kids, if you know what I mean. He is all the time talking dirty and like that.

I don't want to get this boy in trouble, but I really don't care to sit there again if I know that boy will be home. The lady is very nice and the baby sitting money sure comes in handy, so how do I solve my problem without getting the boy in trouble?

"CRESTVIEW 3"

DEAR "CRESTVIEW": Maybe the boy needs to get into "a little trouble" now in order to stay out of a lot of trouble later. The next time you are asked to sit there, tell the lady of the house to tell her son to behave himself, and I doubt if you'll have to stand for any more of his nonsense.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man of 40 and I recently met a very nice woman of 34 at a dance. Dancing is my favorite hobby and I would rather dance than eat. This lady is very nice in every way, but she is quite a bit on the heavy side; dancing with her is like dancing with a Sherman tank.

I like my partner to be light on her feet. Do you think it would help if she took some dancing lessons? Or should I hint that maybe she should lose some weight? I have an interest in her.

LOVES TO DANCE

DEAR LOVES: Size has very little to do with how "light" a dancer is on her feet. Some of the best dancers (men as well as women) are as wide as they are tall. Lessons might help, but if you have an "interest" in her, you're old enough to know that life is not one long waltz.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S NEW BOOKLET "WHAT TEEN-AGERS WANT TO KNOW," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL. 90069.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Deadbeat Burns Her Up

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who is an honest, hard-working man, lent a man $200. My husband was so sure of this man's character that he didn't ask him to sign a note or anything. He didn't even charge him the regular interest.

This man has made no effort to pay back a dime of it, and it's been nearly 3 YEARS! Now listen to this. This deadbeat's sister is married to one of the richest men in this town. Everyone knows him. He has given away MILLIONS!

I told my husband to get in touch with this millionarie brother-in-law and ask him for the money, or I'd do it. Two hundred dollars doesn't mean any more to a millionaire than 25 cents. My husband refuses to do it. Should I?

BURNED UP

DEAR BURNED: No. No man (regardless of how "rich" he is), is responsible for his brother-in-law's debts. It is a good bet that this "rich" brother-in-law has already given his deadbeat relative all the financial help he intends to, and has washed his hands of him, which is his privilege. Stay out of it.

DEAR ABBY I: am a girl, 14, who sits for a lady who has twin boys, 2, and a girl, 6. She also has a son, 15. When I sit there, I have more trouble with the 15-year-old boy than I do with the other kids, if you know what I mean. He is all the time talking dirty and like that.

I don't want to get this boy in trouble, but I really don't care to sit there again if I know that boy will be home. The lady is very nice and the baby sitting money sure comes in handy, so how do I solve my problem without getting the boy in trouble?

"CRESTVIEW 3"

DEAR "CRESTVIEW": Maybe the boy needs to get into "a little trouble" now in order to stay out of a lot of trouble later. The next time you are asked to sit there, tell the lady of the house to tell her son to behave himself, and I doubt if you'll have to stand for any more of his nonsense.

DEAR ABBY: I am a man of 40 and I recently met a very nice woman of 34 at a dance. Dancing is my favorite hobby and I would rather dance than eat. This lady is very nice in every way, but she is quite a bit on the heavy side; dancing with her is like dancing with a Sherman tank.

I like my partner to be light on her feet. Do you think it would help if she took some dancing lessons? Or should I hint that maybe she should lose some weight? I have an interest in her.

LOVES TO DANCE

DEAR LOVES: Size has very little to do with how "light" a dancer is on her feet. Some of the best dancers (men as well as women) are as wide as they are tall. Lessons might help, but if you have an "interest" in her, you're old enough to know that life is not one long waltz.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

FOR ABBY'S NEW BOOKLET "WHAT TEEN-AGERS WANT TO KNOW," SEND $1.00 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL. 90069.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

What can I do about an artificial fireplace that holds burning artificial logs, to make it look more real? It's red brick inside.

My neighbor also has one, but hers was gray cinder blocks inside and she has a gas heater in it.

A Reader

Stain 'em black inside! This will give it depth and make it look more real. Your paint dealer will tell you what type of paint or stain to use.

I have seen this done in apartments and it's fantastic. I've also seen it done where the inside of real fireplaces are only partially smoked black.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have a small chihuahua and he needs a very warm and cozy place to sleep. I bought a plastic foam ice chest with removable lid. Then cut a hole large enough so that he could go in and out.

I stapled an old wash cloth as a flap over the hole to keep the cold out and so dog can go in and out easily.

With a baby blanket inside, the heat of his body and and this type chest keeps my "Poncho" real warm.

Also, it's easy to lift off the lid, remove his bedding and wash the chest with the garden hose.

Blanche

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever have to push yourself out of bed to get to the kitchen to put the coffee pot on?

And know you HAD to get a husband off to work and three kids dressed for school — then wonder where Aladdin's helpful genie could be and wish you could borrow him for a while?

Housewife

Dear Heloise:

I love pretty head scarves, but they are not the ideal in cold weather. The most attractive colors and patterns are always in the sheerest materials — the kind the wind whistles through!

My solution is simple.

I buy the sheer scarves, then line them with clear plastic. By stitching all around, I now have scarves that are completely comfortable, attractive — and rain proof.

Kathy

Dear Heloise:

To those of you who have held on to those expensive silver cigarette cases that cannot be used for the long cigarets. . . .

I use mine as a bill and coin holder. The metal bars hold the bills neatly and coins are easy to spot.

Miss T. Gordi

Dear Heloise:

I shell and chop up nuts whenever I get a chance. Then I put them in an empty peanut butter jar, the kind with the measure markings on the side.

When a recipe calls for nuts, I just pour out the desired amount and put the rest back on the shelf of the refrigerator.

The nuts stay fresh and I always know exactly how many I have on hand for future use.

Georgi Vichinovac

Dear Heloise:

Did you know that you could return the smoothness to overwhipped synthetic cream topping by pouring a bit of cold, sweet milk into the overwhipped product?

Just stir it again lightly and it will regain its whipped perfection.

Laura J.

It works. Thank goodness. . . .

Heloise

Village Mission Will Be Topic At CWC Meet

Village Missions, an organization of over 200 missionaries providing Christian leadership in rural areas of our country, will be represented by Bob Collins, who will be the speaker at the luncheon meeting of Christian Women's Club South Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Holiday Inn.

Collins, who has been a part of the non-denominational organization since 1964 has been serving as a full time minister in Howard since last August when he came here from the Portland, Ore. area.

Sponsorship of this group of village and rural missionaries is a major project of the nation wide Christian Women's Clubs and Christian Business and Professional Women's Councils.

Mrs. John Morgan will provide the musical portion of Tuesday's program in addition to a display of holiday decorations and gift ideas which will be shown by Mrs. William Buth of the Craft Chalet.

An invitation is open to anyone who is interested in attending. Luncheon reservations are necessary and may be made by calling Mrs. Walter Brooks, 635-3193, or Mrs. Dale Penington, 632-2368. Nursery facilities are provided free of charge for mothers of young children.

Churchwomen Hold Final Meeting

The Episcopal Churchwomen of the Church of the Holy Spirit will hold the final general membership meeting of the year on Thursday at 12:45 a.m. at the Colorado Springs Country Club. Luncheon will be served, followed by a brief business meeting, and the guest speaker will be Mrs. Lawrence Lacour.

Mrs. Lacour, wife of the senior pastor of the First United Methodist Church, has chosen as her topic, "Stranger to Myself." In addition to her popularity as a speaker and discussion leader, Mrs. Lacour is also an accomplished musician, most noted for playing the harp. She has toured Europe with an orchestra and played the harp on a six-month tour of Japan. During six summers the Lacours lived in Japan and assisted in establishing 29 new churches.

All women of the Church of the Holy Spirit and their guests are invited to attend the luncheon. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Charles E. Cuff, 473-3801 or Mrs. Hodge Hartley, 596-2326.

Viennese Waltz Night Scheduled

The second in the series of Viennese Waltz Nights will be of the Broadmoor Hotel at 8:45 p.m. Wednesday. Many groups will be dining at the hotel before the dance.

The Allan Uhles orchestra will play for the dancing.

Special plans are being made for the Christmas Dance which will be in the second week of December.

A limited number of memberships are available. Contact should be made with presidents, Dr. and Mrs. Dwight Dawson, if interested, 632-2841.

Monta Rosa Rebekahs Set Meet, Social Hour

Monta Rosa Rebekah Lodge 4 will meet at 7:45 p.m. Friday at 128 N. Nevada Ave.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

What can I do about an artificial fireplace that holds burning artificial logs, to make it look more real? It's red brick inside.

My neighbor also has one, but hers was gray cinder blocks inside and she has a gas heater in it.

A Reader

Stain 'em black inside! This will give it depth and make it look more real. Your paint dealer will tell you what type of paint or stain to use.

I have seen this done in apartments and it's fantastic. I've also seen it done where the inside of real fireplaces are only partially smoked black.

Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I have a small chihuahua and he needs a very warm and cozy place to sleep. I bought a plastic foam ice chest with removable lid. Then cut a hole large enough so that he could go in and out.

I stapled an old wash cloth as a flap over the hole to keep the cold out and so dog can go in and out easily.

With a baby blanket inside, the heat of his body and and this type chest keeps my "Poncho" real warm.

Also, it's easy to lift off the lid, remove his bedding and wash the chest with the garden hose.

Blanche

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

Did you ever have to push yourself out of bed to get to the kitchen to put the coffee pot on?

And know you HAD to get a husband off to work and three kids dressed for school — then wonder where Aladdin's helpful genie could be and wish you could borrow him for a while?

Housewife

Dear Heloise:

I love pretty head scarves, but they are not the ideal in cold weather. The most attractive colors and patterns are always in the sheerest materials — the kind the wind whistles through!

My solution is simple.

I buy the sheer scarves, then line them with clear plastic. By stitching all around, I now have scarves that are completely comfortable, attractive — and rain proof.

Kathy

Dear Heloise:

To those of you who have held on to those expensive silver cigarette cases that cannot be used for the long cigarets. . . .

I use mine as a bill and coin holder. The metal bars hold the bills neatly and coins are easy to spot.

Miss T. Gordi

Dear Heloise:

I shell and chop up nuts whenever I get a chance. Then I put them in an empty peanut butter jar, the kind with the measure markings on the side.

When a recipe calls for nuts, I just pour out the desired amount and put the rest back on the shelf of the refrigerator.

The nuts stay fresh and I always know exactly how many I have on hand for future use.

Georgi Vichinovac

Dear Heloise:

Did you know that you could return the smoothness to overwhipped synthetic cream topping by pouring a bit of cold, sweet milk into the overwhipped product?

Just stir it again lightly and it will regain its whipped perfection.

Laura J.

It works. Thank goodness. . . .

Heloise

Village Mission Will Be Topic At CWC Meet

Village Missions, an organization of over 200 missionaries providing Christian leadership in rural areas of our country, will be represented by Bob Collins, who will be the speaker at the luncheon meeting of Christian Women's Club South Tuesday at 1 p.m. at the Holiday Inn.

Collins, who has been a part of the non-denominational organization since 1964 has been serving as a full time minister in Howard since last August when he came here from the Portland, Ore. area.

Sponsorship of this group of village and rural missionaries is a major project of the nation wide Christian Women's Clubs and Christian Business and Professional Women's Councils.

Mrs. John Morgan will provide the musical portion of Tuesday's program in addition to a display of holiday decorations and gift ideas which will be shown by Mrs. William Buth of the Craft Chalet.

An invitation is open to anyone who is interested in attending. Luncheon reservations are necessary and may be made by calling Mrs. Walter Brooks, 635-3193, or Mrs. Dale Penington, 632-2368. Nursery facilities are provided free of charge for mothers of young children.

Churchwomen Hold Final Meeting

The Episcopal Churchwomen of the Church of the Holy Spirit will hold the final general membership meeting of the year on Thursday at 12:45 a.m. at the Colorado Springs Country Club. Luncheon will be served, followed by a brief business meeting, and the guest speaker will be Mrs. Lawrence Lacour.

Mrs. Lacour, wife of the senior pastor of the First United Methodist Church, has chosen as her topic, "Stranger to Myself." In addition to her popularity as a speaker and discussion leader, Mrs. Lacour is also an accomplished musician, most noted for playing the harp. She has toured Europe with an orchestra and played the harp on a six-month tour of Japan. During six summers the Lacours lived in Japan and assisted in establishing 29 new churches.

All women of the Church of the Holy Spirit and their guests are invited to attend the luncheon. Reservations should be made with Mrs. Charles E. Cuff, 473-3801 or Mrs. Hodge Hartley, 596-2326.

Viennese Waltz Night Scheduled

The second in the series of Viennese Waltz Nights will be of the Broadmoor Hotel at 8:45 p.m. Wednesday. Many groups will be dining at the hotel before the dance.

The Allan Uhles orchestra will play for the dancing.

Special plans are being made for the Christmas Dance which will be in the second week of December.

A limited number of memberships are available. Contact should be made with presidents, Dr. and Mrs. Dwight Dawson, if interested, 632-2841.

Monta Rosa Rebekahs Set Meet, Social Hour

Monta Rosa Rebekah Lodge 4 will meet at 7:45 p.m. Friday at 128 N. Nevada Ave.

All visiting Rebekahs are invited and November birthdays will be honored at social hour.

Season's Fashion on Top-- It Is Hair on Hair

JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—When one thing is good all by itself is twice as much twice as good? You would think so, the way women are piling one pile of hair onto another this season.

A fashion craze or two ago women were cropping their locks to their ears, or indeed their skulls. Or they were ironing out yards of it straight, and stern, and bountiful.

And within a wink the kink was back. Obstinately, or so it appeared, as soon as each female had obtained the perfection of severity and straightness, she was determined to swing the style pendulum to the extreme.

Perhaps the black beauties started the trend towards curl by deciding not to follow slavishly the style dictates of whites and instead to wear their hair naturally, and profusely curly, the way of their heritage.

Often the effect was so startlingly fresh and dramatic that many envious whites were undergoing the tortures of tiny permanent rods, or were vigorously backcoming their hair without ever smoothing off the surface.

That was "fur" enough for summer, but not for winter.

Now the trend is to top one layer of hair with another. Nor does it matter really whether the hair is nature's own, or manufactured in the test tubes of textile laboratories, as long as it is a hat.

The effect is the thing. And the test is wheter or not it is busy or woolly?

The fur hat madness also has its roots in the fun fur coat vogue. The same time that somebody up there in high fashion decreed that it was perfectly all right to wear bunnies instead of minks it was determined that chapeaux should match.

The proliferation of cheapie furs has had a democraticizing effect on fashion throughout. If it was dandy to wear a bunny spotted like a leopard, it suddenly seemed acceptable to those who worry about such things to wrap themselves or top themselves in warmth and woolliness of fake furs. (To some with compunctions about wearing animal skins, the pretend furs offered the beauty and practicality of fur without limiting the animal population.

As a result every milliner of consequence has a lot of fuzzy ideas about furs and non-furs for the cold weather days ahead. Some conservatives cling to traditional berets and toques for furs while more adventurous designers are adapting military caps to hairy pelts. Indeed these is hardly a hat shape today, be it the romantic, big-brimmed calendar hat or the petite pea beanie, that is not bristly, bushy, woolly, kinky, curly, or sleekly hairy.

This is beautiful in itself. But the cost is also beautiful. Nonstatus fur hats are not expensive, of course, and non-fur hats are certainly not.

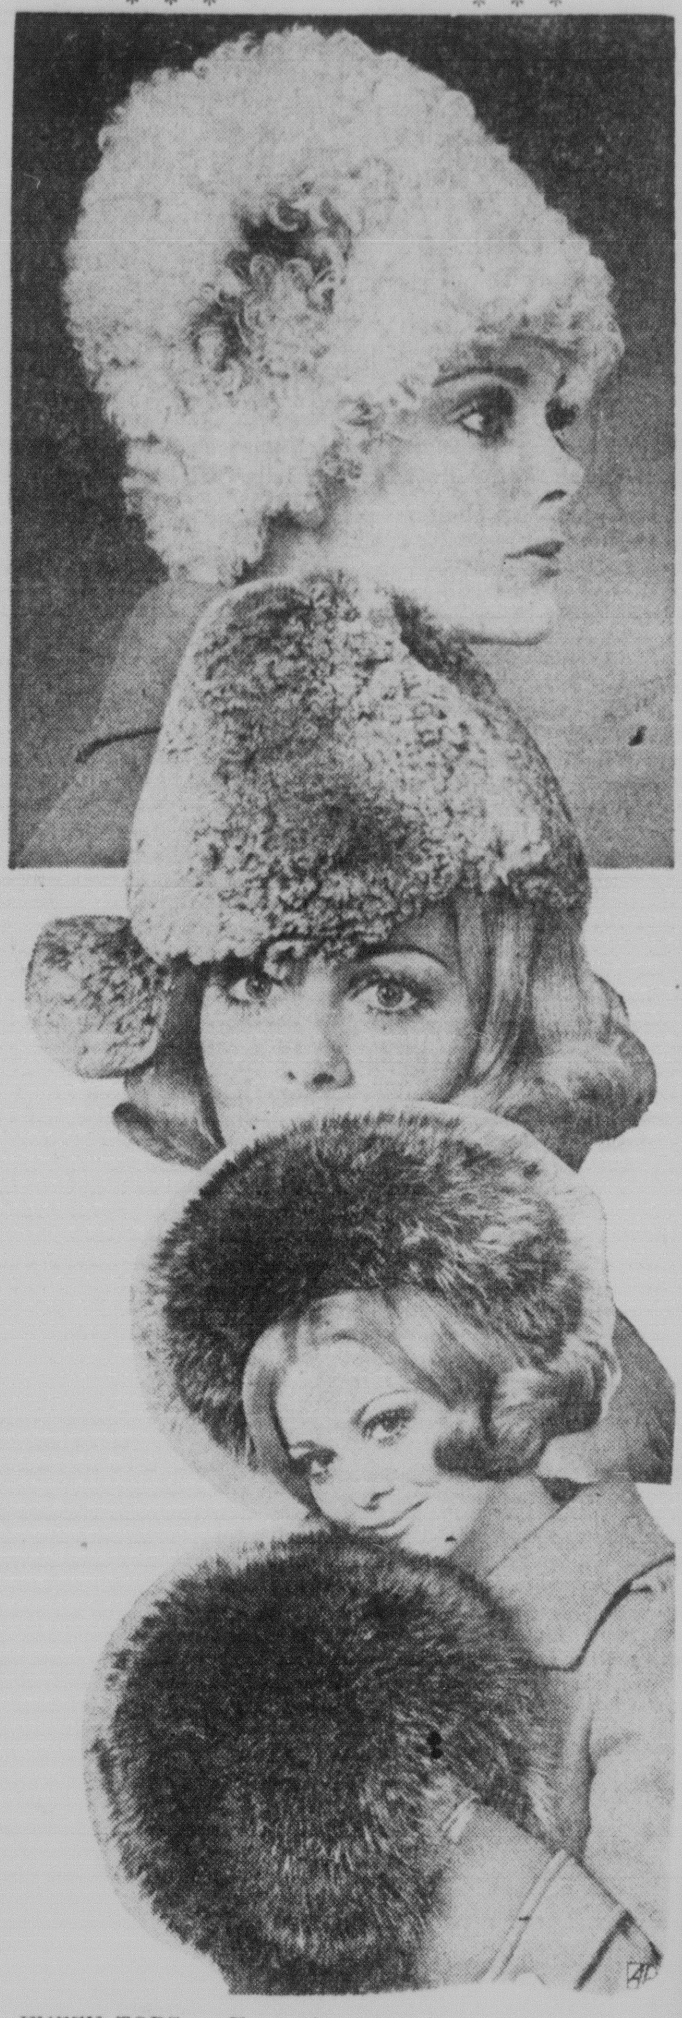
Add one pile of hair on top of another in the name of fashion and you have a warm-eared season ahead.



FUZZY TOPS — From the top, a high crowned toque of simulated white Indian lamb, by Westbury; a fake chinchilla grenadier's cap with side tassel, by Frank Olive; a side tilting beret of real raccoon with matching muff, of Westbury.

Childbirth Group Forming New Club

The Childbirth Education Association is forming a new club in order to extend its value and service beyond that of childbirth. This new club is called Child Study Club, which is planned to involve people interested in studying various aspects of children from birth to maturity.

The purpose of the organization shall be to promote parent education; to establish a closer relationship with our children, studying their problems and meeting them with our greatest understanding, and to develop a religious way of life for our families.

Membership in this organization to begin with, shall consist of mothers whose children are of preschool age or anyone interested in preschoolers. If there is interest in other ages of children, we will be glad to organize other groups.

These are many topics to be discussed and some possible programs are sex education, rainy day ideas, nursery school, book reviews and films. Outside speakers and authorities on these and other topics can be employed and plan to be.

The first meeting of the Child Study Club will be held Wednesday at 1 p.m. at 4811 Villa Circle in Vista Grande. The topic will be "Ideas for Christmas" and we hope people will bring samples of items that can be made in the home if they have some. We will also discuss at this meeting plans for future meetings and the organization of the club.

For reservations for the meeting Wednesday please call Mrs. Susan Fitch by Monday.

WCTU Meets On Wednesday

The Woman's Christian Temperance Unions will meet in the parlor of the First Baptist Church on Wednesday, at 2 p.m. The Devotional Service will concist of Roll Call with response by Thanksgiving verse of Scripture, or poem, concluding with prayer by Mrs. Elsie Jaeger.

Mrs. Merle Roe will sing. Mrs. Prudence S. Mick will have charge of a Dialogue, "Wanted—A Million."

Visitors are invited to attend.

Crystal Hills Sets Contest

The Crystal Hills Garden Club announces that it will sponsor a Christmas lighting and display contest for all residences located in Crystal Hills. Prizes will be given to the best decorated houses in the community. More details as well as the date of the judging will be announced to all residents of the area very shortly.

The Crystal Hills Garden Club will hold its next meeting on Monday, 7:30 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Edwin C. Pralle, 210 Crystal Hills Blvd.

Following the regular business meeting club members will participate in a workshop designed to make Christmas decorations and trimmings.

Pikes Peak Assembly Schedules Initiation

The Pikes Peak Assembly 4, Order of Rainbow for Girls, will meet at 7:15 p.m. Saturday for initiation at 9 N. Nevada Ave.

Childbirth Group Forming New Club

The Childbirth Education Association is forming a new club in order to extend its value and service beyond that of childbirth. This new club is called Child Study Club, which is planned to involve people interested in studying various aspects of children from birth to maturity.

The purpose of the organization shall be to promote parent education; to establish a closer relationship with our children, studying their problems and meeting them with our greatest understanding, and to develop a religious way of life for our families.

Membership in this organization to begin with, shall consist of mothers whose children are of preschool age or anyone interested in preschoolers. If there is interest in other ages of children, we will be glad to organize other groups.

These are many topics to be discussed and some possible programs are sex education, rainy day ideas, nursery school, book reviews and films. Outside speakers and authorities on these and other topics can be employed and plan to be.

The first meeting of the Child Study Club will be held Wednesday at 1 p.m. at 4811 Villa Circle in Vista Grande. The topic will be "Ideas for Christmas" and we hope people will bring samples of items that can be made in the home if they have some. We will also discuss at this meeting plans for future meetings and the organization of the club.

For reservations for the meeting Wednesday please call Mrs. Susan Fitch by Monday.

WCTU Meets On Wednesday

The Woman's Christian Temperance Unions will meet in the parlor of the First Baptist Church on Wednesday, at 2 p.m. The Devotional Service will concist of Roll Call with response by Thanksgiving verse of Scripture, or poem, concluding with prayer by Mrs. Elsie Jaeger.

Mrs. Merle Roe will sing. Mrs. Prudence S. Mick will have charge of a Dialogue, "Wanted—A Million."

Visitors are invited to attend.

Whittier Alumnae Group Meets with Mrs. Harris

The Whittier Alumnae Society will meet at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the home of Mrs. William Harris, 122 N. 33rd St.

Mrs. V. L. Blake will be cohostess.

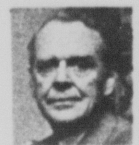
Ask Them Yourself

FOR CLARK CLIFFORD,



Secretary of Defense

How many nations now have troops fighting in South Vietnam?—Paul Wozniewski, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

● Seven. They are the Republic of South Vietnam, the United States, the Republic of South Korea, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, and North Vietnam.

FOR J. P. MONGE,

Vice president and treasurer, International Paper Company

Does the present trend in industrial specialization mean that more jobs will be available for handicapped workers?—Mrs. Steven Moyer, Regina, Saskatchewan, Canada

● Modern technology, especially in the fields of data processing and automation, present outstanding new opportunities for employment of the handicapped. This, coupled with a broader realization by industry that handicapped persons are valuable workers in specialized fields of employment, make prospects bright indeed.

FOR JAMES FARENTINO, actor

Is it true that you were a high-school dropout?—Charlotte Collin, New York, N.Y.

● Yes. After I dropped out, I "hung around," as they say. I observed other dropouts, older than I, wasting their lives. That wasn't for me. Happily I had a dream—to act—and that saved me from being a permanent dropout from life.

FOR J. EDGAR HOOVER, director, F.B.I.

Do you believe that stricter gun laws will stop the senseless killings in the U.S.?—Mrs. A. F. Cremer, Jefferson City, Mo.

● Yes. I am in favor of gun registration as one means of controlling violent crimes in the U.S. It is my belief that the registration of firearms should be required in every state and that the mail-order purchase of guns should be banned. I also believe it would be desirable for the Federal Government to pass supporting laws concerning gun registration to help local authorities control interstate traffic in firearms.

FOR AMY VANDERBILT

How does a husband refer to his wife in a general conversation?—Coy M. Etheridge, Lake Waccamaw, N.C.

● If everyone in the room knows that "Mary" is his wife, he would say, "Mary is in the hospital." If she is not "Mary" to everyone, then he would say, "My wife is in the hospital."

FOR WALTER REUTHER,

president, United Auto Workers

Are there any laws concerning children appearing in picket lines in the U.S.?—Mrs. George Hill, Langdon, N.D.

● There are no laws to my knowledge prohibiting children from picketing—except those devised by the strikers themselves. Children rarely participate in picket lines, though.

FOR DON RICKLES, comedian

You insult so many celebrities in your comedy routines; do they take offense?—Mary Schaefer, Bellevue, Iowa

● All my "victims" realize that my insulting routines are a form of flattery. I never pick on a "little guy"—only the "big," so there's no reason for them to take offense.

FOR ARNOLD PALMER

What is the greatest golf shot you have ever made?—James W. Hale, Jackson, Tenn.

● I like to think I haven't made it yet. Of those I have made, the one that comes to mind first is the sand wedge I hit out of high weeds behind the 18th green on the 36th hole of my semifinal match in the 1954 U.S. Amateur Championship. It wound up two feet from the hole. I made the putt to tie Ed Meister, won on the 39th hole, and then beat Bob Sweeny the next day for the championship.

FOR JACKIE GLEASON

Who has been the most inspiring person in your life?—Bob Zinke, Midland, Texas

● Bishop Fulton J. Sheen.

Vet's Day Note When the 442nd Infantry was called back to active duty last May by Uncle Sam, it was a family affair. The unit is the famed "Go for Broke" regimental combat team, composed of Japanese-Americans—the most decorated unit of World War II. In the 1968 version are three members who served in Italy 20-some years ago; of the "rookies," five are sons of former members, and dozens are cousins or nephews. The unit is now at Schofield Barracks, Hawaii, besieged by former "Go-for-Brokers" who want to return and sons who want to follow in Dad's footsteps. One who did is rifleman Stanford Miyamoto, whose sergeant is Kaoru Miyamoto, his father.

A Live Giveaway Posture is very revealing of status and attitude, according to "Psychology Today." "The more a person leans toward the person he is addressing, the more positively he feels about him. A speaker relaxes either very little or a great deal when he dislikes a person. People relax most with a low-status addressee, second most with a peer, and least with a superior."

The Natural Look Actress Bethel Leslie (soon to be seen in "The Molly Maguires" with Sean Connery) doesn't like to wear make-up off-screen. But her 11-year-old daughter, Leslie McCullough frequently urges, "Aren't you going to put on your eyes at least?" One day young Leslie experimented lavishly with cosmetics. After two hours, she had the most extravagant eyes—and an announcement: "Mother, now I know why you don't make up: its' too much work!" Aside from Bethel: "I don't want to tell her yet that practice makes it easier."

Sean Connery & Bethel Leslie

Edward Mulhare, Bachelor "Most marriages are a solemn warning against marriage," states Edward Mulhare, a real-life bachelor who plays the never-married Captain Gregg on NBC's "The Ghost and Mrs. Muir." "I consider marriage a sacramental state, and I'm not in one. I am accused of being pompous, and I am." How does a man get the most out of bachelorhood? "Have a nice home where you can entertain and a good housekeeper so you can." Who makes the ideal housekeeper? "An Asiatic who drives and doesn't live in." Does he have an ideal woman? "All women are ideal."

Anguished over her child's inability to learn, a worried mother heard of a strange disease called dyslexia; then she knew why...

"They Called My Son Retarded—But He Wasn't"

Learning rhythm helps dyslexic children overcome their handicap.

By BOB GAINES

THE WORRIED principal snapped shut little Lonnie Peterson's school record. "I don't know what we're doing wrong, Mrs. Peterson," he said. "You brought us a happy little boy. But now he's withdrawn and different."

For Mrs. Janet Peterson, a teacher herself in the Baltimore area, the principal's words only confirmed her growing fear that something was troubling Lonnie.

She now recalls, "I knew that he was basically a bright little boy. He had been so excited when he started school. But now his teacher told me that in class he seemed confused and rarely answered questions. He was beginning to develop a stutter."

Leaving the principal's office, Mrs. Peterson decided that Lonnie's learning problems might be solved through special tutoring.

She was mistaken. She had to go through years of worry that her youngster, as many people told her, was retarded. She suffered many disappointments before she learned the truth, that Lonnie was (and still is) a victim of dyslexia, a little-known disease which strikes nearly 10 percent of the nation' male population and 3 percent of the female.

What is dyslexia? It seems to be a malfunction in the electrical circuitry of the brain. Normally, if a person is right-handed, the left side of his brain is dominant; if he is left-handed, the right side is dominant. The dyslexic's problem, according to many doctors, is that the dominant side of his body is the same as the dominant side of his brain.

As a result, he is physically confused. He is often clumsy and uncoordinated. He has visual problems. Lonnie, for example, had difficulty distinguishing certain letters. His "p's" looked like "q's" to him, "b's" looked like "d's." A word such as "was" became "saw." Involuntarily, he was looking at words and numbers the wrong way around.

The dyslexic child can have other problems. He finds it difficult to concentrate in class. He daydreams. He often seems nervous and jittery.

What all this means to the dyslexic child is that he has a serious learning and functioning disability. If he does not receive special care, he can fall behind in his classroom studies.

One physician has summed up the results among dyslexic children this way: "Eventually, almost all of them learn to read after a fashion, but so inaccurately that many occupations are closed to them."

Fortunately for Mrs. Peterson, Lonnie was blessed with a stubborn determination to learn. She recalls, "We decided to see if he could work out his early learning problems by himself. We had no idea how serious his handicap was. But by the fourth grade, he still couldn't read well.

Then Mrs. Peterson and her husband met a specialist in children's diseases and first heard the word "dyslexia." "In those days very few people were aware of the problem, and they were just developing techniques for dealing with it," she recalls.

The first question Mrs. Peterson asked was, "What causes dyslexia?" The doctor could only say that no one knew (and even today medicine is in ignorance over the cause). Some doctors think it could be an injury inflicted on the central nervous system before, during, or after birth.

Other doctors say the malady may be inherited. Mrs. Peterson's husband, who is an engineer in the Baltimore area, had a problem similar to Lonnie's when he was a small boy. He was a slow reader and depended on his mother to help him after school.

The Petersons were told about special remedial reading and training programs, and Lonnie was enrolled. He responded eagerly and bicycled five miles to and from class every day.

These programs encourage the youngster to use senses other than his vision. One day, Mrs. Peterson and her husband visited Lonnie's summer school and found a classroom of children working on their "m's" and "n's"—two letters that give dyslexic youngsters a lot of trouble. Music was playing and the children were humming as they wrote. The humming helped them grasp the concept of "m."

In the same school, all the children had jump ropes. They were encouraged to practice with them every day. The jumping improves their coordination and sense of balance.

"We learned finally that there should be no stigma attached to dyslexia," states Mrs. Peterson. "The dyslexic child is not 'stupid.' Some of the world's most brilliant men, from da Vinci to Edison and Einstein, are said to have had dyslexia."

Thanks to the teachers who helped him, Lonnie learned to cope with his learning disability. Today he is 21 and attends an Eastern college.

"Lonnie refuses to consider himself a handicapped person," says his mother. "He feels that while he has had it harder than others in academic areas, they have had it harder than he in those realms where imagination, creativeness, and mechanical aptitudes are of value."

Lonnie has even taken to helping other dyslexics—for instance, his mother. While talking to physicians about Lonnie, Mrs. Peterson learned that she herself suffered from a mild dyslexia. Her balance had never been too good. She had never been able to ride a bike or roller-skate.

"But the problem was that no one ever forced me to do these things," she says. "Then Lonnie talked me into putting on some ice skates and trying out the frozen pond behind our house.

"I will never be as good a skater as he, but I can now ice skate." ◆

Is Your Child Dyslexic?

Dyslexia can rapidly turn a bright, inquisitive youngster into an unhappy school dropout. Every parent owes it to his child to answer these questions.

- Does he sometimes confuse his left from his right, up from down?
- Does he have difficulty telling time?
- Does he have a problem remembering dates?
- Is his handwriting close to being illegible?
- Is he awkward and uncoordinated?
- Does he frequently confuse similar words?
- When he does his arithmetic homework, does he sometimes make inexplicable mistakes (i.e., he knows 3x4 is 12, but he puts down 21)?

If you answer "yes" to four or more of these questions, it is possible your child may have a visual learning disability. Don't jump to any quick conclusions. Some children take longer to mature than others. But discuss it with your doctor.

Anguished over her child's inability to learn, a worried mother heard of a strange disease called dyslexia; then she knew why...

"They Called My Son Retarded—But He Wasn't"

Learning rhythm helps dyslexic children overcome their handicap.

By BOB GAINES

THE WORRIED principal snapped shut little Lonnie Peterson's school record. "I don't know what we're doing wrong, Mrs. Peterson," he said. "You brought us a happy little boy. But now he's withdrawn and different."

For Mrs. Janet Peterson, a teacher herself in the Baltimore area, the principal's words only confirmed her growing fear that something was troubling Lonnie.

She now recalls, "I knew that he was basically a bright little boy. He had been so excited when he started school. But now his teacher told me that in class he seemed confused and rarely answered questions. He was beginning to develop a stutter."

Leaving the principal's office, Mrs. Peterson decided that Lonnie's learning problems might be solved through special tutoring.

She was mistaken. She had to go through years of worry that her youngster, as many people told her, was retarded. She suffered many disappointments before she learned the truth, that Lonnie was (and still is) a victim of dyslexia, a little-known disease which strikes nearly 10 percent of the nation' male population and 3 percent of the female.

What is dyslexia? It seems to be a malfunction in the electrical circuitry of the brain. Normally, if a person is right-handed, the left side of his brain is dominant; if he is left-handed, the right side is dominant. The dyslexic's problem, according to many doctors, is that the dominant side of his body is the same as the dominant side of his brain.

As a result, he is physically confused. He is often clumsy and uncoordinated. He has visual problems. Lonnie, for example, had difficulty distinguishing certain letters. His "p's" looked like "q's" to him, "b's" looked like "d's." A word such as "was" became "saw." Involuntarily, he was looking at words and numbers the wrong way around.

The dyslexic child can have other problems. He finds it difficult to concentrate in class. He daydreams. He often seems nervous and jittery.

What all this means to the dyslexic child is that he has a serious learning and functioning disability. If he does not receive special care, he can fall behind in his classroom studies.

One physician has summed up the results among dyslexic children this way: "Eventually, almost all of them learn to read after a fashion, but so inaccurately that many occupations are closed to them."

Fortunately for Mrs. Peterson, Lonnie was blessed with a stubborn determination to learn. She recalls, "We decided to see if he could work out his early learning problems by himself. We had no idea how serious his handicap was. But by the fourth grade, he still couldn't read well.

Then Mrs. Peterson and her husband met a specialist in children's diseases and first heard the word "dyslexia." "In those days very few people were aware of the problem, and they were just developing techniques for dealing with it," she recalls.

The first question Mrs. Peterson asked was, "What causes dyslexia?" The doctor could only say that no one knew (and even today medicine is in ignorance over the cause). Some doctors think it could be an injury inflicted on the central nervous system before, during, or after birth.

Other doctors say the malady may be inherited. Mrs. Peterson's husband, who is an engineer in the Baltimore area, had a problem similar to Lonnie's when he was a small boy. He was a slow reader and depended on his mother to help him after school.

The Petersons were told about special remedial reading and training programs, and Lonnie was enrolled. He responded eagerly and bicycled five miles to and from class every day.

These programs encourage the youngster to use senses other than his vision. One day, Mrs. Peterson and her husband visited Lonnie's summer school and found a classroom of children working on their "m's" and "n's"—two letters that give dyslexic youngsters a lot of trouble. Music was playing and the children were humming as they wrote. The humming helped them grasp the concept of "m."

In the same school, all the children had jump ropes. They were encouraged to practice with them every day. The jumping improves their coordination and sense of balance.

"We learned finally that there should be no stigma attached to dyslexia," states Mrs. Peterson. "The dyslexic child is not 'stupid.' Some of the world's most brilliant men, from da Vinci to Edison and Einstein, are said to have had dyslexia."

Thanks to the teachers who helped him, Lonnie learned to cope with his learning disability. Today he is 21 and attends an Eastern college.

"Lonnie refuses to consider himself a handicapped person," says his mother. "He feels that while he has had it harder than others in academic areas, they have had it harder than he in those realms where imagination, creativeness, and mechanical aptitudes are of value."

Lonnie has even taken to helping other dyslexics—for instance, his mother. While talking to physicians about Lonnie, Mrs. Peterson learned that she herself suffered from a mild dyslexia. Her balance had never been too good. She had never been able to ride a bike or roller-skate.

TRAVEL

Group Tours: Time Saver and Money Saver

They're an answer to your travel problem—if you shop carefully for the right one

By TOM FAY

Companionship is an added bonus on group tours as these travelers, lunching at a sidewalk cafe in Madrid, Spain, find.

"I'D NEVER GO on a group tour. I don't like being herded around." How many times have you heard that statement?

And yet the group tour may be the best solution for the vacationer with only limited time and a limited budget. "Group tours are certainly ideal for the person who wants to cover a sizable area in a short period of time," says David R. M. Grover, president of Percival Tours, one of the nation's largest tour packagers.

"Many persons think that on a group tour, you live by the clock," Grover continues. "This isn't true. Anyone who has traveled a lot knows that the first time around, the escorted tour provides the highlights, introduces the area, and ensures that points of interest will not be omitted. Of course, if neither money nor time is a factor, then the tour offers no real advantage."

On any extended European trip, your first step should be to see a travel agent. He can answer many of your questions, guide your thinking, and care for the technical arrangements—transportation, hotels, sight-seeing, and the like. More than likely, he will recommend that you join a group tour.

For those who must be budget-conscious (the vast majority), the escorted tour offers the luxuries of travel at an economic price—a professional escort, experienced guides, certainty of reservations, porterage, and the assurance of companionship.

To highlight the difference in cost between the tour and "going it alone," Grover points out that, "A 21-day group tour to Europe would cost approximately $660 per person for land arrangements. Traveling independently, one would have to allow nearly 100 percent more to cover the same territory, with comparable hotels and restaurants, and a private car and special guides in cities."

"Another example of the group tour saving money," says Grover, "is sight-seeing. In London, for instance, a half-day tour by private car with guide would cost two people around $26. But for a group of 20 to 25 persons, traveling by private coach, with courier and guide, the cost would be prorated to approximately $2 per person. That's a substantial saving."

Besides the financial considerations, the escorted tour has other advantages, all of which can enhance your trip. You need not be concerned with the headaches of travel: someone has already mapped out your route, prearranged your accommodations, and taken care of your luggage.

There also is one intangible advantage that many overlook—companionship. Travel is enjoyed more when you share the fun with companions who have the same curiosity, who can appreciate the differences in customs, and who generally share the same pleasures.

One persistent question is whether children should be taken on group tours. "While parents should be the best judge of their children," says Grover, "the tour operator must use discretion. He has to make the undesirable decision of determining whether the child is old enough to enjoy the trip and not be irritating to others in the party." In general, children under 10 are not good travelers.

In deciding on which tour to take, you will do well to analyze carefully just what is offered. This is where a knowledgeable travel agent comes in handy, provided he is aware of your needs. Many tour folders show only minor differences—but these differences can sometimes make a great difference in the enjoyment of the trip.

Look at the distances between stopping points, for instance. Good planning on the part of your tour director will prevent the trip from becoming an endurance test. There is little enjoyment for the traveler if he arrives at a destination with only enough time to mail his postcards and leave for his next point.

Here are some important questions you should ask your travel agent before selecting a tour:

Does the operator "care" for the traveler? Are his comfort and convenience treated as important? Is all the information about the tour readily provided? Are the tour managers competent and experienced? Does the itinerary allow time for activities and shopping, or does the schedule come before the client? Are hotel standards maintained as advertised?

"Major tour operators usually can demand top service and accommodations at low prices by giving or withholding patronage," says Grover. "So they will take a second look at any place their clients complain about at trip's end."

Whether your trip abroad is a one-time event or the first of many, the escorted tour could be the answer to your travel problems. ◆

An Invitation to Lunch with Annemarie Huste...

...at which Jacqueline Kennedy's former cook tells you the truth about her being fired, how to prepare and serve an elegant meal—and some ideas about men, marriage, decorating

By TERRY SCHAERTEL

ANNEMARIE called down from the top of the stairs through a mist of plaster, "I'm sorry the place is such a frightful mess."

She had just returned from visiting her mother in Germany, expecting to find her New York apartment redecorated. Only the living-dining room was ready—as it had been before her sudden fame, as cook for Jacqueline Kennedy.

"It has taken me two years to furnish it, little by little, as I could afford it," Annemarie said. "Now I can complete it sooner." Her first book, "Annemarie's Personal Cookbook," is a sure-fire success, even before its release next Thursday.

The 25-year-old chef had begun compiling her collection of gourmet recipes in her teens. By the time her two-year-employment with Mrs. Kennedy was abruptly terminated last spring, she had enough material for a book—a fact an enterprising publisher soon noted after the newspapers picked up the various versions of her losing that job.

Annemarie told me how it really happened. A photographer friend of hers suggested she submit some of her special recipes to a new diet magazine because anything Annemarie prepares always looks beautiful ("I have my own theories on decorating a dish. Never bits and pieces of parsley, but one big flourish"). And that was the beginning of the end—as well as the beginning of a new life for Annemarie Huste.

The magazine was delighted with the recipes, which were not high in calories ("I don't think food must be fattening to be good"). But the recipes were to be accompanied by a text which implied that such food just might have been responsible for Jacqueline Kennedy's present slenderness (she had gone from size 12 to 8 in only a year.)

When Annemarie found out, she tried to withdraw her contribution. It was too late. Very upset, she hastened to explain to her employer. Mrs. Kennedy was not pleased, of course ("You should have known better") but excused the girl's honest mistake.

Family Weekly's writer tastes an Annemarie dish.

The issue hit the newsstands with the Jacqueline Kennedy slimness theme featured on the cover. A few hours later, Annemarie was told by phone that Mrs. Kennedy felt it would be better if she "didn't come back to work."

From that moment on, Annemarie's life was not her own. Television news cameras invaded her small apartment. Her phone rang day and night with calls from the curious, the cranks, and the press.

She didn't know what to do. She'd always made it a practice not to discuss her job with anyone, and now the whole world wanted to know everything, from why she was fired to intimate details of "Jackie's men friends." Furthermore, she was out of work, living alone with no family near, "less than $200 saved," and no thought of unemployment compensation ("I don't think I was eligible, and anyhow I wouldn't"). Who could she turn to for advice?

Then she remembered some acquaintances, literary agents, who knew a lot of people and had a lot of know-how in this complicated world. They were out of town. When she finally reached them, they suggested one of their clients, an attorney who advised Annemarie not to hide, but to face her inquisitors and tell her side, her innocence.

"I never signed that contract, never heard about it until this"—referring to a contract which Kennedy employees were to sign, agreeing never to write about their experiences or observations. "But I wouldn't anyway; it is my personal integrity," Annemarie says. "Mrs. Kennedy is a great woman. She's entitled to her privacy."

And Annemarie has held to that conviction steadfastly to this day, saying nothing about the Kennedys other than "I enjoyed working for her and admired her. I loved the children."

In Annemarie's third-floor walk-up apartment in Manhattan's old Yorkville section, the original bathroom walls were "old broken tiles." The plasterers removed them the morning I had lunch with her. The window—which, says Annemarie, "I could never open anyway and didn't have much of a view"—was now completely covered with mirror, ready for glass shelving to fill in the niche; so was the wall opposite, over the tub. A new oval sink and cabinet were topped with a big theatrical make-up mirror.

The green wall-to-wall carpeting, she told me, was her very first purchase for the apartment. At that time she was living in the small room provided for her at Mrs. Kennedy's, but "I'm too much of a private person to have wanted it. As soon as the black sofa bed in the living room was delivered, I was ready to move in to my own place."

She is waiting now for a photo blow-up of Copacabana Beach in Rio de Janeiro, where she recently visited her brother, a personnel director with Lufthansa, the German airline. "All I need is a sunlamp and a bikini, and there I am," she said cheerfully.

Next to the sofa is her shelf full of loose-leaf notebooks of recipes she has been clipping from magazines over the years. She made the covers herself in pinks and greens.

In her tiny kitchen, Annemarie commented, "I hate the look of wood in a kitchen." So she painted the wooden cabinet doors pink, her favorite color, and lined the interiors with pink-flowered vinyl. An Invitation to Lunch with Annemarie Huste...

...at which Jacqueline Kennedy's former cook tells you the truth about her being fired, how to prepare and serve an elegant meal—and some ideas about men, marriage, decorating

By TERRY SCHAERTEL

ANNEMARIE called down from the top of the stairs through a mist of plaster, "I'm sorry the place is such a frightful mess."

She had just returned from visiting her mother in Germany, expecting to find her New York apartment redecorated. Only the living-dining room was ready—as it had been before her sudden fame, as cook for Jacqueline Kennedy.

"It has taken me two years to furnish it, little by little, as I could afford it," Annemarie said. "Now I can complete it sooner." Her first book, "Annemarie's Personal Cookbook," is a sure-fire success, even before its release next Thursday.

The 25-year-old chef had begun compiling her collection of gourmet recipes in her teens. By the time her two-year-employment with Mrs. Kennedy was abruptly terminated last spring, she had enough material for a book—a fact an enterprising publisher soon noted after the newspapers picked up the various versions of her losing that job.

Annemarie told me how it really happened. A photographer friend of hers suggested she submit some of her special recipes to a new diet magazine because anything Annemarie prepares always looks beautiful ("I have my own theories on decorating a dish. Never bits and pieces of parsley, but one big flourish"). And that was the beginning of the end—as well as the beginning of a new life for Annemarie Huste.

The magazine was delighted with the recipes, which were not high in calories ("I don't think food must be fattening to be good"). But the recipes were to be accompanied by a text which implied that such food just might have been responsible for Jacqueline Kennedy's present slenderness (she had gone from size 12 to 8 in only a year.)

When Annemarie found out, she tried to withdraw her contribution. It was too late. Very upset, she hastened to explain to her employer. Mrs. Kennedy was not pleased, of course ("You should have known better") but excused the girl's honest mistake.

The issue hit the newsstands with the Jacqueline Kennedy slimness theme featured on the cover. A few hours later, Annemarie was told by phone that Mrs. Kennedy felt it would be better if she "didn't come back to work."

Family Weekly's writer tastes an Annemarie dish.

From that moment on, Annemarie's life was not her own. Television news cameras invaded her small apartment. Her phone rang day and night with calls from the curious, the cranks, and the press.

She didn't know what to do. She'd always made it a practice not to discuss her job with anyone, and now the whole world wanted to know everything, from why she was fired to intimate details of "Jackie's men friends." Furthermore, she was out of work, living alone with no family near, "less than $200 saved," and no thought of unemployment compensation ("I don't think I was eligible, and anyhow I wouldn't"). Who could she turn to for advice?

Then she remembered some acquaintances, literary agents, who knew a lot of people and had a lot of know-how in this complicated world. They were out of town. When she finally reached them, they suggested one of their clients, an attorney who advised Annemarie not to hide, but to face her inquisitors and tell her side, her innocence.

"I never signed that contract, never heard about it until this"—referring to a contract which Kennedy employees were to sign, agreeing never to write about their experiences or observations. "But I wouldn't anyway; it is my personal integrity," Annemarie says. "Mrs. Kennedy is a great woman. She's entitled to her privacy."

And Annemarie has held to that conviction steadfastly to this day, saying nothing about the Kennedys other than "I enjoyed working for her and admired her. I loved the children."

In Annemarie's third-floor walk-up apartment in Manhattan's old Yorkville section, the original bathroom walls were "old broken tiles." The plasterers removed them the morning I had lunch with her. The window—which, says Annemarie, "I could never open anyway and didn't have much of a view"—was now completely covered with mirror, ready for glass shelving to fill in the niche; so was the wall opposite, over the tub. A new oval sink and cabinet were topped with a big theatrical make-up mirror.

The green wall-to-wall carpeting, she told me, was her very first purchase for the apartment. At that time she was living in the small room provided for her at Mrs. Kennedy's, but "I'm too much of a private person to have wanted it. As soon as the black sofa bed in the living room was delivered, I was ready to move in to my own place."

She is waiting now for a photo blow-up of Copacabana Beach in Rio de Janeiro, where she recently visited her brother, a personnel director with Lufthansa, the German airline. "All I need is a sunlamp and a bikini, and there I am," she said cheerfully.

Next to the sofa is her shelf full of loose-leaf notebooks of recipes she has been clipping from magazines over the years. She made the covers herself in pinks and greens.

Annemarie's Recipes For That Very Special Lunch

■ Here is the lunch Annemarie Huste served Family Weekly's Terry Schaertel and recommends you try when you have extra special guests.

Spinach Soup

4 cups of chicken broth
2 pkgs. frozen leaf spinach
Salt and freshly ground pepper

1. Put chicken broth into a saucepan. Add spinach. Bring slowly to a boil and simmer for about 15 min. Add salt and pepper to taste and simmer for another 5 min. Strain and serve the broth.

4 servings

Bibb Lettuce Salad

2 heads of bibb lettuce
1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley
1 tablespoon finely chopped chives
1 tablespoon finely chopped tarragon
¼ cup vegetable oil
1 tablespoon olive oil
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
Freshly ground black pepper to taste

1. Wash and dry lettuce well and keep refrigerated until ready to use.

2. Put all other ingredients in top of a blender and blend until well combined. At serving time, pour over lettuce and toss well. Serve immediately. 4 servings

Sirloin Steak with Sauce Bordelaise

1 sirloin steak about 1 inch thick
1 teaspoon bacon fat
Salt and freshly ground pepper

Sauce

¾ cup red Bordeaux wine
½ cup finely chopped shallots
1 clove finely chopped garlic
1 bayleaf
1 cup beef consommé
1 teaspoon meat extract
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
3 tablespoons finely sliced beef marrow
Salt and freshly ground pepper

1. Prepare sauce in advance.

2. Put wine in a small saucepan and add shallots, garlic, and bayleaf. Simmer until wine is reduced to half the original quantity. Add the consommé and meat extract; simmer for another 20 min. Strain the sauce, squeezing down on the shallots and garlic, and return to the saucepan.

3. Poach finely sliced marrow in boiling salted water for 5 min. Drain and add to the sauce with lemon juice, salt, and freshly ground pepper to taste. In a heavy frying pan, heat the bacon fat until it starts to smoke. Place seasoned steak into bacon fat and let it sizzle over high heat for about 1 min. Turn and sear on the other side. Adjust the heat so that the steak may cook rapidly but without burning. Fry for about 6 min. on each side, turning it once in a while. When done, serve sliced, with the sauce either poured over it or on the side. 4 servings

Chocolate Normandy

1 lb. sweet chocolate
24 chocolate cats tongues
5 tablespoons Kahlua
2 tablespoons water
1½ sticks of sweet butter, softened
½ cup confectioners' sugar
4 egg yolks
½ cup of finely ground salted almonds
2 cups heavy cream
1 teaspoon vanilla extract or the scraping of half a vanilla bean
3 egg whites beaten to soft peaks

1. Take a 1-quart charlotte mold, cut a circle of waxpaper fitting the bottom of the mold exactly. Line the sides of the mold with the chocolate cats tongues, putting a speck of butter on the flat side so they will stick upright to the mold. Put them together as close as possible so there won't be any space in between them. Then put the mold aside and make the mousse.

2. Break the chocolate into small pieces and put it into a heavy saucepan, adding the Kahlua and water. Stir with a wooden spoon over a very low flame until the chocolate is melted. Remove from fire and put aside. In a mixing bowl, cream the butter until light and fluffy, then add the sugar, beat again, and add the egg yolks one at a time. Mix until well blended; add almonds and melted chocolate.

3. In another bowl, whip the heavy cream until it begins to thicken; add the vanilla and continue beating until the cream is stiff enough to hold its shape. Blend it carefully into the chocolate mixture, adding the egg whites until well combined. Pour this mixture into the mold, cover it with waxpaper, and then freeze for 2 hours.

4. At serving time, run a knife carefully between the mold and chocolate tongues and turn out on a flat serving dish. Remove the circle of paper and garnish with candied violets or chocolate shavings. Tie a satin ribbon around the sides to cover the spots of butter on the outside. 8 to 10 servings sories," as one might expect in the workroom of a celebrated young chef. "I don't go for hanging gadgets in a kitchen. They should be in closets."

She began washing the salad greens under running water. "Not in a bowl of water. This is the only way to tell if there is anything in it." She examined each leaf, discarding the most microscopic imperfections. "It might not be noticed, but I want to have a perfect salad. Looks are as important as food. After washing, put greens in a plastic bag with a sheet of paper toweling to absorb moisture and leave it in the refrigerator."

Annemarie grew up in Germany; her parents were divorced when she was seven. Her mother was a businesswoman ("not much of a cook"), who did not encourage her to become a chef. "In Germany, a girl out of a good house can't be a cook; she told me to have a profession." To satisfy her mother, Annemarie became a shoe clerk. "In Germany everything is a profession. You train three years, must know every bone in the foot. I always did well, sold premium shoes.

"All my life I have found if you're nice to people, people will be nice to you." But after the eight basic years of schooling, Annemarie quit at 16. "Once I was of age, however, I became a gourmet chef to a local family. I have never been to a cooking school. I hate schools. I learned on my own. I read cookbooks like other people read novels. First, I do it their way, then my way.

"I've been on my own since I was 16. I never took a penny from my mother." Annemarie is the youngest in the family and the only girl. Her recent visit to Germany, returning as a celebrity, brought much publicity to the fur shop owned by her mother and brother. "I told them I should have a mink coat for the increased business," she grinned. (She's getting it for Christmas.)

She admits to a certain amount of luck in her life: "It takes luck to get a job (she had been chef, with assistants, for the late showman Billy Rose), but then it is up to you. You must want it and be capable. You can't win unless you gamble. If I can make it, fine; if not, fine. I can always go back to working for someone. (That seems unlikely in view of the success of her cookbook and the many business deals stemming from it.) You wouldn't believe how much money is involved. If I made millions, I would never hire a cook." Perhaps someone to clean up? "Yes, if I had a house man, I would cook 24 hours a day."

Annemarie Huste...

started the main luncheon course on a low flame. The spinach soup was chilling in the refrigerator.

She believes in "sneaking in" high-nutriment food, especially for children. "Today's children are overfed and undernourished," she says. "They eat all this junk. Want sweets? Make great desserts. Hot chocolate, butter, that's good for them. Soft drinks are the worst thing. It only takes a minute to make fresh juice. That's what a mother's for. You can't stop children from eating that stuff, but you can eliminate some."

Does she have a secret for getting fussy children to eat properly?

"You can make a child eat much easier if you make food attractive-looking—creamed chicken, lamb chops, steak, hamburgers. With children, you can really 'cheat' (this is her term for "sneaking in" nutriments). In creamed spinach, add one or two spoons of chopped parsley; the kid won't know anyhow.

"Always use wheat germ instead of bread crumbs. Use powdered milk for the added minerals. Raw sugar—white has everything taken out to make it look nice. Put fruit in the blender and then freeze it on a stick in an ice-cube tray instead of this watery stuff you buy."

When did Annemarie think babies should begin eating at the table with the grownups? "As soon as they can sit in a high chair. They should learn how to be with adults and eat properly. And behave at all times, not just with company. Of course, one should never push a child—he will hate it. Just once in a while."

I reminded Annemarie that some husbands are too tense and exhausted after a long, hard day at the office to feel like putting up with baby's table manners.

"In this country, men work so hard, you should spoil them. If he doesn't want to have the kids around, feed them early, put them to bed. Perhaps he can just say good night. Women should make a husband feel that she wants to be with him.

"For instance, most men want a drink when they come home, so it doesn't take any time to chill a glass in the freezer that morning. You've got all day long to run around in rollers if you want to. Have the table set, candles lit. Sit next to him and—well, be nice."

Annemarie shows some special recipes from her new best-selling cookbook.

What about marriage for herself?

"Some day the right man will come along; I'm not in a hurry. I would marry only for love. I would never marry a German. They're too spoiled, snobbish; they think they are kings. They expect a woman to be a slave, expect her to polish his boots—I would do that if I were in love and wanted to, but I don't want to have to do it.

"I'm not the jealous type. When I'm walking with a boy friend and we pass a beautiful model, I'll say, 'Hey, she looks great.' If he thinks so, too, I add, 'But she can't cook.'"

Annemarie's dining area is at the north end of the living room. She made the deep pink draperies for the tall, old windows and had shelves put up for more cookbooks and for table settings, of which she has two—"One romantic (pink and gold) and one regular (a full set of plain white). I'll use the romantic—it's my best. I bought it when I could afford only two of everything."

The round white Saarinen table and four swivel chairs fit the small space neatly. Annemarie put down a pink linen liner and untied the strings on a department-store box. "You're the first to use it," she said, taking out an embroidered white linen tablecloth. "I usually iron it the night before, so all the creases are out. Whatever I do, I believe one should do the best or don't do it at all. It's not work to me. I really love all this. Cooking is part of love," Annemarie said. She paused, considering her remark.

"No, that sounds like hippies. I just don't understand the hippies."

"It's too bad," I commented, "that they don't understand the joy of working, working at something they like. You like what you do, I like what I do."

"Yes, work is our thing!" she smiled triumphantly at her bon mot.

As we sat down to eat, Annemarie said, "Let me serve you; I never let guests help themselves." During dessert, a light chocolate-almond mousse ("You need the almond flavor to cut the rich sweetness"), Annemarie summed up how she felt about her life in the challenging months since she lost her job as Mrs. Kennedy's $125-a-week cook.

"I live each day as though it were the last. If I died tomorrow, I would be sorry—but I've had a full life. Life is too short to bother with things you don't like." Annemarie never was bitter about being fired—she understood the reasoning, though "inaccurate"—even back when her future looked bleak and uncertain.

In negotiation now are many enterprises: a possible tv show of her own ("I want to show people cooking is fun; all the household arts are"), endorsing some household products she prefers, and her dream of a private gourmet club ("I've no time until the book is out, but there is a great need for one. American businessmen have so much money and no perfect restaurant").

Only last Christmas Mrs. Kennedy had written Annemarie a note: "A very Merry Christmas, and thank you for all you have done for me. You make such a happy house when you let the children help you cook. I hope the New Year is happy for you."

That hope seems to have been fulfilled now. ◆

started the main luncheon course on a low flame. The spinach soup was chilling in the refrigerator.

She believes in "sneaking in" high-nutriment food, especially for children. "Today's children are overfed and undernourished," she says. "They eat all this junk. Want sweets? Make great desserts. Hot chocolate, butter, that's good for them. Soft drinks are the worst thing. It only takes a minute to make fresh juice. That's what a mother's for. You can't stop children from eating that stuff, but you can eliminate some."

Does she have a secret for getting fussy children to eat properly?

"You can make a child eat much easier if you make food attractive-looking—creamed chicken, lamb chops, steak, hamburgers. With children, you can really 'cheat' (this is her term for "sneaking in" nutriments). In creamed spinach, add one or two spoons of chopped parsley; the kid won't know anyhow.

"Always use wheat germ instead of bread crumbs. Use powdered milk for the added minerals. Raw sugar—white has everything taken out to make it look nice. Put fruit in the blender and then freeze it on a stick in an ice-cube tray instead of this watery stuff you buy."

When did Annemarie think babies should begin eating at the table with the grownups? "As soon as they can sit in a high chair. They should learn how to be with adults and eat properly. And behave at all times, not just with company. Of course, one should never push a child—he will hate it. Just once in a while."

I reminded Annemarie that some husbands are too tense and exhausted after a long, hard day at the office to feel like putting up with baby's table manners.

"In this country, men work so hard, you should spoil them. If he doesn't want to have the kids around, feed them early, put them to bed. Perhaps he can just say good night. Women should make a husband feel that she wants to be with him.

"For instance, most men want a drink when they come home, so it doesn't take any time to chill a glass in the freezer that morning. You've got all day long to run around in rollers if you want to. Have the table set, candles lit. Sit next to him and—well, be nice."

Annemarie shows some special recipes from her new best-selling cookbook.

What about marriage for herself?

"Some day the right man will come along; I'm not in a hurry. I would marry only for love. I would never marry a German. They're too spoiled, snobbish; they think they are kings. They expect a woman to be a slave, expect her to polish his boots—I would do that if I were in love and wanted to, but I don't want to have to do it.

"I'm not the jealous type. When I'm walking with a boy friend and we pass a beautiful model, I'll say, 'Hey, she looks great.' If he thinks so, too, I add, 'But she can't cook.' "

Annemarie's dining area is at the north end of the living room. She made the deep pink draperies for the tall, old windows and had shelves put up for more cookbooks and for table settings, of which she has two—"One romantic (pink and gold) and one regular (a full set of plain white). I'll use the romantic—it's my best. I bought it when I could afford only two of everything."

Annemarie Huste...

started the main luncheon course on a low flame. The spinach soup was chilling in the refrigerator.

She believes in "sneaking in" high-nutriment food, especially for children. "Today's children are overfed and undernourished," she says. "They eat all this junk. Want sweets? Make great desserts. Hot chocolate, butter, that's good for them. Soft drinks are the worst thing. It only takes a minute to make fresh juice. That's what a mother's for. You can't stop children from eating that stuff, but you can eliminate some."

Does she have a secret for getting fussy children to eat properly?

"You can make a child eat much easier if you make food attractive-looking—creamed chicken, lamb chops, steak, hamburgers. With children, you can really 'cheat' (this is her term for "sneaking in" nutriments). In creamed spinach, add one or two spoons of chopped parsley; the kid won't know anyhow.

"Always use wheat germ instead of bread crumbs. Use powdered milk for the added minerals. Raw sugar—white has everything taken out to make it look nice. Put fruit in the blender and then freeze it on a stick in an ice-cube tray instead of this watery stuff you buy."

I reminded Annemarie that some husbands are too tense and exhausted after a long, hard day at the office to feel like putting up with baby's table manners.

"In this country, men work so hard, you should spoil them. If he doesn't want to have the kids around, feed them early, put them to bed. Perhaps he can just say good night. Women should make a husband feel that she wants to be with him.

"For instance, most men want a drink when they come home, so it doesn't take any time to chill a glass marry only for love. I would never marry a German. They're too spoiled, snobbish; they think they are kings. They expect a woman to be a slave, expect her to polish his boots—I would do that if I were in love and wanted to, but I don't want to have to do it.

Annemarie shows some special recipes from her new best-selling cookbook.

"I'm not the jealous type. When I'm walking with a boy friend and we pass a beautiful model, I'll say, 'Hey, she looks great.' If he thinks so, too, I add, 'But she can't cook.' "

Annemarie's dining area is at the north end of the living room. She made the deep pink draperies for the tall, old windows and had shelves put up for more cookbooks and for table settings, of which she has two—"One romantic (pink and gold) and one regular (a full set of plain white). I'll use the romantic—it's my best. I bought it when I could afford only two of everything."

The round white Saarinen table and four swivel chairs fit the small space neatly. Annemarie put down a pink linen liner and untied the strings on a department-store box. "You're the first to use it," she said, taking out an embroidered white linen tablecloth. "I usually iron it the night before, so all the creases are out. Whatever I do, I believe one should do the best or don't do it at like. You like what you do, I like what I do."

"Yes, work is our thing!" she smiled triumphantly at her bon mot.

As we sat down to eat, Annemarie said, "Let me serve you; I never let guests help themselves." During dessert, a light chocolate-almond mousse ("You need the almond flavor to cut the rich sweetness"), Annemarie summed up how she felt about her life in the challenging months since she lost her job as Mrs. Kennedy's $125-a-week cook.

"I live each day as though it were the last. If I died tomorrow, I would be sorry—but I've had a full life. Life is too short to bother with things you don't like." Annemarie never was bitter about being fired—she understood the reasoning, though "inaccurate"—even back when her future looked bleak and uncertain.

In negotiation now are many enterprises: a possible tv show of her own ("I want to show people cooking is fun; all the household arts are"), endorsing some household products she prefers, and her dream of a private gourmet club ("I've no time until the book is out, but there is a great need for one. American businessmen have so much money and no perfect restaurant").

started the main luncheon course on a low flame. The spinach soup was chilling in the refrigerator.

She believes in "sneaking in" high-nutriment food, especially for children. "Today's children are overfed and undernourished," she says. "They eat all this junk. Want sweets? Make great desserts. Hot chocolate, butter, that's good for them. Soft drinks are the worst thing. It only takes a minute to make fresh juice. That's what a mother's for. You can't stop children from eating that stuff, but you can eliminate some."

Does she have a secret for getting fussy children to eat properly?

"You can make a child eat much easier if you make food attractive-looking—creamed chicken, lamb chops, steak, hamburgers. With children, you can really 'cheat' (this is her term for "sneaking in" nutriments). In creamed spinach, add one or two spoons of chopped parsley; the kid won't know anyhow.

"Always use wheat germ instead of bread crumbs. Use powdered milk for the added minerals. Raw sugar—white has everything taken out to make it look nice. Put fruit in the blender and then freeze it on a stick in an ice-cube tray instead of this custom stuff you buy."

I reminded Annemarie that some husbands are too tense and exhausted after a long, hard day at the office to feel like putting up with baby's table manners.

"In this country, men work so hard, you should spoil them. If he doesn't want to have the kids around, feed them early, put them to bed. Perhaps he can just say good night. Women should make a husband feel that she wants to be with him.

"For instance, most men want a drink when they come home, so it doesn't take any time to chill a glass marry only for love. I would never marry a German. They're too spoiled, snobbish; they think they are kings. They expect a woman to be a slave, expect her to polish his boots—I would do that if I were in love and wanted to, but I don't want to have to do it.

Annemarie shows some special recipes from her new best-selling cookbook.

"I'm not the jealous type. When I'm walking with a boy friend and we pass a beautiful model, I'll say, 'Hey, she looks great.' If he thinks so, too, I add, 'But she can't cook.' "

Annemarie's dining area is at the north end of the living room. She made the deep pink draperies for the tall, old windows and had shelves put up for more cookbooks and for table settings, of which she has two —"One romantic (pink and gold) and one regular (a full set of plain white). I'll use the romantic—it's my best. I bought it when I could afford only two of everything."

The round white Saarinen table and four swivel chairs fit the small space neatly. Annemarie put down a pink linen liner and untied the strings on a department-store box. "You're the first to use it," she said, taking out an embroidered white linen tablecloth. "I usually iron it the night before, so all the creases are out. Whatever I do, I believe one should do the best or don't do it at all. You like what you do, I like what I do."

As we sat down to eat, Annemarie said, "Let me serve you; I never let guests help themselves." During dessert, a light chocolate-almond mousse ("You need the almond flavor to cut the rich sweetness"), Annemarie summed up how she felt about her life in the challenging months since she lost her job as Mrs. Kennedy's $125-a-week cook.

"I live each day as though it were the last. If I died tomorrow, I would be sorry—but I've had a full life. Life is too short to bother with things you don't like." Annemarie never was bitter about being fired—she understood the reasoning, though "inaccurate"—even back when her future looked bleak and uncertain.

In negotiation now are many enterprises: a possible tv show of her own ("I want to show people cooking is fun; all the household arts are"), endorsing some household products she prefers, and her dream of a private gourmet club ("I've no time until the book is out, but there is a great need for one. American businessmen have so much money and no perfect restaurant").

Annemarie Huste...

started the main luncheon course on a low flame. The spinach soup was chilling in the refrigerator.

She believes in "sneaking in" high-nutriment food, especially for children. "Today's children are overfed and undernourished," she says. "They eat all this junk. Want sweets? Make great desserts. Hot chocolate, butter, that's good for them. Soft drinks are the worst thing. It only takes a minute to make fresh juice. That's what a mother's for. You can't stop children from eating that stuff, but you can eliminate some."

Does she have a secret for getting fussy children to eat properly?

"You can make a child eat much easier if you make food attractive-looking—creamed chicken, lamb chops, steak, hamburgers. With children, you can really 'cheat' (this is her term for "sneaking in" nutriments). In creamed spinach, add one or two spoons of chopped parsley; the kid won't know anyhow.

"Always use wheat germ instead of bread crumbs. Use powdered milk for the added minerals. Raw sugar—white has everything taken out to make it look nice. Put fruit in the blender and then freeze it on a stick in an ice-cube tray instead of this watery stuff you buy."

I reminded Annemarie that some husbands are too tense and exhausted after a long, hard day at the office to feel like putting up with baby's table manners.

"In this country, men work so hard, you should spoil them. If he doesn't want to have the kids around, feed them early, put them to bed. Perhaps he can just say good night. Women should make a husband feel that she wants to be with him.

"For instance, most men want a drink when they come home, so it doesn't take any time to chill a glass marry only for love. I would never marry a German. They're too spoiled, snobbish; they think they are kings. They expect a woman to be a slave, expect her to polish his boots—I would do that if I were in love and wanted to, but I don't want to have to do it.

Annemarie shows some special recipes from her new best-selling cookbook.

"I'm not the jealous type. When I'm walking with a boy friend and we pass a beautiful model, I'll say, 'Hey, she looks great.' If he thinks so, too, I add, 'But she can't cook.' "

Annemarie's dining area is at the north end of the living room. She made the deep pink draperies for the tall, old windows and had shelves put up for more cookbooks and for table settings, of which she has two—"One romantic (pink and gold) and one regular (a full set of plain white). I'll use the romantic—it's my best. I bought it when I could afford only two of everything."

The round white Saarinen table and four swivel chairs fit the small space neatly. Annemarie put down a pink linen liner and untied the strings on a department-store box. "You're the first to use it," she said, taking out an embroidered white linen tablecloth. "I usually iron it the night before, so all the creases are out. Whatever I do, I believe one should do the best or don't do it at like. You like what you do, I like what I do."

"Yes, work is our thing!" she smiled triumphantly at her bon mot.

As we sat down to eat, Annemarie said, "Let me serve you; I never let guests help themselves." During dessert, a light chocolate-almond mousse ("You need the almond flavor to cut the rich sweetness"), Annemarie summed up how she felt about her life in the challenging months since she lost her job as Mrs. Kennedy's $125-a-week cook.

"I live each day as though it were the last. If I died tomorrow, I would be sorry—but I've had a full life. Life is too short to bother with things you don't like." Annemarie never was bitter about being fired—she understood the reasoning, though "inaccurate"—even back when her future looked bleak and uncertain.

In negotiation now are many enterprises: a possible tv show of her own ("I want to show people cooking is fun; all the household arts are"), endorsing some household products she prefers, and her dream of a private gourmet club ("I've no time until the book is out, but there is a great need for one. American businessmen have so much money and no perfect restaurant").

Only last Christmas Mrs. Ken-

Miniature
Florida Key Lime

Anyone having had the pleasure of tasting Florida's famous "Key Lime Pie" will need no introduction to this wonderful little tree. Those who have not should start a lime grove in the kitchen window now. Eager and easy to grow indoors, the lush dark-green foliage, fragrant blossoms and subsequent fruit will provide a gardening achievement not soon forgotten.

Florida Palm Tree

A touch of tropical Florida in your home all year. Versatile, it is America's easiest-to-grow indoors tree. Simple growing instructions will permit you to be the sole judge of the tree size — from 8 inches to 6 feet! Palms love deep shade and thrive where other plants refuse to grow.

WITH THIS FESTIVE MINIATURE

INDOOR HOLLY TREE

GROWS TO 3 FT. WITH CLUSTERS OF CHEERFUL BRIGHT-RED BERRIES–only $2.98

These are marvelous true miniature trees, little botanical gems grown and developed for planting INDOORS where they blossom and thrive all year round. The shapely and festive HOLLY TREES will add a bright and cheerful touch to Christmas with their handsome green leaves and clusters of bright-red berries. Just think of the many ways you can use several to decorate your house and table both during and after Christmas YEAR AFTER YEAR . . . and imagine the thrill of watching these miniatures as they grow from 8 inches when you receive them to 3 feet tall! The flowers (Hibiscus and Gardenia) produce exotic blossoms, while the miniature fruit trees bear up to 30 pieces of fruit at a time, and continue to bear fruit indefinitely. Before you know it, you'll be eating fresh fruit that you'll pluck yourself! Nationally advertised in House & Garden Magazine, all are true trees, not grafts but rooted cuttings of good well-known varieties. Indoor trees are the oldest, yet newest and most exciting gardening thrill. All the miniature trees have glossy, green foliage trimmed and shaped. Beauties to have and give, you'll find they are real conversation pieces!

BEAUTIFUL FOUR-COLOR BOX FOR CHRISTMAS GIVING

Just think what a wonderful and really unusual gift these trees make. Each is in its own pot, individually boxed in an especially nice, bright, colorful package that enhances the tree. Send us your gift cards. All are shipped directly to you from Florida groves. You can have your own little grove if you order now. This year's planting is limited, and all orders are shipped in the order they are received. All sold on 30-day money back guarantee.

How You May

Never Take a Laxative Again!

Hospital-Tested Regulator Helps Relief Come Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)—Research has discovered a wonder-working substance that helps correct constipation without laxatives!

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste loses moisture in the colon. To give relief, laxatives often force action—cause griping, cramping; can become habit-forming.

This hospital-tested substance works in a completely different way. It helps natural moisture in the colon work more effectively. Thus by working on the problem, not on you, it helps correct constipation as no laxative can.

This discovery is now available under the name REGUTOL®. It is not habit-forming. No warning on the label—no prescription needed. Try REGUTOL—you may never take a laxative again!

Sleep Away Dry Skin

If hands and knuckles get so dry and cracked that nothing seems to help, try this simple treatment. Each night at bedtime, massage a dab of Cuticura Ointment into the skin. Next morning, wash thoroughly with Cuticura medicated soap. You'll be amazed how quickly your skin becomes soft and smooth.

Now...elastic membrane will

Revolutionize Denture Wearing

The big difference between natural teeth and dentures is in performance. Natural teeth are held solidly in place by living connective tissue. Without connective tissue, even the most expensive dentures may slip and rock. Gums often get raw and sore. Constant rubbing may cause serious bone damage. Eating can be slow, painful. You speak less clearly. You dare not laugh for fear of dentures dropping.

Now chemists have developed an artificial connective membrane – FIXODENT. It connects dentures with gums and mouth surfaces. It is incredibly effective for both uppers and lowers.

FIXODENT's elastic membrane absorbs the shock of biting and chewing—helps protect gums from bruising and irritation. You eat faster—bite harder, without pain—enjoy your food more. Eat hard-to-chew foods—steaks, fruits—prevent "denture malnutrition," a problem of older people.

FIXODENT helps you speak easier, faster, more clearly. When dentures slip you hold them in place with tongue and cheek muscles that ache. FIXODENT helps prevent strain.

The special pencil-point dispenser spots FIXODENT with precision – no oozing over. Often lasts 'round-the-clock. It even resists hot drinks. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get special FIXODENT at all drug counters.

You won't solve your problem by washing your hair!

The finest hair care in the world will not effect a dandruff cure. The dandruff problem goes deeper than that. The trouble begins at the scalp — second skin deep — and that's where you have to kill dandruff.

Glover's Imperial® Medicated Ointment, especially formulated to contain tissue-building Sulfur-G, is the proved, scientific way to stop dandruff second-skin deep! At first application, Imperial Medicated Ointment goes to work—penetrating its healing benefits under the scalp — cleansing, conditioning and lubricating the scalp back to vigorous, dandruff-free health. In this healing process, your hair is revitalized at the same time.

The formula used in Glover's Imperial Medicated Ointment is approved by leading dermatologists for use by their patients in the treatment of infectious dandruff, dandruff itch and relief from dry scalp. So, try this pleasantly scented, easy-to-use ointment soon. Your druggist has it, or write today for the generous trial size jar that the Glover Company is offering for 25¢ (to cover mailing costs). Just send your name, address and 25¢ in coin to: Glover, Dept. 44, 1001 Franklin Avenue, Garden City, N.Y.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL SCANDAL:

The Shame of Athletic Recruiting

Every year die-hard recruiters subject hundreds of high-school stars to the pressure world of the college "bull market"

By JOSEPH N. BELL

MIDWAY DOWN the 1968 roster of freshmen football players at the University of Notre Dame is a line that reads:

Patton, Eric LB-C 6-2 215 Santa Ana, California.

Behind that simple listing is a sensitive young man's flirtation with the high-powered world of big-time college football—and an agony of indecision that finally sent him fleeing from his home to think.

Eric Patton's senior year in high school was fairly typical of the agony inflicted on several thousand young athletes yearly by the "bull market" in college football players, involving $20 million in annual scholarships.

Eric, 17, a center and linebacker at Mater Dei High School in Santa Ana (about 30 miles southeast of Los Angeles), was named Lineman of the Year in his conference and made numerous all-star teams. Eric's dad, Garth, is a fireman in Santa Ana; his mother works at the local post office. Their home is modest and pulsating with children and activity. Until Eric developed his football skills, the Patton home had not been troubled by long-distance telephone calls, dinners at posh restaurants, weekend flying trips, or carloads of visiting coaches. All of that changed in January, 1968.

It started with a cascade of letters about football scholarships from college athletic departments all over the nation. Eric was selective in answering these queries, replying only to those schools in which he was genuinely interested.

"The calls came mostly from assistant coaches," recalls Garth Patton. "They always talk in generalities—about Eric's interests and how they could be satisfied at that particular school."

Close behind these exploratory calls came the alumni, usually wealthy businessmen giving posh parties for prospective footballers. The sell was soft, but the intimation was always present that this is the sort of life that the young man could look forward to if he attended the university being sold that evening.

These affairs were interspersed with telephone calls from big names in professional sports. Two distinguished members of the Los Angeles Rams called Eric and pitched two different schools. A well-known pro quarterback phoned and said to Eric: "I can't tell you where to go, but if you were my kid brother, I'd kick you all the way to Notre Dame."

Then came the head coaches, phoning or stopping by the Pattons' small frame house to offer Eric a trip to the campus "to look over the school." Eric made three such weekend trips—to Notre Dame, the University of Colorado, and Stanford.

By this time, though, he had narrowed his choice to three colleges: Stanford, Notre Dame, and the University of Southern California. The main attraction at U.S.C. was his former high-school coach who had moved to that campus and was recruiting Eric aggressively. Eric felt a loyalty to him that made it difficult for him to say "No."

The same loyalty to his father further complicated his problem; Eric's dad wanted him to go to Stanford because it was a "fine school and close enough to see him once in a while." But Eric's heart was elsewhere.

Ever since reading a biography of Knute Rockne, he had wanted to play football at Notre Dame. Torn between his own desires and those of the people he loved, Eric would pour out his problems to his girl friend, Peggy Hooper.

"He took everything so seriously, so personally," she recalls. "He couldn't understand that they were probably saying the same things to others, and they realized he'd have to say 'no' to someone."

In late February, Eric flew to South Bend, Ind., where he was entertained by the Notre Dame football staff and escorted by varsity players telling him what a great opportunity Notre Dame offered.

The last afternoon he was there, he was taken to the stadium. He stood there in a snowy February twilight, surrounded by banks of empty seats, and heard the thunder of the past and felt the lightning of the future. He came home in a daze and told his parents, "When I stood in that stadium, I was convinced that to play just one game at Notre Dame was the most important thing that could happen to me."

Still, Eric couldn't bring himself to make the final decision and disappoint all the people who had been so kind to him.

The pressure finally got to him last spring, and he took off for the mountains where his grandmother lives. He spent three days there before making his decision, the one that had been preordained for many months. Several weeks later, in a ceremony at a local hotel, Eric met with two Notre Dame coaches and signed a letter of intent to attend that school. And for the first time, he was able to relax.

Eric Patton's sensitivity may be unusual, but his recruiting experiences are not. Hundreds of top high-school prospects receive much the same sort of treatment each year. For if colleges refuse to recruit, the net result is empty stadiums and restless alumni—both are intolerable.

In such a competitive market, excesses are almost certain to take place. The colleges have tried very hard to police themselves. The National Collegiate Athletic Association permits its members to offer players room, board, tuition, and $15 a month for incidentals. Nothing more. Some conferences have even stricter athletic scholarship codes. These rules have grown out of past excesses that saw football players given cars, apartments, girls, nonexistent jobs, and money.

Such practices finally demanded the reforms that govern the recruiting of college athletes today. The rules are rigidly enforced. When an illegal alumni slush fund was discovered at the University of Illinois two years ago, the NCAA placed the school on probation.

Still there are loopholes in the rules.

Most of the inducements offered impressionable high-school stars today tend to be quite subtle. They include:

- Better education for the player. This comes mainly from Ivy League schools.
- Better prospects after graduation. The business schools are heavy on this, exposing the recruits to wealthy alumni and suggesting cushy jobs later.
- Better likelihood of playing pro football. This argument is becoming more important with the growth of professional football. "Come to our school," says the recruiter, "and you are certain to get a fat pro contract."
- Tradition. Schools like Notre Dame lean heavily on tradition in recruiting, often assigning famous old players to contact impressionable recruits.

At the other end of the spectrum are some less subtle inducements:

It is fairly common practice for players to be given a handful of tickets for each game—to sell and pocket the money.

The rule on room and board is bent to provide hard cash. The players are given eating money on weekends when there is no training table. They are given spending money on road trips, and married players are given supplements.

Players who are having trouble maintaining the C average necessary for eligibility are provided with tutors—and, in some instances, class notes.

Alumni—usually without the knowledge of the coaches who tend to run scared these days—have been known to sweeten the pot with open-end expense accounts.

In all this high-powered tugging and hauling, the boys who play the game continue to be the pawns. And most of them are due for some disillusionment. Eric Patton came out of his first scrimmage against the Notre Dame varsity with a six-inch cut and a profound awareness that he now was playing in the big league of football.

Another player who followed that same trail a year ago told me, without rancor, "Once you sign that letter and make your decision, you're nothing again, just a guy out for the freshman football team."

And while this year's frosh sweat and struggle to make the team, the recruiters have turned elsewhere—to this year's crop of high-school stars. ◆

How You May

Never Take a Laxative Again!

Hospital-Tested Regulator Helps Relief Come Naturally

New York, N.Y. (Special)—Research has discovered a wonder-working substance that helps correct constipation without laxatives!

Doctors say most constipation occurs when waste loses moisture in the colon. To give relief, laxatives often force action—cause griping, cramping; can become habit-forming.

This hospital-tested substance works in a completely different way. It helps natural moisture in the colon work more effectively. Thus by working on the problem, not on you, it helps correct constipation as no laxative can.

This discovery is now available under the name REGUTOL®. It is not habit-forming. No warning on the label—no prescription needed. Try REGUTOL—you may never take a laxative again!

Sleep Away Dry Skin

If hands and knuckles get so dry and cracked that nothing seems to help, try this simple treatment. Each night at bedtime, massage a dab of Cuticura Ointment into the skin. Next morning, wash thoroughly with Cuticura medicated soap. You'll be amazed how quickly your skin becomes soft and smooth.

Now...elastic membrane will

Revolutionize Denture Wearing

The big difference between natural teeth and dentures is in performance. Natural teeth are held solidly in place by living connective tissue. Without connective tissue, even the most expensive dentures may slip and rock. Gums often get raw and sore. Constant rubbing may cause serious bone damage. Eating can be slow, painful. You speak less clearly. You dare not laugh for fear of dentures dropping.

Now chemists have developed an artificial connective membrane – FIXODENT. It connects dentures with gums and mouth surfaces. It is incredibly effective for both uppers and lowers.

FIXODENT's elastic membrane absorbs the shock of biting and chewing—helps protect gums from bruising and irritation. You eat faster—bite harder, without pain—enjoy your food more. Eat hard-to-chew foods—steaks, fruits—prevent "denture malnutrition," a problem of older people.

FIXODENT helps you speak easier, faster, more clearly. When dentures slip you hold them in place with tongue and cheek muscles that ache. FIXODENT helps prevent strain.

The special pencil-point dispenser spots FIXODENT with precision – no oozing over. Often lasts 'round-the-clock. It even resists hot drinks. Dentures that fit are essential to health. See your dentist regularly. Get special FIXODENT at all drug counters.

You won't solve your problem by washing your hair!

The finest hair care in the world will not effect a dandruff cure. The dandruff problem goes deeper than that. The trouble begins at the scalp — second skin deep — and that's where you have to kill dandruff.

Glover's Imperial® Medicated Ointment, especially formulated to contain tissue-building Sulfur-G, is the proved, scientific way to stop dandruff second-skin deep! At first application, Imperial Medicated Ointment goes to work—penetrating its healing benefits under the scalp — cleansing, conditioning and lubricating the scalp back to vigorous, dandruff-free health. In this healing process, your hair is revitalized at the same time.

The formula used in Glover's Imperial Medicated Ointment is approved by leading dermatologists for use by their patients in the treatment of infectious dandruff, dandruff itch and relief from dry scalp. So, try this pleasantly scented, easy-to-use ointment soon. Your druggist has it, or write today for the generous trial size jar that the Glover Company is offering for 25¢ (to cover mailing costs). COLLEGE FOOTBALL SCANDAL:
The Shame of

Every year die-hard recruiters subject hundreds of high-school stars to the pressure world of the college "bull market"

By JOSEPH N. BELL

MIDWAY DOWN the 1968 roster of freshmen football players at the University of Notre Dame is a line that reads:

Patton, Eric LB-C 6-2 215 Santa Ana, California.

Behind that simple listing is a sensitive young man's flirtation with the high-powered world of big-time college football —and an agony of indecision that finally sent him fleeing from his home to think.

Eric Patton's senior year in high school was fairly typical of the agony inflicted on several thousand young athletes yearly by the "bull market" in college football players, involving $20 million in annual scholarships.

Eric, 17, a center and linebacker at Mater Dei High School in Santa Ana (about 30 miles southeast of Los Angeles), was named Lineman of the Year in his conference and made numerous all-star teams. Eric's dad, Garth, is a fireman in Santa Ana; his mother works at the local post office. Their home is modest and pulsating with children and activity. Until Eric developed his football skills, the Patton home had not been troubled by long-distance telephone calls, dinners at posh restaurants, weekend flying trips, or carloads of visiting coaches. All of that changed in January, 1968.

It started with a cascade of letters about football scholarships from college athletic departments all over the nation. Eric was selective in answering these queries, replying only to those schools in which he was genuinely interested.

"The calls came mostly from assistant coaches," recalls Garth Patton. "They always talk in generalities—about Eric's interests and how they could be satisfied at that particular school."

Close behind these exploratory calls came the alumni, usually wealthy businessmen giving posh parties for prospective footballers. The sell was soft, but the intimation was always present that this is the sort of life that the young man could look forward to if he attended the university being sold that evening.

These affairs were interspersed with telephone calls from big names in professional sports. Two distinguished members of the Los Angeles Rams called Eric and pitched two different schools. How You Can Take the Danger Out of Winter Driving

Ice, fog, and snow are the driver's worst enemies; here an expert outlines some sensible steps to combat these hazards By Col. GILBERT R. CARREL, Chief, Colorado State Patrol

as told to Curtis Casewit

A BLIZZARD was raging furiously when I headed south from Denver on a drive I'll never forget.

Snow and ice covered the highways, and that February it even had snowed in Louisiana, my destination. All along the Gulf states, I saw motorists in trouble, their cars skidding on bald tires, or lacking proper heaters, and some even without defrosters. None of them carried chains.

All over the South, cars were helplessly piled up. Yet, personally, I had no trouble reaching New Orleans.

How did I make it? Simple. My car was equipped for winter weather, and I had experience to draw from. After all, I live in a state which calls itself "The Top of the Nation," and over the years I've learned a few tricks about winter driving. So let me share a few pointers with you.

If you must drive in fog or blizzard, use dim headlights to avoid blinding.

To start with, make sure that your car is ready before you venture into a blizzard. Be sure that the motor is tuned up, that the brakes function properly, that the battery is good, and that the headlights and taillights are working. In your trunk, keep a shovel, a bag of sand, and chain in case you get stuck in deep-snow conditions. (Chains are still not out of fashion and may be used with snow tires!)

I've found that motorists sometimes forget minor items such as perfect windshield wipers. They're excellent life insurance. Not long ago we investigated a crash in eastern Colorado. Two cars had collided head-on during a bad snowfall. We found that one of the drivers had failed to buy a couple of new wiper-blades. He wanted to save $4—instead he spent thousands in hospital bills.

Clean windshields—front and back—are absolutely essential for bad weather driving. That's why I also recommend a small brush to wipe off snow, plus a windshield scraper to remove ice.

On packed snow or ice, your tires are, of course, the most important part of your car. Slick tires are like sleds—you just can't stop them. Last December, for example, I rushed to the scene of a major accident outside Denver involving four cars. Eight persons died because one car was equipped with tires with insufficient tread.

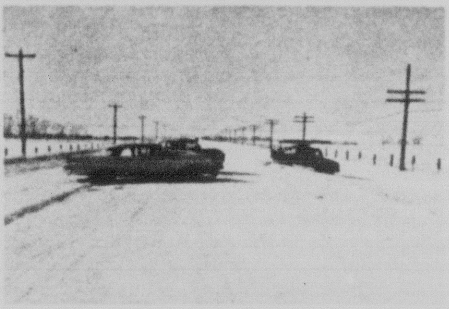
Since equipment is much cheaper than human life, some motorists invest in a pair of snow tires with thick "cleats" that bite into fresh snow. Snow tires with steel studs (illegal in some states) do an excellent job in deep snow or on ice. But on icy roads or in blizzard conditions, nothing can match chains.

A car with skid chains plows through snow which stopped another vehicle.

To prove that point, the National Safety Council and the American Automobile Club ran an interesting experiment. They let a car cross a patch of ice at 20 mph. On regular tires, the car needed 180 feet to stop. Then equipping the same car with rear-wheel chains, it was stopped in 70 feet!

Next to your tires, brakes are most important on icy roads. To insure proper braking power, try your brakes at about 20 mph., just to see how they behave on a wintry road. When you have to brake on snow, do it gently. Seasoned drivers pump the brakes, using them lightly and intermittently, thus reducing the chance of a skid.

Besides being the main winter driving problem, skidding is an awful bone-chilling sensation. What should you do? Keep calm; don't slam the brakes; don't release the wheel. Apply a light touch on the accelerator—in almost every case you can still handle the car. Steer in the direction of the skid. Don't oversteer, and you will be all right. A good rule of thumb is this: if you expect icy conditions, drive slowly, brake before you hit ice patches, and use restraint and steadiness in your steering. It's always easier to recover at a slow pace.



Cars with slick tires are prone to heart-stopping skidding on icy roads.

Parking awhile is also a sensible idea when visibility nears zero. Keep your heater going, a window open (fresh air is much better than carbon monoxide!), and a sensible distance from the next parked car. If you are too close, and the other fellow has his motor running, your heater will draw in the fumes.

Why should you wait until weather improves? I remember the case of a Colorado driver—one in 50 that day—who chose to drive off before he could see clearly again. He chose to challenge a totally fog- and blizzard-bound highway near the Nebraska border. Just then, another car, this one carrying five children, started out from the opposite direction. The inevitable crash maimed four of the children.

Here are some final suggestions for safe winter driving:

- If you must drive in fog or snow, always use the lower headlight beams. The upper beams will reflect off fog and snow and blind you.
- Keep your tank filled with gas. The fuller the tank, the less condensation of water, and the less chance of a fuel-line freeze-up.
- Not all rental cars come with chains or snow tires. Insist on these items or go to another agency.
- Use a light touch on the gas for starting in snow. Too much power will spin the wheels. Never start in low gear, you get more traction in second gear.

This driver is inviting trouble with blocked rear vision and broken light.

- Stuck in a snowdrift? The best procedure for getting out is to clear away as much snow from around the tires as possible. Spread a little sand or ashes under the tire. Then gently rock the car back and forth, shifting from forward to reverse. A little rocking will free you.
- When driving downhill or around curves, use lower gears.
- Avoid "tailgating." Give yourself time to counteract the other driver's possible blunders.
- Finally, remember that poor winter-driving conditions don't cause accidents—poor drivers do! ◆

Kids' Letters to Astronauts

By L.B. TAYLOR, Jr.

Billy Doyle, 12, meets his hero—Gemini-10 astronaut John Young.

FOR AMERICA'S astronauts, some of the most harrowing experiences come after their space flights. They must face batteries of demanding mission debriefers, teams of probing biomedical experts, and scores of newsmen.

They also are confronted by mountains of mail, most of them penciled by starry-eyed youngsters. Handling it, however, has its rewards, for buried among the submissions are nuggets of priceless humor.

Astronaut Wally Schirra, commander of the Apollo 7 spacecraft, had to chuckle, for instance, when he received the following comments from a concerned boy:

"Thank you for the autographed postcard. Everybody in my class is envious except Michael. He has an autograph of Ken Johnson, a baseball player who struck out Willie Mays. Mike keeps saying you never struck out anybody!"

Many of the pint-sized pen pals who offer their services for rocket flights tack on reservations:

"If you ever need a boy to go to the moon, I would like to volunteer—provided you have a light in the spaceship."

"I am interested in space and would like to become an astronaut, but it will have to be on a Saturday, as I go to school."

"I read where you just orbited an artificial satellite. Does that mean it really isn't up there?"

"I am getting ready to launch a three-boy rocket to Mars, but I am not sure of the fuel. I plan to use Murine, Get Set hair spray, Merthiolate, Old Spice after-shave lotion, VO-5, and rubbing alcohol. Is this the same type fuel you use at the Cape?"

"Why are we going to the moon, anyway? Isn't it like the earth, only deader?"

"I am 12 years old. My father tells me he will have to cut my allowance due to the extra taxes he pays for the experiments of rockets to reach the moon. So if you can explain why it costs $30 million for one rocket that doesn't even reach the moon, how much will my allowance be cut when one does go to the moon?"

"Why are you going to the moon? It's just a waste of time and money. P.S.—Please don't pay any attention to me. I'm only 10 years old and too young to know what I'm talking about."

"As I see it, you have only two problems remaining to conquer space—how to get there and how to get back."

"Please send me some information on your rockets. You don't have to worry. I am only 8 years old and too young to be a spy."

"What happens if an astronaut has to scratch his nose when his space helmet is on?"

"Would a woman have a better chance in space because of her smaller body and the ability to put up with the monotony?"

"I am having my birthday party on the 15th, with the over-all design and decoration on the rocket theme. I would appreciate it, therefore, if you could launch your moon rocket on the 15th and not on the 17th, as you had planned."

Usually letters to the Cape are swiftly scanned and quickly processed, but even busy space workers had to stop and laugh when they received this letter:

"I am offering my little sister as a replacement for your satellite's radio. This would be much better because, as you know, a radio's battery eventually wears out, but my little sister never stops talking." ◆

How You Can Take the Danger Out of Winter Driving

Ice, fog, and snow are the driver's worst enemies; here an expert outlines some sensible steps to combat these hazards

By Col. GILBERT R. CARREL, Chief, Colorado State Patrol
as told to Curtis Casewit

A BLIZZARD was raging furiously when I headed south from Denver on a drive I'll never forget.

Snow and ice covered the highways, and that February it even had snowed in Louisiana, my destination. All along the Gulf states, I saw motorists in trouble, their cars skidding on bald tires, or lacking proper heaters, and some even without defrosters. None of them carried chains.

All over the South, cars were helplessly piled up. Yet, personally, I had no trouble reaching New Orleans.

How did I make it? Simple. My car was equipped for winter weather, and I had experience to draw from. After all, I live in a state which calls itself "The Top of the Nation," and over the years I've learned a few tricks about winter driving. So let me share a few pointers with you.

If you must drive in fog or blizzard, use dim headlights to avoid blinding.

To start with, make sure that your car is ready before you venture into a blizzard. Be sure that the motor is tuned up, that the brakes function properly, that the battery is good, and that the headlights and taillights are working. In your trunk, keep a shovel, a bag of sand, and chain in case you get stuck in deep-snow conditions. (Chains are still not out of fashion and may be used with snow tires!)

I've found that motorists sometimes forget minor items such as perfect windshield wipers. They're excellent life insurance. Not long ago we investigated a crash in eastern Colorado. Two cars had collided head-on during a bad snowfall. We found that one of the drivers had failed to buy a couple of new wiper-blades. He wanted to save $4—instead he spent thousands in hospital bills.

Clean windshields—front and back—are absolutely essential for bad weather driving. That's why I also recommend a small brush to wipe off snow, plus a windshield scraper to remove ice.

On packed snow or ice, your tires are, of course, the most important part of your car. Slick tires are like sleds—you just can't stop them. Last December, for example, I rushed to the scene of a major accident outside Denver involving four cars. Eight persons died because one car was equipped with tires with insufficient tread.

Since equipment is much cheaper than human life, some motorists invest in a pair of snow tires with thick "cleats" that bite into fresh snow. Snow tires with steel studs (illegal in some states) do an excellent job in deep snow or on ice. But on icy roads or in blizzard conditions, nothing can match chains.

A car with skid chains plows through snow which stopped another vehicle.

To prove that point, the National Safety Council and the American Automobile Club ran an interesting experiment. They let a car cross a patch of ice at 20 mph. On regular tires, the car needed 180 feet to stop. Then equipping the same car with rear-wheel chains, it was stopped in 70 feet!

Next to your tires, brakes are most important on icy roads. To insure proper braking power, try your brakes at about 20 mph., just to see how they behave on a wintry road. When you have to brake on snow, do it gently. Seasoned drivers pump the brakes, using them lightly and intermittently, thus reducing the chance of a skid.

Cars with slick tires are prone to heart-stopping skidding on icy roads.

Besides being the main winter driving problem, skidding is an awful bone-chilling sensation. What should you do? Keep calm; don't slam the brakes; don't release the wheel. Apply a light touch on the accelerator—in almost every case you can still handle the car. Steer in the direction of the skid. Don't oversteer, and you will be all right. A good rule of thumb is this: if you expect icy conditions, drive slowly, brake before you hit ice patches, and use restraint and steadiness in your steering. It's always easier to recover at a slow pace.

Parking awhile is also a sensible idea when visibility nears zero. Keep your heater going, a window open (fresh air is much better than carbon monoxide!), and a sensible distance from the next parked car. If you are too close, and the other fellow has his motor running, your heater will draw in the fumes.

Why should you wait until weather improves? I remember the case of a Colorado driver—one in 50 that day—who chose to drive off before he could see clearly again. He chose to challenge a totally fog- and blizzard-bound highway near the Nebraska border. Just then, another car, this one carrying five children, started out from the opposite direction. The inevitable crash maimed four of the children.

Here are some final suggestions for safe winter driving:

- If you must drive in fog or snow, always use the lower headlight beams. The upper beams will reflect off fog and snow and blind you.
- Keep your tank filled with gas. The fuller the tank, the less condensation of water, and the less chance of a fuel-line freeze-up.
- Not all rental cars come with chains or snow tires. Insist on these items or go to another agency.
- Use a light touch on the gas for starting in snow. Too much power will spin the wheels. Never start in low gear, you get more traction in second gear.
- Stuck in a snowdrift? The best procedure for getting out is to clear away as much snow from around the tires as possible. Spread a little sand or ashes under the tire. Then gently rock the car back and forth, shifting from forward to reverse. A little rocking will free you.
- When driving downhill or around curves, use lower gears.
- Avoid "tailgating." Give yourself time to counteract the other driver's possible blunders.
- Finally, remember that poor winter-driving conditions don't cause accidents—poor drivers do! ◆

Can Convicts Help Keep Teen-Agers Out of Trouble?

It's a new concept in crime prevention—prisoners telling youngsters what the fruits of crime really are

By WILLIAM V. LONG

THE MEN STANDING on the stage of a high-school auditorium in Wyoming are dressed in drab gray clothes, the garb of prisoners.

They look out on a sea of teen-age faces, and one convict, a murderer, says, "Take a good look at what we're wearing because one out of every 100 kids here will end up wearing the same clothes."

It is an emotion-packed statement in an emotion-packed atmosphere. Its shock value serves a worthwhile purpose, the theory being that convicts telling their personal stories may be able to prevent teen-agers from turning to a life of crime.

The idea is relatively new, but in only a few years the practice has swept the nation. Today, in some 20 states, groups of convicts and prison administrators travel throughout their states, speaking to youths.

It is often a grim and tragic story the teen-agers hear. In Colorado a young inmate, John Gift, begins each of his speeches in the same manner. "My name is John Gift," he says calmly. "I'm servin' 70 years to life for blowing a man's brains out. I wanted to kill someone, and he was standing there." For a few moments of intense silence there are mingled stares of horror and disbelief. Then there is a deluge of questions. "Couldn't you control your emotions?" "Was this just a desire for thrills, for experience?" "Wasn't there anyone you could talk to when you felt like this?"

The message these men carry is a simple one—the truth: narcotics, murder, armed robbery, and burglary. They know all about it, and in each instance, the men tell how they became involved. They hope that perhaps the youngster might see a parallel in his own life and avoid making the same mistakes.

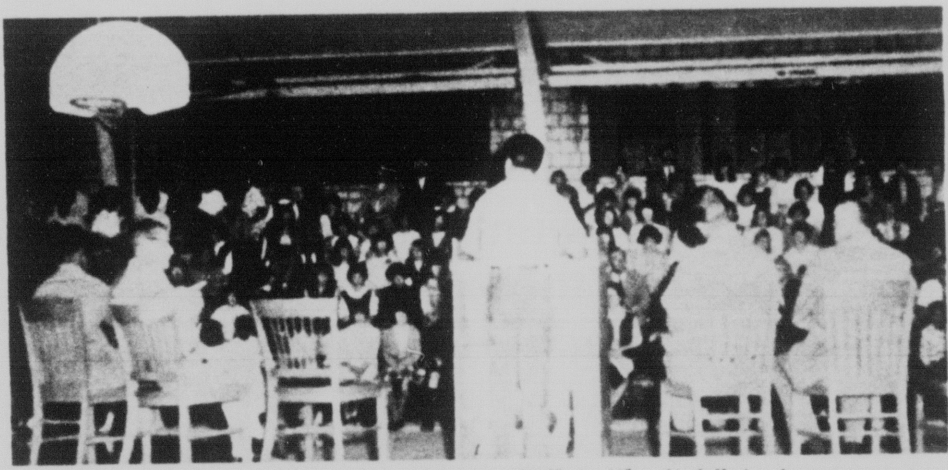
Where this particular form of "self-help" rehabilitation first originated is uncertain. The idea seems to have formed in several prisons at just about the same time several years ago. But one thing is certain: as requests for these men to speak at schools, churches, civic, and youth organizations continue to come in, the groups continue to grow in number.

The themes of all the programs are the same: "There is no glory in crime. Don't follow me and waste your youth in prison, where it often takes two or more trips to realize how precious those years were that passed by so slowly."

Nearly all of the states now participating in the programs have taken polls of the questions asked most often by the teen-agers. They range from the very basic to the very important: What were the mistakes that caused you to turn to crime? Did you feel that getting good grades in school was a waste of time? How can we keep from going down the "road to nowhere" if we've already started?

Dick Geiger, another member of the team in Colorado, says: "These kids really want to know how it is. And some of the questions they ask really make you stop and think—not just about them but about yourself, as well. When one of the kids ask me if I would have been a second offender had the punishment been more severe the first time, what can I say? It's always easier to commit the second crime. It goes a lot deeper than that, but we can't give them the 'whys' of crime. We're not trained for that. We just hope they'll see something in our lives that they can apply to their own."

Each prison differs in its program almost as much as each prisoner differs in his story. Kansas has a prison choir group that travels over the state and performs before any organization where there are young people, speaking of their lives after each performance. Nebraska has a few men selected by prison officials, men who can best present the image of what prison is like. The men in Nebraska have made appearances on tv as well as at schools. They estimate that they have spoken to more than 100,000 people in the last two years alone.



At a Colorado high school, convicts "tell it like it is" to teen-agers.

Illinois brings the students directly to the prison to hear the men speak. Afterward, they tour the facilities. They see firsthand, while the horror of crime is fresh on their minds, the work areas, isolation areas, and the cellhouses where men sit idly.

Never do the convicts admonish the youngsters if they should admit having had some experience on the wrong side of the law, especially when the discussions turn to drugs. "The first question about drugs is always the same," says John Gift. " 'I know this guy . . . or I have a friend who . . .' I know immediately that this kid has had something to do with drugs."

"We try to draw the kids out slowly when we think they're using drugs. We don't find many of them, but they are the ones we want to talk to, so we can't afford to lose them," says Dick Geiger. The inmates explain patiently why the drug habit leads only to disaster.

These programs seem to have widespread support, and as one prison warden says, "This type of program is twofold. It gives the young people something to think about when they hear these stories, and it helps the criminal himself to shuck off his old values and to accept the values of free society—the society he will have to identify with when he is released."

Probably one of the rarest among these programs dealing with youth is the one formed recently in Stockton, Calif. Pioneering the project there, a dozen or more young men between 18 and 22 were selected after intensive testing. During the last six months of their sentences, they are trained in counseling and work with younger boys at the California Youth Authority's O. H. Close School for Boys. While these men are working with the younger boys, they are also taking youth-counseling courses at Delta Junior College in Stockton and visiting nearby high schools for panel discussions on delinquency. All the training is financed by the state, and when the youths finish their sentences, they will be employed by the state to work in slum areas.

It is difficult to measure the success of these groups, but, judging from the letters, there has been a tremendous influence—often with a thank-you note for "making me see something about myself I never saw before." Parents and teachers, especially, report on noticed changes in behavior patterns of those kids referred to as "borderline" cases.

Perhaps the concept is gaining popularity because no one has dealt directly with the young person who has not yet committed a crime but who someday might. Whatever the reason, the men of these groups are making giant strides in the field of criminal reform. All they can do now is to wait and hope that they have saved a teen-ager from joining them in prison garb. ◆

Inside I was crying, until I lost 105 pounds.

By Alice Banoczky—as told to Ruth L. McCarthy

Everybody in Budapest knew me—the cutest fatty on the stage. How I hated the role! But without me, the "Guruló Eggyüttes", or Rolling Trio, would have been a skinny nothing.

I sang. I made big jokes. But inside I was crying. Because I knew when the spotlight went off, they called me "dagadt", which in Hungarian means swollen, like a big balloon.

Always I was overweight. Even from three years old. Our kitchen, you see, was very rich. Lots of soup, pork, potatoes and főzelék (a side dish). And I loved turós rétes (strudel with cheese) as well as sweets.

By the time I was 16, I was already 200 pounds. My mother took me to doctors where I had shots and pills and low-calorie diets, even artificial orange drinks. But always, the pounds came back.

Once, when I was walking on the street, a man said to another: "If our government had as solid a foundation as that, we'd all be in better shape." Some shape!

I was miserable. I had no fun, no activities, no boy friends. I had only my singing voice. But how could I show it off, with such fatness? The only way, I decided, was radio, where I could hide myself. Later on, I grew bolder and went on the stage with my comic trio. Everybody laughed, but me.

Then came the Hungarian Revolution of 1956 and I escaped to the U.S.A. Almost immediately, I realized that because of my weight, I had even less chance to make a success here in show business. For practically everywhere, I saw the most slim and trim girls.

Discouraged, I gave up my music and took a job behind the scenes in a factory. And I again tried to reduce. Sometimes I was even starving myself. But I'd get hungry and soon I would be eating—lots of sweetness in desserts and TV snacks and before going to bed.

Finally, I met a man who preferred a good cook to a slim figure. We married, moved to Walnut Creek, California, and a son was born to us. Oh boy, some fat mamma he had! And each year that my son grew older, I grew bigger. Last summer, 230 pounds!

Being a woman, however, I still dreamed of being thin. But how was I to stop the desserts and sweets and nighttime snacks? That was the problem always, until I made the discovery of the reducing-plan candy, called Ayds. I was in a drugstore when I first saw the chocolate fudge type. (There is also a vanilla caramel Ayds and a fudgy chocolate mint.) Ah, I thought, a low-calorie snack for my sweet tooth! I was wrong.

When I got home, I read the directions and found I should take one or two Ayds before meals with a hot drink. Then eat. Pretty soon, I didn't feel so hungry for a big meal.

In a few days, I lost two pounds. Was I excited! I grabbed my golden opportunity right then. For this was the help I needed to have more willpower. And to have a smaller appetite without harmful drugs.

Look at me, acting comical. But even without the watermelon, I could make people laugh. After all, I was 230 pounds.

For breakfast, I would take my Ayds as directed. Then I'd have grapefruit, scrambled eggs, toast, and coffee. A lot of people think to skip breakfast is to lose faster. But this is a bad idea. It is important that one should eat in the morning. At noon, I had, maybe, a sandwich. And in the evening, after Ayds again, I ate a regular dinner. But I ate less than always before because I didn't want so much. Oh, yes. And at night, if I was hungry, I ate another Ayds. It was sweet and the answer to my craving.

When I'd lost 25 pounds, I decided it was time I was completely newborn. So I dyed my hair blonde.

On the Ayds plan, more weight came off. And soon, even my wedding ring fell off. I was never so happy to spend five dollars as for making it smaller. After I lost 50 pounds, people passed me on the street without knowing me. But it was me, all right—on my way down to 125 pounds.

I wish all Hungary could see me now with my new figure. Do you blame me for lightening my hair, too?

At last, thanks be to the Ayds plan, I have a good figure. Now, I have only one more dream. To sing again — for an American audience.

Can Convicts Help Keep Teen-Agers Out of Trouble?

It's a new concept in crime prevention—prisoners telling youngsters what the fruits of crime really are

By WILLIAM V. LONG

THE MEN STANDING on the stage of a high-school auditorium in Wyoming are dressed in drab gray clothes, the garb of prisoners.

They look out on a sea of teen-age faces, and one convict, a murderer, says, "Take a good look at what we're wearing because one out of every 100 kids here will end up wearing the same clothes."

It is an emotion-packed statement in an emotion-packed atmosphere. Its shock value serves a worthwhile purpose, the theory being that convicts telling their personal stories may be able to prevent teen-agers from turning to a life of crime.

The idea is relatively new, but in only a few years the practice has swept the nation. Today, in some 20 states, groups of convicts and prison administrators travel throughout their states, speaking to youths.

It is often a grim and tragic story the teen-agers hear. In Colorado a young inmate, John Gift, begins each of his speeches in the same manner. "My name is John Gift," he says calmly. "I'm servin' 70 years to life for blowing a man's brains out. I wanted to kill someone, and he was standing there." For a few moments of intense silence there are mingled stares of horror and disbelief. Then there is a deluge of questions. "Couldn't you control your emotions?" "Was this just a desire for thrills, for experience?" "Wasn't there anyone you could talk to when you felt like this?"

The message these men carry is a simple one—the truth: narcotics, murder, armed robbery, and burglary. They know all about it, and in each instance, the men tell how they became involved. They hope that perhaps the youngster might see a parallel in his own life and avoid making the same mistakes.

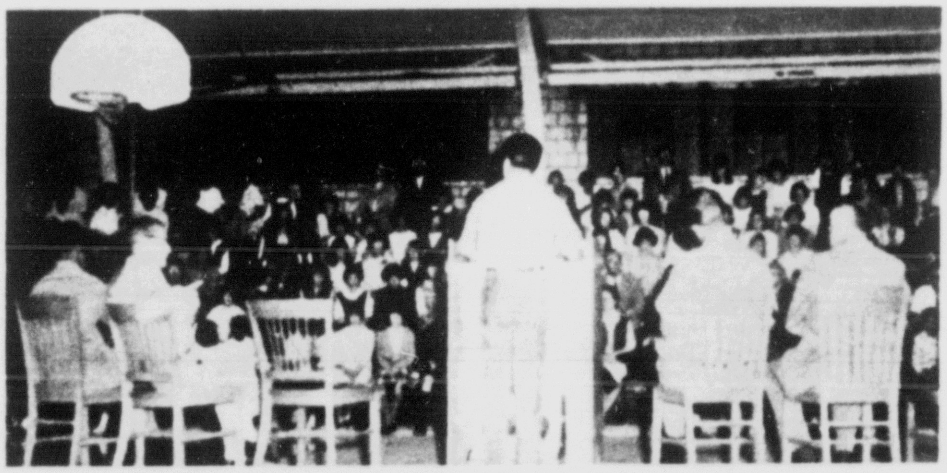
Where this particular form of "self-help" rehabilitation first originated is uncertain. The idea seems to have formed in several prisons at just about the same time several years ago. But one thing is certain: as requests for these men to speak at schools, churches, civic, and youth organizations continue to come in, the groups continue to grow in number.

The themes of all the programs are the same: "There is no glory in crime. Don't follow me and waste your youth in prison, where it often takes two or more trips to realize how precious those years were that passed by so slowly."

Nearly all of the states now participating in the programs have taken polls of the questions asked most often by the teen-agers. They range from the very basic to the very important: What were the mistakes that caused you to turn to crime? Did you feel that getting good grades in school was a waste of time? How can we keep from going down the "road to nowhere" if we've already started?

Dick Geiger, another member of the team in Colorado, says: "These kids really want to know how it is. And some of the questions they ask really make you stop and think—not just about them but about yourself, as well. When one of the kids ask me if I would have been a second offender had the punishment been more severe the first time, what can I say? It's always easier to commit the second crime. It goes a lot deeper than that, but we can't give them the 'whys' of crime. We're not trained for that. We just hope they'll see something in our lives that they can apply to their own."

Each prison differs in its program almost as much as each prisoner differs in his story. Kansas has a prison choir group that travels over the state and performs before any organization where there are young people, speaking of their lives after each performance. Nebraska has a few men selected by prison officials, men who can best present the image of what prison is like. The men in Nebraska have made appearances on tv as well as at schools. They estimate that they have spoken to more than 100,000 people in the last two years alone.



At a Colorado high school, convicts "tell it like it is" to teen-agers.

Illinois brings the students directly to the prison to hear the men speak. Afterward, they tour the facilities. They see firsthand, while the horror of crime is fresh on their minds, the work areas, isolation areas, and the cellhouses where men sit idly.

Never do the convicts admonish the youngsters if they should admit having had some experience on the wrong side of the law, especially when the discussions turn to drugs. "The first question about drugs is always the same," says John Gift. "'I know this guy . . . or I have a friend who . . .' I know immediately that this kid has had something to do with drugs."

"We try to draw the kids out slowly when we think they're using drugs. We don't find many of them, but they are the ones we want to talk to, so we can't afford to lose them," says Dick Geiger. The inmates explain patiently why the drug habit leads only to disaster.

These programs seem to have widespread support, and as one prison warden says, "This type of program is twofold. It gives the young people something to think about when they hear these stories, and it helps the criminal himself to shuck off his old values and to accept the values of free society—the society he will have to identify with when he is released."

Probably one of the rarest among these programs dealing with youth is the one formed recently in Stockton, Calif. Pioneering the project there, a dozen or more young men between 18 and 22 were selected after intensive testing. During the last six months of their sentences, they are trained in counseling and work with younger boys at the California Youth Authority's O. H. Close School for Boys. While these men are working with the younger boys, they are also taking youth-counseling courses at Delta Junior College in Stockton and visiting nearby high schools for panel discussions on delinquency. All the training is financed by the state, and when the youths finish their sentences, they will be employed by the state to work in slum areas.

It is difficult to measure the success of these groups, but, judging from the letters, there has been a tremendous influence—often with a thank-you note for "making me see something about myself I never saw before." Parents and teachers, especially, report on noticed changes in behavior patterns of those kids referred to as "borderline" cases.

Perhaps the concept is gaining popularity because no one has dealt directly with the young person who has not yet committed a crime but who someday might. Whatever the reason, the men of these groups are making giant strides in the field of criminal reform. All they can do now is to wait and hope that they have saved a teen-ager from joining them in prison garb. ◆

GORDON MacRAE—

His "Second Life" Is Better

WHEN Gordon MacRae brought home his fifth child, he looked at her wistfully and said, "This time, it's going to be different."

These words to Amanda Mercedes MacRae ("The name rolls off your tongue like a lyric, don't you think?") sum up MacRae's "second life," one he is finding, at age 47, more self-satisfying than the first because it's less self-indulgent.

MacRae readily admits that his "first life"—stardom on Broadway, Hollywood, and night clubs, 25 years of marriage to Sheila MacRae, and a family of four children—was not an admirable one.

"I didn't spend much time at home with Sheila and the kids," he says. "When I wasn't working, I was at the golf club having good times with the guys." The "guys" included the late Humphrey Bogart, Dean Martin, and others of the Hollywood fun-loving set.

"I guess everything always came too easy for me, personally and professionally. That's disastrous."

MacRae speaks from experience. From top film roles and best-selling record albums, his career began sinking several years ago. It was revived by the addition to his night-club act of Sheila MacRae. She was 17 when she married Gordon, a struggling singer.

Sheila and Gordon MacRae, as a performing team, were a fresh hit on the night-club and tv-guest circuits. But things still came too easy for Gordon. He put on too much weight and missed good film roles because he was more competitive on a golf course than in fighting for movie contracts.

What caused the MacRaes' breakup has never been pinned down; neither was aggravated enough to publicly air his problems. Probably, though, Sheila was too ambitious, with her children now older, to play second-banana to Gordon, as she did for seven years.

When Sheila broke up the act and marriage, Gordon's buddies wondered—"Can Gordon go it alone?" MacRae, who doesn't deny personal shortcomings, rebels at disparaging criticism of his talents. "What everybody forgot is that I was always an all-round performer. I can sing, joke, most of all I can establish rapport with an audience. Things came easy to me because I had talent, and I still do."

The recent record bears him out. He stepped into the Broadway musical, "I Do, I Do" with success and, when that closed during a theater strike, found his solo night-club act in demand.

Elizabeth, Amanda, and Gordon.

Personally, too, MacRae's "second life" seems bright. He married Elizabeth Lambert Schrafft, whose previous husband was a member of the Schrafft food family. Their first child was an especially happy event since Elizabeth had miscarried before.

The "new MacRae" is far from a sobersides. He still enjoys time with his cronies, but most of his off-work days are spent in gyms, maintaining a rugged fitness that complements his powerful singing, and with Elizabeth and Amanda in New York. Gordon's four other children—aged 13 to 23 (the eldest is Meredith, who appears in the tv series "Petticoat Junction") visit regularly.

MacRae brightens when talking about Amanda. "Not everybody gets a second chance. And a lot of people who do haven't learned anything from the first time around. I have."

You get the idea Amanda will see a lot of Daddy—and so will audiences. —JACK RYAN

GORDON MacRAE— His "Second Life" Is Better

WHEN Gordon MacRae brought home his fifth child, he looked at her wistfully and said, "This time, it's going to be different."

These words to Amanda Mercedes MacRae ("The name rolls off your tongue like a lyric, don't you think?") sum up MacRae's "second life," one he is finding, at age 47, more self-satisfying than the first because it's less self-indulgent.

MacRae readily admits that his "first life"—stardom on Broadway, Hollywood, and night clubs, 25 years of marriage to Sheila MacRae, and a family of four children—was not an admirable one.

"I didn't spend much time at home with Sheila and the kids," he says. "When I wasn't working, I was at the golf club having good times with the guys." The "guys" included the late Humphrey Bogart, Dean Martin, and others of the Hollywood fun-loving set.

"I guess everything always came too easy for me, personally and professionally. That's disastrous."

MacRae speaks from experience. From top film roles and best-selling record albums, his career began sinking several years ago. It was revived by the addition to his night-club act of Sheila MacRae. She was 17 when she married Gordon, a struggling singer.

Sheila and Gordon MacRae, as a performing team, were a fresh hit on the night-club and tv-guest circuits. But things still came too easy for Gordon. He put on too much weight and missed good film roles because he was more competitive on a golf course than in fighting for movie contracts.

What caused the MacRaes' breakup has never been pinned down; neither was aggravated enough to publicly air his problems. Probably, though, Sheila was too ambitious, with her children now older, to play second-banana to Gordon, as she did for seven years.

When Sheila broke up the act and marriage, Gordon's buddies wondered—"Can Gordon go it alone?" MacRae, who doesn't deny personal shortcomings, rebels at disparaging criticism of his talents. "What everybody forgot is that I was always an all-round performer. I can sing, joke, most of all I can establish rapport with an audience. Things came easy to me because I had talent, and I still do."

The recent record bears him out. He stepped into the Broadway musical, "I Do, I Do" with success and, when that closed during a theater strike, found his solo night-club act in demand.

Elizabeth, Amanda, and Gordon.

Personally, too, MacRae's "second life" seems bright. He married Elizabeth Lambert Schrafft, whose previous husband was a member of the Schrafft food family. Their first child was an especially happy event since Elizabeth had miscarried before.

The "new MacRae" is far from a sobersides. He still enjoys time with his cronies, but most of his off-work days are spent in gyms, maintaining a rugged fitness that complements his powerful singing, and with Elizabeth and Amanda in New York. Gordon's four other children—aged 13 to 23 (the eldest is Meredith, who appears in the tv series "Petticoat Junction") visit regularly.

MacRae brightens when talking about Amanda. "Not everybody gets a second chance. And a lot of people who do haven't learned anything from the first time around. I have."

You get the idea Amanda will see a lot of Daddy—and so will audiences. —JACK RYAN

A GREAT new introductory offer from Doubleday's Bargain Book Club. Select any 6 of 59 books on this page for only 99 cents.

- Choose from best-selling novels, big illustrated books, reference volumes, even two- and three-volume sets — all hardcover, full-length books! This is your introductory package when you join.
- Thereafter, as a member, you will be offered each month a variety of book bargains from which to choose. Selections are exciting new adult novels chosen from the lists of leading publishers. They cost $3.95 to $5.95 each in publishers' editions, yet they come to members for as little as $1.69. Big hits by Catherine Marshall, Frank Slaughter, John O'Hara and other top authors have come to members at savings up to 75%. Some extra-value books are offered to Bargain Book Club members at prices higher than $1.69.
- Alternate selections include books of every kind — cook books, mysteries, travel books, classics, homemaking books—at special prices to members only. An attractive bonus plan offers other big savings too.
- All books are new, full-length, hardbound editions made especially for Doubleday Bargain Book Club members.
